Amid Growing LPG Crisis, Why Your Piped Gas May Be The Real Winner

The contrast between LPG and PNG is a contrast between two energy delivery architectures: one, based on physical distribution cycles, and another on continuous infrastructure flow. India's latest cooking-fuel disruption has revealed a structural asymmetry in how energy reaches Indian households. As geopolitical tensions around the Strait of Hormuz disrupted LPG cargo movements in March 2026, the contrast between India's cylinder-based LPG ecosystem and the piped natural gas (PNG) network became stark. The queues outside LPG agencies were not merely a temporary logistics problem. They exposed a deeper vulnerability in India's cooking fuel architecture, one rooted in import dependence, thin storage buffers and a complex distribution chain. By contrast, households connected to city gas distribution (CGD) pipelines experienced little disruption. However, the current crisis does not mean PNG has replaced LPG. But it does explain why, under stress, PNG has demonstrated an infrastructure resilience that LPG struggles to match.

INDIA'S LPG DEPENDENCE

India is one of the world's largest LPG consumers. According to data from the Ministry of Petroleum and Natural Gas (MoPNG), India consumed about 31.3 million tonnes of LPG in FY2024-25, while domestic production stood at roughly 12.8 million tonnes. Imports, therefore, met close to 60% of total demand. The scale of LPG dependence is equally visible at the household level. Data from the Petroleum Planning and Analysis Cell (PPAC) indicates that India has over 33.2 crore active LPG connections, including more than 10 crore beneficiaries under the Pradhan Mantri Ujjwala Yojana (PMUY). This rapid expansion of LPG access since 2016 has been a major clean-cooking achievement. But it has also deepened the country's exposure to external supply shocks. The geographical concentration of LPG imports amplifies this risk. Government briefings in March 2026 indicated that around 90% of India's LPG imports normally transit through the Strait of Hormuz, one of the world's most critical energy choke-points. Estimates from S&P Global suggest that the strait directly affects over half of India's LPG consumption when transit routes are accounted for. The physical storage capacity of the system offers limited cushioning. In a supply system designed for rapid cargo-to-distribution turnover, even short shipping disruptions can create local shortages before national reserves are mobilised. This is exactly what unfolded during the March disruption.

WHY PIPED GAS WAS UNHARMED

However, while LPG distribution faltered, PNG supplies to households in major cities continued largely uninterrupted. The difference lies in the structure of the two delivery systems. LPG is a logistics-heavy fuel. After production or import, LPG must pass through multiple stages: storage at terminals, transport to bottling plants, cylinder filling, trucking to distributors and final delivery to households. India operates around 210 LPG bottling plants with a rated capacity of about 22.6 million tonnes annually, with more than 25,000 LPG distributors. Each stage in this chain introduces potential disruption points during supply shocks. PNG, by contrast, relies on a continuous pipeline network. Natural gas flows from production fields or import terminals through the national gas grid to city gas distribution systems and then directly to household meters. Once connected, the household receives gas through an underground pipeline without booking refills or managing cylinder deliveries.

Is Trump Starting To Regret Backing Netanyahu's Iran Gameplan?

January's anti-government protests in Iran were probably seen by Israel's wily leader, Benjamin Netanyahu, as a golden opportunity to finally convince Donald Trump to mount a joint military operation against the country. Basking in the glory of his stunning success in Venezuela, Trump must have been swayed by Netanyahu's argument that the clerical regime was at its weakest since the 1979 Islamic revolution and could easily collapse, giving him another quick victory. Trump was likely convinced by Netanyahu that during the 12-day war last summer, Israel had destroyed Iran's air defences, killed its top military commanders, and finished off its air force as well as its large stock of ballistic missiles and drones. He also believed that his decision to drop massive 13,000 kg GBU-57 MOP bombs using giant B2 bombers had destroyed Iran's nuclear facilities in Fordow, Natanz, and Isfahan. If Iran had concealed any ballistic missiles within these facilities, those would have been inaccessible after the attack.

Were Israel And The US In Sync?

While Israel was convinced of the need to launch a joint attack to completely destroy Iran's military capability, American military commanders were not sure whether there was any immediate need to do so; they were also not prepared. Only a quarter of the US public supported attacking Iran. But Trump only needed to convince himself. He was emboldened by his swift capture of Nicolás Maduro, replacing him with a compliant Delcy Rodríguez. He wanted to repeat that change in Iran. Persuading American presidents to attack Iran and change its regime has been a major political and strategic goal of Netanyahu for over three decades. But Israel never had an occupant in White House who would actually share that objective and be so open towards it. It was Trump who, in his first term, recognised Jerusalem as Israel's capital and shifted the US embassy there from Tel Aviv. Under Netanyahu's influence, Trump also withdrew the US from the Iran nuclear deal negotiated by the Obama administration, which Tehran had adhered to. Iran began enriching uranium to levels close to weapons-grade only after Trump pulled the US out of the deal. It was also Trump who supported Netanyahu's brutal military campaign in Gaza following Hamas's invasion of Israel in 2023. He even sanctioned the judges of the World Court who issued an arrest warrant against Netanyahu for alleged war crimes. Most Israelis have seen Iran as their most important security challenge for years and agreed with Netanyahu that its Islamic regime with an advanced nuclear programme posed an existential threat to the Jewish state. The Ayatollahs have never hidden their wish to wipe Israel from the face of the earth. Under the previous Supreme Leader, Ali Khamenei, Iran funded, armed and trained anti-Israel groups such as Hezbollah, Hamas and the Houthis. Israel, however, has managed to degrade most of these groups and kill their leaders and commanders in the past three years.

Netanyahu's Awkward Timing

Even so, the timing of Netanyahu's push for a joint military operation against Iran raised eyebrows even in Israel. The strikes came when he was under increasing criticism for the security failures that allowed the 2023 Hamas attack, which resulted in the death of 1,200 Israelis and 251 others being taken hostage. Netanyahu was also facing a corruption trial, and his popularity was waning ahead of the October elections. Therefore, he aimed to regain public support, which he had enjoyed during the early stages of the Gaza war. For Netanyahu, the Iran conflict is also a useful distraction that has gained even more political significance after the Gaza ceasefire put into question the logic of that conflict - with the release of hostages, he couldn't justify military action in Gaza. Israelis are tired of endless wars where ordinary citizens, as military reserves, have to participate in military conflicts. Netanyahu's policies on Gaza and West Bank settlements have also isolated Israel on the international stage. But as happens during wars, Netanyahu has managed to unite his country once again in favour of military action. After years of suffering from missile attacks by Iran's proxies, they are in favour of destroying its military capability to harm them and even bringing regime change in Tehran. Iran and its proxies have killed at least 3,500 Israelis since the turn of the century. No wonder that last month, a poll in Israel found that 59% of Israelis supported joining an American attack on Iran.

Americans No Longer Support This War

But in the US, the picture has been different. Fewer Americans than ever share Israel's aims. On the eve of the launch of the current military operation in Iran, a Gallup poll found that more Americans now sympathise with the Palestinians than with the Israelis. According to the survey, 41% of respondents express greater sympathy for the Palestinians, compared with the 36% who side with the Israelis. This is the first major military conflict in which an American administration lacks majority public support. Only 41% of the US public supports this war, according to an analysis of various polls by The New York Times. Even the Iraq war of 2003, during which the public was misled by the George W Bush administration into believing that Saddam Hussein possessed weapons of mass destruction, had the backing of 76% Americans.

Goodbye To Powell Doctrine

The late Colin Powell, who was the Chairman of the US Joint Chiefs of Staff during the first Iraq war in 1991, developed a war doctrine that stated that war should be the last resort, used only after all political, economic, and diplomatic efforts have been exhausted. If the US must go to war, it should have a clear objective, public support, and an exit strategy, according to the doctrine. Since then, most military campaigns have largely adhered to the Powell doctrine, except for the current war against Iran.

Obscene content, social media and culture: Whose responsibility is it?

- Dr. Priyanka Saurabh

The digital age has profoundly transformed the structure of our society, our ways of thinking, and our ways of expressing ourselves. Today, through mobile phones and the internet, anyone can reach millions of people in a matter of seconds. Social media platforms have democratized expression—where previously, opportunities for entertainment and fame were limited to a limited few, now everyone has a platform to showcase their talent. But with this new opportunity has also emerged many new challenges. One of the most significant is the debate surrounding content that some sections of society consider “vulgar” or “indecent.” Over the past few years, social media has seen a rapid rise in videos that, in the name of dance, acting, or entertainment, showcase gestures and performances that many consider to be contrary to cultural values. These videos often garner millions of views, likes, and shares, further expanding their reach. In this race for popularity, content quality and social responsibility are often overlooked. A large segment of society believes that this type of content has a particularly damaging impact on young people and teenagers. When they see others achieving immense fame and financial gain by creating videos that last only a few seconds, they may develop a desire to do the same. Sometimes this inspiration is channeled into a creative direction—creating content related to music, art, dance, or education. However, in many cases, this motivation turns into a mere pursuit of virality, where any means are used to gain attention. It's also been observed that trends and algorithms have a significant impact on social media. Content that is viewed and shared more often spreads faster. Therefore, if viewers repeatedly watch the same types of videos that they themselves consider “vulgar,” they are inadvertently perpetuating that trend. Therefore, blaming only the content creators isn't a complete solution to this problem. Viewers are also a vital part of this digital ecosystem. On the other hand, there is also the argument that art and entertainment have their own freedoms. There are many forms of dance, acting, and expression, and each person views them differently. What one person finds inappropriate may be merely a form of entertainment or art to another. This is why this topic sparks heated debate in society. Some consider it a part of freedom of expression, while others see it as an erosion of social and cultural values. This raises an important question—should any kind of popularity be considered a benchmark for success? Social media has greatly accelerated the process of achieving fame. Previously, it took years for an artist to gain recognition; today, a viral video can make someone a star overnight. But this instant fame is often not lasting, and its social impact can be complex. Many young people may fall into the trap of believing that only controversial or attention-grabbing content is the path to success. As a result, they chase instant popularity instead of developing their talents. This trend not only impacts personal growth but also impacts the quality of entertainment in society. Culture isn't the product of a single individual or generation. Culture is shaped by centuries of experience, traditions, and social values. It's constantly changing—as each era brings with it new ideas and new forms. But it's essential to maintain a balance between change and excess. When entertainment becomes solely about sensationalism or attention, it's natural for society to worry about whether we're drifting away from our values. In this context, the role of family, education, and society also becomes crucial. It's crucial to teach children and young people that not everything they see on the internet is worthy of emulation. Digital literacy—that is, understanding how the online world works—has become a crucial necessity today. If young people understand how algorithms work, how views and likes are generated, and what types of content can influence them, they will be able to make more informed decisions. Content creators also have a responsibility no less. Those who reach millions of viewers also have the power to influence society. If they use their popularity to promote positive messages, creative art, and inspirational content, social media can become a powerful platform for society. There are many examples where creators have promoted education, folk culture, languages, and traditions, influencing millions of people. Therefore, the solution lies not in mere protests or boycotts, but in a balanced approach. Society must decide what type of content it wants to promote. If audiences are more supportive of creative, informative, and culturally rich content, more of that content will naturally be seen. Social media algorithms ultimately depend on audience preferences. Platform companies also have a responsibility to develop standards and policies that take into account the broader interests of society. Many platforms already implement community guidelines, but their effectiveness depends on how seriously they are enforced. Ultimately, it's important to understand that culture isn't protected solely by slogans or hashtags. Culture is strengthened when society sustains it through its behavior, choices, and priorities. If we truly want to preserve our cultural identity, we must promote positive alternatives—whether it's folk art, traditional music, literature, or modern, yet sensitive and responsible, entertainment. Social media is a powerful medium. It can both unite and divide society. The only difference lies in how we use it. If creators create content responsibly and viewers choose wisely, these platforms can become the greatest platforms for cultural preservation and creative expression. Ultimately, culture isn't created or destroyed by one person, one video, or one trend. It's shaped by society's collective consciousness and decisions. Therefore, the responsibility lies with all of us—creators, viewers, and society. (Dr. Priyanka Saurabh, PhD (Political Science), is a poet and social thinker.)

