Two Andhra police officers caught accepting Rs 3 lac bribe Amaravati (TSIT): The Anti-Corruption Bureau (ACB) of Andhra Pradesh on Monday caught two police officers red-handed while allegedly accepting a bribe of Rs 3 lakh at a police station in YSR Kadapa district. The ACB officials laid a trap at Simhadripuram Police Station and apprehended N.V. Ramana, Circle Inspector of Pulivendula Rural Circle, and Dasari Anil Kumar, Sub-Inspector at Simhadripuram Police Station, while they were accepting the bribe amount. According to ACB officials, the two officers had allegedly demanded a bribe from an accused involved in chain-snatching cases. The accused had reportedly purchased a motorcycle from one Brahmam, who was allegedly part of a gang involved in selling stolen two-wheelers sourced from Kashmir after altering their registration number plates. Telangana Cabinet Clears Rs.1.2 Cr Insurance, Cashless Health Scheme; Approves Metro Takeover and Major Infra Push

Hyderabad (TSIT Bureau):

In a series of landmark decisions under the chairmanship of Chief Minister A. Revanth Reddy, the Telangana State Cabinet on Monday approved sweeping welfare, healthcare, and infrastructure reforms aimed at strengthening employee security, improving public health systems, and accelerating urban development across the state.

Rs.1.2 Crore Accident Insurance for Employees

In a historic step towards employee welfare, the Cabinet approved a comprehensive Accident Insurance Scheme for all serving government employees and pensioners without collecting any premium from them. Under the scheme, Rs.1.2 crore compensation will be provided in case of accidental death, while Rs.10 lakh term insurance will be applicable in case of natural death up to 60 years of age. The scheme will benefit 5.19 lakh regular employees and 2.38 lakh pensioners, covering a total of 7.57 lakh beneficiaries.

The insurance will be implemented through banking institutions, ensuring no financial burden either on employees or the state exchequer. The model, earlier implemented successfully in Singareni and Transco, is now being extended to all eligible government personnel across Telangana.

Cashless Employee Health Scheme

Fulfilling a long-pending demand, the Cabinet also approved a comprehensive Cashless Employee Health Scheme (EHS). The scheme will cover 3.56 lakh regular employees, 2.88 lakh pensioners, and their dependent family members—benefiting a total of 17.07 lakh people.

Treatment will be completely cashless in all government hospitals and 652 empanelled private hospitals. The coverage includes 1,998 medical procedures. Each employee will be issued a Digital Health Employee Card for seamless access to services.

The scheme will be implemented through the Rajiv Aarogyasri Health Care Trust. Employees will contribute 1.5% of their basic pay, with the government matching the contribution. The total annual outlay of the scheme is estimated at Rs.1,056 crore.

Health Administration Reforms

In a significant administrative reform, the Cabinet approved the conversion of the Telangana Vaidya Vidhana Parishad into the Directorate of Secondary Health Care (DSH), granting it full departmental status. The move is expected to streamline procurement of medicines and surgical supplies, ensure better fund allocation, and facilitate timely salary payments.

A special committee headed by Health Minister Damodar Raja Narasimha will further examine reforms in hospital administration to enhance efficiency and accountability.

Hyderabad Metro Takeover and Expansion

In a major infrastructure decision, the Cabinet approved the takeover of the 69-km Hyderabad Metro Phase-1 from L&T. The estimated takeover cost, including liabilities, stands at Rs.15,000 crore, while the current asset valuation is estimated between Rs.19,000 crore and Rs.22,000 crore.

The decision is expected to accelerate the implementation of Phase-II expansion. Proposals for more than 160 km of metro expansion have already been submitted to the Centre, paving the way for a significant upgrade in urban mobility.

Urban Infrastructure Boost

The Cabinet approved several urban development projects, including:

- Inclusion of four villages in Vikarabad district under HMDA limits.
- CRMP Phase-2 covering 300 km of additional roads in Greater Hyderabad at a cost of Rs.3,145 crore.
- Modernization of the Manjeera Water Supply Scheme at Rs.722 crore.

■ Rs.282 crore upgrade of Osman Sagar water pipelines to prevent nearly 30% water loss.

■ These initiatives aim to strengthen road connectivity, improve drinking water supply, and expand planned urban growth.

Land Allocation for Key Projects
The Cabinet cleared multiple land allocations to promote industrial, educational, and social infrastructure development:

- 223 acres in Koheda for a Multi-Modal Logistics Park and Food Processing Park.
- 239 acres for a world-class fruit market.
- Land allocation for engineering colleges and 21 Young India Integrated Residential Schools across districts.
- 5 acres for a Greenfield Mini Stadium in Bhadrachalam.
- 20 acres in Khammam for temple construction under TTD.
- Equal value land allocation to the Defence Department in exchange for land used for elevated corridors.

Housing, Renewable Energy and Census Preparations

The Cabinet also approved the auction of shops constructed near double bedroom housing units and initiated a special drive to accelerate Indiramma housing construction.

Renewable energy distribution licenses were cleared for 300 MW data centers, reinforcing the state's push toward sustainable energy.

Additionally, preparations for Census 2027 were reviewed. The house listing phase will be conducted from May 11 to June 9, with 89,000 enumerators deployed across the state.

19 Killed as tourist Bus plunges into Trishuli river in Nepal

Trishuli (TSIT) At least 19 people were killed after a tourist bus lost control and plunged nearly 200 metres onto the bank of the Trishuli River in Nepal's central Dhading district in the early hours of Monday.

According to Nepalese police, the bus was travelling from Pokhara to the capital, Kathmandu, when the tragic accident occurred. There were 44 people onboard, including the driver. While 17 passengers died at the scene, two more succumbed to their injuries during treatment, officials said.

Among the deceased was a 24-year-old British man, identified by Nepalese authorities as Stewart Dominic Ethan. The UK Foreign Office confirmed it is assisting the family of a British national who died in Nepal but has not officially confirmed the name. A 40-year-old Chinese woman and a 32-year-old man from India were also among those killed.

Police said all 19 bodies have been identified. At least 25 passengers sustained injuries, including a Chinese national and a New Zealander. All injured victims have been shifted to hospitals in Kathmandu for treatment. Children were also among those onboard at the time of the accident.

Multiple rescue teams, including police personnel, the Nepalese Army, and divers, were deployed to the crash site for search and rescue operations. Authorities stated that the bus fell onto the riverbank after losing control on a mountainous stretch of road.

Nepal's Home Ministry has constituted a five-member task force to investigate the cause of the accident.

Road accidents are relatively common in Nepal due to poor road conditions, difficult terrain, and narrow mountainous routes. In 2024, at least 14 people died when a bus travelling from Pokhara to Kathmandu fell into the Marsyangdi River in Tanahun district.

Nepal remains a major destination for international tourists, particularly mountaineers visiting the Himalayan region, which includes Mount Everest.

INDIA'S FIRST BULLET TRAIN TO USE JAPANESE J-SLAB TRACK TECH; TO CUT MUMBAI-AHMEDABAD TRAVEL TO JUST OVER TWO HOURS

Ahmedabad (TSIT) India's first Bullet Train project will deploy the advanced J-Slab ballastless track system based on Japanese Shinkansen technology along the 508-km Mumbai-Ahmedabad High Speed Rail (MAHSR) corridor, officials said. The high-speed rail project, spanning Maharashtra and Gujarat in western India, will provide rapid connectivity between the two states with stops at 10 cities — Thane, Virar, Boisar, Vapi, Bilimora, Surat, Bharuch, Vadodara, Anand and Ahmedabad, before terminating at Sabarmati.

"This is for the first time, the J-slab ballastless track system is being used in India," Principal Chief Project Manager Rajesh Aggarwal told a group of media persons from Jammu and Kashmir and Punjab during a week-long tour to Gujarat facilitated by the Press Information Bureau

(PIB) Jammu, Ministry of Information and Broadcasting, Government of India.

Aggarwal said the entire track installation process is mechanised using cutting-edge machinery specially designed and manufactured as per Japanese specifications.

"The fleet of machines such as Rail Feeder Car, Track Slab Laying Car, CAM Laying Car and Flash Butt Welding Machine, will be used for track construction work," he said.

Trump warns of doing 'terrible things' against foreign countries, imposing much higher Tariffs.

New Delhi (TSIT) US President Donald Trump on Monday warned that he can do "absolutely terrible things to foreign countries," and ridiculed the country's Supreme Court for its February 20 ruling striking down the unilateral Tariffs. He said that any country that wants to "play games" with the ridiculous Supreme Court decision, especially those that have "Ripped Off" the U.S.A. for years, and even decades, will be met with a "much higher Tariff," and worse, than that which they just recently agreed to.

"BUYER BEWARE!!!!", he warned.

"The supreme court (will be using lower case letters for a while based on a complete lack of respect!) of the United States accidentally and unwittingly gave me, as President of the United States, far more powers and strength than I had prior to their ridiculous, dumb, and very internationally divisive ruling," Trump said on his social media platform.

He said he can use Licenses to do absolutely "terrible" things to foreign countries, especially those countries that have been "ripping off" the US for many decades, but cannot charge them a License fee.

Trump said the Court has also approved all other Tariffs, of which many can be used in a much more "powerful and obnoxious way, with legal certainty, than the Tariffs as initially used."

He said the "incompetent" Supreme Court "did a great job for the wrong people, and for that they should be 'ashamed of themselves.'" "The next thing they will rule in favour of China and others...this Supreme Court will find a way to come to the wrong conclusion, one that again will make China, and various other Nations, happy and rich," he said.

Assembly contest not one of equal strength: Stalin

CHENNAI (TSIT): Chief Minister and DMK president M. K. Stalin on Monday asserted that the forthcoming Assembly election would not be a contest of equal strength when compared to the DMK-led alliance. Responding to questions at a conclave organised by a media house in Chennai on Monday, Stalin dismissed suggestions that a multi-cornered contest would pose a serious challenge to his party. "Even if it is a multi-cornered contest, it is not an equitable one," he said, expressing confidence in the DMK's organisational strength and support base.

