Jaishankar raises Indian mariners' killing with Rubio; calls US strike on commercial shipping unjustified

NEW DELHI (TSIT):

External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar on Saturday raised with US Secretary of State Marco Rubio the killing of three Indian mariners in a US military strike on a merchant vessel in the Gulf of Oman. Jaishankar, currently on a visit to Europe, spoke to the US Secretary of State on phone.

Following the conversation, the external affairs minister described the "lethal" actions by the US military against commercial shipping as unjustified. "Spoke to US Secretary of State Marco Rubio this evening. I reiterated India's strong protest at the attacks by the US Navy in the Gulf that killed three Indian mariners," Jaishankar said on social media.

"Such lethal actions against commercial shipping are not justified," he said. India on Friday summoned US Charge d'Affaires Jason Meeks and told him that the American military's lethal strikes on commercial vessels with Indian crew members off the coast of Oman are unacceptable.

The senior diplomat was summoned on Wednesday night as well. A Palau-flagged oil tanker, Marivex, carrying 24 Indian seafarers, was disabled by US forces on June 8. All crew members were safely rescued.

On June 10, the US struck another Palau-flagged tanker, Settebello, killing three out of the 24 Indian sailors on board.

Another vessel, Jalveer, a Guinea-Bissau-flagged tanker with 20 Indians, was attacked on Thursday.

Following the attack on Jalveer, India said three merchant ships with Indian crew members came under attack from American military off the coast of Oman this week resulting in the death of three nationals.

It was New Delhi's first public acknowledgement that US Navy targeted the three ships with Indian crew members.

After Meeks was summoned on Friday, the Ministry of External Affairs (MEA) said a "strong protest" was lodged with him regarding the continuing attacks by US naval forces on commercial vessels carrying Indian mariners in the Gulf of Oman. The ministry said it once again "conveyed its deep concern over the use of lethal and deadly force against civilian shipping".

5 IAF personnel killed as AN-32 crashes while landing at Assam's Jorhat airbase

NEW DELHI (TSIT)

Five Indian Air Force (IAF) personnel were killed after an AN-32 transport aircraft crashed while landing at the Air Force Station in Assam's Jorhat district on Saturday. The co-pilot of the ill-fated aircraft survived and is undergoing treatment, IAF officials said.

They have been identified as Sqn Ldr Prashant Singh, Flt Lt Shubham Kumar, Sgt

Jitendra Sharma, Agniveervayu Khemaram Kumawat and Agniveervayu Danish Alam. The IAF has ordered a court of inquiry to ascertain the cause of the accident.

The aircraft had taken off from the IAF base at Jorhat with six people, including the pilots, on board. According to sources, the pilot reported a technical malfunction immediately after take-off and decided to return to the airbase. However, while attempting to land, the aircraft skidded off the runway and crashed, sources said. A fire broke out after the crash-landing, resulting in the deaths of five personnel.

"An IAF AN-32 aircraft met with an accident today while landing at Jorhat. A court of inquiry is being constituted to ascertain the cause of the accident," the IAF had said earlier in a post on X. The incident occurred at the IAF's Rowrah airbase in Jorhat district. Senior IAF officials rushed to the spot soon after the accident.

The Antonov AN-32 is a twin-engine turboprop transport aircraft of Soviet origin and forms a key part of the IAF's transport fleet. It is widely used for tactical airlift, troop movement, cargo delivery and logistics support, particularly in remote and high-altitude areas. Further details are awaited.

Rajnath Singh reviews Combined Graduation Parade at Air Force Academy, Dundigal; 231 cadets commissioned

DUNDIGAL (TSIT):

A total of 231 Flight Cadets (194 men and 37 women), including the first batch of women cadets from the National Defence Academy (NDA), were commissioned as officers in the Indian Air Force (IAF) following their graduation from the Air Force Academy (AFA) her on Saturday.

Defence Minister Rajnath Singh reviewed the Combined Graduation Parade of the 217th Course and awarded the President's Commission to the graduating cadets, marking the successful completion of their pre-commissioning training for the Flying and Ground Duty branches of the IAF.

On the occasion, nine officers from the Indian Navy, three officers from the Indian Coast Guard, and two officers from Vietnam were awarded their wings. In addition, three officers received Brevets upon the successful completion of their navigation training.

Congratulating the graduating cadets, Rajnath Singh said they were joining a service that has consistently served as both a shield and a sword for the nation. "The Indian Air Force altered the course of the 1947-48 war in Kashmir through the Srinagar airlift and scripted history in just 13 days with decisive air strikes during the 1971 war. Its indomitable spirit and unmatched valour were once again demonstrated during Operation Sindoor in 2025, when terror hideouts were destroyed with clarity and precision. The operation was successfully executed not only because of our indigenous platforms but also due to the IAF's trained, courageous and disciplined officers. I am confident that the force will continue to play a pivotal role in future operations as well," he said. The Defence Minister called upon the newly commissioned officers to remain vigilant in the face of evolving security challenges and to recalibrate their responses as situations demand.

"Warfare traditionally involves two vectors: the soldier and their equipment. However, in modern warfare, neither the adversary is often visible nor the weapon being used. Systems such as radars, satellites, drones, sensors, and robotics make it impossible to detect the combatant or their machinery.

