

18-03-2026
Total pilgrims: 72,352
Tonsure: 21,852
Hundi kanakalu: 3,53CR
Waiting Compartments: 17

Approx. Darsan Time for Sarvadarshanam (with out SSD Tokens): 12 H

TO BOOK YOUR ADS CALL

99484 80279, 73307 78889

GOLD FALLS RS 7,000, SILVER DROPS OVER RS 20,000 AMID RISING WEST ASIA TENSIONS

Price of 24-carat gold (999 purity) dropped to Rs 1,47,889 per 10 grams, down from Rs 1,54,879 in the previous session – marking a sharp fall of Rs 6,990 in just one day.

Silver prices rate of 999 purity silver declined to Rs 2,29,873 per kilogram from Rs 2,49,907 per kilogram a day earlier, registering a steep fall of Rs 20,034 per kg.

ARE US AND ISRAEL IN LOCKSTEP IN IRAN WAR? DECIPHERING TRUMP'S POST AFTER GAS FIELD ATTACKS

WORLD | NEWS

LIONEL MESSI SCRIPTS HISTORY

SPORTS | NEWS

ECI ENABLES POSTAL VOTING FOR SENIORS, PWDS, AND SERVICE VOTERS

New Delhi, Mar 19: The Election Commission of India has issued directives enabling senior citizens, persons with disabilities (PwDs), service voters, and voters on election duty to cast their votes via postal ballots in the forthcoming Assembly elections across four states and one Union Territory. Under Section 60(c) of the Representation of the People Act, 1951, electors above 85 years of age and PwDs flagged in the electoral rolls may exercise this facility. Postal ballots must reach the concerned Returning Officers by 8 a.m. on the counting day, May 4, 2026. Eligible voters can apply using Form-12 D, submitted to their RO through booth-level officers within five days of election notification. Polling teams will collect postal ballots directly from voters' homes according to schedules prepared by the respective ROs and shared with contesting candidates. Voters serving in essential services—including fire, health, electricity, traffic, ambulance, aviation, and government road transport corporations—can apply for postal ballots through their designated nodal officers. Media personnel authorised for poll day coverage are also entitled to postal voting as absentee voters.

Representation of the People Act, 1951, electors above 85 years of age and PwDs flagged in the electoral rolls may exercise this facility. Postal ballots must reach the concerned Returning Officers by 8 a.m. on the counting day, May 4, 2026. Eligible voters can apply using Form-12 D, submitted to their RO through booth-level officers within five days of election notification. Polling teams will collect postal ballots directly from voters' homes according to schedules prepared by the respective ROs and shared with contesting candidates. Voters serving in essential services—including fire, health, electricity, traffic, ambulance, aviation, and government road transport corporations—can apply for postal ballots through their designated nodal officers. Media personnel authorised for poll day coverage are also entitled to postal voting as absentee voters.

Representation of the People Act, 1951, electors above 85 years of age and PwDs flagged in the electoral rolls may exercise this facility. Postal ballots must reach the concerned Returning Officers by 8 a.m. on the counting day, May 4, 2026. Eligible voters can apply using Form-12 D, submitted to their RO through booth-level officers within five days of election notification. Polling teams will collect postal ballots directly from voters' homes according to schedules prepared by the respective ROs and shared with contesting candidates. Voters serving in essential services—including fire, health, electricity, traffic, ambulance, aviation, and government road transport corporations—can apply for postal ballots through their designated nodal officers. Media personnel authorised for poll day coverage are also entitled to postal voting as absentee voters.

BRUTAL KILLING SPARKS TENSION IN POLL-BOUND BENGAL

Kolkata, Mar 19: With the announcement of Assembly election dates in West Bengal, political activity has intensified across the state. The situation has become particularly volatile in Minakhan, located in North 24 Parganas district, where protests erupted following the release of candidate lists by the Trinamool Congress. Amid this heightened political climate, police on Thursday reported the recovery of a body believed to be that of a local Trinamool Congress worker. The discovery has further escalated tensions in the region. The deceased, identified as 38-year-old Moshir Kazi from Gangnia village under the Haroa Assembly constituency, was found in a severely mutilated condition. Residents alleged that he was an active party worker and suspect that he was murdered and his body dumped at the site.

Kolkata, Mar 19: With the announcement of Assembly election dates in West Bengal, political activity has intensified across the state. The situation has become particularly volatile in Minakhan, located in North 24 Parganas district, where protests erupted following the release of candidate lists by the Trinamool Congress. Amid this heightened political climate, police on Thursday reported the recovery of a body believed to be that of a local Trinamool Congress worker. The discovery has further escalated tensions in the region. The deceased, identified as 38-year-old Moshir Kazi from Gangnia village under the Haroa Assembly constituency, was found in a severely mutilated condition. Residents alleged that he was an active party worker and suspect that he was murdered and his body dumped at the site.

TWO COUSINS ELECTROCUTED IN JAISALMER

Jaipur, Mar 19: A tragic accident in Jaisalmer claimed the lives of two young cousins after they came into contact with a live high-tension wire that had fallen onto a road during heavy rainfall and strong winds, officials reported. The incident occurred in the Sagar police station area on Wednesday night when an 11 kV power line snapped due to adverse weather conditions. Around 9 p.m., Vikram Singh (25) and Raju Singh (20) were riding a motorcycle to their fields. Poor visibility in the dark prevented them from noticing the live wire, resulting in fatal electrocution. Both died instantly.

CM Revanth Announces Single Window Policy for Film Production Presents Gaddar Film Awards

Hyderabad TSIT BUREAU: Chief Minister A. Revanth Reddy announced that the Telangana government will soon introduce a single-window online policy to grant all necessary permissions for film production, making Hyderabad a more attractive destination for filmmakers.

Speaking at the Gaddar Film Awards presentation ceremony held in Hyderabad, the Chief Minister said the government is committed to transforming the city into a global hub for film production. He emphasized that Hyderabad is one of the safest cities in the world and assured investors of full support, especially in the backdrop of the current Middle East crisis. Highlighting the growing global interest, the CM noted that Netflix has already established its GCC centre in Hyderabad, signaling the arrival of international film production activity. He stated that countries like Japan, South Korea, and the United States would be invited to collaborate and invest, further expanding the film ecosystem in the state. Revanth Reddy underlined that the government is encouraging the film industry on par with IT and Pharma sectors, aiming to make it a major contributor to the economy and employment generation. The Chief Minister also presented the Gaddar Film Awards, instituted to promote and recognize emerging talent in the industry. Paying tribute to revolutionary balladeer Gaddar, he said the awards would inspire young artists and create opportunities for them to showcase their skills. Recalling the contributions of stalwarts like N.T. Rama Rao (NTR), Akkineni Nageswara Rao (ANR), D. Ramanaidu, Krishna, and others, the CM said their efforts helped shift the Telugu film industry to Hyderabad. He also acknowledged Ramoji Rao for establishing Ramoji Film City and lauded leaders like Prabhakar Reddy and Dasari Narayana Rao for supporting film workers. Reaffirming the government's commitment, the Chief Minister said it is his responsibility to nurture talent, support the industry, and position Hyderabad as a premier destination for global cinema.

PM Modi, French President Macron discuss West Asia situation, need for de-escalation

New Delhi (TSIT): Prime Minister Narendra Modi spoke to French President Emmanuel Macron on Thursday regarding the situation in West Asia and the urgent need for de-escalation and return to dialogue and diplomacy. In a post on X, PM Modi stated, "Spoke with my dear friend, President Emmanuel Macron, on the situation in West Asia and the urgent need for de-escalation, as well as a return to dialogue and diplomacy. We look forward to continuing our close coordination to advance peace and stability in the region and beyond."

The telephonic conversation between both leaders comes amid the ongoing conflict in West Asia, which erupted after the US-Israeli strikes on Iran on February 28, which killed Iran's Supreme Leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei and top military officials. In response, Iran launched drone and missile attacks targeting the US and Israeli facilities, regional capitals and allied forces in West Asia. Over the past few days, PM Modi has also spoken with the leaders of Kuwait, UAE, Israel, Iran, Saudi Arabia, Jordan, Bahrain, Oman and Qatar as India remains in touch with the governments of the region as well as other key partners over the ongoing conflict in Iran and the Gulf region. On Wednesday, PM Modi held a telephonic conversation with Kuwait Crown Prince Sheikh Sabah Al-Khaled Al-Hamad Al-Mubarak Al-Sabah, Crown Prince of Kuwait and conveyed greetings on the upcoming festival of Eid. We exchanged views on the evolving situation in West Asia and shared concerns over recent developments. Reiterated India's condemnation of attacks on Kuwait's sovereignty and territorial integrity. Ensuring safe and free navigation through the Strait of Hormuz remains our foremost priority," PM Modi posted on X.

continued support and ensuring the safety and well-being of the Indian community in Kuwait. "Spoke with HH Sheikh Sabah Al-Khaled Al-Hamad Al-Mubarak Al-Sabah, Crown Prince of Kuwait and conveyed greetings on the upcoming festival of Eid. We exchanged views on the evolving situation in West Asia and shared concerns over recent developments. Reiterated India's condemnation of attacks on Kuwait's sovereignty and territorial integrity. Ensuring safe and free navigation through the Strait of Hormuz remains our foremost priority," PM Modi posted on X.