When asked about the increasing visits of national leaders of the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) to Tamil Nadu ahead of the polls, Stalin said their presence would only benefit the DMK. "I have said this repeatedly. The Prime Minister and the Union Home Minister should visit frequently.

Governor R. N. Ravi should continue in office. These are the biggest campaigns for us," he remarked. On a question regarding demands from certain quarters that he take on a lead role in leading the INDIA bloc at the national level, Stalin responded with a reference to late Chief Minister M. Karunanidhi. "I know my heights," he said.

Mobile ban in Karnataka schools under discussion, parents also exerting pressure: Deputy CM Shivakumar Bengaluru (TSIT): Karnataka Deputy Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar on Monday said that the issue of banning mobile phones in schools is under discussion and that there is pressure from parents as well.

"Many countries have implemented such measures. The issue is also being discussed at the international level," he said in response to questions from the media near his residence here.

Asked about restricting mobile phone usage by children in schools, he said: "It is not appropriate to publicly disclose how mobile phones are being misused. That is why discussions are being held on this issue."

On the issue of banning mobile phones, Home Minister G. Parameshwara stated there has been discussion on imposing a mobile ban in schools and colleges.

Giving mobile phones to children below 16 years of age is affecting their education in different ways, he said. "Many countries have conducted studies and imposed bans on mobile phones. The Chief Minister has also deliberated on this issue. A decision will be taken after studying its pros and cons," he added.

Asked about Minister Mahadevappa raising the issue of a Dalit Chief Minister, Shivakumar said: "He is our national leader. I offer him my greetings from here."

Responding to a question about a report by the National Water Quality Standards

Authority stating that Bengaluru's lake water is not fit for drinking, he said:

"The government has never said that lake water in Bengaluru should be used for drinking or bathing. These lakes exist to recharge groundwater. Water from the Thippagondanahalli reservoir is treated by the BWSSB. Bengaluru's lake water is not meant for drinking or bathing." On the issue of protest by Congress against Viksit Bharat—Guarantee for Rozgar and Ajeevika Mission (Gramin) Act, he said the Central government has not issued any clarification or directive.

GAURAVELLI PROJECT TO BE COMPLETED SWIFTLY SAYS UTTAM

Hyderabad (TSIT) Irrigation and Civil Supplies Minister N. Uttam Kumar Reddy has affirmed that the State Government is firmly committed to completing the Gauravelli Project on priority by overcoming environmental and legal hurdles.

Chairing a high-level review meeting at the Dr. B.R. Ambedkar Secretariat, along with Transport and BC Welfare Minister Ponnampalapati Prabhakar, Uttam Kumar Reddy said the project is among the key irrigation initiatives identified for speedy completion after the Congress government assumed office.

The Gauravelli Project, located in Akkannapet Mandal of Siddipet district, was initially designed to irrigate 1.06 lakh acres. However, works slowed down due to pending environmental clearances and ongoing legal issues. The Minister stated that the government has initiated necessary procedures to resolve these complications and ensure early completion.

The reservoir, originally proposed with a storage capacity of 1.41 TMC, has now been revised to 8.23 TMC to expand irrigation coverage and bring additional ayacut under cultivation. Officials were instructed to submit revised proposals to the government at the earliest.

Emphasising the importance of land acquisition, the Minister directed district Collectors of Karimnagar, Jangaon and Siddipet to accelerate the process. He assured that required funds for land acquisition would be released before June 2 and stressed that farmers must receive lawful and timely compensation.

With the project-related case scheduled for hearing shortly, Uttam Kumar Reddy directed the Advocate General to prepare a strong legal strategy to overcome judicial challenges.

Secondary Health Care (DSH), aiming to strengthen administration and improve services in government secondary hospitals. TVVP, established in 1986 and later reorganised after state bifurcation, oversees 184 hospitals, including Community Health Centres, Area Hospitals, and District Hospitals. Due to its autonomous status, it faced delays in budget allocations and administrative approvals. Health Minister Damodar Rajanarasimha initiated the proposal, which was approved by Chief Minister A. Revanth Reddy and the Cabinet. The new Directorate status is expected to ensure better funding, faster decisions, improved coordination, and enhanced patient care. Doctors and staff welcomed the move, calling it a major reform in Telangana's public healthcare system.

WANTED, DESPERATELY: A 'FIXER' FOR RAHUL GANDHI

Optics are important in politics. And the optics have been damaging for the Congress in recent days as assembly polls near in five states, of which the party has high stakes in at least three: Kerala, Assam and Tamil Nadu. There was barely time to bask in the satisfaction of having resolved its Shashi Tharoor problem in Kerala with a peace meeting between the disgruntled Thiruvananthapuram MP and Rahul Gandhi when the Congress found itself fire-fighting again, this time on all sides. In Assam, its former state chief, Bhupen Borah, quit to join the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP). He left despite Rahul Gandhi's personal intervention to persuade him otherwise, and as he quit, he fired a parting shot intended to hurt by raking up BJP allegations against his successor Gaurav Gogoi's "Pakistani links".

Firefighting Everywhere

In Tamil Nadu, the Congress's staunchest ally, the Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam (DMK), served notice to dump the Congress unless it agreed to the following: one, take action against two leaders considered part of Rahul Gandhi's durbar, Praveen Chakravarty and Manik Tagore, for their sustained campaign to launch a separate Congress-led front with film actor Vijay's fledgling Tamilaga Vettri Kazhagam (TVK); two, come to the table without further ado for seat-sharing negotiations on the DMK's terms.

The unkindest cut came from Kerala, where long-time Gandhi family loyalist, Mani Shankar Aiyar, took pot shots at two other Rahul durbaris, KC Venugopal and Pawan Kherra, and predicted a third successive win for the Left Front. "I am a Rajivian, not a Rahulian," he declared in typical Mani style. Almost simultaneously, another family friend and INDIA bloc ally, Farooq Abdullah of the National Conference, also forecast a Left Front victory in the state. Aiyar and Abdullah may not count for anything in Kerala, but when friends and allies use the Congress as target practice, it makes for embarrassing headlines in a state where the party fancies its chances at forming the next government.

What Ahmed Patel Did For Sonia

Could the Congress have done damage control and saved itself from poor optics on the eve of crucial state elections? Perhaps. But for that, Rahul Gandhi would need to take a leaf out of his mother Sonia Gandhi's playbook and find himself an effective political aide, as she had in the late Ahmed Patel. Whatever his faults and shortcomings were, Patel earned his stripes in his long innings as Sonia Gandhi's chief factotum, serving as troubleshooter, party handler, backroom strategist and communication channel with allies during the UPA years. He was the first port of call for anyone who wanted a word with Sonia Gandhi and readily worked the phone lines or held lengthy in-person meetings late into the night to crack the whip, hammer out compromises and strike deals. Sonia Gandhi stepped in after Patel had prepared the ground for her. Although there were times when he was accused of making tactical errors and playing favourites, there is little doubt that he was largely instrumental in helping Sonia Gandhi to steer the UPA ship through two successive terms in power. A Crucial Difference Congress watchers see many similarities between Rahul Gandhi and his mother. Both are uncomfortable with messy situations - inevitable in the rough and tumble of politics - instinctively shy away from taking hard decisions, and rarely engage with knotty organisational issues.

Flashy advertising, flashy packaging and misleading claims

- Dr. Satyavan Saurabh

(Right to Informed Choice in the Changing Nutrition Landscape)

India's nutrition landscape is undergoing rapid change. For a long time, public policy focused on hunger, malnutrition, and food availability, but today the country faces a dual nutrition crisis. While undernutrition, anemia, and stunting persist among children and women, non-communicable diseases such as obesity, diabetes, hypertension, and heart disease are rapidly increasing, the situation is not just a health issue, but also a social, economic, and human development issue. A significant driver of this shift is the changing food consumption habits. Traditional home-cooked meals have been replaced by canned, packaged, and highly processed foods. These products are often high in sugar, salt, and saturated fat. Attractive advertising, flashy packaging, and misleading claims lead consumers to believe these products are safe or healthy. As a result, consumers make decisions without understanding the actual nutritional value. In such an environment, the need for clear and simple labeling on the front of the package emerges. Traditional nutrition labels are often provided in small print on the back of the package, making it difficult for the average consumer to understand. In contrast, large, clear signs on the front of the package—such as "high sugar," "high salt," or "high fat"—can immediately alert the consumer. This system removes complexity from information and makes it available at a practical level. The right to informed choice is fundamental to consumer protection. However, in the context of food, this right is not merely market-related, but also intertwined with the right to life and health. Article 21 of the Indian Constitution guarantees life and personal liberty, which judicial interpretation has included the right to health. The right to life remains incomplete if citizens do not have access to information about whether a food product is harmful to their health. Therefore, clear labeling can be a means of realizing the constitutional right to health. An information imbalance between producer and consumer is common in market systems. Producers have complete knowledge of their product's composition, ingredients, and potential effects, while consumers make decisions based on limited information. Front-package labeling attempts to mitigate this imbalance. When information is simple, direct, and warning-like, consumers make more informed choices. International experience demonstrates the effectiveness of this approach. For example, Chile saw a decrease in the consumption of high-sugar and high-fat products after implementing clear warning labels. This demonstrates that positive changes in consumer behavior are possible if information is accessible and clear. This system is also crucial for preventive health. The cost of treating non-communicable diseases is significant for both families and governments. Controlling dietary risk factors early can reduce disease burden in the long run. Simple labeling allows consumers to prioritize health in small daily decisions. This reinforces public health policy's emphasis on prevention rather than treatment. Clear and explanatory labeling systems have also been recognized as effective globally. The World Health Organization has noted that simple, warning-based signs, especially in developing countries, increase consumer understanding and help change dietary behaviors. This motivates not only consumers but also product manufacturers to improve the composition of their products. Some in the industry argue that strict labeling could reduce sales and impact smaller producers. However, experience shows that when clear standards are set, the industry adapts through innovation and restructuring. If consumers begin to avoid products high in sugar or salt, producers naturally try to reduce their levels. Thus, labeling promotes healthy competition. In the Indian context, the Food Safety and Standards Authority of India is responsible for food regulation. Furthermore, the Supreme Court of India has emphasized transparency and accountability in matters of public health. This clearly indicates that food labeling is not merely an administrative formality but a matter of broad public interest. However, there are several challenges to implementing this system. The first is resistance from industry, which views it as economically detrimental. The second is disagreement over the format of labeling—whether to adopt a warning-based model or some sort of grading system. The third challenge is enforcement and monitoring, as millions of food products are available in the country. The fourth challenge is consumer literacy, especially in rural and low-income groups, where nutrition awareness is limited. These challenges can be addressed through a balanced and phased policy approach. Widespread public awareness campaigns, the use of simple symbols, and strict enforcement mechanisms can help in this direction. Strengthening nutrition education at the school and community levels is also essential to ensure effective understanding of labeling messages. Ultimately, front-of-package labeling is an important tool to empower the right to informed choice in the changing nutritional landscape. It transforms consumers from passive buyers to active and informed citizens. Based on the principles of transparency, accountability, and preventive health, this system can move India from a treatment-focused approach to a health-oriented food system. If implemented with strong political will, scientific foundation, and social participation, it can prove to be a decisive step towards a healthy, capable, and aware India.