India summons US charge d'affaires over strikes on merchant ships with Indian crew

NEW DELHI: India on Friday summoned US charge d'affaires Jason Meeks and told him that the American military's "lethal and deadly" strikes on commercial vessels with Indian crew members off the coast of Oman are "unacceptable". Instagram, WhatsApp and Facebook suffer global outage; services restored. Meeks was summoned to the headquarters of the Ministry of External Affairs (MEA), a day after the government said three Indian crew members of a tanker were killed in the US action. Meeks was summoned on Wednesday night as well. "A strong protest was lodged with him regarding the continuing attacks by US naval forces on commercial vessels carrying

It was New Delhi's first public acknowledgement that the US Navy targeted the three ships with Indian crew members. On June 10, the US struck another Palau-flagged tanker, Settebello, killing three out of the 24 Indian sailors on board. Another vessel, Jalveer, a Guinea-Bissau-flagged tanker with 20 Indians, was attacked on Thursday. External Affairs Ministry spokesperson Randhir Jaiswal said on Thursday that the three separate strikes on the Settebello, Marivex, and Jalveer "came from the US Navy". Jaiswal said two of the three vessels were subject to sanctions administered by the US Treasury's Office of Foreign Assets Control (OFAC), while another had been classified as non-compliant.

Indian mariners in the Gulf of Oman, which have already resulted in the tragic and avoidable loss of three Indian lives," the MEA said. It said the ministry once again "conveyed its deep concern over the use of lethal and deadly force against civilian shipping. Such actions are unacceptable and undermine the safety, security and stability of international maritime commerce in a sensitive region at a difficult time." "The US charge d'affaires was requested to convey India's strong concerns to his authorities and to ensure that US forces operating in the region take all necessary measures to prevent the loss of civilian life," the MEA said in a statement.

Not speaking to wife for 13 days not cruelty: SC

NEW DELHI: The Supreme Court has ruled that merely not speaking to a spouse for 13 days cannot, by itself, be treated as 'cruelty' under Section 498A of the Indian Penal Code, and set aside the conviction of a Coimbatore-based engineer. A bench comprising Justices Maheshwari and Atul S Chandurkar delivered the verdict while allowing an appeal filed by Jayesh Khanna, who had challenged his conviction by a trial court and its subsequent confirmation by the Madras High Court. The case relates to the death of Jayesh Khanna's wife, Sangeetha, who died by suicide at her parents' house on January 31, 2015. Jayesh Khanna was working as an engineer in Oman at the time. According to the prosecution, Sangeetha had gone to her parents' home without informing her husband's family. It was alleged that her husband, upset over the decision, stopped speaking to her over the phone. Police subsequently registered a case alleging that the resulting mental distress had driven her to take the extreme step. Free bus travel for women, transgender persons begins in Kerala from June 15A case was registered against Jayesh

Khanna and his family members under Sections 498A and 304B of the IPC. During the trial, the woman's parents levelled allegations of dowry harassment. However, the court found that those allegations were not proved and acquitted the husband's parents and other family members. The trial court, however, held Jayesh Khanna guilty under Section 498A, observing that he had allegedly not spoken to his wife between January 18 and January 31, 2015. The court treated the alleged conduct as mental cruelty that could have contributed to her suicide. The Madras High Court later upheld the conviction. Allowing the appeal, the Supreme Court observed that mental cruelty must be assessed in the context of the facts and circumstances of each case. The bench said there could be no uniform standard to determine mental cruelty, as an act that appears insignificant to one person may cause serious emotional distress to another. However, the court noted that the allegation that the husband had not spoken to his wife for 13 days had not been established through cogent evidence.

Elon Musk becomes world's first trillionaire as SpaceX soars in stock market debut

Elon Musk on Friday became the world's first trillionaire after shares in his SpaceX rocket company soared during the biggest-ever stock market debut. The Tesla and SpaceX founder comfortably cemented his status as the world's richest man, with his total net worth standing at $1.11tn (£828bn) according to the Bloomberg rich list. It came as the rocket, telecommunications and artificial intelligence (AI) company listed on the Nasdaq stock exchange with a value of $2.2tn. The company said its shares would be offered at $135 each, but trading opened at $150 and briefly reached $176.50 in a show of investor enthusiasm for potential business related to space and companies associated with Musk. SpaceX shares closed on Friday at about $161. The initial public offering (IPO) of SpaceX raised $75bn from investors and underwriters of the deal before shares of the company hit the open stock market on Friday. Musk's 42% ownership stake in SpaceX gives him essentially unilateral control over everything it does. He can spend the money being invested however he likes. According to Bloomberg, his shares in SpaceX were worth $767.1bn at close of trade, and he has another $53.8 in SpaceX options. He also has $168bn in Tesla shares, and a further $116.4bn in Tesla options. Musk's status as the world's first trillionaire immediately sparked debate about wealth inequality. His wealth is now similar to the entire economic output of Poland or Switzerland. Such unheard of wealth has already turned Musk into a powerful and divisive figure in global politics. He gave hundreds of millions of dollars to the re-election campaign of US President Donald Trump after criticising the country's leadership, and for several months last year, Musk led the Department for Government Efficiency (Doge). Through drastic cuts to government spending, Musk was responsible for the closure of the US Agency for International Development (USAID). Such cuts could cause more than 14 million additional deaths by 2030, according to a warning published by researchers in the Lancet medical journal. He has also criticised leadership in the UK and elsewhere, often on topics of immigration and promoting of racial divisions. Musk has repeatedly clashed with UK Prime Minister Sir Keir Starmer, including over the murder of 18-year-old British student Henry Nowak. Democratic US senators Bernie Sanders and Elizabeth Warren were among a slew of politicians to condemn the trillionaire milestone. Warren said it should be a "wake up call" and argued it underlines the need for wealth taxes. However, Musk is a trillionaire only on paper, as it is almost entirely tied to the value of his stockholdings in Tesla and now SpaceX. He is unable to sell any of his SpaceX stock for at least a year. SpaceX's public listing is also expected to have made millionaires of more than 4,400 of its current and former staff through the shares in the company they had been given as part of their pay. SpaceX's valuation is largely based on optimism about its potential future earnings, as opposed to financial results it has demonstrated so far. It is currently not profitable, meaning it loses more money from its operations than it makes. The company lost more than $9bn in 2025 and 2026 so far, according to its financial filings, due to its huge spending on AI and other infrastructure investments. The biggest focus of its business is the manufacture and launch of rockets with reusable parts. SpaceX also manufactures and launches Starlink internet satellites, and through this year's acquisition of xAI, another company Musk owned and operated, SpaceX entered into the AI business, too. SpaceX has said it will use the money to "fuel its growth strategy" around rockets, satellites for its growing Starlink internet service, and AI, including speculative plans to build data centres in orbit. Nancy Tengler, who heads Laffer Tengler Investments and put in an order to buy shares of SpaceX, called the company's AI business a "cash incinerator" despite Musk's ambitions for the segment. "It's important to take some of the projections with a grain of salt," Tengler said. Nevertheless, she is buying into the company for its long-term potential.