Iran strikes gulf energy sites, oil surges past $119 as markets roil

New Delhi (TSIT) As Teheran hit oil infrastructure in Gulf nations on Thursday in retaliation to earlier Israeli strikes on Iran's South Pars gas field, energy markets went into an overdrive with the benchmark Brent crude prices jumped to over USD 119 a barrel before settling down to around USD 114 a barrel. The Indian basket or the average price at which India imports crude also shot up to USD 114.08 a barrel as against USD 69 a barrel last month, as desperate Indian buyers contracted purchase of crude from Russia's shadow fleet which lies in the Baltic and in the Indian Ocean which after selling at a discount for most months last year is now trading at a premium. "Our fears of oil prices shooting up to USD 130 are now almost a reality. Gas prices have also shot up considerably from about USD 11-12 earlier to USD 19 per metric million Btu," said Sandeep Johri, a commodities trader. With oil on the boil, India's Rupee traded at a new low of Rs 93.25 at close of Thursday's trading against the dollar as Indian importers faced with higher prices bought more dollars and as nervous foreign investors old off stock bringing the Sensex down by 2,496.89 points. Oil prices started shooting skywards after news spread early Thursday that Iran targeted energy infrastructure across the Gulf, including Qatar's Ras Laffan LNG facility and the Habshan gas facility and Bab field in the United Arab Emirates. These attacks were apparently in retaliation to Wednesday night's Israeli strikes on Iran's South Pars gas field. Qatar's state-owned energy company, QatarEnergy, confirmed that several of its liquefied natural gas (LNG) facilities were hit by missile attacks in the early hours of Thursday.

India buying LPG from US too in bid to plug gap in Middle East imports

New Delhi, March 19 (TSIT): Amid concerns over LPG shortage, the government on Thursday said that India is diversifying LPG procurement and buying liquefied petroleum gas from the US as well to plug the supply chain disruptions caused by the Middle East conflict. Addressing the daily briefing, Petroleum and Natural Gas Ministry's Joint Secretary, Marketing and Oil refinery, Sujata Sharma, said: "Due to the ongoing war, the situation remains a matter of concern. However, there is no dry-out reported at any LPG distributorship. Online bookings have further increased to 94 per cent..." Alongside this, about 83 per cent of refill deliveries are being carried out through delivery authentication codes. "There has been a decline in panic booking, and yesterday, approximately 57 lakh refill bookings were received. LPG cylinder delivery is proceeding normally," Sharma said. She further added that the crude oil situation and refinery operations remain normal in the

CM Revanth Reaffirms Commitment to Farmers' Welfare at Ugadi Celebrations

Hyderabad TSIT BUREAU: Chief Minister A.Revath Reddy on Thursday reiterated that the Telangana Government is committed to transforming the farming community into the "King" of all professions by making agriculture a profitable and sustainable occupation. Participating in the "Sri Parabhava Nama" Ugadi celebrations in Hyderabad, the Chief Minister announced that the new Telugu year has been dedicated to farmers' welfare. He emphasized that the government is taking proactive steps to strengthen agriculture and ensure prosperity for farmers across the state.

Highlighting key initiatives, the Chief Minister said that the Rythu Bharosa financial assistance will be released on March 22, with funds directly deposited into farmers' bank accounts. He noted that the government has already spent Rs.18,000 crore under the scheme to support the agricultural community. Revanth Reddy also pointed out that 'Telangana farmers currently have the lowest debt burden in the country, attributing this to the government's decision to waive farm loans up to Rs.2 lakh, providing significant relief to debt-ridden farmers. He added that nearly 70 percent of families in Telangana depend on agriculture, underscoring the sector's importance. Addressing longstanding land issues, the Chief Minister said the government has introduced Bhu Bharati to resolve land ownership problems, replacing the earlier Dharani portal, which had caused hardships for farmers. Chief Minister further assured that the government remains highly vigilant against natural calamities and is taking necessary measures to safeguard farmers and their livelihoods. On the occasion of Ugadi, Revanth Reddy prayed for peace, prosperity, and protection from natural disasters for the people of Telangana, reiterating the government's vision to position the state as

Mamata accuses EC of 'targeting' Bengal, calls actions 'undeclared emergency'

New Delhi/Kolkata, Mar 19 (TSIT) West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Thursday launched a sharp attack on the Election Commission of India, alleging unprecedented interference and bias against the state ahead of upcoming elections. In a message posted on her WhatsApp channel, Banerjee claimed that the Commission had "singled out and targeted Bengal" in a manner that was "deeply alarming." She alleged that more than 50 senior officials, including the Chief Secretary, Home Secretary, Director General of Police and several top-ranking officers, had been "summarily and arbitrarily removed" even before the formal election notification. "This is not an administration action; rather, this is political interference of the highest order," she said. The Chief Minister further described the developments as part of a broader pattern of institutional politicisation. "The systematic politicisation of institutions meant to remain impartial is a direct assault on the Constitution," Banerjee said, adding that the Commission's conduct reflected "a clear bias and an uncomfortable submission to political interests." Her remarks come amid heightened political tensions in the state, with the ruling All India Trinamool Congress frequently accusing the opposition Bharatiya Janata Party of attempting to influence administrative processes in West Bengal. Banerjee also raised concerns over the ongoing Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls, calling the process "deeply flawed" and alleging that it had contributed to public anxiety. She claimed that supplementary electoral rolls had not yet been published "in clear disregard of the Hon'ble Supreme Court's directions," leaving citizens uncertain. "Why is the BJP so desperate? Why this relentless targeting of Bengal and its people?" she asked, accusing the party of attempting to force citizens "to stand in queues and prove their own citizenship" decades after independence. The Chief Minister also questioned what she described as contradictions in the Commission's actions, alleging that officers removed from their posts were subsequently reassigned as election observers within hours. She cited instances where senior police officials in key urban centres such as Siliguri and Bidhannagar were appointed as observers without immediate replacements, which she said left "vital urban centres effectively headless." "This is not governance. It reflects chaos, confusion and sheer incompetence being passed off as authority," Banerjee said. Escalating her criticism, Banerjee described the situation as "nothing short of an undeclared emergency and an unpropagated form of president's rule," alleging a "deliberate design to seize control of West Bengal through coercion and institutional manipulation." She also expressed solidarity with state government officials, saying they were being targeted "simply for serving the state with honesty and commitment." "Bengal has never bowed to intimidation and it never will," she asserted. "Bengal will fight, Bengal will resist and Bengal will decisively defeat every attempt to impose a divisive and destructive agenda on its soil." The Election Commission has not yet publicly responded to the allegations. The controversy adds to an already charged political atmosphere as the state moves closer to the next electoral cycle, with questions around administrative neutrality and electoral processes likely to remain at the forefront of the debate.

EDITORIAL

The Day IAF Broke PAF's Back: 'The Sky Warriors: Operation Sindoor Unveiled'

In the high-octane world of aerial combat literature, Vishnu Som's book The Sky Warriors: Operation Sindoor Unveiled is a bone-rattling roar of an afterburner take-off. It offers a cockpit-eye view of Operation Sindoor - the 2025 Indian heavy-hammer response to Pakistan following the Pahalgam terrorist attack. The Sky Warriors is both a technical and operational post-game analysis of this high-intensity clash, delivering a narrative that is as much a white paper on modern SEAD (Suppression of Enemy Air Defence) as it is a gripping and sharply written combat chronicle. Som recounts the 2025 air war with definitive knowledge and insider accounts, deconstructing it with the precision of a Tom Clancy thriller. For tech enthusiasts, the book is a goldmine. You're not just reading about systems, you're inside them. We're talking BVR radar locks, BrahMos launch sequences, and the cold logic of S-400 engagement envelopes. But the real brilliance lies in his analysis of the escalation matrix. Som highlights an IAF that has matured into a multi-domain warfare machine - one that knows exactly when to exercise restraint and when to unleash decisive force. The standout revelation, however, is the strategic decapitation of the PAF. While the first-day dogfights following the IAF strikes on terrorist camps grabbed headlines, Som pulls back the curtain on the overwhelming kinetic response against Pakistan's air defence sites, airfields, and command-and-control (C2) centres. Using BrahMos-NG, SCALP, Harop, and other precision-attack munitions and drones, the IAF didn't just win a skirmish-it induced paralysis and altered the trajectory of this 88-hour war. Beyond the initial scramble of the first day, the PAF had little left to demonstrate, unlike in the wars of 1965 and 1971. Within 48 hours, it was rendered largely inconsequential. Pakistan's air defence lay in shambles, its fighter fleet was reduced to ineffective patrols, and the IAF's Integrated Air Defence Ground System (IADGS) stood as an impenetrable shield.

With runways cratered, assets destroyed both in the air and on the ground, and logistics and command nodes under severe pressure, Pakistan's DGMO ultimately sought a ceasefire, averting further irreversible degradation of PAF capabilities.

The air warriors, Som profiles, men and women in blue, going beyond the call of duty, embody a brand of quiet, lethal professionalism that should inspire national pride. The book highlights Cold Start precision and the sheer grit of pilots who stared down an escalation matrix and didn't blink. You feel the tension of pilots managing "Master Caution" alarms in hostile skies, the discipline of split-second decisions under strict Rules of Engagement (ROE), and the seamless coordination between cockpit and command centres. Som presents warfare at its most precise-and most human.

The Sky Warriors isn't just another military account. It is fast-paced, gripping, and deeply relevant in a world where air dominance defines geopolitical power. It's not just a record of conflict; it's a tribute to the technical and operational evolution of the Indian Air Force, which captures the new normal for India.

The Sky Warriors is an essential pick for casual readers and enthusiasts alike, a high-Mach dive into the present and future of air combat. If you want to understand how modern wars are truly won, or simply experience a narrative that never lets go, this book is a must-read.

The Curious Reason 2 Iran 'Proxies' Haven't Joined The War Against Israel

On March 16, the internet was abuzz with the footage of an Iranian-backed militia infiltrating the US Embassy in Baghdad, using a first-person view (FPV) drone for a reconnaissance mission. It was released by the Popular Mobilisation Forces (PMF) and showed the drone - likely controlled via fibre-optic cable to bypass electronic jamming - flying unchallenged through the heavily fortified complex for nearly two minutes.

On its heels came another announcement by a group calling itself Kata'ib Hezbollah, demanding that every "foreign soldier" leave the country. Its security chief said, "Iraq's instability is due to the malicious American presence, and security will not be achieved until the last foreign soldier leaves Iraqi territory." The group, which Washington has designated as a "terrorist organisation", is part of the same umbrella organisation known as the PMF, or, as they call themselves, the Islamic Resistance in Iraq, which has been claiming daily attacks on US interests in Iraq and the region.