India Shouldn't Sign A Deal With A Court-Defeated Trump

The United States Supreme Court has removed the legal foundation on which Washington's sweeping reciprocal tariffs were constructed. In Learning Resources, Inc. v. Trump, Chief Justice John Roberts wrote that the President claimed the power to impose tariffs "on imports from any country, of any product, at any rate, for any amount of time". The Court held that such authority does not exist under the International Emergency Economic Powers Act. Congress alone retains the taxing power. Emergency tariffism, as practised over the past year, is unconstitutional. Against this background, India should pause. It has rightly postponed its meeting on the proposed interim trade pact. Figures That Keep Changing The interim trade framework finalised by India and the US in early February was negotiated under the shadow of a 50% tariff regime, including a 25% penalty linked to Russian oil purchases. The deal reduced India's exposure to 18% under a reciprocal tariff structure. Within days of the Court's ruling, that 18% fell to 10% under Section 122 of the Trade Act of 1974, a temporary surcharge capped at 150 days. The legal and economic baseline has shifted materially. To sign a binding agreement while the tariff instrument set of the United States is in flux would be strategically imprudent. That interim framework included significant Indian concessions, with India agreeing to either completely eliminate or reduce tariffs on all US industrial goods and a wide range of agricultural products. The deal commits to addressing long-standing non-tariff barriers, including in medical devices and ICT (information and communication technology) goods, and to determine within six months whether US or international standards are acceptable in identified sectors. It signals intent to purchase $500 billion of US energy, aircraft, technology products, and other goods over five years, and also accepts monitoring and reimposition clauses linked to Russian oil imports. In return, the United States applies an 18% reciprocal tariff rate and promises conditional removals under annexed procedures. That rate was already substantially above the pre-

2025 average US tariff of roughly 2.5% on Indian goods. Trump had announced that temporarily, this would be 10% for all countries. Within a day, he said it would be 15% globally. The asymmetry has narrowed, but the structure remains unsettled. There are Three Technical Reasons to Wait First, authority risk. The Supreme Court has made clear that sweeping tariff action requires clear congressional authorisation. The administration has pivoted to Section 122 for temporary surcharges and signalled reliance on Section 301 and Section 232 investigations for sector-specific action. These are slower, procedurally constrained and litigable. The United States still retains leverage, but the mode of leverage has changed. Any agreement signed today prices in a tariff authority that no longer exists in the form previously exercised. Second, durability risk. The interim agreement includes a clause allowing either party to modify commitments if tariffs change. If the US reconfigures its tariffs through statutory pathways after the 150-day window, India may find itself in serial renegotiations. Waiting until the US settles into a post-ruling tariff framework would allow India to negotiate against a clearer, steady state rather than a transitional regime. Third, strategic conditionality. The framework links trade concessions to energy sourcing, defence cooperation and broader economic security alignment. Trade is not being negotiated in isolation. The US President has publicly framed tariffs as instruments of geopolitical leverage. Even if some of this rhetoric is political theatre, the structure of the agreement embeds monitoring and reimposition mechanisms. Signing under temporary tariff relief may lock India into durable external oversight in domains that extend beyond trade. Testing The Waters The counterargument is serious. The trade agreement was good for us because tariffs on India were better than those on its competitors. Now that the flat rate of 15% applies across the board, committing ourselves to something that might end up being higher than our competitors doesn't make any sense. Further, if Section 122 expires without congressional extension, the tariff structure will change again. If Section 301 investigations are launched, sectoral tariffs could rise in politically sensitive areas. If Congress asserts itself more strongly post the Supreme Court ruling, the trade landscape could shift toward legislated constraints. Signing a deal now would convert provisional leverage into irreversible concessions. Waiting does not mean walking away. It means sequencing. India can maintain the interim framework, continue negotiations toward the broader Bilateral Trade Agreement, and insist that final commitments be aligned with post-litigation US tariff architecture.

The Unsettling Iranian 'War Logic' Trump May Be Ignoring

Post-World War II, the US has repeatedly failed to translate its military superiority into lasting political victories in the "nation-building" wars it has so far waged. Relatively smaller operations like Kosovo or, more recently, Venezuela aside, most of its other 'interventions' have failed. The Korean War was a stalemate, and Vietnam a humiliating retreat. The prevailing situation in the Gulf reminds one of the premature claims of victory after the First Gulf War. Saddam Hussein may have been ousted from power, but the current dispensation in Baghdad is equally sectarian (read pro-Iran). Libya post-Gaddafi is hardly a nation-state, much like the chaos in Yemen or Somalia. The ouster of Syrian dictator Bashar al-Assad has led to a former al-Qaeda leader, Ahmed al-Sharaa, taking the reins. The longest American war, which went on for over two decades and was also the most expensive one ($2 trillion), resulted in a hasty abandonment, only to hand Afghanistan back to the Taliban. Can Iran Be Subdued? This is hardly a reassuring list as Donald Trump lines up American firepower yet again, this time in the Persian Gulf. US forces led by the aircraft carrier strike groups USS Abraham Lincoln and USS Gerald Ford are assuming offensive postures against Iran in a tense battle of who blinks first. Trump's threat of "really bad things" happening is not entirely unfathomable, given that the US and Israeli forces did jointly hit three Iranian nuclear facilities in Isfahan, Natanz and Fordow in June 2025. So, to that extent, there is a psychological precedent to an attack on Iran, in recent times. While the June 2025 strikes had the relative safety of distance, the current sabre-rattling entails the threat of a full-blown "war". But is it even plausible? Can Iran be coerced into kowtowing to Trump's diktats? Can it be defeated and subjected to a regime change? Can Iran end any differently from the outcomes in Afghanistan, Iraq, Libya or Syria? Indeed, Iran will be different from all previous US endeavours. And it's a far more complex and difficult undertaking. The reasons are twofold. Iran Is The 'Nucleus' Of The Islamic World Firstly, attacking Iran will lead to repercussions way beyond Iran itself. Secondly, its history and culture are proof that there is a unique, faith-based behavioural aspect that may lead to a response that goes way beyond the ordinary. Iran is, above all, a sectarian and theological "idea", which transcends the limited definitions of a nation-state. While Shia theology is not exclusive to one country, with early communities centred around Medina, Kufa, Baghdad and later in Najaf, Karbala et al, post the 1979 Iranian Revolution, Iran became the emotional, spiritual, and political sanctum sanctorum for the 300-million-plus Shias spread across the world, including 25 million in India. The Constitutional foundation and the 'imagined purpose' of Iran is predicated on Wilayat al-Faqih, meaning the "Guardianship of the Islamic Jurist". Under the 'Twelver Shi'ism' framework, which adheres to the belief in twelve divinely ordained leaders known as Imams, the Supreme Leader of Iran, currently Ali Khamenei, becomes the 'Wali al-Faqih', affording him an outsized relevance across the world. The Theory of Umm al-Qura ("Mother of Cities"), developed by Iranian thinker Mohammad Javad Larjani, also makes Iran central to the Islamic World. This has led to Iran inspiring what is often called the "Axis of Resistance", which manifests in powerful militias such as Hezbollah (Lebanon), Houthis (Yemen), Popular Mobilization Forces (Iraq), Liwa Abu al-Fadhal al-Abbas (Syria), Fatemiyoun Brigade (Afghanistan), and even the Pakistani Zainabiyyoun Brigade. Thus, any American attack on Iran's sovereignty could wound sensibilities way beyond the territorial borders of Iran and elicit global reactions. The 'Appeal' Of Martyrdom Then there is a far more deadly behavioural guarantee in attacking Iran, as it tends to readily invoke the Shi'i concept of martyrdom (Shahada), which is considered a deeply theological and spiritual duty that is to be upheld against any perceived enemy.

Palaniswami hits back at Udhayanidhi Stalin, questions DMK's 'dynastic politics'

CHENNAI: In a sharp escalation of political rhetoric ahead of the Tamil Nadu Assembly elections, Leader of Opposition Edappadi K Palaniswami (EPS) launched a strong counterattack against Deputy Chief Minister Udhayanidhi Stalin, responding to recent criticism directed at him by the DMK leader.

The war of words began after Udhayanidhi Stalin alleged that, though the AIADMK is formally part of the National Democratic Alliance (NDA), EPS had become a "subservient slave" of the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP).