The hunger for followers and the auction of relationships

- Dr. Satyavan Saurabh

The digital age has opened new doors to expression. The internet and social media have given everyone the opportunity to reach the world. While previously limited sources of information and entertainment, today anyone can create videos, write blogs, and reach millions of people using their mobile phones. This change is both democratic and inspiring. But with every change comes new challenges. Today, in the world of social media, popularity has a new definition—followers, likes, shares, and views. The higher these numbers, the more successful a person is considered. This competition has led many content creators to a path where even the confines of personal life are becoming part of their content. In the past few years, a new trend has rapidly emerged—bringing family feuds and personal conflicts to the camera and sharing them on social media. Husband-wife disputes, sibling conflicts, mother-in-law-daughter-in-law squabbles, or even small internal family arguments—things that were previously resolved within the confines of the home—are now being broadcast to millions of viewers in the form of videos and posts. Many YouTubers and bloggers call this “real life content.” They argue that viewers want to see reality. But the question is: is it necessary to make every real event public? Is it appropriate to expose personal relationships to the curiosity of viewers? In fact, social media algorithms also encourage this trend. Content that evokes controversy, emotional reactions, or sensationalism tends to go viral faster. People comment more on such videos, offering their opinions, and sometimes even arguing for or against them. This is why some creators deliberately choose topics that can stir up emotions. Unfortunately, sometimes these conflicts are genuine, and the privacy of family members is at stake. A minor dispute can be blown out of proportion by being exposed to the cameras. This not only compromises the dignity of relationships but can also negatively impact other family members—especially children. In some cases, it's been observed that disputes are deliberately exaggerated or even completely scripted. This means that the conflict isn't real, but an attempt is made to appear real to attract audience attention. This blurs the line between entertainment and reality. In this age of social media, going “viral” has become synonymous with success. When a video receives millions of views and thousands of new followers, the creator feels they've chosen the right path. But this popularity is often fleeting. A controversy that captured audience attention one day is overshadowed by another controversy the next. There's also a social aspect to this trend. When viewers repeatedly see such content, they gradually begin to perceive it as normal to bring personal relationships into the public arena and make them a topic of discussion. This can undermine the sense of privacy and decorum in society. In our society, the family has always been considered a strong institution. Family is not just a living arrangement, but also a foundation of emotional security, trust, and mutual understanding. When internal family problems are made a public spectacle, it undermines the trust that is the foundation of relationships. Furthermore, young people and teenagers make up a significant portion of the social media audience. They are influenced by what they see. If they repeatedly see that it's normal to publicize personal conflicts in order to gain popularity, they may develop the impression that it's acceptable to go to any lengths to achieve success in life. It's also true that not all content creators are like this. There are many YouTubers, bloggers, and digital creators who produce informative, creative, and positive content. Many people working in education, science, art, culture, travel, and social issues are using social media as a positive platform. Their efforts prove that controversy and drama aren't the only path to popularity. The real question is one of responsibility. When someone has the power to reach thousands or even millions of people, it also carries a social responsibility. Content creators must understand that their content not only entertains but also influences people's thinking and perspectives. Viewers also play a significant role in this. After all, they are the ones who decide what type of content gets watched and what gets ignored. If viewers only promote sensational and controversial videos, it's natural that such content will continue to grow. But if they give more support to constructive and positive content, the digital landscape could change. Today, there's a need for balance and understanding in the use of social media. We should set boundaries for our personal lives and understand that not everything needs to be made public. Popularity and followers are important, but the dignity of relationships and personal respect are far more important. Ultimately, it's important to remember that social media is a tool, not an end. It can be used to spread knowledge, communicate, and foster positive change. But when it becomes a mere pursuit of popularity, its negative consequences begin to emerge. If this hunger for followers and views continues to grow, it's possible that one day people may become popular but lose touch with their own relationships and values. Therefore, it's important to understand in time that true success is achieved with respect and sensitivity—not by auctioning off relationships.

Healthcare must remain humane, says CM Revanth

HYDERABAD TSIT BUREAU:

A.Revanth Reddy said that healthcare should never become purely mechanical and stressed that medical services must always be delivered with compassion and humanity. Speaking at the inauguration of a new facility of Medcover Hospitals in Hyderabad, the Chief Minister said the hospital group has earned wide recognition across the country for its medical services.

Highlighting Hyderabad's contribution to the pharmaceutical sector, he said around 40 percent of India's pharmaceutical production comes from Hyderabad, adding that three COVID-19 vaccines were produced in the city's Genome Valley, which is a matter of pride for the state.

Chief Minister recalled that economic reforms introduced by former leaders such as P. V. Narasimha Rao and N. Chandrababu Naidu played a key role in completing HITEC

City and transforming the city into an IT hub. Revanth Reddy said the state government is introducing major reforms in the education sector to ensure quality learning. From the coming academic year, the government plans to introduce an integrated education system from Nursery to Class 12 and establish Telangana Public Schools, providing students with quality breakfast, lunch and transport facilities.

Transport facilities will also be provided free of cost or at 50 percent subsidy for students studying in government schools. To strengthen employability, the government is also setting up a Skills University to enhance students' professional capabilities. The Chief Minister emphasized that providing quality education can reduce the need for welfare support, adding that a healthy woman ensures the well-being of the entire family.

He also announced that the state government is preparing digital health data for around 6.5 million people, based on 20 years of Aarogyasri Health Care Trust data, and plans to issue digital health cards to beneficiaries.

The government is also focusing on cancer care, he said, adding that renowned oncologist Nori Dattatreyyudu has been appointed as an advisor. Revanth Reddy noted that the state has spent Rs.1,800 crore on Aarogyasri and Chief Minister's Relief Fund (CMRF) and is investing nearly Rs.10,000 crore in the construction and infrastructure development of hospitals including Osmania General Hospital and Telangana Institute of Medical Sciences.

Expressing concern over the rising cost of medical treatment, the Chief Minister suggested that private sector doctors should dedicate one month each year to serve in government hospitals. He further stated that the government is exploring plans to provide life insurance coverage to nearly 1.3 crore families across the state.

IRAN'S NEW LEADER MOJTABA KHAMENEI VOWS TO AVENGE FAMILY, THREATENS HORMUZ BLOCKADE

New Delhi (TSIT) Iran's new Supreme Leader, Mojtaba Khamenei, issued his first statement on Thursday after succeeding his father, Ali Khamenei, who was killed along with several family members in the US-Israeli strikes at the outset of the ongoing West Asia war.

In a message broadcast on Iranian state television, read out by a news anchor, Khamenei vowed that Tehran would "avenge the blood of Iranians" killed during the conflict and warned that Iran would continue targeting American bases across the region. "We are not enemies of the countries around us," the statement said. "But the existence of the US bases in some of these countries and their use to attack Iran is not benefiting the region and they must be closed." He also warned that Iran would continue to use the threat of blocking the strategically vital Strait of Hormuz as leverage against the US and Israel.

Linking the war to personal loss, Khamenei said members of his own family were among those killed in the strikes. "I lost my father and my wife. My sister lost her child and her husband," he said, adding that patience and faith would guide Iran through the crisis. The statement also demanded compensation for war damages, warning that Iran could seize or destroy foreign assets if reparations were denied. The remarks echoed Iranian President Masoud Pezeshkian, who earlier said in talks with leaders of Russia and Pakistan that peace would require recognition of Iran's rights, reparations for war losses and firm international guarantees against future aggression.

50 LAKH LPG CYLINDERS BEING SUPPLIED PER DAY, AVOID PANIC BOOKING: GOVT

New Delhi (TSIT): The Ministry of Petroleum and Natural Gas said on Thursday that all steps are being taken by the Government to ensure uninterrupted energy supplies, with 50 lakh LPG cylinders being delivered every day, so consumers should avoid "panic booking" of cooking gas. Crude is sourced from more than 40 countries, and 70 per cent of the crude is now coming from routes other than the Strait of Hormuz, which is currently closed, a ministry statement said. India's daily oil consumption is 5.5 million barrels, and it is the fourth largest refiner in the world with 22 refineries in the country. Further, refineries are operating at high-capacity utilisation; in several cases, they are exceeding 100 per cent. This large refining capacity is allowing the country a much more comfortable position in terms of availability of petroleum products during the Iran war crisis, availability and sustain the crisis, it said. There are over 1 lakh retail outlets providing petroleum products, all of which have adequate stocks. The supply of natural gas has been affected due to force majeure conditions, but the procurement through alternative routes and suppliers is underway to offset this disruption. To manage this situation effectively, the government has issued a Natural Gas Control Order under the Essential Commodities Act to prioritise the supply, the statement said. The global situation is challenging, but the Government has taken many steps to maintain the demand-supply balance. These include enhancing production of LPG by the refineries with the entire output of C3 and C4 hydrocarbon streams, comprising propane, butane, propylene, and butane being provided exclusively to the three oil marketing companies for domestic cooking gas.