L'Oreal leases 90,000 sq ft in Hyderabad for its global tech hub

Hyderabad: French beauty giant L'Oreal India has leased 89,628 square feet of office space at Meenakshi Eco Park in Nanakramguda, Hyderabad, in what marks a concrete step toward establishing the company's first global Beauty Tech Hub in the city. According to documents reviewed by RE Journal, the lease covers the third floor of the development and was registered on 4 March 2026, with effect from 1 February 2026. The agreement runs for 60 months, with a lock-in period of 36 months. The starting monthly rent has been fixed at Rs 74 per square foot, with a 15 per cent escalation clause every three years. In addition to the leased space, L'Oreal has secured a hard option on a further 85,813 square feet at the same development, giving the company room to scale up its Hyderabad operations. The lease comes weeks after L'Oreal announced at the World Economic Forum in Davos in January 2026 that it would invest over Rs 3,500 crore (approximately Euro 350 million) to set up a global Beauty Tech Hub in Hyderabad. The hub, announced in partnership with the Telangana government, is positioned as a flagship centre for artificial intelligence, data, and digital innovation. L'Oreal CEO Nicolas Hieronimus described it as a "landmark" collaboration and said the facility would sit "at the heart" of the company's AI and digital ambitions globally. The centre is expected to generate around 2,000 highly skilled jobs, including AI specialists, tech engineers, and data scientists, by 2030, and will be operational by November 2026. It will join L'Oreal's existing network of tech hubs across France, the United States, China, Singapore, Spain, Poland, Canada, Brazil, and Mexico. Nanakramguda, part of Hyderabad's Financial District, has emerged as a preferred destination for global capability centres and multinational firms, with companies such as TCS, Wipro, ICICI, Broadridge, and Infosys among those based in the area. The starting monthly rent has been fixed at Rs 74 per square foot, with a 15 per cent escalation clause every three years.

Warner Bros $111bn sale to Paramount approved by US justice department

Paramount Skydance's $111bn (£82.8bn) acquisition of Warner Bros Discovery has been approved by the US Department of Justice. The approval marks a key development in the merger that will reshape media, allowing the takeover bid of the Hollywood studio, which owns CNN and HBO, to continue. The pending sale has been filled with contention, from Paramount's battle with Netflix over the company to scrutiny over industry consolidation and worries about politics. David Ellison, the leader of Paramount, is the son of Larry Ellison, a major donor to President Donald Trump. But it's not a done deal yet, as states like California are reviewing the sale and could sue to block it. In a statement on its decision, the justice department said it had conducted a "rigorous" investigation of the proposed deal and found it was "not likely to result in harm to competition or American consumers." Instead, the department said it found the deal would likely "increase competition across the media and entertainment ecosystem, with benefits for American consumers and workers." Rob Bonta, California's Attorney General, said in late February that he was concerned any takeover of Warner Bros would further consolidate and limit competition in the entertainment industry, which has seen layoffs and cuts in recent years. Earlier this month, Bonta said he would soon decide on taking formal legal action to block the merger. A spokesperson for Bonta told the BBC said there was no update on that review and said it "remains under investigation". More than 1,400 Hollywood actors, directors and filmmakers in April signed an open letter opposing the merger. "The result will be fewer opportunities for creators, fewer jobs across the production ecosystem, higher costs, and less choice for audiences in the United States and around the world," the signatories said. Skydance merged with Paramount in 2025 and cut about 10% of its workforce in the process. While people in Hollywood fear jobs cuts and the impacts of fewer studios being in power, Paramount executives have said it was looking forward to what they say will be billions of dollars in cost-savings. By taking over Warner Bros, Paramount will become one of the most powerful forces in Hollywood, adding news network CNN, TV networks HBO, TBS, TNT, TCM, as well as studios DC Studios and New Line Cinema to its current stable of assets. Those include Paramount Pictures, CBS, Showtime and Nickelodeon.

Anthropic suspends new AI tools over US government security concerns

Anthropic has suspended its powerful new AI model after US authorities raised security concerns just days following its public release. In a statement published on its website, Anthropic said it was ordered to suspend foreign nationals from using Claude Fable 5, a program that the company self-described as "too powerful". "The net effect of this order is that we must abruptly disable Fable 5 and Mythos 5 for all our customers to ensure compliance," the company wrote. Anthropic and the Trump administration are involved in a separate ongoing lawsuit over an order to stop government agencies using the company's AI tools. The BBC has approached the US Department of Commerce for comment. Claude Fable 5 is a version of Anthropic's Claude Mythos, an AI program rivalling competitors OpenAI's ChatGPT and Google's Gemini. Anthropic said US national security authorities had not identified specific concerns. "Our understanding is that the government believes it has become aware of a method of bypassing, or 'jailbreaking' Fable 5," the company said. Jailbreaking is a process of getting past software restrictions designed to protect a cyber network, allowing hackers to access sensitive information or unblock features. "We reviewed a demonstration of this specific technique being used to identify a small number of previously known, minor vulnerabilities," Anthropic said. "These vulnerabilities all appear relatively simple, and we have found that other publicly-available models are able to discover them as well without requiring a bypass." Ahead of the release of Claude Fable 5, the company touted various "safeguards" it had implemented to prevent cyber hacking.