The remark drew immediate backlash from the AIADMK camp. Taking to the social media platform X, Palaniswami shared photographs from his campaign trail in the Ponneri Assembly constituency and posed a series of pointed questions aimed at the Deputy Chief Minister.

In his post, EPS challenged Udhayanidhi's comments, asking what title he would assign to his own grandfather, former Chief Minister M Karunanidhi, who had, at various points in political history, aligned with the BJP-led alliance.

"If I am a slave to the BJP, as Udhayanidhi Stalin claims, what would he call his own grandfather who was part of the same alliance? What designation would he give him?" Palaniswami asked.

Basavaraj Bommai Urges Awareness on VBG Ram Ji Scheme, Says PM Narendra Modi Building a True

Haveri: Former Chief Minister and MP Basavaraj Bommai called upon party workers and the public to create widespread awareness about the VBG Ram Ji scheme, stating that it has been introduced to curb corruption in the rural Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Act (MGNREGA) programme and to ensure good governance in villages. He was speaking after inaugurating the VBG-G Ram Ji public awareness convention organised by the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) Haveri district unit at Shivbasava Kalyana Mantapa in Haveri.

Bommai said the objective of the scheme is to bring structural reforms to rural employment programmes. Tracing the evolution of rural job schemes, he referred to the earlier "Food for Work" initiative, the Rozgar scheme and the Jawahar Rozgar Yojana, which was later renamed after Mahatma Gandhi in 2004. Though MGNREGA has existed for nearly 25 years, he claimed rural development has not progressed as expected and unemployment has not reduced significantly, necessitating fundamental reforms.

Alleging irregularities, Bommai said the scheme had harmed poor labourers due to corruption and middlemen practices. He noted that when it was implemented during the Congress-led UPA government under Sonia Gandhi, the daily wage was Rs.125 and the allocation stood at Rs.30,000 crore. Today, he said, the budget allocation has increased to Rs.1.30 lakh crore, with an average of Rs.1 lakh crore annually allocated since Narendra Modi assumed office. The intention was to re-ate durable rural assets and employment, but corruption diluted the impact, he alleged.

He claimed agents collected commissions of 5-10 percent from labourers and recalled ordering a CBI probe into MGNREGA irregularities in Belagavi and Kalaburagi districts during his tenure. To ensure transparency, he said biometric attendance systems and worker photographs are now being synchronised. He also stated that guaranteed workdays were increased from 100 to 125 days, accusing the State government of refusing to provide wages for the additional 25 days.

Bommai criticised Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, alleging that despite claiming to represent backward classes and Dalits, little progress has been made for them. He remarked that Siddaramaiah has served longer as CM than Devaraj Urs and must account for his contributions to backward classes and Scheduled Castes.

Bengaluru : Deputy Chief Minister D K Shivakumar today said that the BJP is nearing its final days. Speaking at the MGNREGA Bachao convention at Chikkaballapura, he said, "Like the lamp which burns bright before dying, the BJP is nearing its end as they are planning to finish the legacy of Mahatma Gandhi." ## Basavaraj Bommai Alleges Conspiracy Against MLA Chandru Lamani, Seeks Probe and Accountability from Siddaramaiah

Haveri: Former Chief Minister and MP Basavaraj Bommai has alleged that a conspiracy is being hatched against Shirahatti BJP MLA Chandru Lamani, claiming that there was an attempt to forcibly hand over money to the legislator in order to implicate him in a corruption case.

Speaking to the media in Haveri, Bommai said that even forcing someone to give or accept a bribe is an offence under the Prevention of Corruption Act. He stressed that a comprehensive investigation must be conducted from all angles to uncover the truth. He pointed out that since MLA Lamani runs a hospital and meets various people regularly, the circumstances surrounding the incident remain unclear at this stage. The Lokayukta has already registered a case, and Bommai expressed confidence that the facts would emerge after a fair probe. He further stated that a young doctor engaged in public service should not have his reputation tarnished by what he described as politically motivated conspiracies. No one should encourage attempts to destroy an individual's public life through such tactics, he added.

Referring to allegations by contractors' associations regarding commissions, Bommai said the "Congress drama" has been exposed. He noted that multiple associations—including BESCOM and PWD contractors—have publicly alleged an increase in commission demands. In light of these accusations, he questioned the moral authority of the Congress to target others on corruption issues.

On Chief Minister Siddaramaiah's remarks about being politically targeted, Bommai said that Siddaramaiah has served as Chief Minister for seven years, surpassing the tenure of former CM Devaraj Urs. If a leader who has enjoyed the longest tenure claims injustice, it raises serious questions, he remarked. Bommai asserted that Siddaramaiah must provide a clear account of what his government has done for backward classes and Scheduled Castes during his tenure. He also addressed discussions within the Congress about appointing a Scheduled Caste leader as Chief Minister. Bommai pointed out that leaders such as B. Basavalingappa, K.H. Ranganath, and Mallikarjun Kharge have long supported the party and that Dalits have stood by the Congress for decades. If the party is truly committed, it should grant Dalits their rightful political representation instead of offering what he termed as token gestures.

Vijay slams Stalin, says CM's real friends are "bribe, corruption"

VELLORE: Launching yet another scathing attack on Tamil Nadu Chief Minister M K Stalin, TVK founder Vijay on Monday alleged that the DMK president's real friends are "bribe, corruption, and eyeing political gains." Vijay, who has been mounting sharp attacks against the DMK and Stalin in particular, dared the CM to declare his assets disclosing the financial status before he stepped into politics.

"What was the source. Was it your hard earned money or it was amassed after you came to power? Can you declare it openly," the actor asked the CM and added that if he raised the issue of corruption, then all corrupt elements would "fling mud on us."

But he was not concerned about that because people know about him. He also accused the chief minister of making false promises to the people and sought to debunk the governing party's claim of having developed the Tamil Nadu into a "superstar state." He alleged Stalin's "real friends are bribe, corruption, and eyeing political gains."

The CM and the ruling party has often said that the state registered, under the DMK rule, double-digit economic growth rate of 11.19 per cent (2024-25) Addressing a meeting of party functionaries here, Vijay termed the Assembly polls due in April this year as a "surprising election" as all parties in the state are allegedly teamed up against him and reiterated that the contest was between the DMK and TVK only.

Playing the DMK's poll narrative of polls as a fight between "Tamil Nadu and Delhi-NDA," he said the battle was actually between the state's people and corruption and alleged that the DMK government was "inept."

The Assembly election is "a war between Vijay and Stalin," he said, and reiterated his refrain that TVK is a "pure force" and accused the DMK yet again as an "evil force".

Rejecting the DMK's claim of having developed Tamil Nadu into a superstar state, Vijay, the chief of the fledgling Tamilaga Vettri Kazhagam (TVK) said that the state was "such a superb" on during the times of iconic leaders K Kamaraj, CN Annadurai and M G Ramachandran.

Dubbing the DMK regime as "good-for-nothing ultra model government," he alleged the state has been transformed into a super-standup comedian-run state. The TVK chief, targeting the CM again, said that he was not concerned about his personal life. "Be what you want to be. But your governance is flawed and not required for TN," he alleged.

The actor-politician claimed that Tamil Nadu meant Vijay and he represented the entire state.

Referring to Stalin's statement that he had no foes in politics and that all were his friends, Vijay asked, "then why blame me for Karur stampede," referring to the tragedy during a TVK rally that killed 41 persons and injured many.

Further, he asked: "Why refuse venue and permission for TVK (rallies and events), if we are friends...you did everything and blamed us for Karur tragedy." Praising people for superb clarity, he said he would visit every village and personally meet the people once the TVK formed the government following a huge win in the 2026 Assembly election.

Vijay, who arrived to a rousing reception by party workers at Agaramcheri village near the Pallikonda toll plaza on the Chennai-Bengaluru Highway in this district, administered a pledge to the TVK members.

"No one can buy us, our vote is for (party symbol) whistle. We won't believe anyone and get deceived. We won't deviate from our words. This is the truth," Vijay said and asked his party workers to repeat after him. Vijay reiterated that the TVK's stand was secularism and social justice.

Palaniswami hits back at Udhayanidhi Stalin, questions DMK's 'dynastic politics'

CHENNAI: In a sharp escalation of political rhetoric ahead of the Tamil Nadu Assembly elections, Leader of Opposition Edappadi K Palaniswami (EPS) launched a strong counter-attack against Deputy Chief Minister Udhayanidhi Stalin, responding to recent criticism directed at him by the DMK leader.

The war of words began after Udhayanidhi Stalin alleged that, though the AIADMK is formally part of the National Democratic Alliance (NDA), EPS had become a "subservient slave" of the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP).

The remark drew immediate backlash from the AIADMK camp. Taking to the social media platform X, Palaniswami shared photographs from his campaign trail in the Ponneri Assembly constituency and posed a series of pointed questions aimed at the Deputy Chief Minister.

In his post, EPS challenged Udhayanidhi's comments, asking what title he would assign to his own grandfather, former Chief Minister M Karunanidhi, who had, at various points in political history, aligned with the BJP-led alliance.

"If I am a slave to the BJP, as Udhayanidhi Stalin claims, what would he call his own grandfather who was part of the same alliance? What designation would he give him?" Palaniswami asked.

He further questioned whether Udhayanidhi was indirectly criticising Karunanidhi by invoking his name in the current political context. "Is he unable to criticise his grandfather directly and therefore using my name to speak about him?" EPS wrote, urging the Deputy Chief Minister to clarify his stand openly. The AIADMK leader also broadened his criticism to target what he described as dynastic politics within the ruling DMK.

Referring to the Stalin family as one of the wealthiest political families in the world, Palaniswami questioned the necessity of continued family-based governance in the state.