Hence, in the last five days, LPG production has been increased by 28 per cent through refinery directives.

DON'T PANIC OVER GAS CYLINDERS, CM STALIN APPEALS TO PUBLIC

CHENNAI (TSIT): Chief Minister MK Stalin on Thursday (March 12) appealed to the public not to panic over the reported shortage of LPG cylinders, in a post on social media platform X. He said he had written to Prime Minister Narendra Modi and the concerned Union Ministers regarding the gas cylinder situation and urged them to take immediate measures to ensure adequate supply. Recalling the discussions held to tackle the issue, the Chief

STALIN SAID HE HAD WRITTEN TO PM NARENDRA MODI AND THE CONCERNED UNION MINISTERS REGARDING THE GAS CYLINDER SITUATION AND URGED THEM TO TAKE IMMEDIATE MEASURES TO ENSURE ADEQUATE SUPPLY.

Minister said efforts were underway to manage the situation arising out of the conflict in the West Asian region. "We have also raised the gas cylinder issue in Parliament and staged a demonstration to emphasise the need for immediate intervention by the Union government," Stalin said.

Meanwhile, the reported scarcity of LPG cylinders has affected the hospitality sector, with around 300 hotels reportedly shutting down operations in Chennai on Thursday. Several eateries have also reduced their menu options due to the shortage. In addition, canteens and hotels operating in government buildings have increased the prices of food items, with rates of items such as coffee and meals rising by Rs 10 to Rs 20, without prior notice.

Nearly 9,000 Indians currently in Iran, govt tells Parliament

New Delhi (TSIT): There are nearly 9,000 Indians including students, business persons, factory workers, pilgrims, seafarers, and fishermen in Iran at present, the government informed Parliament on Thursday, March 12. In a written response to a query in Rajya Sabha, Minister of State for External Affairs Pabitra Margherita also said the Indian Embassy has advised Indian nationals in Iran to exercise utmost caution, maintain situational awareness, monitor local media for any developments and stay in contact with the embassy.

The Ministry of External Affairs was asked the details of Indian citizens who are still in Iran, and the details of measures taken for their safety, including emergency helplines activated by the embassy, deployment of consular teams and any arrangements with Iranian authorities for protection. "The Ministry and the Embassy of India in Iran have issued periodic advisories (5 January, 14 January, 23 February, 28 February and 3 March 2026) to Indian nationals, urging avoidance of non-essential travel to Iran and advising those wishing to leave to do so by the means available.

POLICE KEY TO ACHIEVING $3 TRILLION ECONOMY GOAL: BHATTI

Hyderabad (TSIT) : Telangana Deputy Chief Minister Bhatti Vikramarka Mallu said the police department plays a crucial role in achieving the state's goal of becoming a $3 trillion economy by 2047. He made the remarks during pre-budget meetings with the Home, Industries and IT departments held at the Dr. B. R. Ambedkar Telangana Secretariat on Thursday.

The Deputy Chief Minister said strong law and order is essential as more investors are showing interest in Telangana. He directed officials of the Home Department to ensure there are no lapses in security and surveillance, assuring full government support to strengthen policing systems. He also suggested introducing electric vehicles in the police department in phases as part of the government's push towards sustainable mobility. Stressing the importance of surveillance in crime prevention, he instructed officials to expand the use of CCTV cameras across the state and repair non-functional cameras. Bhatti Vikramarka said the state must adopt the Public-Private Partnership model to achieve its economic goals and asked the Industries Department to prepare suitable plans. He also emphasised the need to focus on rural development through the RARE (Rural Agri Region Economy) initiative.

Rahul Gandhi raises LPG issue in Lok Sabha, says 'pain has just started'

New Delhi, March 12 : Lok Sabha Leader of Opposition (LoP) Rahul Gandhi, on Thursday, flagged the issue of LPG shortages hitting the hotel industry, in the wake of West Asia crisis and claimed that this was the "beginning of pain" that will only aggravate in days to come. Speaking in Lok Sabha over 'LPG crisis', the Congress MP took potshots at the Union government over its alleged surrender to the US administration's diktats and asked how could the US President Donald Trump decide "from where and from whom India makes its oil purchases". Rahul Gandhi reiterated his 'compromise' charge, holding it to be the key reason for petrol and LPG shortages in the country. These claims were subsequently countered by the Union Petroleum Minister Hardeep Singh Puri, who declared that the country's oil reserves were full and there was no looming crisis before the country.

LoP Rahul Gandhi, while speaking on the West Asia crisis, said the US-Israel and Iran war will have far-reaching consequences for everyone, including India, and it has started becoming evident.

"The central artery through which 20 per cent of the global oil flows, the Strait of Hormuz, has been closed. And this is going to have tremendous repercussions, particularly for us (India), because a very large portion of our oil and natural gas comes through the Strait of Hormuz." "The pain has just started. Restaurants are closing, there is widespread panic about LPG, street vendors are affected, and as I said, this is only the beginning," the Lok

Lok Sabha Leader of Opposition (LoP) Rahul Gandhi, on Thursday, flagged the issue of LPG shortages hitting the hotel industry, in the wake of West Asia crisis and claimed that this was the "beginning of pain" that will only aggravate in days to come.

Sabha LoP added. Questioning United States' 'interference' in India's petroleum pacts, LoP Rahul Gandhi asked "how could a third nation decide who we buy oil from, whether we can buy oil from Russia or not, and whether our relationships with different oil suppliers can be decided by us -- this is what has been bartered". He went to add that this issue puzzled and perplexed him for long, however, he has now understood it and such 'capitulation' is because of India compromising its interests.

"It is a very puzzling fact why a nation the size of India would allow any other nation, or the President of another nation, to give us permission to buy Russian oil and decide who our relationships are with."

"I have figured the puzzle out, and the puzzle is about compromise," the Lok Sabha LoP said.

The LoP's mention of Epstein however did raise eyebrows as well as the hackles of the ruling Treasury benches. While cornering the Central government on the LPG issue, Rahul Gandhi said that the Union Petroleum Minister has admitted on record that he had relations with Jeffrey Epstein.

This prompted Speaker Om Birla to intervene. Outside the Parliament, a couple of Bharatiya Janata Party MPs demanded that the Congress MP Rahul Gandhi be penalised for violating the parliamentary protocols and raking up the Epstein issue despite the latter having no connection with the issue.

Lok Sabha functions under rules, no member has privilege to speak beyond framework: Birla

NEW DELHI: The House functions strictly according to rules and no member has the privilege to speak at any time and on any subject, Lok Sabha Speaker Om Birla asserted on Thursday, a day after a resolution seeking his removal from office was defeated.

Birla said the Chair does not belong to any individual, but is a symbol of the prestige of the House. The Lok Sabha will continue to function according to laid down rules and procedures irrespective of whether it is acceptable to any member or not, he said, underlining that he will conduct the proceedings with sincerity and fairness.

"No member in this House possesses any privilege to speak outside the framework of these rules," Birla said amid thumping of desks by the ruling side. He said he was grateful to the members of the House for reposing their faith in him during debate. He also thanked all those who spoke in favour of him as well as against him. "The House has been running with rules and regulations and will continue to function in future, irrespective of whether it is acceptable to any member or not. I will continue to discharge my duty with all sincerity and impartiality," he said.

Thursday was the first time Birla came to the House to conduct the proceedings since the notice of no confidence was given against him by the opposition on February 10 during the first part of the Budget session, which ended on February 13. The second part of the session began on March 9.

The speaker said that during the debate over the last two days, some members said Leader of Opposition Rahul Gandhi is not given enough opportunities to speak, and he should be allowed to speak whenever he wishes and on any subject.

"Everyone has the right to speak in the House, but by following rules and regulations. No member, not even the prime minister or any minister, can speak without the permission of the Chair. No member of the House has the privilege to speak at any time and on any subject. He can speak only when the Chair allows," he said.

Birla said the MPs have the freedom of speech in the House, but they have to follow rules and regulations.

He also addressed allegations that microphones of some members are switched off when they want to speak.

"I don't have a switch to turn the mic on or off. The mic is put on when a member is given permission to speak by the Chair," he said.

Responding to claims that Gandhi was disallowed to table a magazine article based on the unpublished memoir of former Army chief M M Naravane on the India-China conflict of 2020, Birla cited rulings by past speakers when members were not allowed to table documents by the Chair.

Soon after his speech, Birla adjourned the House till 2 pm.

ED attaches fresh Rs 581-cr assets in case against Anil Ambani's Reliance Group

NEW DELHI: The Enforcement Directorate on Thursday said it has attached fresh assets worth more than Rs 581 crore of RHFL and RCFL, companies of Reliance Group Chairman Anil Ambani.

An order was issued on March 11 to attach land parcels in Goa, Kerala, Karnataka, Punjab, Tamil Nadu, Uttar Pradesh, Haryana, Jharkhand, Maharashtra, Delhi, West Bengal, Andhra Pradesh and Rajasthan, the Enforcement Directorate (ED) said in a statement.

The properties worth Rs 581.65 crore belong to Reliance Home Finance Limited (RHFL) and Reliance Commercial Finance Limited (RCFL), the agency said.

"The attachment follows search operations conducted on March 6 in the case against Reliance Power Limited under the Foreign Exchange Management Act (FEMA)," it said.

R N Ravi takes oath as 22nd Governor of West Bengal

KOLKATA: Former IPS officer R N Ravi on Thursday took oath as the 22nd governor of West Bengal at a ceremony in the Lok Bhavan here.

He was administered the oath of office by Chief Justice of the Calcutta High Court, Sujoy Paul, in the presence of Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee, Assembly Speaker Biman Banerjee, senior minister and Kolkata Mayor Firhad Hakim and Left Front chairman Biman Bose.

No leader from the opposition BJP camp, however, was present at the programme. Several bureaucrats, including Chief Secretary Nandini Chakravorty and senior police officers, also attended the event. The ceremony began with the singing of the national song and anthem.