The Long Shadow War These incidents spotlight the role of the proxies that Iran has created, funded, and supported over the years to fight its shadow war with Israel and the US. These include Hamas in Gaza, Hezbollah in Lebanon, the Houthis in Yemen, and the more recent PMF or the AL Hashd al Shabi in Iraq. There have been other groups such as Islamic Jihad in Gaza, and Shiite groups in Syria and in Lebanon, but they are now defunct or have become bit players. The PMF has a relatively recent history. These Shiite militia groups appeared as late as 2014, to fight the Islamic State (ISIS) when the Iraqi army proved too inept, weak and corruption-riddled to do so, and Mosul, the second-largest Iraqi city, quickly fell to ISIS. Many of them, trained by the elite Quds force of Iran's Revolutionary Guard Corps (IRGC), and thereafter closely aligned with Iran, won the real battle against the ISIS, which won them both authority and goodwill from the population. Later, they were absorbed into the Iraqi armed forces. However, those that remained closely aligned with Iran, like the Kata'ib Hezbollah, continue to be a law unto themselves, causing friction both within the umbrella movement as well as with the Iraqi state. These groups have always demanded the withdrawal of US troops from the country. Since the start of the US-Israel war on Iran, according to reports, airstrikes on Iran-aligned armed groups in Iraq, largely believed to be carried out by the US and Israel, have killed and wounded tens of Iraqis. Meanwhile, US bases in Iraqi Kurdistan and the American embassy in Baghdad have sustained multiple drone and missile attacks. Amid repeated attacks on US interests in the country, Washington has ordered all of its nationals to immediately leave Iraq.

The Hezbollah's Assault

Similarly, Iran's other major proxy, the Hezbollah in Lebanon, has opened up a second front, targeting northern Israel. Israel, in turn, has also been bombing Hezbollah strongholds. In fact, Hezbollah has been Iran's most faithful proxy group, created in 1982 in Lebanon to fight Israel's presence in Lebanon, as well as, more covertly, preserve the Shia identity and rights in Lebanon's fragmented polity. What distinguishes Hezbollah is that it is a political party in Lebanon with seats in its parliament and also commands its own private army, which has proved its mettle, at least till now. In 2000, it was Hezbollah that forced an Israeli withdrawal from Southern Lebanon, which is a Shia stronghold. Similarly, in 2006, in the Israel-Hezbollah war, the militia was able to stop Israel from crossing over. Hezbollah also played a pivotal role in battling ISIS and other jihadist groups during the Syrian Civil War. When war broke out between Israel and Hamas in October 2023, Hezbollah opened up a second front targeting northern Israel. However, this time Israel retaliated aggressively, including through ground invasions, such that the group was significantly degraded and downsized and its senior leadership decapitated.

Nevertheless, the Hezbollah has joined in this time around, on behalf of Iran, saying it was avenging the killing of the erstwhile Supreme Leader of Iran, Ali Khamenei. Israel, though, has inflicted heavy damages and casualties: more than 800 Lebanese are reported killed and a million displaced in this round of conflict, according to Lebanese government estimates. Given the disproportionate balance of power and the damage inflicted, the Lebanese government has wanted to ban Hezbollah. Meanwhile, Israel is preparing a ground assault in Southern Lebanon.

The Hamas's Silence

The real surprise, however, has been the non-engagement by Iran's other two major proxies - Hamas and the Houthis. Hamas has not only been inactive - something understandable, given that Israel has crippled it, rendering it almost non-existent militarily - but it has even gone a step further and called upon Iran to refrain from attacking Gulf countries. This is possibly because Hamas is also heavily dependent on Qatar, which is sheltering many of the group's operatives on its territory and whose funding kept Hamas in control in Gaza till the war began in October 2023.

India Talks About Science, But Its Institutions Don't Support It

In 1976, the 42nd Amendment did something few constitutions have attempted. It made scientific temper a civic obligation. Article 51A(h) placed on every Indian citizen the duty to "develop the scientific temper, humanism and the spirit of inquiry and reform." The clause was quietly radical - not because it mandated knowledge, but because it framed a way of thinking as essential to democratic citizenship. Nearly fifty years on, that framing deserves serious examination, not as a tribute to constitutional foresight, but as a measure of how far institutional reality has drifted from it. The numbers are the obvious starting point. India's gross expenditure on research and development has remained stubbornly below 0.7% of GDP for over a decade. The global average stands at 1.8%. South Korea spends 4.9%. Even among middle-income economies, India is an outlier. The private sector, which typically drives R&D dynamism as economies mature, contributes only about 36% of India's total research expenditure - compared to 70-80% in China, the United States and Germany. This is not a talent gap. India produces more STEM graduates than almost any country on earth. It is a structural gap, rooted in how research institutions are governed and the incentives under which they operate. That governance problem runs deeper than budgets. Public research institutions function under tight regulatory control, with limited academic and financial autonomy. The contrast with Germany's Max Planck and Fraunhofer Institutes, which combine clear public mandates with significant operational independence, is instructive. The Anusandhan National Research Foundation, operationalised in 2024 with considerable fanfare, has not yet resolved the persistent problem of research grant disbursement delays. Projects stall not because scientists are absent but because administrative systems are slow. The infrastructure for inquiry exists; the institutional conditions for it are often absent. The quality of research outputs compounds these concerns. India now ranks third globally in life sciences paper retractions, behind only China and the United States, a pattern that reflects the distorted incentives of an ecosystem that rewards publication volume over rigour. The National Institutional Ranking Framework has recently begun penalising universities with high retraction rates, which is a welcome corrective. But fixing the signal without changing the underlying incentive structure is unlikely to produce lasting improvement. What has received less attention is the constitutional dimension of this failure. Article 51A(h) places the duty of developing a scientific temper on citizens, but the constitutional logic implies a reciprocal obligation on the state. A citizen cannot reasonably be expected to develop a spirit of inquiry in a university system that penalises questioning, or in a research environment where independent thought is structurally constrained. The duty the constitution assigns to individuals is only fulfillable if institutions make it possible. That precondition has not been consistently met. The non-justiciability of Fundamental Duties is a known feature of Indian constitutional design. Article 51A cannot be enforced through courts and no institution is formally accountable for its implementation. This produces a specific kind of policy vacuum: there is no body tasked with assessing the institutional conditions for scientific temper, no benchmarking framework, no periodic review of whether the state is creating the environment the clause demands. The contrast with Fundamental Rights, which carry justiciability, remedies and decades of jurisprudence best illustrates this asymmetry. The comparative picture offers some direction. Countries that have meaningfully narrowed their science-society gap, including Finland, South Korea and Taiwan, have done so primarily through institutional investment rather than communication campaigns. Research autonomy, doctoral pipeline support, stable long-term funding and governance frameworks that insulate scientific institutions from short-cycle pressures: these are the common denominators. India's challenge is less a shortage of institutions than a shortage of institutional urgency, the sense that science governance is a first-order policy priority rather than a residual one. None of this requires locating blame. It requires locating the problem accurately. The science-society disconnect in India is not primarily a public awareness problem, solvable through outreach or curriculum reform. It is a governance problem - one of institutional design, incentive structures and accountability frameworks. Article 51A(h) named the aspiration in 1976. The work of building the institutional architecture capable of realising it remains, fifty years later, substantially unfinished. Ablaz Mohammed Schemnad is a researcher at Sobriety Press working on science communication and higher education policy. He holds postgraduate degrees from TISS Hyderabad and Sciences Po Lille.

No Partners, No Power? The Shrinking Circle Of Vijay's TVK

In politics, timing is everything. And in Tamil Nadu, timing without alliances is often nothing. By insisting that he will neither join an alliance nor play second fiddle - but only lead one - Vijay may well have missed the political bus even before his electoral journey truly began. The arithmetic is unforgiving. With the 2026 elections approaching, it is increasingly clear that no major party is willing to come under the banner of his Tamilaga Vettri Kazhagam (TVK). The only theoretical pathway - poaching allies from the ruling Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam which has won 3 consecutive elections - was always a long shot. That window now appears firmly shut. What makes this more striking is the scale of the opportunity that slipped away. Vijay entered politics at the peak of his cinematic career, commanding a rare, almost unmatched following among youth and women. Not since MG Ramachandran, who won 3 successive elections, has a star carried such momentum into the political arena. That alone should have made him the nucleus of a formidable alliance. Instead, hesitation - and perhaps overconfidence - seems to have defined his early political moves. Rather than actively reaching out and stitching together a coalition, Vijay appeared to wait, expecting others to gravitate towards him. In Tamil Nadu's deeply networked alliance culture, that was a misreading of political reality. Ironically, he had the right pitch. TVK's promise of a "share in power" was a direct appeal to smaller parties long frustrated by the dominance of the two Dravidian majors - the Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam and the All India Anna Dravida Munnetra

Kazhagam - both of which have consistently resisted coalition-style governance. This was Vijay's opening. Consider the Viduthalai Chiruthaigal Katchi. A vocal advocate of power-sharing, it could have been the first domino. But alliances are built on trust and initiative. For VCK, a long-time DMK ally, the risk of "blinking first" was too high. Vijay needed to make that move easier - he didn't. The Indian National Congress too briefly hovered around the idea of a new alignment. A Congress-TVK tie-up could have been transformative - giving TVK structure and Congress relevance in a state where it has long ceded ground. Instead,

Congress used the possibility of a new alliance as leverage, extracting a better deal from the DMK and moving on. Even the opposition All India Anna Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam, led by Edappadi K Palaniswami, briefly signalled interest. The optics - TVK flags at AIADMK events - hinted at a potential convergence. A tie-up could have echoed the successful AIADMK-Vijayakanth's DMDK experiment that once reshaped the opposition space. But that moment passed, as AIADMK recalibrated and revived ties with the BJP. Perhaps the most telling gap was the failure to engage with DMDK. With Premalatha Vijayakanth now aligning with the DMK, even that door has closed. The result is stark. A party that could have been the fulcrum of a new political formation risks becoming a holding space for the politically displaced. The groundswell of support Vijay generated remains real - but in electoral politics, sentiment without structure rarely translates into seats. As nomination deadlines approach, Vijay's political instincts face their first real stress test. But the larger question lingers: in a state where alliances are everything, has Vijay already missed his moment? Or is the support for TVK exponentially growing, set to defy alliance arithmetic?