Finance, technology and government leaders had expressed concerns about its public rollout, following a private release in April for pre-viewing and testing vulnerabilities within its own system. Anthropic said it enabled pre-release access for a handful of organisations because the tool was so intelligent that it could be dangerous because of its ability to exploit or hack computer systems. The company self-proclaimed that it was "too powerful to release" before Claude Fable 5 was publicly released, which some critics questioned as inflated hype and marketing spin. "Fable's capabilities exceed those of any model we've ever made generally available," the company said. Gina Neff, Professor of Responsible AI at Queen Mary University London, told the BBC that the decision to restrict access to the model could limit the development and safe testing of these AI systems. She warned it could also restrict collaboration with governments around the world. "We're in uncharted territory at this point," she said. "People within the AI industry have been warning us that these tools are getting better very rapidly and that we have to be able to build up capabilities to keep our companies safe from cyber attacks. She said the UK government's AI Security Institute found in its tests that the model could exploit defences and systems 73% of the time. "It's a step change in capability in cyber security," she added. Anthropic has found itself in the crosshairs of the Trump administration recently. Donald Trump has criticised the company publicly and then US Defence Secretary Pete Hegseth labelled it a "supply chain risk" – the first time a US company has ever publicly received such a designation.

Govt hikes onion procurement rate to Rs 16.5 per kg

New Delhi: The government has raised the onion procurement price under its buffer stock programme to Rs 16.50 per kg with effect from Saturday, June 13, from Rs 15.80 per kg currently, as part of its efforts to boost farmers' income. Farmers in Maharashtra are seeking a procurement rate of Rs 30 per kg in view of high input costs in the state, the country's largest onion-producing region. The buffer stocks are maintained annually under the Price Stabilisation Fund (PSF) for market intervention purposes. The government has set a procurement target of 2 lakh tonnes for the year, down from 3 lakh tonnes procured in 2025-26. Union Food and Consumer Affairs Minister Pralhad Joshi chaired a meeting on Thursday with officials from the Department of Consumer Affairs to strengthen onion procurement and ensure better returns for our farmers. "Based on prevailing mandi prices and quality requirements for storage-grade onions, the Minimum Assured Procurement Price (MAPP) has been revised to Rs 1,650 per quintal with effect from 13 June 2026," the minister said in a social media post on Friday. The pricing methodology has also been refined to make procurement more responsive to market conditions, he added. The Centre had earlier revised the price to Rs 15.80 per kg from Rs 12.70 per kg, citing market dynamics and the need to protect farmers. Onion procurement for the current season commenced on May 15. Onion output is estimated at 307.37 lakh tonnes in 2025-26 as compared to 307.67 lakh tonnes in 2024-25, as per the latest government data. Earlier this week, farmers in Maharashtra demanded a minimum procurement price of Rs 3,000 per quintal (Rs 30 per kg).

HYDERABAD'S MANAM BETS USD 9 MN ON HOMEGROWN CHOCOLATE

Hyderabad: Manam Chocolate, a Hyderabad-based bean-to-bar craft chocolate company, has raised USD 9 million in a Series A funding round led by venture capital firm Omnivore, with participation from the Turner Morrison consortium, as the brand moves to take on imported Belgian and Swiss chocolates in India's fast-growing premium confectionery market. The company said the fresh capital will be deployed to expand its retail footprint, with an immediate focus on launching new experiential store formats across the Delhi-NCR region over the next 12 months. Further expansion into Mumbai or Bengaluru is planned in subsequent phases. The company aims to increase its revenue from Rs 53 crore to Rs 260 crore. Founded in 2021 by Chaitanya Muppala, Manam currently operates three outlets: its flagship Manam Chocolate Karkhana in Banjara Hills, Hyderabad, a beverage bar in Knowledge

City, and a recently launched store at Eldeco Centre in New Delhi. Unlike conventional chocolate manufacturers that rely on imported cocoa, Manam builds from the ground up. Through its parent company, Distinct Origins Pvt Ltd, the brand works with a network of over 250 farmers cultivating more than 3,000 acres of cacao across three states, with a significant presence in Andhra Pradesh's West Godavari district, one of India's largest cacao-growing regions. The company also runs the Distinct Origins Cacao Fermentery in Tadikalapudi, West Godavari, described as one of the largest fine-flavour cacao fermentation facilities in the world, where proprietary, science-led processes are used to develop distinct Indian cacao profiles. Gifting accounts for approximately 65 per cent of the company's revenue, according to Indian Startup Times, catering to corporate, social, and personal occasions. The company plans to scale from its current three stores to 18 outlets over the next two years, while diversifying its product portfolio. Commenting on the fundraiser, Muppala said the investment marks a milestone in the company's efforts to build a globally respected Indian craft chocolate brand. "We have focused on strengthening every part of the value chain, from cacao cultivation and fermentation to chocolate making. This investment will help us scale further, expand into key markets and continue showcasing the potential of Indian cacao," he said. Omnivore partner Reihem Roy said the investment reflects growing interest in origin-led consumer brands that create value at the farm level. "Premium consumer brands like Manam Chocolate demonstrate how farmer-linked supply chains can improve livelihoods while building resilient food systems. As climate pressures reshape global cacao supply, investment in alternative, high-quality origins such as India represents both a commercial opportunity and a contribution to a more resilient global food system," he said. India's premium chocolate market is estimated at USD 1.64 billion as of 2025 and is projected to grow at an annual rate of over six per cent through 2030, according to industry estimates.