Ravi was presented the Guard of Honour at Lok Bhavan, before he was sworn in at the Sardar Patel Unity Hall. Later, the CM greeted Ravi and his wife and welcomed both by presenting traditional 'uttariyas' (stole).

During her brief interaction with the new governor, Mamata Banerjee described West Bengal as a land of culture, and that Bengali people love those who love the state.

Ravi described Kolkata as the country's cultural capital and noted that it had served as the capital of India during the British rule, adding that he would keep a close watch on developments.

Ravi was appointed the governor of West Bengal following the resignation of his predecessor C V Ananda Bose on March 5.

He had earlier served as the governor of Nagaland, Meghalaya and Tamil Nadu.

PM Modi asking people not to panic but is himself panicked for various reasons: Rahul

NEW DELHI: Congress leader Rahul Gandhi on Thursday attacked Prime Minister Narendra Modi amid concerns over reported LPG shortage, saying the PM is asking the people not to panic but is himself panicked for "completely different reasons".

Gandhi alleged that the prime minister is panicked because of the Epstein files issue and the Adani Case in the US.

He made the remarks after several opposition MPs, including himself and Priyanka Gandhi Vadra, staged a protest in the Parliament House complex over the shortage of commercial LPG cylinders to demand answers from the government over it.

Speaking with reporters after the protest, Gandhi said, "The PM is saying there is no need to panic, but the PM himself has panicked for completely different reasons... he is panicked because of Epstein, he is panicked because of the Adani case, he is not able to come inside the House."

"You saw yesterday that the prime minister's chair was empty. So, he is telling the country not to panic but has panicked himself," Gandhi added.

Several opposition MPs from the Congress, DMK, TMC and SP, among others, staged a protest near Parliament's Makar Dwar, raising slogans such as 'Naam Narendar, Kaam Surrender' and 'Modi ji, LPG'.

The women opposition MPs, including Priyanka Gandhi, sat down with a mock brick cooking stove and raised slogans against the government.

In a post on X in Hindi, Congress president Mallikarjun Kharge said, "When the country is grappling with a severe crisis, Prime Minister Modi ji is engrossed in election tours."

"There is a severe shortage of LPG across the country, and people are standing in queues. Countless small and large industries are being forced to bear the consequences of the BJP's failure. But the government has no answers. Only false claims," he said.

The failure of diplomacy is a serious issue, and the result of the mismanagement of energy is being borne today by the 1.4 billion people of the country, he claimed.

"Narendra Modi ji, bahut hui 'Mann Ki Baat, zara sansad mein aa kar kariye

'mudde ki baat' (Enough of 'Mann Ki Baat', come to Parliament and talk on real issues)," the Congress chief said.

With the House being adjourned shortly after meeting at 11 am amid sloganeering by the opposition demanding a discussion on the West Asia situation, Gandhi sat with suspended opposition MPs on the steps of the Makar Dwar and had tea with them.

The opposition has been demanding a full-fledged discussion on the West Asia situation and its impact on India.

Prime Minister Modi on Wednesday appealed to people not to panic and assured them that public interest will be protected. He expressed confidence in tackling the LPG crisis, where the short supply of commercial LPG has crippled the country's hotel sector.

From induction cooktops and microwaves to firewood and solar options, restaurants, street food vendors, and catering businesses across the country are scrambling for alternatives as a shortage of commercial LPG cylinders begins to disrupt kitchens amid the widening conflict in West Asia.

With the government prioritising domestic cooking gas supply to households as the war disrupts global fuel lifelines, businesses dependent on commercial LPG -- from small eateries to high-end restaurants -- are watching the situation anxiously, with some even staring at possible closure in the days to come.

SC refuses to entertain plea to bring back Netaji Bose's ashes

NEW DELHI: The Supreme Court on Thursday refused to entertain a plea filed by the grand nephew of Netaji Subhas Chandra Bose, seeking directions to bring back to India the ashes believed to be those of Bose from Tokyo's Renkoji temple. After a bench of Chief Justice Surya Kant and Justices Joyymaya Bagchi and Vipul M Pancholi showed its disinclination to entertain the plea, senior advocate Abhishek Singhvi, appearing for petitioner Ashis Ray, sought permission to withdraw it.

The bench permitted him to withdraw the petition.

"I am appearing for the family members who want to give a decent quietus to the ashes," Singhvi told the bench at the outset.

The CJI asked how many times this issue would come up before the apex court.

The bench said last year itself, the top court had dismissed one petition. Singhvi said this was not the issue that had come up before the court earlier.

"First of all, where are the ashes? What is that proof?" the CJI said, adding that Bose was one of the greatest leaders of our nation, and we all bow down to his sacrifice.

Singhvi said it is recorded that every head of state from India has paid obeisance at the Renkoji temple in Japan.

SC refuses to entertain plea to bring back Netaji Bose's ashes

and unless he dies, there can't be ashes," the bench observed. "First, we would like to know how many family members are supporting this," the bench asked.

He said the matter which the apex court had dealt with earlier was concerning declaring whether Bose had died or not.

"That is inference. Until

and unless he dies, there can't be ashes," the bench observed. "First, we would like to know how many family members are supporting this," the bench asked.

Rahul Gandhi's soul will be at peace if China, US and Russia attack India: MP Dubey

NEW DELHI: Congress leader Rahul Gandhi's soul will be at peace when China, Russia and the US attack India, BJP MP Nishikant Dubey said on Thursday while accusing the leader of opposition in the Lok Sabha of being involved in a conspiracy to "break" India.

Dubey told reporters inside the Parliament House complex. "When Russia, America and China together boycott India, or even attack India, then his heart will feel satisfied because George Soros' agenda of breaking India would have succeeded," he said. "I always say this -- there is a conspiracy to break India and Rahul Gandhi is involved in that conspiracy," he added.

Dubey, the MP from Godda in Jharkhand, also criticised former prime minister Rajiv Gandhi's decision to send the Indian Peace Keeping Force to Sri Lanka during the island nation's civil war.

"When a civil war was going on in Sri Lanka, Rajiv Gandhi forcibly sent the Indian Army there. The result was that, for the first time abroad, the prime minister of our country was attacked by soldiers of that very country," he said.

Hitting out at the opposition, Dubey said the country has never seen "such a low, undisciplined and reckless opposition".

Diabetes and hypertension major risks for kidney disease

Hyderabad: Doctors from CARE Hospitals have warned that diabetes and hypertension are the leading risk factors for kidney disease in India and stressed the need for early detection and lifestyle changes to prevent serious complications. The experts shared their views while marking World Kidney Day 2026. Kidneys play a vital role in filtering waste from the blood, maintaining fluid balance and regulating blood pressure. However, kidney disease is often called a "silent condition" because it may not show clear symptoms until the disease reaches an advanced stage.

Health experts estimate that nearly 10-15 percent of the Indian population is affected by some form of chronic kidney disease, while many cases remain undiagnosed due to lack of awareness and early screening. Doctors say rising cases of diabetes and high blood pressure are significantly increasing the risk of kidney damage.

Government untenable if it can't ensure girls' safety: TVK chief Vijay

Vijay referred to the brutal murder of a 17-year-old girl in Vilathikulam in Thoothukudi district, who was allegedly sexually assaulted and killed, and said the incident had shocked the conscience of society

CHENNAI: Actor and Tamilaga Vettri Kazhagam (TVK) president Vijay on Thursday mounted a sharp attack on the ruling DMK government, questioning the state of women's safety in Tamil Nadu in the wake of a series of violent crimes reported across Tamil Nadu in recent days.

In a statement, Vijay referred to the brutal murder of a 17-year-old girl in Vilathikulam in Thoothukudi district, who was allegedly sexually assaulted and killed, and said the incident had shocked the conscience of society. He noted that the victim's parents and local residents were staging protests demanding justice.

The TVK leader also cited another incident near Madhuranthakam, where a 14-year-old girl was allegedly sexually assaulted and left stranded in a forest area overnight before walking nearly 10 km to reach a police station the short morning.

"Chief Minister, who appears focused only on preserving his alliance, must explain where the safety of women and girl children in Tamil Nadu stands today," Vijay said.

Listing a series of recent crimes, he referred to violent attacks reported in Nanguneri, Sivaganga and Manamadurai, the abduction and sexual assault of a seven-year-old girl in Namakkal, an alleged custodial death in Manamadurai, and the killing of a 70-year-old man in Krishnagiri, followed by the sexual assault of his wife.

Vijay said such incidents occurring within a short span of time had shaken public confidence in law and order. "There is no safety for the public, for women, for children, for the elderly or for youth. People have begun asking whether such a government is necessary," he said. Meanwhile, BJP leader K Annamalai also criticised the state government, citing reports of a college student from Tiruchy being abducted and sexually assaulted in Chennai while visiting the city for project work.

"Before the scars of the horrific sexual assault and murder of the Vilathikulam girl and the gang assault near Madhuranthakam could heal, yet another case has surfaced in the capital city, barely minutes away from the Chief Minister's residence," he said. "Every such incident is a painful reminder of the state of law and order under the DMK government," Annamalai added.

Rajendra Vishwanath Arlekar sworn in as acting Governor in CM Stalin's presence

CHENNAI: Rajendra Vishwanath Arlekar on Thursday took oath as the Governor, assuming charge in addition to his existing responsibilities as the Governor of Kerala.

The oath of office was administered by Chief Justice of the Madras High Court Sushrut Arvind Dharmadhikari at a brief ceremony held at the Lok Bhavan here. Arlekar took the oath in the name of God, pledging to faithfully discharge the functions of the Governor of Tamil

Nadu and uphold the Constitution and the law. Chief Minister MK Stalin attended the ceremony along with Union Minister L Murugan, several judges of the Madras High Court, State Ministers, senior government officials, and MPs. Leaders from various political parties were also present. Arlekar later exchanged greetings with the Chief Minister, judges and other dignitaries present at the event. According to Lok Bhavan officials, the arrangement is an interim measure until further orders from the Union government regarding the gubernatorial post in Tamil Nadu.

Several express trains to run with changes via Tiruchy: Southern Railway

CHENNAI: Southern Railway has announced changes in the services of several express trains due to maintenance work being carried out in various sections of the Tiruchy division, according to Daily Thanthi. According to the railway authorities, the SeSengottai-Mayiladuthurai Express (Train No. 16848) will operate with changes from Thursday (March 12) to March 17. The Mumbai CSTM Express (Train No. 12666) will run with changes on Thursday (March 12) and March 15. Similarly, the Kanniyakumari-Howrah Ativi Raivu Express (Train No. 16128) will operate with revised services on Friday and Saturday. Tiruchy the Guruvayur-Chennai Egmore operate with revised services on Friday and Saturday, while the Guruvayur-Chennai Egmore Express (Train No. 16128) will run with changes from Thursday to March 15.