"Is there a need for such a wealthy family to continue ruling Tamil Nadu?" he asked, adding that the upcoming Assembly elections would serve as a referendum on dynastic and hereditary politics. "The forthcoming election will be one in which the people of Tamil Nadu uproot family rule and reject legacy politics," he asserted. With both leaders intensifying their attacks, the political atmosphere in Tamil Nadu appears set to grow more combative as parties gear up for the high-stakes electoral battle.

Every Grain Has a Story: Wedding Waste Raises Questions of Responsibility

BY LATA JAIN

Amid shimmering décor, floral backdrops, and elaborate buffet counters, a quieter scene unfolded at a recent wedding reception — one that has triggered wider reflection on food waste and social responsibility.

After the guests had left their tables, plates lay scattered with uneaten rice, half-consumed sweets, abandoned kebabs, and partially used water bottles. For one attendee — the son of a farmer — the sight was more than untidiness. It was symbolic.

"What I saw was not just leftover food," he said. "It felt like an X-ray of our mindset."

Industry estimates suggest that 15% to 25% of food prepared at large weddings in India goes to waste. In a country where millions still struggle with food insecurity, the contrast is striking.

India hosts millions of weddings each year, many of them featuring extensive multi-course buffets. While abundance is often equated with hospitality, excess frequently translates into waste.

Caterers acknowledge that surplus food is common, especially at high-profile or large gatherings where hosts fear running short. "No family wants to be remembered for inadequate arrangements," one event manager noted. "So they prefer excess over shortage."

Behind every wedding feast lies more than culinary preparation. Families often invest years of savings to organize socially respectable ceremonies. In some cases, provident funds are withdrawn, land is mortgaged, or loans are taken.

Long after the music fades and decorations are dismantled, hosts review expenses — and sometimes discover that a significant portion of the carefully prepared food ended up in garbage bins.

For farming families, the waste cuts deeper. Every grain of rice represents months of labor — sowing, irrigation, unpredictable monsoons, rising fertilizer costs, and manual harvesting under intense heat.

"When food is wasted casually, it feels like someone has dismissed that entire journey," the attendee reflected.

Observers point to a behavioral paradox. At restaurants, diners scrutinize menus and order cautiously. Portions are often finished completely because payment is personal.

At weddings, however, buffet culture encourages abundance.

Guests may fill plates with multiple dishes — sometimes out of curiosity, sometimes for display, and sometimes because the perceived cost is detached from personal spending.

Dessert counters are especially telling. Guests may take several sweets, consume only part, and leave the rest behind.

Nothing, however, is truly "free." The price is simply shifted — to hosts, to agricultural labor, and to natural resources.

Food waste is not merely a moral issue; it carries environmental implications:

Water used in crop cultivation

Energy spent in transportation and cooking

Packaging and plastic waste

Methane emissions from decomposing food in landfills

In an era of sustainability awareness, wedding waste presents a growing contradiction between celebration and conservation.

In several cities, NGOs and food recovery networks are working with banquet halls to redirect surplus food to shelters. However, logistical challenges, food safety standards, and timing constraints limit large-scale redistribution.

Experts suggest that meaningful change begins with individual awareness:

Take smaller portions first

Refill only if needed

Avoid loading plates for appearance

Encourage hosts to coordinate with food donation groups

Opt for controlled serving counters instead of open excess

Weddings are celebrations of union, family, and gratitude. Yet the true measure of grandeur may not lie in the length of the buffet, but in the mindfulness of those who partake.

As the wedding season continues, the image of half-finished plates serves as a reminder:

Frozen Shoulder: Common but Treatable Condition

Tirupati: Frozen shoulder is a common yet often misunderstood condition that causes persistent pain, stiffness, and restricted movement in the shoulder joint. Many patients first notice difficulty in performing simple daily activities such as combing hair, wearing clothes, or reaching overhead. Night-time pain and disturbed sleep are frequent complaints.

Frozen shoulder develops gradually and progresses through three stages. The "freezing stage" begins with increasing pain and reduced movement. In the "frozen stage," pain may lessen, but stiffness becomes severe, making routine tasks difficult.

Finally, the "thawing stage" marks gradual recovery, with improvement in mobility over time. The full recovery process may take one to two years, but most patients regain normal function with proper treatment.

The condition is more common among individuals aged 40 to 60 years, women, diabetics, and those with thyroid disorders. It is also seen in people who keep their shoulder immobilised after injury or surgery. With rising diabetes cases and sedentary lifestyles, frozen shoulder has become increasingly common.

Experts stress that several myths delay recovery. Massage or painkillers alone cannot cure the condition, and exercise does not damage the shoulder when performed correctly. In fact, physiotherapy plays a crucial role in restoring movement. More than 90% of patients recover without surgery. Dr. Jishnu J o n n a l a g a d d a , Orthopaedic and Sports Medicine Specialist at BIRRD Hospital, advises early medical consultation, guided exercises, posture correction, and proper blood sugar control to prevent complications. With timely treatment and patience, frozen shoulder is fully manageable. Early movement and professional guidance remain the keys to recovery.

APPLE'S FIRST EVENT OF 2026 IS UNLIKE ANYTHING IT HAS DONE IN YEARS

Apple has announced its first major event of 2026 on March 4 – and it is shaping up to be a departure from the company's usual play-book. Rather than the familiar gathering at its Cupertino headquarters, the March 4 event will take place simultaneously across three cities: New York, London and Shanghai. The invite itself may be dropping hints about what's coming. It features a 3D Apple logo rendered in yellow, green, and blue, which is a far cry from the company's signature silver and grey aesthetic. Bloomberg's

Mark Gurman has pointed out that these are the same shades Apple has reportedly been testing for its upcoming low-cost MacBook, which has only added to the speculation. What can we expect? The centerpiece is likely to be the affordable MacBook. It is said to be powered by the A18 chip, the same one found in the iPhone 16 Pro, and could feature a 12.9-inch LCD display. If the pricing rumours hold, it may come in under Rs 60,000 in India, which would make it Apple's most accessible laptop in some time. Alongside the MacBook, Apple is also expected to unveil the iPhone 17e. The device is rumoured to pack the A19 chipset from the iPhone 17 series, with MagSafe charging and slimmer bezels reportedly in the mix, though the rear camera and notch design are said to remain largely unchanged. There's also an updated iPad Air, tipped to get the M4 chip for improved multi-tasking and graphics. Apple may also refresh its base iPad line with the A18 chipset, bringing it up to speed with its more premium siblings.

Will comply with NCLAT privacy guidelines: WhatsApp to SC

New Delhi: Global tech giants Meta Platforms Inc. and WhatsApp told the Supreme Court on Monday, February 23, that they will comply with the NCLAT's directions for extending the Competition Commission of India's (CCI) privacy and consent guidelines to advertising-related data. A bench of Chief Justice Surya Kant and Justices Joymalya Bagchi and Vipul M Pancholi was hearing appeals filed by the tech giants against the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal's (NCLAT) directions of December last year. The court is also seized of a cross-appeal filed by the CCI, assailing the NCLAT ruling to the extent that it allowed WhatsApp and Meta to continue sharing users' data for advertising purposes. "These applications essentially seek a direction for a stay of the impugned judgment of the NCLAT to the extent it approves the direction issued by the CCI directing Meta to comply with the impugned directions contained in the NCLAT order dated December 15, 2025, containing certain directions issued to Meta," the CJ said. Taking note of the submissions made by senior counsel Kapil Sibal on behalf of WhatsApp that the appellants (the two tech giants) have decided to implement the tribunal's directions by March 16, the CJ dismissed the applications seeking a stay. He, however, clarified that the pleas are being dismissed, without prejudice to the issues in the main appeal. The CJI also sought a compliance report from the companies. "Meanwhile, the appellants' affidavit regarding the privacy policy may be examined by the CCI and a response be placed on record," he said. WhatsApp is owned by Meta Platforms Inc. The apex court is hearing the appeals of the tech giants against a CCI order that imposed a penalty of Rs 213.14 crore on them over WhatsApp's privacy policy. On February 3, in a stinging rebuke, the court told both the firms that they cannot "play with the right to privacy of citizens in the name of data sharing," and accused them of creating a monopoly in the market and committing theft of customers' private information. Decrying WhatsApp's privacy policy, the court referred to "silent customers", who are unorganised, digitally dependent and unaware of the implications of data-sharing policies, and said, "We will not allow the rights of any citizen of this country to be damaged." On November 4, 2025, the NCLAT set aside a section of a CCI order that had banned the instant-messaging app from sharing data with Meta Platforms for five years, but retained a Rs 213-crore penalty on the social-media platform. Later, the tribunal clarified that its order in the WhatsApp matter on privacy and consent safeguards also applies to user-data collection and sharing for non-WhatsApp purposes, including non-advertising and advertising.

Hyderabad airport contributes Rs 68,000 crore to Telangana economy: Study

Hyderabad: The Rajiv Gandhi International Airport (RGIA) in Hyderabad has emerged as a major driver of Telangana's economy, contributing nearly Rs 68,000 crore in gross value added (GVA) and supporting about 3.5 lakh jobs, according to a study by the National Council of Applied Economic Research (NCAER). The economic impact assessment, carried out by NCAER in October 2025, estimates that the airport accounts for about 4.6 per cent of the state's GVA. The study examined the airport's direct operations as well as the ripple effects generated through supply chains and household spending. RGIA, which began operations in 2008, has grown into a key economic asset for the state. Beyond passenger traffic, it supports trade, cargo movement and investment flows linked to Hyderabad's expanding business base. The study used an input-output framework to assess the airport's direct, indirect and induced impact on output, GVA and employment. Direct impact includes on-site airport operations and related income. Indirect effects arise from procurement and linkages with suppliers, while induced impact reflects spending by employees and others whose livelihoods are connected to airport activity. According to the study, the Hyderabad airport's economic footprint extends well beyond its core aviation services. The integrated cityside development, including GMR Aerocity, has added commercial offices, hospitality facilities, logistics parks and industrial capacity around the airport, strengthening its contribution to the economy. Cargo operations help connect to global markets. The report also highlighted the importance of cargo operations, particularly in pharmaceuticals and perishables, which have helped connect Hyderabad to global markets. Planned expansion of cargo terminals is expected to further boost export-linked activity. The study noted that ongoing and proposed capital expenditure at the airport would generate construction employment in the short term and address long-term operational needs across airside, terminal and digital infrastructure. On governance and sustainability, the airport operates under a public-private partnership model, with a focus on service standards and stakeholder accountability.