Rupee crashes 49 paise to record low of 92.89 against US dollar

Mumbai: The rupee slumped 49 paise to close at a record low of 92.89 against the US dollar on Wednesday, March 19, weighed down by a stronger greenback and sustained FII outflows. Elevated crude oil prices in global markets amid intensifying conflict in West Asia further dampened sentiments, forex traders said. At the inter-bank foreign exchange, the local unit opened at 92.42 against the greenback and traded in the range of 92.41-92.89 before closing at its record low of 92.89, sharply down by 49 paise from its previous close. Earlier on Tuesday, the domestic hit its previous lowest intra-day level of 92.47 against the dollar before settling at an all-time low of 92.40. "The rupee hit a new low ahead of the major central banks meetings... as the Reserve Bank of India allowed the 92.50 level to be breached," Anil Kumar Bhansali, Head of Treasury and Executive Director, Finrex Treasury Advisors LLP, said. Meanwhile, the dollar index, which gauges the greenback's strength against a basket of six currencies, was trading 0.05 per cent higher at 99.62. Brent crude, the global oil benchmark, was trading flat at

USD 103.4 per barrel in futures trade. On the domestic equity market front, the Sensex settled higher by 633.29 points, or 0.83 per cent, to 76,704.13, while the Nifty also rose sharply by 196.65 points, or 0.83 per cent, to 23,777.80. Foreign institutional investors sold equities worth Rs 2,714.35 crore on a net basis on Wednesday, according to exchange data. At the interbank foreign exchange, the local unit opened at 92.42 against the greenback and traded in the range of 92.41-92.89 before closing at its record low of 92.89, sharply down by 49 paise from its previous close. Earlier on Tuesday, the domestic hit its previous lowest intra-day level of 92.47 against the dollar before settling at an all-time low of 92.40. "The rupee hit a new low ahead of the major central banks meetings... as the Reserve Bank of India allowed the 92.50 level to be breached," Anil Kumar Bhansali, Head of Treasury and Executive Director, Finrex Treasury Advisors LLP, said. Meanwhile, the dollar index, which gauges the greenback's strength against a basket of six currencies, was trading 0.05 per cent higher at 99.62. Brent crude, the global oil benchmark, was trading flat at USD 103.4 per barrel in futures trade. On the domestic equity market front, the Sensex settled higher by 633.29 points, or 0.83 per cent, to 76,704.13, while the Nifty also rose sharply by 196.65 points, or 0.83 per cent, to 23,777.80. The Indian stock market has experienced a significant fall today, with both the Nifty 50 and Sensex showing a considerable decline. Investors and traders are closely watching the evolving global and domestic market conditions as they try to understand the reasons behind this Bearish market. In today's session, both indices opened with a gap down, reflecting negative views from the start. As trading continued, the market moved sideways. This led to a sharp intraday decline in both the Sensex and the Nifty, highlighting negative sentiment among market participants. Index Overview The equity benchmark indices declined on Thursday, as a combination of factors weighed on investor sentiment. The Nifty Index opened at 23,197.75, marking a gap-down opening from its previous close of 23,777.80, and fell by nearly 2.4 percent from the previous close. Meanwhile, the Sensex Index opened at 74,750.92, representing a gap-down from its previous close of 76,704.13, but has since declined by almost 2.5 percent from the previous close. Midcap and smallcap stocks also faced heavy losses, with the BSE 150 Midcap and BSE 250 Smallcap indices dropping 2% each. Overall, investors saw their wealth shrink by more than Rs. 7 lakh crore as the total market capitalisation of BSE-listed companies fell from Rs. 439 lakh crore to Rs. 432 lakh crore. Here are the reasons for the fall: Iran-US War Escalates The US-Iran conflict, which began on February 28, is intensifying instead of ending soon.

THE IRAN WAR IS CAUSING A GLOBAL ENERGY CRISIS

China has long braced for a Gulf oil supply shock - but the Iran war's disruption of a key global shipping route is now putting its resilience to the test. Energy shipments from the Middle East have been at a standstill following Iran's threats to attack vessels that pass through a critical trade waterway as retaliation against US-Israeli strikes. The blockade has led to a global oil shortage which has rocked Gulf-reliant Asian countries hard - with the Philippines mandating four-day work weeks to save fuel, and Indonesia seeking ways to avoid burning through reserves that will last just weeks. China, the world's largest buyer of oil, is also feeling the strain. But the country sits in a better position than its neighbours, after years of statecraft that have prepared it for a global energy crisis. A test of China's energy network The world economy has been thrown into turbulence since the US and Israel launched strikes against Iran in late February. Since then, oil prices have at points soared to close to $120 (£90) a barrel - pushed up by strikes on shipping and energy infrastructure and the effective closure of the Strait of Hormuz, the world's busiest oil shipping channel. About a fifth of the world's oil passes through the strait - around 20 million barrels each day, according to estimates from the US Energy Information Administration (EIA). The shortage has left countries scrambling for alternative crude suppliers outside of the Gulf, while others are tapping into their own oil reserves. As the world's second-largest consumer of oil after the US, China uses an estimated 15 to 16 million barrels of oil daily, various market analysts told the BBC. The oil is mainly used for China's massive transportation network of cars, trucks and jets. And much of it comes from abroad. Gulf countries are a major source of the oil China ships in, with barrels from Saudi Arabia and Iran accounting for more than 10% of its imports each, according to the US Energy Information Administration (EIA).

Administration (EIA). The shortage has left countries scrambling for alternative crude suppliers outside of the Gulf, while others are tapping into their own oil reserves. As the world's second-largest consumer of oil after the US, China uses an estimated 15 to 16 million barrels of oil daily, various market analysts told the BBC. The oil is mainly used for China's massive transportation network of cars, trucks and jets. And much of it comes from abroad. Gulf countries are a major source of the oil China ships in, with barrels from Saudi Arabia and Iran accounting for more than 10% of its imports each, according to the US Energy Information Administration (EIA).

BMW to hike its vehicle prices in India by up to 2 pc from April 1

New Delhi: BMW Group India on Thursday, March 19, said it will increase vehicle prices by up to 2 per cent across its vehicle range with effect from April 1, in order to offset the impact of escalating logistics, material costs and depreciating rupee. The price increase will be applicable across the range for BMW and MINI vehicles, the German luxury carmaker said in a statement. "BMW Group India continues to create new benchmarks in the luxury automotive segment in the country, with strong demand and a record-breaking product portfolio. However, to offset escalating logistics and material costs alongside a depreciating rupee, we are implementing a price adjustment of up to 2 per cent across our range effective April 1, 2026," BMW Group India President and CEO Hardeep Singh Brar stated. This recalibration ensures the company continues to deliver the uncompromising performance, cutting-edge innovation, and world-class service that customers expect, he added. Mercedes-Benz India and Audi India have already announced to increase vehicle prices from next month. The increase was to offset the impact of escalating logistics, material costs and depreciating rupee, the carmaker said. Automobile manufacturer BMW Group India announced on Thursday that it will implement a price hike of up to 2 per cent across its BMW and MINI ranges effective April

1, 2026. The company attributed the price hike as an offset measure to rising logistics and material costs and a depreciating rupee, according to the statement. "This recalibration ensures we continue to deliver the uncompromising performance, cutting-edge innovation, and world-class service that our customers expect," said Hardeep Singh Brar, President and CEO, BMW Group India. BMW Group India continues to create new benchmarks in the luxury automotive segment in the country, with strong demand and a record-breaking product portfolio, he added. The company noted that BMW India Financial Services continues to offer customised financial plans, including "attractive monthly instalments, reduced rate of interest for selective models, assured buy-back options and flexible end-of-term opportunities among other benefits."

Bank of England 'ready to act' as it warns Iran war 'shock' will push up inflation

The Bank of England "stands ready to act" to keep interest rates at a level to control inflation, its governor Andrew Bailey has said. His comments came as the Bank announced it was leaving its key rate unchanged at 3.75%. Until the conflict in the Middle East began a rate cut had been expected. The Bank said prices would rise more quickly due to the "new shock to the economy" and now expects inflation to be close to 3.5% in March. All members of the rate-setting committee voted to hold rates and "assess how events unfold". They also discussed whether a rate rise could be needed, although Bailey suggested markets were "getting ahead" of themselves in assuming several rises this year. Before the US-Israel attack on Iran, economists had expected inflation and interest rates to fall further this year. Some had pencilled in a rate cut for March. But the committee decided to hold, in the first unanimous vote for four-and-a-half years. The conflict has pushed up the price of oil and gas sharply, with attacks on energy infrastructure in the last 24 hours adding further upward pressure. That has raised the prospect of another pick-up in inflation. "War in the Middle East has pushed up energy prices. You can already see that at the petrol pump and, if it lasts, it will feed into higher household energy bills later in the year," said Bailey. The only way to address higher energy prices was by restoring safe passage for shipping in the Gulf, he said. But he emphasised the focus of the Bank's Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) was on the wider knock-on impact on prices. "Whatever happens, our job is to make sure inflation gets back to its 2% target," said Bailey. Inflation in January stood at 3%. The language at recent meetings of the MPC has centred around a reduction in borrowing costs. At February's meeting members were split, with four backing a cut and five, including the Bank's govern-nor, voting to hold rates steady. Notes from this meeting showed the debate has been turned on its head, with the committee all backing a hold in rates. They also discussed whether a rate rise could be required in the coming months, something which financial markets now think could be the next move. Following the Bank's latest decision and comments, traders are predicting there could be two hikes before the end of the year, taking rates to 4.25%.