No alliance talks held with TVK, says Palaniswami

CHENNAI: AIADMK general secretary Edappadi K Palaniswami on Wednesday night dismissed reports of talks with Tamilaga Vettri Kazhagam (TVK) for an electoral alliance, calling the speculation "purely the media's imagination".

Experts call for integrated action to curb antibiotic resistance

CHENNAI: Antibiotic resistance is a critical global health threat due to excessive and inappropriate use of antibiotics in humans, livestock and agriculture, warn health experts. A major concern is the growing tendency among people to take antibiotics without medical advice. When antibiotics are misused, taken in the wrong dose or stopped midway, bacteria survive, mutate and become resistant, making infections harder to treat. "If antibiotics are not taken properly, some bacteria survive, mutate and become resistant over time. Even simple infections can turn life threatening," infectious disease expert Dr Surendran told DT Next. "Patients often discontinue antibiotics once symptoms improve, instead of completing the full course, enabling harmful bacteria to persist. Self-medication, use of leftover antibiotics and pressure on doctors to prescribe them for viral infections like colds and flu worsen the problem."

Antibiotic misuse extends beyond humans. Large quantities are used in poultry, dairy and livestock farming to accelerate growth and prevent disease. In agriculture, antibiotics used for crop protection contaminate soil and water. "These residues enter our food chain and water sources, contributing to resistance. It is not only a medical problem but an environmental one too," said environmental activist Sundarajan of Poovulagin Nanbargal. The scale of the crisis is evident in global data. WHO estimates that nearly one in six bacterial infections worldwide is now antibiotic resistant. It warns that antibiotic resistance could lead to 10 million deaths annually by 2050 if urgent action is not taken.

Madras HC grants interim stay on civil suit against Anbumani

CHENNAI: The Madras High Court has granted an interim stay on the proceedings in a civil suit filed by S Ramadoss against Anbumani Ramadoss concerning the use of the name and symbol of the Pattali Makkal Katchi (PMK). Earlier, PMK founder S Ramadoss had filed a civil suit before the Chennai Civil Court seeking a direction restraining Anbumani Ramadoss from using the party's name and symbol. He also sought to set aside the communication issued by the Election Commission of India allocating the party symbol by referring to Anbumani as the party president, and further prayed that he himself be declared as the president of the PMK. When the matter came up for hearing before Justice M Dharmaprabu, a counter affidavit was filed on behalf of Dr Anbumani Ramadoss. In the counter affidavit, it was stated that S Ramadoss, about 87 years old, is not in a position to make administrative decisions due to his age and allied medical conditions.

Ramadoss's side also filed a rejoinder affidavit. In his rejoinder, it was stated that Anbumani, when he got the chance to serve as the president of the party without any effort, brought down the party through poor performance, leading to the loss of its recognition. After hearing the submissions, the Justice adjourned the matter to March 13.

Meanwhile, Vadivel Ravanan, General Secretary of the PMK, filed a petition before the Madras High Court. In his petition, he stated that the suit had been filed by Ramadoss without impleading him as a party to the proceedings, despite his position in the party. However, the Civil Court rejected his submission. Therefore, he sought a direction from the court to dismiss the suit filed by Ramadoss before the Civil Court. When the matter came up for hearing before Justice TV Tamilselvi, the Judge granted an interim stay on the Civil Court proceedings and directed Ramadoss and Anbumani, ECI, to respond to his plea.

CHENNAI: AIADMK general secretary Edappadi K Palaniswami on Wednesday night dismissed reports of talks with Tamilaga Vettri Kazhagam (TVK) for an electoral alliance, calling the speculation "purely the media's imagination".

Responding to questions from reporters in Tiruchirappalli, Palaniswami said the AIADMK had not held any discussions with the party led by actor-politician Vijay. He also said seat-sharing talks with allies had not yet begun and would be announced when the process starts.

The AIADMK leader was speaking after meeting Union Ministers Piyush Goyal and L Murugan following an NDA rally addressed by Narendra Modi. Palaniswami also criticised Chief Minister MK Stalin for describing the upcoming Assembly election as a contest between Delhi and Tamil Nadu, saying the remarks reflected a lack of confidence. He expressed confidence that the AIADMK-led NDA would perform well in the polls.

Meanwhile, a day earlier, BJP national general council member K Annamalai also dismissed speculation about a TVK-AIADMK alliance, saying there had been no negotiations and that ideological differences made such a partnership unlikely.

Iran's new supreme leader vows to keep blocking Strait of Hormuz in first statement released by regime

The fact that Mojtaba Khamenei has not yet been seen on state media has led to widespread speculation on social media, particularly among the Iranian diaspora, about whether Iran's new supreme leader has been injured, or even whether he is still alive. What we know so far is limited. Iran's state TV news channel has referred to him as a "veteran of the Ramadan war", without providing any further confirmation as to whether he has been injured. Reuters has reported that he was "lightly injured", citing an unnamed Iranian official. In addition to his father, the late Supreme Leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei, Mojtaba Khamenei's mother and wife were also killed in the US-Israeli strikes. We have yet to see him in public, or in videos or photographs on state media, even though it has now been almost four days since he became Iran's third supreme leader on 8 March. Iran's supreme leader is elected indirectly by the Assembly of Experts, a constitutional body consisting of 88 members responsible for both the election and supervision of the supreme leader. One thing that caught my attention in Mojtaba Khamenei's first message was his claim that he learned he had become the supreme leader of Iran via the country's state TV channel. "I learned about the result of the vote of the esteemed Assembly of Experts at the same time as you and through the Islamic Republic's television," Khamenei said in his message, which was read aloud a presenter. Iran is hitting out in many directions to try to damage sectors crucial to the West, targeting oil, shipping and banking. Dubai is one of the places in the firing line. A drone came down near the international financial district earlier. It didn't injure anyone, but has provided a symbol for how business and banking here is being impacted by the war. Tehran says it will hit western banks in retaliation for US-Israeli attacks on Iranian banking. Citibank has said it is temporarily shutting most of its branches in the United Arab Emirates, with staff now working remotely. Other banks and businesses across the region have taken similar measures already.

There was no alert in Dubai when this morning's drone flew through - an indication of how some incoming Iranian fire can pass under the radar. Donald Trump has claimed repeatedly that he's on the verge of victory but Iran is inflicting pain - financial and otherwise - on the US and its Gulf allies, which find themselves engulfed in a war he started. Around the same time as the supreme leader's statement was broadcast by Iran, we also heard from Donald Trump, who writes on social media that the US stands to profit from soaring global energy prices.

He says on his Truth Social platform: "The United States is the largest Oil Producer in the World, by far, so when oil prices go up, we make a lot of money. BUT, of far greater interest and importance to me, as President, is stopping [sic] an evil Empire, Iran, from having Nuclear Weapons, and destroying the Middle East and, indeed, the World. I won't ever let that happen!" In the last few minutes, a statement purportedly from Iran's new Supreme Leader Mojtaba Khamenei, who has not been seen in public since succeeding his father, has been read out on state-controlled television. It includes a vow to continue blocking the Strait of Hormuz and says the regime will "avenge the blood" of those killed in US and Israeli attacks.

Three more civilian cargo ships were attacked in the Gulf earlier, while oil prices hit almost $100 a barrel. One person was killed on a US-owned tanker off the coast of Iraq, which was reported to have been hit by an unmanned speed boat carrying explosives. Photos show the extent of the damage. Another tanker was attacked while heading to an Iraqi port. Both ships reported fires on board. A Chinese vessel was struck by an unidentified projectile near the Strait of Hormuz.

NINETEEN JAILED OVER DEADLY MOSCOW CONCERT ATTACK

Nineteen people have been jailed over an attack at a concert hall near Moscow that killed 149 people and left more than 500 injured - the deadliest mass shooting in Russia in two decades. A Russian military court handed life sentences to four gunmen and 11 accomplices. Four other defendants were given between 19 and 22 years, state media reported. The attack at Crocus City Concert Hall on the outskirts of Russia's capital on 22 March 2024 began with gunmen shooting before setting fire to the venue. An Islamic State (IS) group affiliate admitted it had carried out the attack and posted video evidence. Moscow has repeatedly accused Ukraine of involvement - an allegation strenuously denied by Kyiv. Some 6,000 people had been at the auditorium in Krasnogorsk for a rock concert on the evening of the attack when gunmen burst into the complex and started shooting randomly. The attackers then set fires which engulfed the venue and caused the roof to collapse. Many of the victims died from bullet wounds and some from smoke inhalation. The four men convicted of carrying out the shooting have all been identified as citizens of Tajikistan.

Hozier, Jessie Buckley and Bruce Springsteen record Shane MacGowan tribute album

Three years after his death, some of music's biggest names have combined to record a tribute album to Pogues frontman Shane MacGowan. The album, titled 20th Century Paddy - The Songs of Shane MacGowan, was announced on Thursday, alongside the first single, Bruce Springsteen's cover of A Rainy Night In Soho. In an accompanying essay, Springsteen described the Irish musician's songwriting as "raw, hilarious, no apologies and profound". The album, which will be released in November, also includes a duet between Hozier and Oscar nominee Jessie Buckley, as well as songs by Tom Waits, Primal Scream, Steve Earle and David Gray. Actor Johnny Depp has a duet with singer Imelda Staunton, while the album will also feature The Jesus and Mary Chain, The Libertines and Kate Moss. MacGowan died in November 2023 at the age of 65, following a period of ill health. He left a peerless catalogue of songs articulating the life of working class Irish immigrants, with tales of finding love in the slums littered with references to literature, mythology and the Bible. In his essay, Springsteen recalled spending an afternoon with MacGowan shortly before his death. "He was not well but he and his wife, Victoria, proved warm and gracious hosts. As I left, I thanked him for his beautiful work, his music, his songs, his life. I stood in his warmth, kissed him and told him I loved him." Springsteen called the musician a writer in the lineage of "geniuses" and "natural rebels" like Woody Guthrie, Hank Williams, Miles Davis, Aretha Franklin and Bob Dylan. "Shane was all naked bottomless humanity. Threatening to force us to ask ourselves if we were living deeply, authentically," he continued. "[His] voice was so deeply real, profane and honest, his writing so flashing, alive and historically rich its genesis appeared as a mystery to all including, I believe, its creator," Springsteen added. "His soul was filled with the transgressive and ecstatic properties of the saints. 'I don't know who'll be listening to my music in 100 years but I know they'll be listening to Shane's.'"