Israel carries out air strikes on Lebanon, state media says, as Iran claims deal with US near

Israel has carried out air strikes in the south of Lebanon after ordering people to leave about 20 locations, Lebanese state media has said. At least one person has been killed following a strike on the town of Marrakeh, in Lebanon's Tyre district, according to the Lebanese National News Agency. Israel's prime minister had previously warned his country would strike Hezbollah if it continues attacks against northern Israel. The strikes come as Pakistan's Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif, whose country is mediating talks between the US and Iran, wrote on X "we are closer to a peace deal than ever before", Finalisation is "likely expected in the next 24 hours", he added. Iran's foreign minister said earlier that a deal to end fighting with the US is close. The agreement also envisages an end to the conflict between Israel and Hezbollah in Lebanon, Seyed Abbas Araghchi also said. Araghchi said the deal includes reopening the Strait of Hormuz and told state TV it includes the lifting of a US blockade of Iran. However, he said talks on Iran's nuclear programme would begin later. US officials have confirmed some of the details of the agreement, saying economic benefits for Iran would depend on Tehran meeting its obligations. Previous reports from the US have suggested Lebanon may not be part of this deal - with Iran reportedly insisting on it. The war began with US and Israeli strikes across Iran on 28 February, prompting Iran to attack Israel and US-allied states in the Gulf - as well as effectively closing the Strait of Hormuz, a key shipping route for the world's oil and liquefied natural gas. Despite having agreed a ceasefire in April, the US and Iran have exchanged intermittent fire, including two rounds of tit-for-tat strikes this week. US

President Donald Trump said on Thursday that he had cancelled "scheduled attacks" against Iran, because negotiators had "just made a great settlement" - a deal that was likely to be signed imminently. On Friday, Iranian media published some details from the alleged 14-point deal which Trump said had "nothing to do with the terms that were agreed to" and "bears no relation to the truth". A few hours later, Pakistan's prime minister said the Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) between the US and Iran had been agreed and awaited finalising. On Saturday, Sharif wrote on X that his country "is preparing for the electronic signing of the peace deal... followed by technical level talks next week". Iran's Araghchi was quoted in state media saying there are "supporters and opponents" of the latest terms of the deal among Iran's top security body, the Supreme National Security Council. However, he added that a collective decision had not been reached. "For now, we must wait. If approved, the agreement will be signed remotely," he said. Israel is not involved in the talks which are meant to lead to an extension of the ceasefire and the start of negotiations on key issues, including Iran's nuclear programme. For decades, Iran has been accused by Western countries of trying to build a nuclear weapon. It has denied the accusations saying its programme is for peaceful purposes - to generate electricity and for research purposes. In a detailed briefing with journalists on Friday afternoon, US officials said the deal would reopen the Strait of Hormuz, in return for the US lifting its blockade on Iranian shipping. Those steps would come into effect more or less immediately. This would be followed by a 60-day period of negotiation - focusing on Iran's enriched uranium - an essential ingredient to make a nuclear bomb. Officials said that this would result in all that material being destroyed on site and then removed from the country, though the precise mechanism for doing so is still to be worked out. On the economic side, officials stressed there would be no money provided up-front - an apparent rejection of earlier Iranian news reports suggesting some Iranian assets would be unfrozen before substantial negotiations had begun.

WOMAN SERIOUSLY INJURED IN SHARK ATTACK AT SYDNEY BEACH

A woman has been seriously injured after being bitten by a shark at a beach in Sydney, police have said. New South Wales Police said emergency services were called to Coogee Beach in the east of the city on Saturday morning. The woman, 35, was "pulled from the water by members of the public who commenced first aid", police said, and suffered "serious arm and leg injuries". She was then airlifted to hospital by helicopter. Several beaches in the area were closed as a precaution. Attack eyewitness Nicola Logan told Reuters news agency that she saw a "massive pool of blood" in the water, then "a lady kind of motioning to swim, lots of splashing, and then a ski paddler was out trying to bring her in". It comes after a male diver died last week after being bitten by a suspected 4.5m (14.8ft) shark south-east of Perth, Western Australia. In May, a father-of-two who was killed by a shark near Perth. Shark attacks around Australia are more common than in many other parts of the world, though they are often not fatal. Since records began in 1791, there have been almost 1,300 recorded shark attacks in Australia, with more than 260 of them resulting in death. Popular swimming and surfing spots in Australia tend to have measures to protect against shark attacks.

US KILLS LEADER OF VENEZUELA'S TREN DE ARAGUA GANG IN AIRSTRIKE, TRUMP SAYS

The US military has killed the leader of the Venezuelan gang Tren de Aragua in an airstrike, President Donald Trump has announced. "At my direction, the United States Southern Command delivered a swift and lethal kinetic strike to successfully execute Niño Guerrero," Trump wrote on social media. Niño Guerrero, whose full name is Héctor Rusthenford Guerrero Flores, was the longtime leader of Tren de Aragua. The gang is one of the most notorious criminal groups in Latin America and has been a target of the Trump administration. The president has accused the group of engaging in "irregular warfare" against the US and declared it a foreign terrorist organisation. Trump posted footage of what appears to be the airstrike, showing a green building with a nearby shed being blown up, debris flying into the air. Trump said the military action was "coordinated closely with our friends in Venezuela, with whom we are working very well". Venezuelan authorities confirmed their involvement in what they described as a "joint operation". In January, American forces seized then-Venezuelan President Nicolás Maduro from his compound in a dramatic overnight raid to face criminal charges in New York. The US accused him of collaborating with the gang. The indictment named Guerrero Flores as a co-conspirator. Since then, the US has sought to tighten ties with Maduro's successor, Delcy Rodríguez, lifting sanctions on her and pushing to collaborate on the extraction of Venezuela's oil reserves - the most plentiful on earth. Under Guerrero's leadership, Tren de Aragua expanded into Colombia, Ecuador, Peru and Chile and diversified from extorting migrants into sex-trafficking, contract killing and kidnapping. It was originally a prison gang that Niño Guerrero turned into a "transnational criminal organisation", according to the US state department, which had offered millions for information leading to his arrest.