Landmark Legal Victory for PURE Energy: Court Awards Rs. 50 Lakh in Damages Against Defamatory Social Media Influencer Mr. Aditya Prabhakar (known as "EV TraxelXP")

Hyderabad, February 2026: On January 29, 2026, the Court of the III Additional District and Sessions Judge at Sangareddy delivered a significant judgment in the case of PUR Energy Private Limited vs. M. Prabhakar Aditya (O.S. No. 78 of 2024). The court decreed a recovery of Rs. 50,00,000 (INR 50 Lakhs) in damages in favor of PURE Energy, marking a decisive victory for emerging startup brands against the rising tide of digital extortion and malicious misinformation campaigns orchestrated by social media influencers. Judicial Findings: Protecting the Right to Reputation Presiding Judge Smt. G. Sunitha Ravindra Reddy emphasized that the right to reputation is a fundamental right protected under the Constitution of India. The court found that the defendant's, Mr. Aditya Prabhakar (known as "EV TraxelXP"), resident of Ongole, Andhra Pradesh, actions caused "immense loss of reputation" and "irreparable loss which cannot be compensated." The court observed that the defendant, preying on the assumption that the legal system is slow, remained ex-parte (absent) during the proceedings, failing to contest

Landmark Legal Victory: PURE EV vs. YouTube Defamation

The court found the videos caused significant loss of goodwill among investors and customers.

THE VERDICT: COURT DECREE & PENALTIES

Rs. 50,00,000

the evidence provided by PURE Energy. This evidence included snapshots of defamatory comments, copies of emails, and the deceptive videos themselves. The Verdict: Financial and Legal Redress The court ruled entirely in favor of PURE Energy, granting the following reliefs: Beyond the financial penalty, the court issued a mandatory injunction requiring: The immediate take-down of all scandalous and derogatory content. A public apology in both national newspapers and across the defendant's social media platforms. A permanent restraint on the misuse or dilution of the PURE EV trademark and designs. The Calculated Defamation Campaign The court's findings highlighted a deliberate attempt to tarnish PURE Energy's reputation through a YouTube video titled "One Company Destroyed the EV Industry | Poor EV | Real Face." The defendant's tactics included: Trademark Infringement: Shrewdly replacing the registered trademark "PURE EV" with "POOR EV" to escape liability while ensuring the audience identified the target. Malicious Fabrication: Using morphed images and pasting PURE Energy's logo onto competitor vehicles that had caught fire to falsely represent the plaintiff's products as unsafe and defective. Baseless Allegations: Claiming "Poor Build Quality" despite PURE Energy's vehicles conforming to the best standards, solely to extort money from the brand. Contradictory Conduct: The influencer initially enjoyed a positive engagement to his youtube channel due to the brand. The court noted the defendant had previously praised the vehicles' comfort and mileage during his 30 days Kashmir to Kanyakumari journey on a PURE EV, yet later claimed 30 out of 100 vehicles were defective without having any evidence, a statement found to be made with "mal-intent to demean and devalue the goodwill" of the brand. Significance for the Startup Ecosystem This judgment serves as a landmark precedent for the Indian startup ecosystem. It sends a clear message to influencers and digital content creators that the freedom of expression does not grant a license for trademark infringement, extortion, or the dissemination of false narratives.

'Near impossible' travel conditions in New York as 22 inches of snow falls on US east coast

Power outages are affecting thousands of households and businesses across north-east US. Below are the latest outage figures in key states, according to blackout tracker PowerOutage.us:

- Massachusetts - 224,617
- New Jersey - 137,608
- New York - 17,440
- Delaware - 75,210
- Maryland - 29,553
- Rhode Island - 42,204

Ahead of the storm, Massachusetts governor Maura Healey warned residents to "prepare for the possibility of power outages by charging your devices and making sure you have a flashlight and batteries on hand". As a major winter storm hits parts of the north-east, local authorities and transport providers are urging people to avoid making journeys where possible. Here's a breakdown of the disruption: NJ Transit, which operates in New Jersey, parts of New York state and Pennsylvania, says all train, bus, light rail and access link services are suspended until further notice. In New York City, some express subway trains are running on the local tracks, but the Metropolitan Transport Authority is warning of severe delays and advising customers to avoid travel. There are longer waits for local buses and articulated buses aren't running. In Connecticut, CT Transit has suspended all its bus services for the day, and says it hopes to restart them on Tuesday. Subway, bus and Commuter Rail services are operating on a reduced schedule in Massachusetts, the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority says. Ferry services are cancelled. The transport provider in Delaware, DART First State, has suspended all services statewide across Monday

And in Pennsylvania, all bus services are suspended until further notices, according to the Southeastern Pennsylvania Transportation Authority (SEPTA). Regional rail has also been temporarily suspended. The Philadelphia metro is partially running, but with possible delays and cancellations. Over 5,400 flights to, from or within the US have been cancelled today, according to tracking website FlightAware. New Yorkers have woken up to between 8 and 15 inches of snow and blizzard conditions are still continuing. It's unusually quiet on the streets as a travel ban stays in effect. More figures are coming through showing how much snowfall landed overnight in the US. "Blizzard conditions and crippling impacts will continue through much of today for the region," says the National Weather Service's prediction centre. The NWS shares the level of snowfall in more key cities as of 07:00 EST (12:00 GMT): Atlantic City Airport, New Jersey: 14.5" (37 cm) Philadelphia, Pennsylvania: 13.7" (35 cm) Wilmington, North Carolina: 8.3" (21 cm) Allentown, Pennsylvania: 5.2" (13 cm) Trenton, New Jersey: 15.6" (40 cm) Reading, Pennsylvania: 2.8" (7 cm)

Mount Holly, New Jersey: 19.2" (49 cm) I've been watching a neighbour trying to clear a path to their front door all morning. So far the blizzard is winning. Another neighbour tells me they've spent an hour trying to shovel out their car. The sleet shifted to heavy snow here in New York about 18:00 on Sunday, and it hasn't let up since. It's still dumping down, and sometimes comes at you sideways with the blustery winds. As we reported earlier, more than 5,000 flights heading in and out of the US have been cancelled today. One of the most impacted airports is LaGuardia in New York, where 1,025 flights are cancelled. We're now seeing photos come through of LaGuardia, which is covered in snow. Mari Scheffele is snowed in at home in Cambridge, Massachusetts. She says the weather has worsened over the last couple of hours.

Robert Mugabe's son charged with attempted murder in South Africa

The youngest son of Zimbabwe's late former President Robert Mugabe has been formally charged with attempted murder at a brief appearance in a South African court. Bellarmine Mugabe, 26, was arrested last week after a 23-year-old man was shot and injured at a property in an upmarket suburb of Johannesburg last Thursday. He was then taken into custody alongside his bodyguard - neither man has commented on the charges. Appearing in court, dressed in black, Mugabe looked calm during the proceedings. Bellarmine is the youngest son of Robert and his second wife Grace Mugabe. Robert Mugabe, who died in 2019, led Zimbabwe for 37 years before being forced out of power at the age of 93 in 2017. Searching the property in Hyde Park where the shooting happened, police have found bullet cartridges but no firearm so far. Mugabe and Tobias Tamirepi Matonhodze, 33, also face additional charges, including defeating the ends of justice, which relates to the missing firearm, prosecutors say. The victim is in hospital and in a critical condition. Speaking outside court, Mugabe's lawyer Sinenhlanhla Mnguni provided an update on his well-being, telling reporters his client was "fine" as he remains in custody. Describing the circumstances of the shooting, prosecutors allege that "an altercation occurred between the victim and the accused inside Mugabe's home". While attempting to flee the victim was then allegedly "shot in the back and collapsed outside the gate" and the gate was then closed, according to a statement from the National Prosecuting Authority.

Armed man killed after entering secure perimeter of Trump's residence, Secret Service says

An armed man has been shot dead after entering the secure perimeter of US President Donald Trump's Mar-a-Lago residence in Florida, the Secret Service has said. The man was carrying a shotgun and fuel can when he was stopped and shot by Secret Service agents and a Sheriff's deputy, authorities said. The incident happened around 01:30 ET (06:30 GMT) on Sunday morning, when the president was in Washington DC. The suspect has been named as 21-year-old Austin T Martin of Cameron, North Carolina, according to the BBC's US partner CBS. His family in North Carolina had reported him missing in the early hours of Sunday morning, the Moore County Sheriff's Office said in a statement to the BBC. The missing persons information has since been turned over to federal authorities, the sheriff's office said. They added that the department had no record of prior history concerning Martin and that it was not involved in the Florida investigation. Officials are looking into whether he bought the gun along the driving route he took from North Carolina to Florida, according to CBS. US Secret Service agents fired at him after they saw him "unlawfully entering the secure perimeter at Mar-a-Lago early this morning", agency spokesman Anthony Guglielmi posted on X on Sunday. The suspect "was observed by the north gate of the Mar-a-Lago property carrying what appeared to be a shotgun and a fuel can", the agency said in a statement. The man was then shot after refusing orders, Palm Beach County Sheriff Ric Bradshaw said. "The only words that we said to him was 'drop the items', which means the gas can and the shotgun," Bradshaw told a news conference. "At which time he put down the gas can, raised the shotgun to a shooting position," he said. At that point, agents fired their weapons to "neutralise the threat", Bradshaw added. The officers were wearing body cameras and no law enforcement officers were injured, he said.