NOMA HEAD CHEF RESIGNS FROM RESTAURANT AMID ABUSE ALLEGATIONS

The head chef of Noma, one of the highest-rated restaurants in the world, has resigned amid allegations of abuse. René Redzepi announced his exit on social media, saying: "After more than two decades of building and leading this restaurant, I've decided to step away and allow our extraordinary leaders to now guide the restaurant into its next chapter." Former employees had accused the chef of creating a toxic work environment, including verbal and physical abuse, according to media reports. The fine-dining establishment, which is based in Denmark, has been preparing for a Los Angeles residency, but corporate sponsors pulled out after the abuse claims and protests outside his pop-up location. In a statement posted on Instagram, Redzepi said: "An apology is not enough; I take responsibility for my own actions. For anyone wondering what this means for the restaurant, let me say it clearly: the Noma team today is the strongest and most inspiring it has ever been," he added. "We've been open for 23 years, and I'm incredibly proud of our people, our creativity, and the direction Noma is heading."

'FINGERS ON THE TRIGGER': DEADLY WARNINGS FOR IRANIANS BEING URGED TO TAKE ACTION

When US President Donald Trump began strikes on Iran, killing Supreme Leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei in the process, he told Iranians to "take over your government". "It will be yours to take," Trump said. "This will be probably your only chance for generations." But as the war between the US and Israel and Iran has deepened over the past two weeks, Iranians have received sharply different messages about what may happen if they do take action. Encouragement from figures outside Iran has come as reports have emerged of an increased security and police presence in cities across the country, with officials of the Islamic Republic warning against any possible gatherings or protests. "We will come after you" Earlier this week, Iran's Police Chief, Brigadier General Ahmadreza Radan, warned that his forces would treat anyone who takes to the streets "at the enemy's request" as an "enemy". "All our forces have their fingers on the trigger and are ready to defend the revolution and support their people and their country," Radan added. Separately, a presenter on Iran's state television

Channel Three addressed opponents of the Islamic Republic and those who might protest against the government. "When the dust of this sedition settles, we will come after you," the presenter said. "Confiscating your property will be the least of it. We will make you and your families pay, whether you are inside the country or abroad." And on 8 March, Iran's Prosecutor General Office issued a statement warning Iranians living abroad that if they cooperate with what it described as "hostile enemies", they could face severe punishment. Citing Iran's law on the "intensification of punishment for espionage and cooperation with Israel and hostile countries", the statement stressed that any "operational activity, intelligence cooperation or espionage" for such countries could result not only in the confiscation of property but also the death penalty. These threats are a stark reminder of the threats faced by Iranians if they do protest against the government. During weeks of anti-government protests in December and January, at least 7,000 protesters were killed in an unprecedented crackdown by security forces, human rights groups say.

China approves 'ethnic unity' law requiring minorities to learn Mandarin

China has approved a sweeping new law which claims to help promote "ethnic unity" - but critics say it will further erode the rights of minority groups. On paper, it aims to promote integration among the 56 officially recognised ethnic groups, dominated by the Han Chinese, through education and housing. But critics say it cuts people off from their language and culture. It mandates that all children should be taught Mandarin before kindergarten and up until the end of high school. Previously students could study most of the curriculum in their native language such as Tibetan, Uyghur or Mongolian. The law was approved on Thursday as the annual rubber-stamp parliamentary session drew to an end. "The law is consistent with a dramatic recent policy shift, to suppress the ethnic diversity formally recognised since 1949," Magnus Fiskesjö, an associate professor of anthropology at Cornell University said in a university report. "The children of the next generation are now isolated and brutally forced to forget their own language and culture." However, Beijing argues that teaching the next generation Mandarin will help their job prospects.

It also says the law for "Promoting Ethnic Unity and Progress" is crucial for promoting "modernisation through greater unity". The law was voted and passed on Thursday at the National People's Congress in Beijing, which has never rejected an item on its agenda. The law also provides a legal basis to prosecute parents or guardians who may instill what it described as "detrimental" views in children which would affect ethnic harmony and it calls for "mutually embedded community environments" which some analysts believe could result in the break up of minority-heavy neighbourhoods.

EPSTEIN USED MODELLING AGENT TO RECRUIT GIRLS, BRAZILIAN WOMEN TELL

In 2004, as a 16-year-old living in the Brazilian countryside, she was taking her first steps in the modelling world. She says French modelling agent Jean-Luc Brunel visited her family home, to persuade her mother to let her go to a modelling contest in Ecuador. He later killed himself in prison, accused of rape, sexual assault and recruiting girls for the late US financier and sex offender Jeffrey Epstein. Back then, they didn't know who Brunel was; they had been introduced by a famous Brazilian scout. A BBC News Brasil investigation has found evidence that Brunel used modelling agencies linked to him at the time to actively seek out young women and girls from South America for Epstein, and to arrange visas for them to travel to the US. Another Brazilian woman, who says she had a relationship with Epstein, showed the BBC her US visa. It named one of Brunel's agencies as her sponsor, even though she says she never did any modelling work for him and the travel documents were arranged solely so that she could visit Epstein. Gláucia's mother was suspicious of Brunel, but he seemed "very charming" and eventually she agreed her daughter could go to Ecuador without her. The teenager travelled with Brunel's team to Guayaquil for the Models New Generation competition. At the time, local newspapers reported that the participants were between 15 and 19 years old. Gláucia says the competition passed without any major problems, although she grew suspicious when she was not allowed to contact her family. Another contestant, from Western Europe, who was 16 at the time, remembers how Brunel's behaviour struck her as odd. She asked not to be named, so we are referring to her as Laura. "It was weird how he behaved and was always hanging out with the young Brazilian girls... He was behaving like a clown and only hanging out with quite young girls," she says. Laura believes that while the competition was "legit" and well organised, "he knew exactly which girls were vulnerable". "He seemed to control their finances," she says. "The girls from Brazil and East European countries seemed to be the prime target."

Nasa spacecraft weighing 1,300lb re-enters Earth's atmosphere

The Van Allen Probe spacecraft weighing more than 1,300lb (600kg) has re-entered Earth's atmosphere, almost 14 years after its launch.

The US Space Force confirmed the probe's re-entry on Wednesday over the Eastern Pacific region around 06:37 EDT (10:37 GMT), roughly 12 hours later than originally predicted but within the expected margin of error. Most of the probe, which launched in 2012, was expected to burn up as it travelled through the atmosphere, though some components may have survived.

The space agency said there was a one in 4,200 chance of being harmed by a piece of the probe, which it characterised as "low" risk.

IPL 2026 Schedule Announced By BCCI: RCB vs SRH On Day 1, MI vs KKR On Day 2

The Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) on Wednesday announced the schedule for the first phase of the TATA Indian Premier League (IPL) 2026, to be played from March 28 to April 12, 2026. As three states are scheduled to undergo State Assembly elections during this period, the full schedule of the tournament will be announced once the poll dates are announced.

The 19th edition of the T20 league will commence when defending champions Royal Challengers Bengaluru (RCB) host Sunrisers Hyderabad (SRH) at the M. Chinnaswamy Stadium in Bengaluru. A total of 20 matches will be played across 10 venues: Bengaluru, Mumbai, Guwahati, New Chandigarh, Lucknow, Kolkata, Chennai, Delhi, Ahmedabad and Hyderabad. During this period, the tournament will feature four double-headers, with the afternoon matches beginning at 03:30 PM IST and the evening matches commencing at 07:30 PM IST. Following the opening encounter on Saturday, Mumbai Indians will take on Kolkata Knight Riders at the Wankhede Stadium in Mumbai on Sunday. The first double-header of the season will take place on April 4, 2026, when Delhi Capitals face Mumbai Indians in the afternoon match at the Arun Jaitley Stadium in Delhi, followed by Gujarat Titans taking on

Rajasthan Royals at the Narendra Modi Stadium in Ahmedabad. Rajasthan Royals will begin their home campaign in Guwahati, where they will host Chennai Super Kings and Mumbai Indians. Punjab Kings (PBKS), meanwhile, will play their early home fixtures at the PCA Stadium in New Chandigarh.

During the season, Royal Challengers Bengaluru will play five home matches in Bengaluru and two in Raipur. Punjab Kings will play four home matches in New Chandigarh and three in Dharamshala, while Rajasthan Royals will play three home matches in Guwahati and four in Jaipur.

Note: The matches scheduled in Bengaluru are subject to clearance from the Expert Committee constituted by the Government of Karnataka. The committee will conduct a meeting and inspection of the M. Chinnaswamy Stadium on March 13, 2026, during which a full-scale mock demonstration of match-day arrangements will be carried out to assess the stadium's preparedness for hosting IPL matches.

Gulf Conflict, Ramzan Take Huge Toll On World Para Athletics Grand Prix

The escalating conflict in West Asia has dealt a major blow to the ongoing World Para Athletics Grand Prix, with participation shrinking drastically as only six foreign nations ultimately made it to Indian shores, despite nearly 30 countries having earlier confirmed their presence. Coaches associated with the Indian team said the war, coupled with the holy month of Ramzan, played a significant role in drastically reducing participation numbers, adding that while 18 foreign nations had travelled for India's inaugural edition of the World Para Athletics Grand Prix at the same venue last year, the organisers could not replicate those numbers this time. A total of 257 athletes are competing in the Grand Prix, the second leg of the season, with India fielding a massive 219 participants across multiple track-and-field events and sport classifications. Russia has the second-largest contingent with 40 para athletes, while the remaining countries account for only a minuscule presence in comparison.

"The event has been hit hard by the ongoing conflict in the Gulf as well as Ramzan. Around seven to eight Muslim countries could not make the trip because of that (Ramzan). Several International Paralympic Committee officials were also unable to travel and had to be replaced at the last minute as they were not getting flights into India," said a coach of a renowned para athlete on condition of anonymity. "Most of the connecting flights come via Dubai and the Gulf and with the disruptions they (athletes) had to cancel their trips," said the coach. The inaugural World Para Athletics Grand Prix in Dubai last month featured athletes from 53 nations, lending the competition a truly international flavour, but the event in India has been largely dominated by the hosts, with several clean sweeps owing to the limited participation from foreign countries.