KING LEADS TRIBUTES TO 'GIANT OF THE ART WORLD' DAVID HOCKNEY

The King has joined the art world in paying tribute to David Hockney, one of the UK's most important and popular artists, who has died at the age of 88. In a personal message, King Charles said he and the Queen were "greatly saddened" to learn of the death of "a giant of the world of art and painting, a Yorkshireman through and through, and a dear friend and inspiration to so many". Artist Dame Tracey Emin said she felt privileged to have known Hockney, adding: "A great artist and a wonderful man, who with the power of art changed the perception of Britishness. A proud chain-smoking homosexual, who flew the flag higher than any other British artist."

SWITZERLAND TO VOTE ON PLAN TO CAP POPULATION AT 10 MILLION

Can a country put a fixed limit on its population? That is the question Switzerland will be answering on Sunday when voters go the polls to decide on a proposal to cap their population at 10 million, a move that has exposed divisions about immigration in the Alpine nation. The move is backed by the right-wing Swiss People's Party, which describes it as a "sustainability initiative" aimed at easing pressure on housing, public services and the environment. Dubbing it a "chaos initiative", the government, other political parties, business leaders and trade unions argue it will deprive hospitals and hotels of much needed staff, and damage hard-won relations with the European Union, leaving non-EU member Switzerland isolated in a very risky world. Switzerland's population has grown rapidly since 2002, when it stood at 7.3 million. Now it is 9.1 million, 27% of whom are Swiss residents who were born abroad. Switzerland's system of direct democracy means all major decisions are taken via the ballot box. Campaigners simply have to gather 100,000 signatures to ensure a nationwide vote. Many voters are concerned by overcrowded trains, expensive apartments and rising health costs. The latest opinion polls indicate this could be a very close vote. They suggest voters are inching towards a no vote by a wafer thin margin, with 52% opposed - but polls remain divided, with 45% saying they are in favour of the proposal and a significant number of voters still undecided. Helin Genis and Nils Fiechter have a good deal in common, but their diametrically opposed views on limiting the Swiss population are indicative of the polarised nature of this referendum. Both are young local politicians from immigrant families. Fiechter is 29 and Genis is 31. Helin's parents are originally from Turkey, while Nils's mother is from Canada and he holds dual citizenship. "We have lost control," complains Fiechter, who represents the Swiss People's Party in canton Bern's parliament. "Unchecked immigration is leading to Switzerland no longer being Switzerland."

Married at First Sight Australia stars not told partners had drug and violence convictions

Married at First Sight Australia stars say the show left them feeling unsafe and unprotected because their on-screen partners had criminal pasts which they were not told about, a BBC investigation can reveal. It comes after the British version of the show, known to many as MAFS UK, was plunged into crisis after BBC Panorama reported rape allegations from two women contestants - allegations the men involved have denied. One woman from last year's Australian series says she was not told the man she had been matched with had a previous drug conviction and only found out after the show ended. "There should be informed consent," she told us. We can also reveal that another groom from the same series had a past conviction for affray, which we understand his on-screen bride was not made aware of. Nine former cast members from MAFS Australia have spoken to the BBC and are now calling on the show to improve its background checks and to stop allowing individuals with previous convictions or allegations on the show. MAFS Australia is not made by the same production company as MAFS UK. Endemol Shine Australia is behind the show, which airs in Australia on Channel 9. In a joint statement, Channel 9 and Endemol Shine

Australia said they had "strong protocols in place to ensure participant safety and wellbeing". As well as being a huge hit in Australia, the show is popular in the UK and is shown on Channel 4. The broadcaster has pulled all the UK episodes of MAFS from its streaming service All 4, but MAFS Australia remains available to watch. Both programmes show single people agreeing to "marry" total strangers after meeting for the first time at their mock weddings. The marriages are not legally binding, but viewers see the couples go on "honeymoons", before moving in together and navigating their relationships - all while being filmed, almost every day.

Trump's name being removed from Kennedy Center after judge order

Workers have begun taking down US President Donald Trump's name from the front of the Kennedy Center in Washington, a day after the court deadline for its removal. The president's name had been added to the performing arts venue unlawfully, a federal judge found last month, ordering it to be taken down by Friday 12 June. Crews erected scaffolding on Friday as onlookers gathered into the evening, though thunderstorms delayed the work until early on Saturday. A last-minute attempt by the Trump administration to pause the order was rejected by the judge. The case stems from a broader legal dispute over the renaming of the cultural institution, which US law designates as a memorial to President John F Kennedy. In the early hours of Saturday, workers hung long plastic sheeting from the structure, obscuring the removal of the letters. Some onlookers chanted

"take it down", according to the BBC's US partner CBS. US District Court Judge Christopher Cooper ruled in late May that the venue in central Washington DC cannot be renamed without congressional approval. He also blocked the centre's temporary closure during upcoming proposed renovations. An appeals court declined to intervene immediately, allowing the removal to proceed pending further arguments. The Trump administration had argued that changing the centre's name could create confusion if the decision were later overturned. The US president announced the addition of his name to the institution, among other rebranding measures across the nation's capital, last year. In February 2025, he replaced several trustees on the centre's board and appointed himself as a trustee before being voted in as the arts centre's chairman.