BONES OF ST FRANCIS OF ASSISI GO ON PUBLIC DISPLAY IN ITALY

The remains of Italy's patron saint, St Francis of Assisi, have gone on public display to mark 800 years since his death. Italian officials say about 400,000 people from around the world have reserved a place to see his bones in the central Italian town of Assisi. The 13th Century skeleton is being displayed from Sunday at the lower church of the famous Basilica of St Francis of Assisi. His remains have only been seen in public once before - for a single day in 1978 to a very limited group of people. St Francis is one of the most venerated figures in Christianity and was born in the Italian city of Assisi in 1181 or 1182. He renounced his wealth and devoted his life to the poor, founding the order of the Franciscans. He is also the patron saint of animals and the environment.

Four years into its full-scale war in Ukraine, Russia is feeling the effects

At first glance, Yelets in winter looks like something from a Russian fairy tale. From the embankment I spy the golden domes of Orthodox churches and, down below, ice fishermen dotted along the frozen river. But in this town, 350km (217 miles) south of Moscow, the fairy tale feeling is transient. On the riverbank I spot an army recruitment billboard. It promises a one-off sum equivalent to £15,000 to anyone who'll sign up to fight in Ukraine. Close by there's a poster of a Russian soldier taking aim with a Kalashnikov. "We're there where we need to be," the accompanying slogan declares. The Kremlin launched its full-scale invasion of Ukraine on 24

February 2022. Outside Russia it was widely seen as an attempt to force Kyiv back into Moscow's orbit and to overturn the entire post-Cold War security architecture in Europe. The Russian leadership envisaged a short and successful military operation. It didn't go to plan. Four years later, Russia's war on Ukraine grinds on. It has lasted longer than Nazi Germany's brutal war on the Soviet Union, known here as the Great Patriotic War. And, in this town, you can see some of the consequences. A giant mural fills one side of a nine-storey Yelets apartment block. Depicted here are the faces of five Russian soldiers, local men killed fighting in Ukraine. "Glory to the heroes of Russia!" has been painted at the top. The Russian authorities do not release casualty figures for the so-called "special military operation". But Russia is known to have suffered huge battlefield losses. So many of the towns and villages I've visited in the last two years have had museums and monuments dedicated to soldiers killed in Ukraine, as well as separate sections for recent war dead at local cemeteries. "My friend's husband was killed fighting there. The son of my cousin, too. And grandson," says Irina, who has stopped to chat to me opposite the mural. "Lots of people have been killed. I feel sorry for these lads." Irina is a ticket collector at the bus station. She struggles to make ends meet.

CARTEL HENCHMEN UNLEASH VIOLENCE AFTER TOP DRUG LORD KILLED IN MEXICO

Members of the Jalisco New Generation Cartel (CJNG), one of the most powerful and feared criminal organisations in Mexico, have unleashed a wave of violence across 20 Mexican states. They torched businesses and erected burning blockades in retaliation to the killing of their leader, Nemesio Oseguera Cervantes, better known as "El Mencho", who died in custody on Sunday shortly after being captured by Mexican special forces. El Mencho, Mexico's most wanted man, was seriously injured in a firefight between his bodyguards and the military commandos deployed to capture him. He died while the military was transporting him from the town of Tapalpa, in Jalisco state, to the capital, Mexico City. At least six of El Mencho's security guards were also killed in the operation, while three members of the Mexican military were injured, the defence ministry said. As news of El Mencho's death spread, members of his cartel launched attacks in many towns and cities where the CJNG is active. In some towns, they blocked roads by throwing spikes and nails on to the tarmac - in others, they commandeered buses and other vehicles they then torched in the middle of the road. Cartel members also set alight dozens of banks and local businesses such as pharmacies. Footage recorded by locals showed plumes of smoke rising above several towns and cities, including the beach resort of Puerto Vallarta, which is popular with tourists. In Guadalajara - one of the host cities of the forthcoming Fifa World Cup - travellers at the airport could be seen running and crouching on the floor in panic. News site Milenio reported that the panic spread when a group came running into the airport to seek shelter after they had heard gunshots ring out from the nearby highway.

ROB JETTEN BECOMES NETHERLANDS' YOUNGEST EVER PM

Rob Jetten has become the youngest and first openly gay prime minister of the Netherlands after his minority government was sworn in. The 38-year-old claimed victory in October's election with his Democrats 66 party (D66) narrowly beating anti-Islam populist Geert Wilders in a nail-biting election. Jetten formed a centre-right minority government with the People's Party for Freedom and Democracy (VVD) and the Christian Democratic Alliance (CDA). It is a minority cabinet, meaning every major reform in the coalition deal - from an extra 19bn (£16.6bn) for defence to painful cuts in healthcare and benefits - will have to be negotiated vote by vote in the Netherlands' two parliamentary houses. The coalition also wants fewer asylum seekers, with refugees having to apply for asylum outside Europe, not after they arrive. Asylum migration has been a particularly sensitive issue in Dutch politics, contributing to the downfall of the country's last two coalition governments. Jetten succeeds Dick Schoof as prime minister who oversaw one of the shortest-lived governments in Dutch history. D66 will provide seven ministers, VVD will provide six, and CDA five, with three state secretaries each - junior members of cabinet. Jetten was formally sworn in by King Willem-Alexander at the Huis ten Bosch Palace in The Hague on Monday. Posting a selfie ahead of his swearing-in ceremony, Jetten wrote on X: "Proud to be doing this together. In a new phase, with great responsibility and, above all, a shared promise to work for everyone in the Netherlands." "By not dwelling on what's wrong, but by building on what can be improved. That requires courage and collaboration." "Let's get to work" Slick, smiling and patient, Jetten has spent years shaking off the nickname "Robot Jetten", earned for his stiff.

PUTIN MUST BE STOPPED: ZELENSKY

Ukraine's President Volodymyr Zelensky continues to send out a firm message of defiance. When we met this weekend in the government headquarters in Kyiv, he said that far from losing, Ukraine would end the war victorious. He was firmly against paying the price for a ceasefire deal demanded by President Vladimir Putin, which is withdrawing from strategic ground that Russia has failed to capture despite sacrificing tens of thousands of soldiers. Putin, Zelensky told me, has already started World War Three, and the only answer was intense military and economic pressure to force him to step back. "I believe that Putin has already started it. The question is how much territory he will be able to seize and how to stop him..."

Russia wants to impose on the world a different way of life and change the lives people have chosen for themselves." What about Russia's demand for Ukraine to hand over the 20% of the eastern region of Donetsk that it still holds - a line of towns Ukraine calls "fortress cities" - as well as more land in the southern regions of Kherson and Zaporizhzhia? Isn't that, I asked, a reasonable request if it produces a ceasefire? "I see this differently. I don't look at it simply as land. I see it as abandonment - weakening our positions, abandoning hundreds of thousands of our people who live there. That is how I see it. And I am sure that this 'withdrawal' would divide our society." But isn't it a good price to pay if that satisfies Putin? Do you think it would satisfy him? "It would probably satisfy him for a while... he needs a pause... but once he recovers, our European partners say it could take three to five years. In my opinion, he could recover in no more than a couple of years. Where would he go next? We do not know, but that he would want to continue [the war] is a fact." I met Zelensky in a conference room inside the heavily guarded government enclave in a well-to-do corner of central Kyiv. In the interview he spoke mostly in Ukrainian. You get a sense of the weight of leadership carried by Zelensky from the diligence of his security guards. Visiting any head of state requires rigorous checks. But entering the presidential buildings in Kyiv takes the process to a level I have rarely experienced before. It is not surprising in a country at war, with a president who has already been targeted by Russia. Despite all that, the man who started as an entertainer, who won the Ukrainian version of Strictly Come Dancing in 2006, and played the role of an unexpected president of Ukraine in a TV comedy, before becoming the real-life president of Ukraine, seems to be remarkably resilient. US President Donald Trump said on the eve of the most recent ceasefire talks in Geneva that "Ukraine better come to the table fast". He continues to default to putting more pressure on Ukraine than on Russia. Western diplomats have indicated since last summer that Trump agrees with Putin that territorial concessions from Ukraine to Russia are the key to the ceasefire. Trump wants, ideally before this coming summer. Plenty of analysts outside the White House also judge that Ukraine cannot win the war and, without making concessions to Moscow, will lose it. I asked Zelensky whether Trump and the others had a point. "Where are you now?" Zelensky asked in return. "Today you are in Kyiv, you are in the capital of our homeland, you are in Ukraine. I am very grateful for this. Will we lose? Of course not, because we are fighting for Ukraine's independence."

Benfica's Prestianni gets provisional one-match ban

Benfica's Gianluca Prestianni has received a provisional one-match suspension after Real Madrid's Vinicius Jr reported alleged racist abuse during last week's Champions League meeting. Vinicius told referee Francois Letexier that he had been racially abused by the Argentina winger during the first leg of their Champions League knock-out phase play-off tie in Lisbon last Tuesday. Uefa announced the provisional ban on Monday following the appointment of an ethics and disciplinary inspector to investigate the incident. The European governing body said further punishment could be handed out once the investigation is completed. Prestianni has denied racially abusing the Brazilian. Real Madrid and Benfica meet for the second leg in the Spanish capital on Wednesday (20:00 GMT). Last week's first leg was halted for 10 minutes after Vinicius alerted on-field official Letexier to the second-half incident, before he and his team-mates temporarily left the pitch. It came after Vinicius, 25, scored a stunning goal and then received a yellow card for his celebrations in front of the Benfica supporters. Benfica manager Jose Mourinho, who is suspended for the second leg following his sending off later in the match, was criticised for his post-match comments after saying he believed that Vinicius had celebrated disrespectfully. Because of his ban, Mourinho will not speak to the media before the match - but Benfica have the option of making the assistant coach available instead.