Celebrate New Beginnings with Fabindia's Ugadi Collection

As the auspicious occasion of Ugadi marks a fresh start and a harvest of prosperity, Fabindia announced its exclusive Ugadi curation. Rooted in tradition and crafted for joyful beginnings, this curated range features festive looks for the entire family, including specially designed ensembles for men, women, and children that capture the spirit of the festival. The women's range includes elegantly hand-block printed saris, silk embroidered kurtas, and the timeless grace of Banarasi and Chikankari dupattas. For men, it offers a sophisticated variety of shirts and both short and long kurtas, complemented by artisanal Bandhgala jackets. Expanding the celebration to the youngest members of the family, the kids' wear line features silk blend hand-block printed jackets and long kurta-pyjama sets for boys, alongside vibrant hand-block printed choli and lehenga sets for girls. The Ugadi collection is now available at Fabindia stores nationwide and online at www.fabindia.com. This season, celebrate new beginnings with the authentic artisanal charm that defines the Fabindia experience.

HDFC BANK SAYS 'BAFFLED' AT CHAIRMAN'S ETHICS CONCERN THAT MADE HIM QUIT

New Delhi/Mumbai: HDFC Bank's non-executive chairman Atanu Chakraborty abruptly resigned, citing differences over "values and ethics" - a ground that the management of the country's second-largest lender said was baffling, as the former bureaucrat offered no specific instance despite repeated requests. Keki Mistry, a veteran of the HDFC Bank Group, was appointed as the interim chairman, following the resignation, said there may have been "relationship issues" between Chakraborty and the executive leadership, but found no "substantive" concerns behind the departure. Mistry emphasised that the bank's operations and governance remain stable. This is the first time that the part-time chairman of HDFC Bank left mid-way, raising concerns over its functioning. "Certain happenings and practices within the bank, that I have observed over the last two years, are not in congruence with my personal values and ethics. This is the basis of my aforementioned decision," he said in his resignation letter dated March 17. In a letter addressed to the Chairman of Governance, Nomination, Remuneration Committee (NRC) HK Bhanwala, Chakraborty said, "There are no other material reasons for my resignation other than those stated above". In a late evening Wednesday filing, HDFC Bank said Chakraborty has on March 18, 2026, tendered his resignation as the Part-time Chairman and Independent Director of the Bank with immediate effect. It is to be noted that Chakraborty was appointed part-time chairman effective May 5, 2021, almost a year after retirement as Economic Affairs Secretary. His term was extended for another three years in 2024 till May 4, 2027. Chakraborty, a 1985 batch IAS officer of Gujarat cadre, retired as Secretary of the Department of Economic Affairs in April 2020. Prior to that, he was

Secretary of the Department of Investment and Public Asset Management (DIPAM). Both departments come under the Finance Ministry. Chakraborty became chairman during the reverse merger process of the bank with the parent entity HDFC Ltd, a leading mortgage firm in the country. The merger of HDFC Ltd with HDFC Bank became effective on July 1, 2023, creating a financial behemoth with a combined balance sheet of over Rs 18 lakh crore. Taking note of the exit, the RBI said there were no material concerns on record as regards the bank's conduct or governance. "HDFC Bank is a Domestically Systemically Important Bank (D-SIB) with sound financials, a professionally run board and a competent management team. Basis our periodical assessment, there are no material concerns on record as regards its conduct or governance," the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) said in a statement. The statement emphasised that the bank remains well-capitalised and its financial position remains satisfactory with sufficient liquidity. Shares of HDFC Bank dived over 5 per cent on Thursday following the exit of the bank's chairman. The blue-chip stock tumbled 5.13 per cent to settle at Rs 799.70 on the BSE, trimming some of its sharp early losses. During the day, it tanked 8.41 per cent to Rs 772 - its 52-week low. However, the finance ministry said the bank is a "strong institution with strong fundamentals". Financial Services Secretary M Nagaraju said the RBI has already issued a statement in this regard. "HDFC Bank is a strong institution with strong fundamentals," he said. Addressing reporters about the surprise move, HDFC Bank MD and CEO Sashidhar Jagdishan noted that a majority of the board members said they are "baffled" by Chakraborty's move because he did not offer any specific concerns that he is alluding to in the resignation letter.

Qatar calls energy plant strikes 'dangerous escalation' and says Iran must stop attacks

Turkish foreign minister Hakan Fidan continues, he says he thinks "Israel's attempts to white wash their own crimes" under the guise of this regional conflict should never be allowed. Fidan says the Iran war "should not distract the attention of the international community from Palestine and the tragedy in Gaza". He says that Israel "continues recklessly its ceasefire violations using the opportunity of this created chaos", adding that the situation on the ground maintains its gravity. Fidan also condemns Israel's attacks in Lebanon. "The only key to establishing true and sustainable security in the region is to establish a just and dignified peace with the Palestinian people", he says. Turkish foreign minister Hakan Fidan is up next at the news conference, he says his visit to Qatar is a show of solidarity. "We condemn and denounce the attacks that disregard the lives of civilians and target civilian infrastructure", he says. "These attacks can never be legitimised", he adds. More now from Qatar's PM who highlights "the importance of an immediate stop" of Iranian attacks on the region and the need for de-escalation. He gives his thanks to Turkey for supporting the state of Qatar and stability and safety in the region. The Qatar-Turkey news conference has just begun - you can watch live above. Our correspondent Frank Gardner is in the room: Israel and Iran are dragging the region into conflict, Qatar's PM Mohammed bin Abdulrahman Al-Thani says. He adds the attack on Ras Laffan "a very dangerous escalation by the Iranians". Alarms have just gone off here in Qatar as we wait for this news conference with Qatar's PM and Turkey's Foreign Minister Hakan Fidan. This happens every time Iran launches a missile or drone in this direction. The conference seems to be still going ahead. Treasury Secretary Scott Bessent says the US may waive sanctions on Iranian oil, as it looks for ways to keep energy prices in check. The move would affect about 140 million barrels of oil that are already on the water, he suggests in a Fox Business interview. The world consumes roughly 100 million barrels per day. It adds to other US efforts to boost oil supplies, including the suspension of sanctions on Russian oil and the contribution of 172 million barrels of oil to a global release of oil reserves. Bessent has previously said the US is also allowing Iranian oil tankers through, despite the conflict. How much of an impact it will have on prices is unclear. Asked about concerns that the US is funding its enemies, Bessent says the US would be "using the Iranian barrels against the Iranians" to keep prices down for the next 10-14 days. Britain will "step up" defensive support for Gulf states after Iran attacked energy sites across the region, Defence Secretary John Healey says. He adds that Tehran's attacks overnight are a "serious escalation" which threaten to "further destabilise the region". "We can see the impact here on the cost of living, the price of fuel, so it's important that we do everything we can with a lot of other countries that need to be involved in trying to reopen those straits", Healey tells PA news agency. The best way of taking the pressure off world oil prices, he says, is "to see a de-escalation and an end to the conflict". Iran's Foreign Minister Abbas Araghchi says the attack on Qatar's Ras Laffan energy complex only employed a "FRACTION of our power". "The ONLY reason for restraint was respect for requested de-escalation," he writes on X. In an apparent threat to the US, Israel and Gulf nations, he goes on to say there will be "ZERO restraint" if Iranian infrastructure is struck again. He also says any end to the war "must address damage" to Iran's civilian sites. The jump in gas prices today comes as no surprise.

SOUTH AFRICANS SAY CRIMINAL GANGS ARE EXPLOITING THE WATER CRISIS

In the Johannesburg suburb of Greenside, a large group of protesters of all ages and backgrounds are waving placards and banging empty plastic bottles together. "We want water, we want water!" they chant. Northern Johannesburg is known for its lush leafy suburbs. But after years of intermittent water shortages in South Africa, residents say they are fed up. Some have had no running water for over a month. "Our pipes have been bone-dry with no water coming through at all," says Colin Regesky. "It's not very healthy because everyone can get sick with no running water. And also according to the constitution it's our right to have water." Another protester, Jenny Gillies, has lived in the area for 40 years. "I am here today because it is an actual disgrace," she says. "We are reduced to begging and protesting for water." From 2022 to early 2024, Johannesburg, South Africa's economic hub, suffered crippling electricity shortages, which were managed via a process known as load shedding. Blackouts lasting up to eight hours a day severely disrupted the lives of ordinary South Africans and businesses.

DR Congo and Rwanda agree to ease tensions after talks in US

The Democratic Republic of Congo and Rwanda have agreed to take "concrete steps" to ease tensions amid a stalled peace process, after talks hosted by the US in Washington. Conflict in eastern DR Congo has continued despite the two countries signing a peace deal with US President Donald Trump last year. The pledge to ease tensions comes after the US earlier this month sanctioned the Rwandan Defence Forces and four senior officials and accused Rwanda of directly supporting the M23 rebel group, blaming it for escalating the conflict. A joint statement by DR Congo, Rwanda and the US says they have "agreed to a series of coordinated steps to de-escalate tensions and advance progress on the ground". They pledged to respect each other's sovereignty and territorial integrity, while Rwanda would disengage its forces and lift "defensive measures... in defined areas in DR Congo's territory", the statement says. While DR Congo would intensify "time-bound" efforts to neutralise the Democratic Forces for the Liberation of Rwanda (FDLR), an armed group that includes some Rwandan ethnic Hutus involved in the 1994 Rwandan genocide and remains active in eastern DR Congo. Rwanda describes the FDLR as a "genocidal militia" and says its continued existence in eastern DR Congo threatens its own territory. It has repeatedly denied supporting M23 despite overwhelming evidence, saying its military presence is a defensive measure against threats against its security by armed groups in DR Congo. Fighting has persisted in eastern DR Congo despite the US-brokered peace deal in December aimed at ending the long-running conflict. Days after the signing ceremony, the M23 entered the Congolese city of Uvira near the Burundi border in the biggest escalation of the conflict in months. It later pulled out under US pressure, although it still controls large parts of eastern DR Congo, including the region's two biggest cities, Goma and Bukavu. Earlier this month, while announcing the Rwandan sanctions, the US said that despite the M23's withdrawal, its continued presence near the Burundian border and Rwandan military support to them carried "the risk of escalating the conflict into a broader regional war".