Kidnapped Nigerian retired general dies in captivity

A retired Nigerian army general who had been kidnapped by gunmen in the country's north-west has died while being held captive, the military has said. Maj Gen Rabe Abubakar, who had a high-profile job as military spokesman between 2015 and 2017, was abducted with his wife while travelling in Katsina state last month. No group has said it was behind the kidnappings. The abduction and death of Abubakar highlights the continuing security challenges facing parts of north-west Nigeria, where criminal gangs known locally as "bandits" frequently carry out kidnappings for ransom, as well as cattle rustling and attacks on rural communities. Some militant jihadists have also operated in the region. An alleged militant camp in Sokoto state was the target of a US airstrike on 25 December last year. Katsina has been one of the states most affected by the violence. Local media reported that the retired officer had been going to a wedding on 30 May when armed men attacked his vehicle and seized him, his wife and their driver. Days before news of his death emerged, a video shared on social media appeared to show Abubakar in captivity.

Gill Surpasses Kohli, Dhawan To Script History; India Cruise In Chase

Shubman Gill keeps three-down India going in the chase of 195 against Afghanistan in the first ODI at Dharamsala. Earlier, Rahmanullah Gurbaz scored a century but debutants Gurnoor Brar and Harsh Dubey shared six wickets among them to help the hosts bowl out Afghanistan for 194 in 24.5 overs. India got off to a brilliant start by reducing Afghanistan to 25 for 3 in 4.3 overs after opting to bowl first. However, Gurbaz's fiery knock put the batting team back in the game. He slammed 102 runs in 51 balls, with the help of eight fours and as many sixes. Dubey picked three wickets for 47 runs, while Brar conceded only 27 while claiming three scalps. Gill's innings is now the highest score by an Indian at Edgbaston, surpassing the previous record of 149 set by Virat Kohli during the 2018 tour. It also stands as the highest score by an Indian captain at the venue. Interestingly, Kohli was leading the side when he played that memorable knock in Birmingham. Gill also surpassed Sachin Tendulkar's record for the most runs by an Indian captain in an away series at the age of 25. Gill has so far scored an unbeaten 323 runs in the series, going past Tendulkar's 290-run tally from the 1997 tour of Sri Lanka. Meanwhile, Ravindra Jadeja played a composed and impressive innings on Day 2, scoring 89 before falling just 11 runs short of what could have been his second century at Edgbaston. Having already scored a ton at this venue, another hundred would have made him the first Indian to register multiple centuries at Edgbaston. Earlier, Yashasvi Jaiswal set the tone for a strong total with a blazing knock of 87 off 113 deliveries, providing India with a powerful start. Though he narrowly missed out on a well-earned century, his innings gave India early momentum. For those unaware, India made three changes to the playing XI, bringing in Akash Deep, Washington Sundar, and Nitish Reddy in place of Jasprit Bumrah, Sai Sudharsan, and Shardul Thakur. Notably, the 25-year-old was under tremendous pressure before arriving in England for the five-match series. He had an average of 14.66 in England, and there was immense criticism after being appointed as captain. Gill was dropped from the fourth Test against Australia and there were questions whether he had done enough overseas to be named the leader of the locker room. In the ongoing series against England, Gill proved his worth with back-to-back centuries. In the first Test at Headingley, the youngster scored 147 runs in the first innings, and at Edgbaston, he played to his merit, scoring a dashing double century.

ROHIT SHARMA EMULATES VIRENDER SEHWAG'S HUGE FEAT, JOINS ELITE LIST OF OPENERS

Former India captain Rohit Sharma on Saturday completed 16,000 runs in international cricket to join an elite list of openers. By doing so, he became the seventh opener overall and the second Indian opener to breach the landmark of 16,000 runs as an opening batsman in international cricket. The all-time list is led by Sri Lanka great Sanath Jayasuriya, who finished his legendary career with 19,298 runs at the top of the order. Sehwag, meanwhile, hung his boots after amassing 16,119 runs in exactly 400 games. Rohit was run out for 16 after a horrible mix-up with captain Shubman Gill. The 39-year-old was struggling a bit after copping a blow to his wrist while batting. Earlier today, Rohit (39 years and 44 days old) also became the oldest player to feature in an ODI for India, breaking a record that stood for nearly 37 years. That milestone previously belonged to 1983 World Cup hero Mohinder Amarnath, who was 39 years and 36 days old when he made his final ODI appearance against the West Indies in Mumbai on October 30, 1989. Rohit's fitness was a huge concern heading into the series, having recently featured for Mumbai Indians in IPL 2026. However, the former India captain was cleared to feature in the squad. In the second ODI, Rohit will have the opportunity to overtake Sehwag as the batter with the most runs for India as an opener in international cricket.

WWE Confirms Secret Referee For Huge Title Match After Gunther Makes His Decision

A major question hanging over next week's WWE SmackDown finally got an answer after Gunther revealed who he wants overseeing his Undisputed WWE Championship match against Cody Rhodes. The identity of the special guest referee had been kept under wraps, but by the end of the night, the decision was official. The announcement puts Sami Zayn in an unusual position. Instead of competing or standing in either man's corner, he will now be the person responsible for enforcing the rules when Rhodes and Gunther meet again. With tensions already running high between Zayn and the champion, the decision immediately changes the feel of the upcoming title match. Gunther's rematch demand was rooted in what happened during his last title challenge. The issue goes back to Gunther's previous meeting with Cody Rhodes at WWE Clash in Italy. Rhodes left that match with the championship still around his waist, but the finish remained a sore point for The Ring General. During the deciding pinfall, Gunther's foot was underneath the bottom rope. Under normal circumstances, that should have stopped the count. The referee never saw it. His view was blocked during the sequence, and the match continued until the three-count was completed. Gunther protested afterwards, but the result stood. That controversy stayed with him. Since then, he has continued pushing for another opportunity against Rhodes and wanted extra oversight for the rematch. Not just another referee. A special guest referee. Sami Zayn's fallout with Cody Rhodes created an unexpected opening. Earlier in the same night, Zayn's relationship with Rhodes took another hit. Despite referring to Rhodes as his best friend, Zayn confronted the champion and slapped him across the face.