"They Abuse Pakistan": Mohammad Amir Responds To India Legends' Criticism

A war of words has emerged between Mohammad Amir and retired Indian players over some of the comments that the former Pakistan pacer made about Team India's campaign so far in the T20 World Cup 2026. While Amir has been critical of the Pakistan team, he specifically chose to target India's Abhishek Sharma, calling him a "slogger". Amir later also said that India would not qualify for the T20 World Cup 2026 semifinals. His comments left many former Indian players fuming. "When asked about the criticism he has been getting from across the border over his comments, Amir justified the remarks, saying he only shared his opinion, but didn't use any bad language. "I have just given my opinion. We have always praised India when they perform well. I have also said this earlier, one should respect one's opinion. If I talk about the kinds of things some former Indian players say, they use such bad language. They abuse Pakistan. We have never done so, just tell me one time if I ever used bad language against India," said Amir on the "Haarna Mana Hai" show. "When it comes to Abhishek, I just said that he doesn't have a defensive game. A player who cannot stop the ball, what else do I call him? Just tell me what to call him if he can't come into the line and defend the ball," he added. Amir further explained the comments he made about India potentially not qualifying for the semifinals, suggesting he only spoke from the perspective of a pundit who has closely seen South Africa and West Indies' performances. "Learn to respect someone's opinion. There are 100 people in the world; not everyone can have the same opinion. We have played the sport, so we know how it works. Looking at how India and South Africa have been playing cricket, I think South Africa are better," said Amir. "I was just talking from that sense," he explained.

Indian Golf Premier League Secures 100 Million Dollars in Franchise Commitments Across 10 Cities

The Indian Golf Premier League (IGPL) on Monday announced a landmark $100 million capital commitment from ten franchise partners across India, marking the largest private investment in Indian golf history. Each franchise has committed approximately $10 million over ten years, signalling a long-term strategic bet on professionalizing and democratizing golf across India and beyond. The franchise rights have been awarded to leading business entities across Hyderabad (Phoenix), Mumbai (Atri), Kolkata (Flyingman Academy), Delhi (RVR Infra), Chennai (Vimtra Ventures), Visakhapatnam (Green Fuels), Goa (Auro Realty), Bengaluru (GolfKonnekt), Punjab (Krishna Auto) and Gurugram (Honer Homes Consortium). The ten-city format ensures pan-India representation and brings professional golf to key metropolitan and emerging markets. Beyond the league operations, franchise partners have committed to a collective $250 million infrastructure investment to build accessible golf facilities, including compact 8-10-acre courses in Tier 2 and Tier 3 cities and villages, fundamentally expanding the sport's reach beyond traditional elite circles. The IGPL will launch with an aggressive global expansion strategy, establishing a presence across three continents India, Africa, and the Middle East in its inaugural year, with plans to operate in five countries within three to four years. Commenting on the announcement, Uttam Singh Mundy, CEO, IGPL stated, "This is not a traditional sports investment it's a strategic platform for business amplification and nation-building through sports. Our franchise partners come from Pharma, Infrastructure, Real Estate, and Venture Capital, and they see IGPL as a multi-decade opportunity to build a sports culture while leveraging the platform for their core businesses. The $100 million commitment reflects their conviction in our vision." "We're not just creating a league we're building an ecosystem. From village courses to global tournaments, IGPL will make golf accessible, competitive, and commercially viable. Our three-continent launch strategy and infrastructure mandate position us as a transformative force in global golf, not just Indian golf," Mr. Mundy added.

O'SULLIVAN SIGNS UP FOR WORLD SENIORS CHAMPIONSHIP

Ronnie O'Sullivan is set to make his debut in the World Seniors Snooker Championship at Sheffield's Crucible Theatre in May. The tournament begins on 6 May - two days after the completion of the main World Championship where the 50-year-old will be aiming for a record-breaking eighth win. Changes to seniors tournament rules mean players aged 45 or over who are ranked in the world's top 64 are now eligible to take part. Despite skipping several tournaments this season, O'Sullivan - who won his most recent world title in 2022 - is currently 11th in the rankings. Other names in the draw include 1997 world champion Ken Doherty, 2015 winner Stuart Bingham, 12-time women's world champion Reanne Evans and current British Seniors Open champion Joe Perry.

"Who Said We Should Play Washington?" Ajinkya Rahane's Unfiltered Dig As Gautam Gambhir Faces Heat

In a scathing assessment of India's recent selection policy, veteran batter Ajinkya Rahane has launched a stinging critique against the national team management after the defeat against South Africa in the T20 World Cup Super 8 match in Ahmedabad on Sunday. Rahane did not pull any punches when discussing the decision to sideline all-rounder Axar Patel in favour of Washington Sundar during the series against South Africa, suggesting that the team's leadership has fallen into a trap of overthinking their tactical choices. Rahane expressed surprise at the decision-making process, questioning why a proven performer was left out. "I'm really surprised Axar Patel is not playing the match. I don't understand what is happening. Axar has been doing so well for India in different situations. Sometimes when you become too smart, I feel selection-wise that can hamper you," he said during a panel discussion on Cricbuzz. The crux of Rahane's argument lies in the danger of over-analysing "match-ups" at the expense of proven quality. "You took Washington Sundar because there are too many left-handers in the South Africa team, but he only bowled two overs. And there is no guarantee that an off-spinner is going to bowl really well against left-handers. We saw what Keshav Maharaj did today against all the top left-handed batters." Too Many Brains In The Backroom Rahane, who has led the Indian team in Tests, took aim at the modern reliance on data analysts and backroom staff, suggesting they are over-complicating a simple game. "In this era of the game, there are so many in the backroom, there are so many analysts, there are so many scientists, too many brains, and sometimes the brains over-complicate life. When you get so many around the table, and you've been winning, I want to know the person who was around that board meeting and went, 'I think we should play Washington Sundar.'" Addressing the possibility of an injury, Rahane noted that captain Suryakumar Yadav's comments at the toss suggested a tactical choice rather than a medical one. Gautam Gambhir Faces Heat India head coach Gautam Gambhir is the first man to come under the line of fire after India's defeat. Gambhir's love for Sundar isn't hidden from anyone. Many believe that Gambhir is likely to have played a role in Sundar's selection over Axar.

'HEIST' AT FOREST BOOSTS LIVERPOOL'S TOP-FOUR HOPES

Carnage would be an understatement to describe the closing moments of Liverpool's victory at the City Ground, but it would not be over the top to call the win a heist - one that puts Arne Slot's side firmly in the Champions League hunt. The fact that Nottingham Forest boss Vitor Pereira said he was "angry with football" summed it up. Forest did not deserve to lose. For large parts of the afternoon, the home fans chanted "In your head, Arne, Arne, Arne" to the tune of "Zombie" by The Cranberries as Pereira's side dominated the defending champions. Before today, Slot had failed to beat Forest in any of his previous three attempts as Liverpool boss. Yet as the Liverpool players made their way to the away end after snatching a remarkable victory through Alexis Mac Allister, the same chant came from the travelling support, who could hardly believe their luck. Liverpool were dull for most parts but deserve praise for their resilience and the importance of Mac Allister's 97th-minute winner cannot be underestimated in the sense that it took Liverpool level on points with Chelsea and Manchester United, in fourth and fifth. "It's one of the biggest robberies I've seen in the Premier League this season," said Jamie Carragher on Sky Sports. For Slot, who has regularly insisted that Liverpool have been unfortunate on many an occasion this season, there was an acceptance that his side had finally got the rub of the green. "My emotions were emotions of happiness and relief because this is the first time I have to do a different post match press conference," said Slot. "We did not play a good game. We have been on the wrong side of the score after a good performance too many times.

D/O Prasad Rao Kanabadutaledhu is packed with gripping twists and will not disappoint anyone," said Rajeev Kanakala at the Grand Preview Event

The Telugu web series D/O Prasad Rao Kanabadutaledhu, starring Rajeev Kanakala, Udaya Bhanu, Vasanthika, and Sriram Venkat in prominent roles, is set to premiere on ZEE5 from February 27. Produced by K.V. Sriram under the South India Screens banner and directed by Krishna Poluru, the series had two episodes screened exclusively for the media ahead of its streaming debut, followed by a grand preview event attended by the cast and crew.

Speaking about his role, Rajeev Kanakala described it as one of the most significant characters in his career. "I've played many roles over the years, but this one stands out as a milestone. The emotional transitions, the modulation, and the dialogue delivery are completely different from what audiences have seen from me so far. Krishna presented me in a refreshing way," he said. He added that the narrative unfolds with consistent tension and unexpected turns. "It's layered, intense, and emotionally grounded. Viewers will stay engaged till the last moment."

Director Krishna Poluru shared that the story began as a simple idea and gradually evolved into a fully fleshed-out script over nearly two years. "After Recce, I wanted to explore something emotionally powerful yet gripping as a thriller. It took time to shape the characters properly. I'm grateful to the team at ZEE5 for believing in the vision," he said. He emphasized that the series balances sensitivity with suspense, ensuring both emotional resonance and narrative momentum.

Udaya Bhanu expressed excitement about the release and said she connected deeply with her character. "I was waiting for audiences to watch this. The shoot moved quickly, but we ensured the emotional core remained intact. As a mother, several moments in the story felt very personal," she said. She also mentioned that playing a police officer was a long-standing wish and that the role gave her the opportunity to portray both strength and vulnerabil-

ty. Producer K.V. Sriram stated that the series would strongly connect with fathers and families. "When I watched the final output, I saw only the character — not the actor. That level of immersion is rare," he said, referring to Rajeev's performance. He added that each episode carries high intensity. "Every episode feels like a climax in itself. The thrill is maintained throughout." He also thanked ZEE5

Telugu for their continued support. ZEE5 Telugu Senior Vice President Jayanth Raghavan said the series adds depth to their growing slate of Telugu originals. He shared that the father's character personally resonated with him and praised the team's collaborative effort. He highlighted the cinematography by Mahesh and dialogues by Shruti as strong pillars supporting the narrative.