Pakistan Get Startling 'Shoot The Man' Message After Devastating Bangladesh Loss In 1st ODI

Pakistan are in a rebuilding phase after their T20 World Cup 2026 Super 8 exit. They chose six new faces for the ODI series against Bangladesh, but the start to that rebuilding phase was disastrous. Fast bowler Nahid Rana grabbed a maiden five-wicket haul as Bangladesh handed Pakistan a new low in white-ball cricket with a dominant eight-wicket win. Rana picked up 5-24, and captain Mehidy Hasan Miraz took 3-29 with his off-spin, as Pakistan were blown away for 114 all out in 30.4 overs. It was Pakistan's lowest-ever ODI score against Bangladesh, eclipsing the previous mark of 161 during a 62-run loss at the 1999 World Cup. Bangladesh galloped to 115-2 in only 15.1 overs, powered by a blazing unbeaten 67 off 42 balls. Former Pakistan player Basit Ali was furious after the result. "First, shoot the man who told them to score a minimum of 60 runs in the ten powerplay overs," he said on The Gameplan, as quoted by The Indian Express. From 41/0 in 9.5 overs, Pakistan collapsed to 92/9 in 23.5 overs. "He never played cricket on a ground. He just hands over a piece of paper. Did he not see what the conditions are like here? Did he not know that even India have lost in Bangladesh?" Former Pakistan wicket-keeper Kamran Akmal also came down hard on the side.

"It felt like one team was international and the other was a club side playing a practice match before a World Cup," he said. "I called Basit and couldn't find words to describe what kind of cricket we were playing. I swear to God, batting like this doesn't even happen in club cricket. Club cricketers don't play this badly." The second and third games of the ODI series will also be played in Dhaka on Friday and Sunday.

India's Yuki Bhambri Reaches Indian Well Quarters With Andre Goransson In Men's Doubles Category

India's top doubles player Yuki Bhambri and his partner Andre Goransson advanced to the quarterfinals of the men's doubles event at the Indian Wells Masters after registering a straight-set win over the pair of Sander Arends and Jiri Lehecka. Bhambri and Goransson produced a solid performance to defeat Arends and Lehecka 6-4 6-4 in the pre-quarterfinal clash that lasted one hour and 14 minutes. They did not face any break point in the match and broke their rivals twice. The Indo-Swedish pair maintained control through most of the match, securing a crucial break in each set to seal the contest in straight sets. Listen to the latest songs, only on JioSaavn.com Bhambri and Goransson will take on Alexander Erler of Austria and Andrea Vavassori from Italy in the last-eight stage of the prestigious ATP Masters 1000 tournament. India's Yuki Bhambri and his Swedish partner Andre Goransson have sailed into the semifinals of the Indian Wells Open on Thursday morning, dismantling the Austrian-

Italian pairing of Alexander Erler and Andrea Vavassori. Bhambri and Goransson registered a 6-3, 7-6(2) win over Erler and Vavassori. This is Bhambri's maiden semifinal at the ATP Masters 1000 level, having made the doubles quarter-final at the Masters 1000 level twice. His previous two quarterfinal appearances were at Indian Wells (with Goransson) and Miami Masters 2025 (with Nuno Borges). Notably, the unseeded duo has yet to drop a single set in the tournament. In the Round of 16, Bhambri and Goransson defeated the pair of Sander Arends and Jiri Lehecka 6-4, 6-4 after launching their campaign with a resounding victory, defeating the duo of David Pel and Fabrice Martin in straight sets 6-1, 6-3. They will face await the winners of Khachanov/Rublev and Rinderknech/Vacherot, with a place in the final at stake. Last month, Bhambri climbed to a career-high ranking of world No. 20 in the latest ATP Rankings, making him the first Indian men's doubles player to break into the Top 20 after Rohan Bopanna.

THE REALITY IS MOST MMA DREAMS FAIL - HARDWICK

When Harry Hardwick was working at his dad's cafe in Middlesbrough to fund his dream of becoming a UFC fighter, the bright lights of Las Vegas felt a world away. "It's not a sensible idea, pursuing MMA," he says. But in September 2025, on just five days' notice Hardwick stepped in to face Brazil's Kaua Fernandes for his UFC debut - over 10 years after his first professional MMA fight. Unfortunately for Hardwick, the fight didn't go to plan - he suffered a painful first-round loss and left the octagon in a wheelchair. Now the 31-year-old has a second chance to prove himself as he faces the undefeated Marwan Rahiki on Saturday at the Meta Apex in Las Vegas.

After a full camp and back at his preferred weight class of featherweight, Hardwick is expecting a better performance this time round. A second defeat could see him cut from the UFC - but after a career filled with highs and lows, he still feels thankful to be "one of the few MMA fighters that has escaped the rat race". "I pinch myself because I'm very fortunate to be where I am," Hardwick tells BBC Sport. "I've still got a lot I want to do, and I'm still very much looking forward, but this is mad. The harshest reality is that most dreams fail." Hardwick is a former Cage Warriors featherweight champion and entered his UFC debut undefeated in his last nine fights, with eight wins and one draw. He's spent most of his career fighting alongside part-time jobs, including night shifts as a support worker and in his dad's local cafe. In the early days, Hardwick would often turn up to training without any sleep, and admits that at times the experience could be "miserable".

DE BOINVILLE DENIES 'RACIAL SLURS' TOWARDS QUEALLY

Nico de Boinville has "categorically" denied using any "racial slurs" towards Irish jockey Declan Queally during the opening race on day two of the Cheltenham Festival. The English jockey was accused of "abusing" the amateur jockey before the start of the Novices' Hurdle on Wednesday, as it was held up due to a false start. Queally later told The Racing Post, external he had received "repeated racist abuse" from his rival. The Irishman, riding I'll Sort That, and De Boinville on Act Of Innocence could be seen exchanging words at the start line, but the Englishman denies any wrongdoing. De Boinville told BBC Radio Sports Extra: "It is an ongoing investigation. "The stewards are gathering all the evidence they can from all the video footage. "From my point of view, I deny all the allegations against me. "I can categorically say there weren't any racial slurs or anything like that. Let's let it play out." Queally, 37, appeared to topple off his horse before the race started and had to be checked over by a doctor. He was given the all clear to race, along with Ballyfad, who was kicked pre-race and assessed by a vet in a chaotic few minutes. A number of false starts to the planned rolling start meant the horses were moved to a standing start at the tape-leaving jockeys jostling for position. Queally, who finished fifth in the race, told ITV Racing before entering the weight room post-race: "Being abused by an English rider, Nico de Boinville, not very nice."

NO RADUCANU OR BOULTER IN GB'S BJK CUP SQUAD

Emma Raducanu and Katie Boulter will be absent when Great Britain face Australia in their Billie Jean King Cup qualifier next month. Raducanu, the British number one and world number 24, has committed to playing the WTA 500 clay-court tournament in Linz, Austria, which runs across the same week. Boulter, ranked 64th in the world, also misses the tie. GB captain Anne Keothavong has instead selected Sonay Kartal, Harriet Dart, Jodie Burrage and 17-year-old Mika Stojsavljevic for the contest that will be staged in Melbourne on 10-11 April. A fifth player can be added to the squad nearer the time. Keothavong, who it was thought would face a tough task persuading the top British players to travel to Australia for a hard-court tie at a time when the European clay court season is getting under way, described the best-of-five encounter as "tough". But she added: "We always embrace these weeks together as a team and will be up for the challenge. "We've got players with great experience in this competition in our team and it's an exciting opportunity for Mika to join the senior team for the first time." Kartal will be hoping to repeat the form that saw her reach the fourth round at Indian Wells this week before withdrawing with a lower back injury during her match against Elena Rybakina. Australia have also named their squad. Talia Gibson, who has beaten three top-20 players at Indian Wells en route to the quarter-finals, is included alongside Maya Joint, Storm Hunter, Kimberly Birrell and Ellen Perez. The eight-team Billie Jean King Cup finals will be held in Shenzhen in the week beginning 21 September. Great Britain reached the semi-finals last year.

Verstappen wishes F1 was 'more fun'

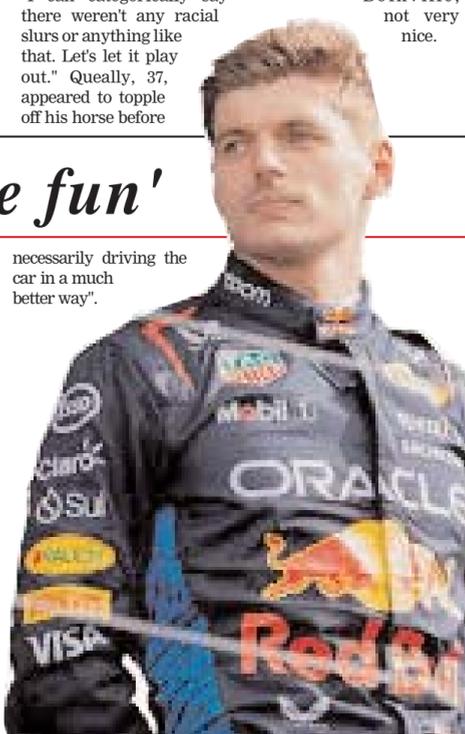

Max Verstappen says he wishes the new Formula 1 was "more fun" but is hopeful the sport is heading towards changes that will "improve everything". The four-time world champion is among many drivers who find the increased amount of energy management required for the engines this year is taking away enjoyment and some elements of their skill. "I am a bit conflicted, because I don't really enjoy to drive the car but I do enjoy working with the team," Red Bull's Verstappen said. "I don't want to leave [F1] but I also hope of course it gets better. I have had discussions with F1 and the [governing body] FIA and we are working towards something that will hopefully improve everything." There are concerns over the unusual techniques required of drivers to ensure that the new engines, which have a 50-50 split between internal combustion and electrical power, have sufficient battery charge for optimum performance. F1's bosses initially agreed to take stock of the rules after the first three races and analyse whether changes could be made. It now seems there is a chance modifications could be made after this weekend's race in China, the second of the season after Sunday's opener in Australia. The main issue is that the overriding requirement to ensure the battery is fully charged at the most performance-sensitive parts of the circuit is reducing the driving challenge, especially in the most demanding high-speed corners. Aston Martin's two-time champion Fernando Alonso said: "It is a different challenge. That's where you put the line, if these cars are more fun or less fun, and everyone will have their own opinion. "We used to 'fight for our life' in Turn 12 in Bahrain, Turn Nine and 10 in Melbourne, sector one and 130R in Suzuka, Turn Seven and Eight here in China. "There were always certain corners that in Formula 1 were challenging the limits of the physics, and the driver had to use all the skills and be brave in some of the moments as well. "When you put new tyres and you go through the corner at a speed that you've never been before in any of the free practices, that challenge is gone in a way. "You use those corners to charge the battery, not any more to make the lap time. "Still fun? Yes, we love racing. Because I grew up on the other, and I was challenging myself in the corners, I probably prefer the other one. But I was super-lucky to race in that era and I still feel lucky that I race now, so I like both." World champion Lando Norris said the "very, very different style of driving" now needed meant "you can still make a difference as a driver by driving the power unit in the correct way, but not by necessarily driving the car in a much better way".