Kevin Spacey and accusers settle before civil trial

Kevin Spacey has agreed an out-of-court settlement with three men who had sued the actor after accusing him of sexual assault. The civil cases had been due to go to trial at the High Court later this year, but those proceedings have now been frozen following the settlement. The men alleged that Spacey assaulted them between 2000 and 2013. The Oscar winner, 66, denies all allegations of wrongdoing. He was separately cleared of nine sexual offence charges at a criminal trial in 2023. Two of the men who accused the Oscar-winning star during the criminal trial also filed civil legal cases at the High Court. One man, known only as LNP, alleged that Spacey "deliberately assaulted" him on about 12 occasions between 2000 and 2005. Another, referred to as GHI, says he met Spacey through a workshop at London's Old Vic theatre and claimed he "suffered psychiatric damage and financial loss" as a result of an assault in 2008. Spacey was artistic director of the Old Vic between 2004 and 2013. The third man, Ruari Cannon, has waived his right to anonymity.

Are US and Israel in lockstep in Iran war? Deciphering Trump's post after gas field attacks

US President Donald Trump has issued a typically strongly worded statement in the wake of attacks on a major gas field shared by Iran and Qatar on Wednesday. Israel hit Iran's South Pars - part of the world's largest natural gas field - and Tehran retaliated by striking an energy complex in Qatar. The attacks led to a spike in energy prices, and fuelled Trump's wrath. On his Truth Social media platform, Trump threatened Iran again and said he didn't know about Israel's plans for the attack. So what does the language used by the US president tell us about the course of the war and the extent to which the US and Israel are aligned on its strategy and goals? Let's break it down. The president says the US

"knew nothing about this particular attack". This flies in the face of multiple newspaper reports in Israel in the aftermath of the attack. The attack "was co-ordinated in advance with the United States and... agreed upon between Prime Minister [Benjamin] Netanyahu and US President Trump," the centrist paper Yedioth

Ahronoth reported. Right-wing paper Israel Hayom goes further, saying "President Trump discussed the upcoming Israeli strike in [Iran's coastal city of] Asaluyeh with leaders of three Persian Gulf states over the weekend". As is often the case with the president's assertions, it is not easy to know where the truth lies. His choice of words to describe the Israeli attack is also telling. "Out of anger," he says, Israel "violently lashed out" against the gas field. This is the sort of language used to describe some of Iran's wilder retaliations - not a carefully considered military operation by a close ally. Is Trump suggesting that Israel acted unwisely? Israel will make "no more attacks" on gas field The president's use of capitals is notorious, but in this lengthy post, he resorts to all caps just once. "NO MORE ATTACKS WILL BE MADE BY ISRAEL" pertaining to this extremely important and valuable South Pars Field," he writes, "unless Iran unwisely decides to attack a very innocent, in this case Qatar."

CHAD WARNS SUDAN IT WILL RETALIATE AFTER DRONE STRIKE ON MOURNERS KILLS 17

Chad's president has ordered the military to retaliate against future attacks from Sudan following a drone attack that killed at least 17 people and injured several other people attending a funeral. Wearing military uniform, President Idris Mahamat Déby convened an emergency security meeting on Wednesday evening, where he ordered the military to be on high alert. He also ordered a "total closure" of the border with Sudan. He described the attack targeting the border town of Tiné as "outrageous and a blatant aggression" against Chad's territorial integrity. He said that it had happened despite warnings to the two sides battling each other in Sudan and a previous closure of the border. Last month, Chad closed its border with Sudan "until further notice" to stop repeated incursions by Sudanese armed groups. It however allowed "except-tional exemptions" on humanitarian grounds, with prior authorisation from relevant authorities. Residents of Tiné said the victims of Wednesday's attack were mourners, with one quoted by the Reuters news agency as saying they had gathered at a house for a funeral ceremony that involved reading the Koran. The attack drew condemnation from several quarters, including from the National Assembly and MPs from the ruling party. "The government bows with deep dismay to the memory of the victims and extends its deepest condolences to the bereaved families," a statement by the government spokesman said. The spokesman said Chad had now "strengthened the posture of its defence and security forces" and was ready to pursue its rights inside Sudanese territory "in strict compliance with the rules of international law".

Japan PM to hold 'difficult' talks with Trump as Iran conflict looms large Japan's Prime Minister Sanae Takaichi is on her way to what she expects will be a "very difficult" meeting with US leader Donald Trump, days after his calls for allies to help secure the war-stricken Strait of Hormuz went largely unanswered. Takaichi told parliament hours before her departure that she would "do everything to maximise [Japan's] national interest". The three-day visit to Washington was a chance to talk trade and deepen the US-Japan alliance ahead of Trump's diplomatic trip to China, which has now been postponed because of the war. But now it is the topic of the war that will likely overshadow the meeting, which is shaping up to be a test of Takaichi's friendship with Trump. The trip was scheduled back in October, a week after Takaichi took office, when Tokyo rolled out the red carpet for Trump and the two leaders heaped compliments on each other, heralding a new "golden age" in bilateral ties. As of a few weeks ago, the upcoming meeting looked set to be a success, with Takaichi "fresh off a dominant election victory and with a new round of investment projects in the US", Emma Chanlett-Avery, director for political and security affairs at the Asia Society Policy Institute, told the BBC. But while Takaichi "had intended to build on the warmth of her first meeting with Trump and press upon him Japan's concerns about Chinese aggression ahead of Trump's [then scheduled] meeting with Xi", recent events have complicated things, said Chanlett-Avery. Earlier this week, Trump posted on his Truth Social platform a call for some countries to help secure the vital strait. He had pointed to Japan's and other Asian economies' dependence on fuel from the Middle East as reason for them to get involved. "We get less than 1% of our oil from the [Strait of Hormuz] and some countries get much more... We want them to come and help us," he wrote. But after receiving a lukewarm response, he retracted his request, saying in a later post that the US did "NOT NEED THE HELP OF ANYONE!".

Three Palestinian women killed during Iranian missile attack

Cyprus leader calls for frank discussion on 'colonial' UK bases

The UK's two military bases on Cyprus are a "colonial consequence" on the island and talks on their status and future need to take place, Cypriot President Nikos Christodoulides has told the BBC. "When the situation is over in the Middle East we are going to have an open and frank discussion with the British government," he said as he arrived for an EU leaders' summit in Brussels. Under the 1960 treaty establishing Cypriot independence from Britain, the UK was given sovereignty of bases at Akrotiri and Dhekelia. However, RAF Akrotiri was targeted by drones this month shortly after the start of the US-Israeli war with Iran and the UK has faced some criticism for its response to the attack. The drones are thought to have been fired from Lebanon by Iranian-backed group Hezbollah and protesters have complained that the British bases on the island have made Cyprus a target.

BHA STRATEGY TO TACKLE 'CONSISTENT PATTERN' OF RACISM

People from ethnically and culturally diverse backgrounds have reported a "consistent pattern" of racism while working in horse racing, according to research commissioned by the sport's governing body. The British Horseracing Authority (BHA) has launched a new equality, diversity and inclusion strategy to tackle issues faced by underrepresented groups in the sport. The new strategy draws from research into the experiences of women, LGBTQ+ individuals and ethnically and culturally diverse employees. "The strategy outlines a vision for a sport where everyone feels respected, valued and able to fulfil their potential," the BHA said. "It is based on evidence and the experiences of racing's workforce, many of whom have positive experiences, but not all." The BHA's research into underrepresented groups in racing highlighted "negative experiences, barriers to progression (which are often hidden), inconsistent support, and a lack of trust in reporting systems". A study which focused on the Urban Equestrian Academy - a social enterprise aimed at providing people from inner-city and diverse backgrounds access to horses and equestrian - found that all 20 participants had reported experiencing racism. In the same study, all participants said that race had impacted their career progression. One participant shared that they had thought about suicide "on a few occasions because of the way I was treated". Meanwhile, 40% (67) of respondents in a separate survey said they had experienced, witnessed, or had reported to them inappropriate or poor behaviour because of ethnicity or cultural background. Some reported verbal abuse including aggressive racist language such as "dirty refugee" and "better off if you had been bombed". The new strategy also identified a significant underrepresentation in female jockeys, with only 25% of jockeys being women despite them making up 70% of racing school students and 50% of racing staff. Women also receive just 9% of rides and only 3% in top-tier races. "The strategy is rooted in evidence and shaped by the lived experiences of people working in racing today, and we offer a huge thank you to those who have taken the time and shown the courage to share these with us," the BHA's head of diversity and inclusion, Rose Grissell, said. "Many have positive experiences, but not everyone does, and acknowledging that is an important step in supporting positive progress. "Our aim is to make inclusion part of everyday practice, not an optional extra." The BHA's new equality, diversity and inclusion strategy includes the following proposals: Strengthen leadership and accountability Build equitable practices to address bias and barriers Improve education and awareness to act inclusively Better support and celebrate an inclusive culture Engage new audiences and make the sport more accessible BHA chief executive Brant Dunshea said the new strategy was about ensuring the "long-term health and success" of horse racing.

Sakshi's Heartfelt Birthday Post For MS Dhoni's 'Strength': "Pure Inspiration"

Former India captain MS Dhoni's wife, Sakshi, on Wednesday took to Instagram to share a heartfelt birthday post for her father-in-law, Pan Singh Dhoni. Sakshi credited her father-in-law for being the strength behind her husband's success. Dhoni has often credited his parents for his achievements. Sakshi shared a picture of Pan Singh Dhoni on her Instagram story, in which he can be seen feeding a piece of cake to a boy. She also shared a heartfelt caption, describing Pan Singh's journey as nothing short of inspirational. "From a young boy who left his village alone with courage... to building a legacy that the whole nation respects - your journey is pure inspiration. The strength behind my Man's success and because of you he is what he is today. We love you. Happy Birthday," posted Sakshi. Recently, South African batting legend AB de Villiers suggested that Dhoni must bat at number six or above for CSK in IPL 2026. His remarks came in to bat in the lower order last season to provide late bursts. "It's very tricky and not straightforward. Brands are built over years, and CSK have built this empire over many years with this MS Dhoni figure that's always been there. When you mention CSK, you immediately think of Dhoni," de Villiers told JioHotstar. "I feel that in the last few years, his role has purely been about keeping that brand as strong as possible. That's why I don't see a role for him batting at eight or nine and not really doing enough, like last season," he added. The 44-year-old Dhoni is at the fag end of his career, but de Villiers feels he still has the potential to make an impact with the bat. "We know he can be impactful with the bat, but if he's batting that low and not captaining, it feels like he's almost just making up for a spot for the wrong reasons. There's still a place for him, but he needs to bat higher, at least at six, maybe even at five or four at times," said the South Africa great.

FLOYD MAYWEATHER TO FIGHT MANNY PACQUIAO IN LAS VEGAS IN SEPTEMBER

Floyd Mayweather and Manny Pacquiao will meet in a long-awaited rematch of the highest-grossing clash in boxing history this September at the Sphere in Las Vegas, Netflix announced Monday. The bout between two of boxing's biggest names - who famously fought a blockbuster clash in 2015, and are now both in their late forties - comes days after Mayweather announced he is coming out of retirement. It will be broadcast live September 19 on Netflix, as the global streaming platform increasingly moves into live sports with glitzy one-off events. "Floyd and I gave the world what remains the biggest fight in boxing history. The fans have waited long enough - they deserve this rematch," said Pacquiao, 47, in a joint statement. Mayweather beat fellow welterweight Pacquiao in their money-spinning 2015 "Fight of the Century," which generated a record 4.6 million pay-per-view buys but largely failed to live up to the hype.

Mayweather is believed to have earned an estimated $300 million from the unanimous points victory over the Filipino icon, which remains the most lucrative fight in history and generated more than $600 million revenue. Former multi-weight world champion Mayweather retired from boxing in 2017, unbeaten in 50 bouts, though he has continued to fight in exhibitions since, including an upcoming clash this spring with Mike Tyson. Pacquiao, also a multiple world champion, retired for a four-year period from 2021 in which he unsuccessfully ran for the Philippine presidency. He came out of retirement last year. Rumors of a Mayweather-Pacquiao rematch have circulated for years, and speculation soared following Mayweather's announcement last week that he would return to the professional arena this year. "I already fought and beat Manny once. This time will be the same result," said Mayweather, in the statement.

BCCI Receives Huge Request From Ajit Agarkar After India's T20 World Cup Triumph

Indian cricket team chief selector Ajit Agarkar has requested the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) to extend his tenure till the 2027 ODI World Cup, according to Times of India. Agarkar's contract was extended by a year just before IPL 2025 as a reward for India winning the 2025 Champions Trophy and 2024 T20 World Cup. The report claimed that discussions are underway regarding his request but nothing concrete has emerged as of now. Another former Indian cricket team player from the West Zone was reportedly the front-runner to succeed Agarkar but nothing has developed on that front as well. The request is believed to be well-timed as it came just after the T20 World Cup 2026 triumph. Back in 2020-21, when the top selector's post had opened up, it was Chetan Sharma who had pipped him despite Agarkar being an applicant. When the opportunity finally came his way in mid-2023, he inherited a responsibility to rebuild trust in a selection process has come not merely from the position he holds but from the nature of decisions he has been willing to take. Over the past three years, the Indian team has played four ICC finals (2023 ODI World Cup, 2024 T20 World Cup, 2025 Champions Trophy, 2026 T20 World Cup), winning two and losing one. It could be three wins overall if India wins on Sunday against New Zealand in the T20 World Cup final. While the players and support staff rightfully command the spotlight for performances on the field, the selectors' role in shaping squads for global tournaments cannot be overlooked. Agarkar's tenure has been marked by calls that demanded conviction that could withstand criticism.

Dinesh Karthik Welcomes 3rd Child With Dipika Pallikal, Reveals Name

Former India wicketkeeper-batter Dinesh Karthik and squash star Dipika Pallikal have announced the arrival of their baby girl, Raaha Pallikal Karthik, marking a heartwarming expansion of their family. The couple shared the news in a social media announcement that expressed their gratitude and joy as they introduced their baby girl as the younger sister of their twin sons, Kabir and Zian. "With blessings in our hearts and gratitude beyond words, we joyfully welcome our precious girl into this world. Kabir and Zian are thrilled to introduce their baby sister, Raaha Pallikal Karthik. Love, Dipika & Dinesh" The couple tied the knot on August 25, 2015 in traditional Hindu and Christian ceremonies and welcomed their twins in 2021. Karthik, a former Indian international cricketer, enjoyed a distinguished career behind the stumps and with the bat before transitioning into coaching and commentary roles following his retirement from competitive play. Over more than two decades, he featured in Tests, ODIs, and T20 Internationals, and later served as a mentor and batting coach for Royal Challengers Bengaluru in the Indian Premier League (IPL). Dipika, meanwhile, etched her name in Indian squash history as the first Indian woman to break into the world's top-10 rankings.

Hearts manager McInnes rejects talk of regret

Manager Derek McInnes is refusing to talk about the fear of regret because he is convinced Heart of Midlothian will "have a special end to the season". Hearts' 1-0 defeat at Kilmarnock last weekend sparked questions about the long-time leaders' ability to claim the Scottish Premiership despite still being two points clear of Celtic at the top. McInnes, though, remains confident and hopes the return of key duo Cammy Devlin and Lawrence Shankland ensures Hearts are the team that "catches fire between now and the end of the season". Devlin and Shankland have been missing since January with ankle and hamstring injuries respectively but both are back in full training and are set to be involved against Dundee on Saturday. "I don't want to talk about regrets because it's as if it's going to end up in disappointment," said McInnes. "I fully believe we are going to have a special end to the season and I'm totally committed to that. I see it, I think we can do it, I think we can be really strong right through the line. I want the players to play with confidence and not think about that, just go and try and make the most of the opportunity that's there for us." McInnes admits he is tempted to start Devlin and Shankland against Dundee but will discuss their progress with Hearts' medical team to avoid potentially losing the players again to injury. "It was a significant blow when both lads went out of the team. With them coming back in, the players will get a boost and I think the support will get a boost," he said. "Lawrence, for me, was the best striker in the league up until he went out of the team and Cammy was arguably the best midfielder in the league, so it's good to have both boys back at such a crucial time. "Watching them training this week has been great, it looks as if they've not been away."

LIONEL MESSI SCRIPTS HISTORY

Argentine superstar Lionel Messi bagged the 900th goal of his glittering career on Wednesday but could not prevent Inter Miami from crashing out of the CONCACAF Champions Cup on away goals after a 1-1 draw with Nashville. Messi, 38, scored his milestone goal after just seven minutes to put Miami 1-0 up in the second leg of their last-16 clash in the regional club competition. But Nashville's Cristian Espinoza lashed in a 74th-minute equalizer to make it 1-1 on aggregate, and after holding Miami at bay for the remainder of the game, the visitors from Tennessee advanced to the quarter-finals on the away goals rule. Miami's exit was a bittersweet ending to what had promised to be a night of celebration after Messi's early opener in what was the club's final game at their Chase Stadium home in Fort Lauderdale. Messi's strike took the Argentine's tally to 81 goals for the MLS champions following his move to Florida in 2023. The eight-time Ballon D'Or winner previously scored 672 goals for Spanish giants Barcelona, 32 for France's Paris Saint-Germain, and a further 115 international goals for Argentina. Goal number 900 came some 21 years after Messi's first goal in senior football, when he scored for Barcelona in a 2-0 win over Albacete in 2005 as a fresh-faced 17-year-old. Messi, widely regarded as the greatest player in football history, still has some way to go before he catches his great rival Cristiano Ronaldo, the 41-year-old Portuguese superstar who is on 965 career goals.

Erling Haaland Invests In Norway Chess' Newly Launched Tour

Football superstar Erling Haaland has become a strategic investor in Norway Chess and its newly launched Total Chess World Championship Tour (TCWCT). Norway Chess has taken a major step with the launch of TCWCT, which has been approved by the International Chess Federation (FIDE) for a minimum of 16 years. Together with Norwegian business leader Morten Borge, the Manchester City striker has established the company Chess Mates, which will be a significant owner of Norway Chess. "Chess is an incredible game. It sharpens your mind, and there are clear similarities to football. You have to think quickly, trust your instincts, and think several moves ahead. Strategy and planning are everything", Haaland said in a media release. "I'm investing in Norway Chess because I believe the new Total Chess World Championship Tour can turn chess into an even bigger sport for spectators around the world. The team behind Norway Chess has already done an impressive job growing the event, and joining the project was too exciting to pass up," Haaland added. TCWCT will comprise four tournaments each year, hosted by four different cities, and will crown a combined world champion across three disciplines - Fast Classic, Rapid, and Blitz chess. A pilot tournament is planned for autumn 2026, followed by a full championship season in 2027. Each season will consist of four events, and a minimum annual prize pool of USD 2.7 million. "We expect the new championship to become one of the most prestigious events in the global chess calendar. The fact that Erling is joining us as an investor says a great deal about the commercial potential of this tour," Kjell

Madland, CEO of Norway Chess said. Eze himself took home $20,000 in May last year when he won the PogChamps amateur chess tournament. Haaland's manager Pep Guardiola and rival Mohamed Salah have both also said that they play. "I'm investing in Norway Chess because I believe the new Total Chess World Championship Tour can turn chess into an even bigger sport for spectators around the world," Haaland said. "The team behind Norway Chess has already done an impressive job growing the event, and joining the project was too exciting to pass up."