BIGGEST MASSBUSTER “Collar Ey Etthara” from Ustaad Bhagat Singh Launched

The hype surrounding Ustaad Bhagat Singh is reaching new heights, with every song and teaser receiving a tremendous response from audiences.

Taking the excitement a notch higher, the team has now launched the third single “Collar Ey Etthara”, and the buzz has intensified even further. Mounted on a grand scale, the song looks spectacular with its massive sets, vibrant visuals, and electrifying energy on screen. Pawan Kalyan looks terrific in the number, lighting up the screen with his trademark style, energy, and dance moves.

The pulsating beats by Rockstar Devi Sri Prasad, energetic vocals by Ram Miryala, and powerful lyrics penned by Kasarla Shyam come together to create a song that perfectly captures the film’s mass appeal.

The team is all set to unveil the trailer on March 14, followed by a grand pre-release event on March 15.

Director Harish Shankar is leaving no stone unturned to make Ustaad Bhagat Singh a memorable cinematic experience for audiences.

Ustaad Bhagat Singh is prestigiously being produced by Naveen Yerneni and Y.Ravi Shankar under Mythri Movie Makers and is slated for a grand release on March 19th.

RASHMIKA MANDANNA’S OLD PRIVATE AUDIO LEAKED, ACTRESS WARNS LEGAL ACTION

Actor Rashmika Mandanna on Thursday said she will take legal action against those publishing an “old private conversation” that is being circulated now to create controversy just after her marriage. Mandanna was previously engaged to Kannada actor Rakshit Shetty but they called off the engagement in 2018, just a year later. The “Thamma” star tied the knot with fellow actor Vijay Deverakonda in a lavish ceremony in Jodhpur recently. “To my dearest people who have been with me through this incredible journey so far. And to others concerned with this matter. It has been 8 years since a sustained campaign of misinformation, harassment, and targeted attacks from a section of the media and individuals online had started against me,” Mandanna wrote on X. The actor said she chose patience and silence despite being at the end of “unfair criticism” but not anymore. “...What has happened in the last 24 hours crosses a line that can’t be ignored.

Carmeni Selvam Telugu Teaser: A Contemporary Drama Rooted in Money, Family, and Modern Aspirations

Pathway Productions has unveiled the teaser of Carmeni Selvam. The film brings together a strong ensemble cast – Samuthirakani, Gautham Vasudev Menon, Lakshmi Priyaa Chandramouli, and Abhinaya, and a theme that feels strikingly relevant to today’s times - setting the stage for what could become a talking point this Diwali. Today, makers unveiled the teaser. The teaser begins with a voiceover from Samuthirakani: “There are many means to make money.” From there, different voices chime in with contradictory advice on overspending, bold loans, cryptocurrency bets, and even dubious shortcuts offering a witty reflection of how money and success are viewed in modern society. Rather than presenting a heavy-handed take, the teaser hints at a film with a light tone, sprinkled with irony and humor, making its social observations both sharp and entertaining. It suggests that the story could revolve around the financial needs and decisions that shape people’s lives, a theme that resonates strongly in today’s credit-based economy and EMI driven lifestyle. Visually, the teaser showcases Samuthirakani as a family man with Lakshmi Priyaa Chandramouli as his wife and a young son. In contrast, glimpses of him abroad, seemingly alone, raise questions about his journey. Gautham Vasudev Menon’s presence in an undisclosed role further adds to the intrigue, leaving audiences speculating about his importance in the story. The teaser concludes with Samuthirakani’s memorable line: “If you want to be rich, learn to spend like a rich man. If you don’t have the money, borrow and spend.” a provocative note that lingers with the audience long after the teaser ends. With an ensemble of powerhouse performers, Samuthirakani, Gautham Vasudev Menon, Lakshmi Priyaa Chandramouli, and Abhinaya, the film promises to deliver compelling characters, brought alive through performances of intensity and depth. The crew comprises Ram Chakri, who brings a fresh vision as both writer and director, and Yuvaraj Dakshan, whose cinematography delivers visuals as compelling as the story itself, with the music crafted by Music Cloud Technologies. With its timely theme, relatable premise, and a light yet thought-provoking tone, Carmeni Selvam is shaping up to be a film that will spark conversations among audiences. The makers’ confidence in the film reflects in its theatrical release strategy, positioning it as an engaging entertainer that blends family dynamics with contemporary reflections on money and lifestyle. Releasing in theatres on April 03, 2026, Carmeni Selvam aims to connect with viewers through a story that balances entertainment with meaningful moments.

Action entertainer movie Bullet Reddy which is shooting regularly at a fast pace

Adi, Megha and Hanika are acting as heroines in the movie Bullet Reddy. This film is being produced by Aadi Darshan under the banner of Shree Lakshmi Films. Currently this movie is in regular shooting. Director-producer Hero Adi announced the details of this film in a press meet held at Hyderabad Film Chamber today. Fight Master Khayyum participated in this program. On this occasion *Director Producer Hero Aadi said.*This is an action oriented film. Bullet Reddy, the hero of the film, is a zamindar of a thousand acres. How some greedy people tried to get the treasure worth lakhs of crores of rupees due to him. How the hero copes with those attempts is always interesting. My proficiency in martial arts helped me to act in this movie. Qayyum Master supported me well. Our film is currently in regular shooting. We shot the song in the forests of Adilabad. Also we made fight sequences in Nizamabad. We will start shooting for the next schedule from 23rd of this month in the surrounding areas of Rajahmundry and Amalapuram. This schedule will continue till April 5. After that, we will shoot the songs in the schedule in Goa and the final schedule will be done again in Adilabad and Nizamabad. We will release our movie on October 16 on the occasion of Dussehra this year. East Godavari, West Godavari, Amalapuram Ambedkar district...we want to release the movie compactly in ten theaters in these three districts. Said. Fight Master Khayyum says - I am a martial arts trainer. Aadi used to be in our neighboring town. Adi is my disciple. But I became a fan of him after seeing the hardships he went through for this film. In this movie, you will see how much Adi worked hard on the screen. With good fights, entertainment and catchy songs, Bullet Reddy movie will be liked by all of you. Said.

PRANITHA SUBHASH BRINGS MIDNIGHT GLAM IN SAREE LOOK

Pranitha Subhash recently sparked a debate on social media after expressing her support for the recently released film The Kerala Story 2. Through a strongly worded post, she spoke about the need to stand up against the exploitation and manipulation of young girls, stressing that such issues should no longer be ignored. Her comments quickly drew widespread attention online, with some people backing her stand while others disagreed with it. The discussion soon spread across social media platforms. and for a brief period the actress became a trending topic. Amid the ongoing online chatter, Pranitha also shared a stunning new set of photographs that grabbed attention for her elegant fashion sense. In the pictures, she is seen wearing a striking black saree that perfectly blends sophistication with modern styling. The saree drapes beautifully, while the sleeveless blouse features intricate beaded and textured detailing across the neckline and bodice, adding a glamorous edge to the outfit. The subtle shimmer of the embellishments contrasts beautifully with the deep black fabric, giving the look a refined yet bold appeal. She kept the styling minimal with delicate earrings and a bracelet, while her straight hair and soft makeup enhanced her natural beauty.

Kate Winslet in talks to star in ‘Lord of the Rings: The Hunt for Gollum’

Hollywood star Kate Winslet is moving from one fantasy land to another. The actor, who just recently reunited with her “Titanic” director James Cameron for “Avatar: Fire and Ash,” is in talks to star in “Lord of the Rings: The Hunt for Gollum”.

Winslet will join Andy Serkis in the movie, who is directing and reprising his popular role from the original Peter Jackson trilogy, reported Variety. Warner Bros. hasn’t confirmed who will appear in the upcoming film, but Elijah Wood and Ian McKellen are reportedly reprising their roles as Frodo Baggins and Gandalf, respectively. Jackson, who originally adapted the J. R. R. Tolkien’s novel for the big screen, is producing the film with his creative partners Fran Walsh and Philippa Boyens. “The Hunt for Gollum” also reunites Winslet with Jackson after they last worked together in 1994’s “Heavenly Creatures.” The film is slated to release in theaters on Dec. 17, 2027. The story details are not out yet but it is most likely set between the events of “The Hobbit” and “The Fellowship of the Ring.” Both “Lord of the Rings” and its prequel series “The Hobbit” were major box office hits. During a 2024 earnings call, David Zaslav, CEO of Warner Bros. Discovery, said the trio would be involved “every step of the way”. For Winslet, the project would also mark a reunion with Jackson, who directed her in the 1994 cult drama Heavenly Creatures — one of her earliest breakthrough roles. The upcoming film is currently slated to hit cinemas on December 17, 2027. While plot details remain under wraps, the story is believed to take place between the events of The Hobbit and The Lord of the Rings: The Fellowship of the Ring. The project arrives at a moment of corporate flux for the studio. Warner Bros. Discovery is in the process of being sold to Skydance Media in a deal backed by Paramount Global, a merger that could potentially reshape the company’s development slate. However, the Lord of the Rings franchise remains one of the studio’s most valuable properties. Both the Lord of the Rings trilogy and its prequel series, The Hobbit, were major global box office successes, with each trilogy earning roughly $2.8 billion worldwide.