UGADI SPECIAL: Shiva Rajkumar's Fierce Look As Gummadi Narsaiah, Regular Shoot commences soon

Director Parameshwar Hivrale is set to bring the inspiring life of former MLA Gummadi Narsaiah to the big screen. Known for his unwavering fight for the poor and his iconic habit of riding a bicycle to the Assembly, Narsaiah's remarkable journey is now being retold through a biopic titled Gummadi Narsaiah. The film features Karunada Chakravarthi Dr. Shiva Rajkumar in the lead role and is produced by N. Suresh Reddy under the Pravallika Arts Creations banner. On the occasion of Ugadi, the makers unveiled an intense and powerful poster showcasing a commanding portrayal of Dr. Shiva Rajkumar as the revolutionary leader Gummadi Narsaiah. With firm determination in his expression, fiery eyes, and a backdrop filled with red flags symbolizing decades of people's struggles, the poster promises a hard-hitting, politically charged biographical drama. The project, which was formally launched earlier, is now all set to go on floors. Even before the official commencement, the first-look poster, motion poster, and early promotional material generated strong excitement. Shiva Rajkumar's striking transformation into Gummadi Narsaiah has received widespread praise, raising expectations across the country and making this biopic one of the most awaited films in the making. The technical team includes Satish Mutyala handling cinematography, Suresh Bobbili providing the music, and Satya Giduturi managing the editing. More details about the project will be announced soon.

"USTAAD BHAGAT SINGH RECEIVED A RESPONSE BEYOND OUR EXPECTATIONS" – TEAM AT SUCCESS PRESS MEET

The Ustaad storm has begun worldwide. After the sensational success of Gabbar Singh, Power Star Pawan Kalyan and Cult Captain Harish Shankar have reunited for Ustaad Bhagat Singh. Produced grandly under the banner of Mythri Movie Makers by Naveen Yerneni and Yalamanchili Ravi Shankar, the film released today (March 19) as an Ugadi festive treat. Right from the first show, the film has been receiving phenomenal response across all regions and all sections of audiences worldwide. Fans are thrilled with the way Pawan Kalyan has been presented by Harish Shankar. Not just fans, even general audiences are appreciating the film. Notably, the film has several moments that strongly connect with family audiences, making it appealing across all demographics. With such overwhelming response pouring in, the team held a success press meet to express their happiness and gratitude to the audience. Harish Shankar's Speech

Director Harish Shankar said:

"First of all, I thank the media. Since this is a mass entertainer, I thought it might take some time for positive talk to come from overseas. But I'm very happy that from the very first show, the film has received positive talk across all regions. We designed this film to appeal to all sections of the audience. Many people who watched the film are surprised, saying they didn't expect so much content in it. From day one, I said I'm making a commercial entertainer and that I would present vintage Pawan Kalyan Garu—and we delivered that. Even though it is a commercial film, we have included some meaningful elements. Notably, we touched upon the topic of illegal immigrants, which hasn't been explored much in Telugu cinema.

Every character in the film has importance, and all characters have come out very well. Audiences are connecting with each one of them. Fans have been calling me and saying, 'Anna, the film is excellent.' The use of the Tholi Prema song in the second half is being loved by fans.

For a film packed with so many elements, Thaman delivered an outstanding background score in a very short time. This film is the result of the collective effort of our entire team."

Producer Naveen Yerneni's Speech

Producer Naveen Yerneni said:

"We are receiving an incredible response everywhere—be it Andhra Pradesh, Telangana, or the United States—from the very first show. We watched the film with audiences at Vimal Theatre, and throughout the screening, people were thoroughly enjoying it. The theatre atmosphere felt like a festival. With every show, both the talk and collections are increasing. The response is beyond what we expected, and we are extremely happy.

Aadi Sai Kumar's Fierce, Action-packed Avatar From Ego Raja Co-starring Sathish, Directed By Guru Saravanan, Produced By G. Suresh of SGS Productions Unveiled

Producer G. Suresh of SGS Productions is bankrolling an exciting new bilingual project that brings together two dynamic performers—Aadi Sai Kumar and the actor Sathish, under the direction of filmmaker Guru Saravanan. Titled Ego Raja, the film is being crafted as a Telugu-Tamil bilingual, promising a potent mix of action, emotion, and mass appeal. On the auspicious occasion of Ugadi, the makers unveiled a striking new poster featuring Aadi Sai Kumar in a fierce, action-packed avatar. Donning a lungi and exuding raw inten-city, he is seen smoking a cigarette while locking a steely gaze on his adversaries, signaling high-voltage drama ahead.

Director Guru Saravanan, a former associate of Veteran filmmaker K. S. Ravikumar, made his debut with the critically appreciated Koogale Kuttappa, produced by Ravikumar himself. With Ego Raja, his third directorial venture, Saravanan is aiming for his most ambitious project yet. Featuring dual protagonists and a storyline driven by intensity, the film is expected to showcase his evolved filmmaking sensibilities. Aadi Sai Kumar, fresh off the blockbuster success of Shambhala, makes his Tamil debut with this film. Sathish, known for transitioning from notable supporting roles to leading films like Conjuring Kannappan and Sattam En Kaiyil, takes on a high-octane action role, continuing his streak of performance-driven choices. Supported by a top-tier technical team, Manoj Paramahansa handling cinematography, Ghibran composing the music, and Durairaj managing art, the shoot is in full swing.

MATKA KING UNVEILED AT PRIME VIDEO PRESENTS EVENT IN MUMBAI

RANVEER CREATES HISTORY WITH DHURANDHAR 2

Ranveer Singh's much-awaited film Dhurandhar: The Revenge has taken a flying start at the box office, even before the Eid weekend begins. The spy thriller has already created history by setting a new record on BookMyShow, showing massive audience demand across the country.

RECORD-BREAKING BOOKMYSHOW PERFORMANCE

The film sold over 109,000 tickets in a single hour on BookMyShow, beating the previous record held by Pushpa 2: The Rule, which had around 107,650 tickets per hour. This achievement is even more impressive because the numbers are only from Hindi bookings, without any contribution from dubbed versions. This makes Dhurandhar 2 the fastest-selling Indian film in terms of hourly ticket sales, highlighting the urgency and excitement among moviegoers.

MASSIVE ADVANCE BOOKINGS AND PRE-SALES

The film has recorded exceptional advance bookings, crossing 1.5 million tickets before release. It also sold more than 500,000 tickets for paid previews alone. For the opening weekend, worldwide pre-sales are estimated to be over Rs 260 crore gross. In India, advance bookings have reached around Rs 160 crore, with nearly Rs 100 crore coming from day one itself. Overseas markets have also shown strong demand, contributing over Rs 100 crore.

STRONG BUZZ AND POSITIVE WORD-OF-MOUTH

Directed by Aditya Dhar, the sequel has received positive reactions from both critics and audiences. The combination of high-octane action, a gripping spy storyline, and Ranveer Singh's star power is attracting viewers across metro cities as well as smaller towns. The success of the first film, which earned around Rs 1,350 crore worldwide, has further boosted expectations for the sequel.

EID WEEKEND EXPECTED TO BOOST COLLECTIONS

Trade experts believe the film's performance is even more remarkable as it released during the pre-Ramzan period, which is usually slow for theatres. With Eid approaching, collections are expected to grow significantly over Saturday and Sunday as family audiences step in.

ON TRACK FOR HISTORIC BOX OFFICE RUN

With record-breaking advance bookings and strong opening day trends, Dhurandhar: The Revenge is now aiming to become one of the highest-grossing Indian films of all time. The current momentum suggests that this could be one of the biggest opening weekends ever for Hindi cinema in 2026. The Revenge continues from where the first part ended. After the death of Rehman Dakait, the power struggle in Lyari intensifies. At the centre is Hamza Ali Mazari, originally Jaskirat Singh Ranghi, played by Ranveer Singh. The film dives deep into Jaskirat's painful past, showing how personal tragedy pushed him into becoming a covert Indian agent. As Hamza rises within Pakistan's underworld, he manipulates gangs, eliminates terror networks, and moves closer to completing his mission, all while risking his identity and life.

WHAT WORKS

The biggest strength of the film is Ranveer Singh. He delivers a powerful performance filled with rage, pain, and intensity. Whether in emotional scenes or

ACTOR / ACTRESS STATEMENTS ON DHURANDHAR 2

"I feel this film is intense and very close to reality. Playing my role really pushed me emotionally."

VIVEK SINHA

"I truly believe Dhurandhar 2 is a defining film. The story and characters are on another level."

VIKRAM BHAMBRI

"I really wanted to be part of this film, but I had prior commitments. It's my loss."

ANIL KAPOOR

brutal action moments, he dominates every frame. Director Aditya Dhar once again creates a gripping cinematic world. Despite the long runtime, the film keeps you engaged with strong drama, twists, and high-stakes action. The second half, especially the pre-climax and climax, stands out with whistle-worthy moments.

Arjun Rampal as Major Iqbal is a fierce antagonist and brings menace to the screen. R. Madhavan adds depth as the mastermind behind the mission, while Sanjay Dutt leaves an impact despite limited screen time. Technically, the film shines with solid cinematography, large-scale action, and an engaging background score.

WHAT DOESN'T WORK

The film's length is a challenge. At nearly four hours, a few portions in the second half feel stretched. Some sequences could have been trimmed for a tighter narrative. The political commentary is more direct this time and may not appeal to everyone. Also, the absence of a strong villain like the first part slightly reduces the tension in parts. The music, while decent, does not match the impact of the first film.

VERDICT

Dhurandhar: The Revenge is a larger, louder, and more intense sequel that delivers where it matters most. It may not fully match the freshness of the first part, but it compensates with scale, emotion, and powerful performances. If you enjoy action-packed spy dramas with strong patriotic themes, this is a theatrical experience worth watching. Telugu star Allu Arjun, who was among the first to watch the second part of director Aditya Dhar's eagerly awaited action thriller 'Dhurandhar 2', has showered praises on it, calling it an Indian story (with) International swag. Taking to his X timeline to express his thoughts on the second instalment of the film, which hits screens on Thursday, Allu Arjun wrote, "Just Watched #Dhurandhar2. Patriotism with swag! A film that will make every patriot proud. Many clap-trapping moments. BLAST!" He then went on to congratulate the entire Dhurandhar team. He wrote, "Congratulations to the entire team. Fine performances by @ActorMadhavan garu & all actors. Technical brilliance.