"MY BIGGEST FEAR HAPPENED": Jade Cargill Breaks Silence After Unexpected Wardrobe Mishap During SmackDown Match

Jade Cargill walked into SmackDown with a chance to move one step closer to championship gold. By the end of the night, though, fans weren't only discussing the Queen of the Ring tournament. A completely different moment from the match ended up becoming one of the most talked-about parts of her appearance. The former AEW star competed against Charlotte Flair, Lyra Valkyria, and Sol Ruca in a Fatal Four-Way Queen of the Ring tournament match. Cargill's night didn't go according to plan inside the tournament, but after the show, she grabbed attention with a social media post where she openly joked about an unfortunate wardrobe issue that happened during the contest. A top-rope sequence led to an unexpected moment during the match. The incident happened while Charlotte Flair and Jade Cargill were battling on the ropes. Flair was setting up for a superplex and eventually connected with the move.

During the landing, Flair's shoulder ended up on top of Cargill's hair. The contact accidentally pulled Cargill's wig off in the middle of the match. Cargill reacted quickly and put it back on almost immediately. The match continued, but viewers could see her frequently keeping a hand near her head afterwards as she tried to make sure everything stayed in place. Jade Cargill later admitted it was the situation she always worried about. After SmackDown ended, Cargill addressed the moment herself on social media rather than ignoring it. She posted a lighthearted message, admitting that losing her wig during a match had been her "biggest fear." Cargill also joked that she survived the situation, adding that her wig came out on top. Instead of turning the mishap into a bigger issue, the WWE star appeared to laugh it off publicly and move on from an awkward moment that happened live in front of the audience.

Brazil Receive Neymar Blow Ahead Of FIFA World Cup 2026 Opener vs Morocco

Among the biggest stars at the FIFA World Cup 2026, Neymar is definitely one. Not only is he a class footballer, but also a crowd-puller. The fact that he is a key part of Brazil's redemption journey at the FIFA World Cup makes him even more important. However, Brazil will be without Neymar for their opening FIFA World Cup group-stage match against Morocco, with coach Carlo Ancelotti admitting that the superstar forward could miss the entire group phase as he continues his recovery from a calf injury. Speaking before Saturday's clash against the 2022 World Cup semi-finalists in New Jersey, Ancelotti said Neymar is making progress but is not ready to return yet. "He is working hard to be fit again as quickly as possible. We hope he can return to full training next week," Ancelotti said.

Brazil also face Haiti on June 19 and Scotland on June 24 in Group F. However, the coach did not guarantee Neymar's availability for either game. The 34-year-old Santos striker was absent from training again on Friday and has not played since being unexpectedly called up by Ancelotti. Neymar also missed Brazil's warm-up matches against Panama and Egypt as he continued his rehabilitation from the injury. Despite concerns about his fitness, Ancelotti explained why he included the veteran in his World Cup squad. "He can be a good example for the younger players in our squad," the Italian said. Ancelotti, who is the first non-Brazilian manager to lead the five-time world champions, believes Neymar's influence goes beyond his on-field performances.

IRAN BEGIN WORLD CUP PREPARATIONS AMID SECURITY CONCERNS AND UNCERTAINTY BACK HOME

Iran's preparations for the 2026 FIFA World Cup have already begun in team's training base in Tijuana, Mexico with heavy security surrounding them. US President Donald Trump claims that the deal to end Iran war is close, while Tehran says 'nothing' finalised. For its football team Outside Estadio Caliente, where Iran are training ahead of the tournament, armed security personnel patrol the area throughout the day. Open-top security vehicles are circling the complex, while officers equipped with rifles are guarding key access points. Away from the security presence, however, the team has received a warm welcome from local residents. Messages in

Farsi and Spanish have been placed around the training base, and football fans have gathered outside hoping to see the Iranian players. For many in Tijuana, hosting a World Cup team has become a source of excitement. However, access to training sessions remains tightly restricted. Captain Alireza Jahanbakhsh has been one of the few players to speak publicly about the experience of being in Mexico. He even sat down for an interview. Reflecting on an earlier visit to the country, Jahanbakhsh recalled an incident in which he and a friend were confronted by armed robbers. He said the situation changed when the attackers discovered they were

Iranian. "They love Iranians," Jahanbakhsh said, describing an encounter that ended without serious harm. The story has now attracted attention across international media and has briefly shifted focus away from the challenges surrounding the team's preparations. Local club officials in Tijuana had little time to prepare. Work was carried out over several weeks to meet FIFA requirements, while security measures around the site were increased. Iran did not get the kind of preparation they had hoped for. They had to make do with a recently organised match against Club Tijuana, when they defeated their Under-21 side 3-0 in a training match. A proposed friendly against Grenada was cancelled too. Iran will open their World Cup campaign against New Zealand on June 16 before facing Belgium and Egypt in matches scheduled to be played in the United States. There had been uncertainty over whether the Iranian squad would be allowed to enter the U.S. because of ongoing political tensions. American authorities have since confirmed that players and officials will be permitted to travel for tournament matches. Questions however remain for supporters hoping to follow the team. Iran's World Cup ticket allocation was temporarily suspended because of complications linked to U.S. sanctions. FIFA says it is working to help Iranian fans attend matches, but many supporters are still waiting for clarity on travel and ticket access. There have been recent signs that diplomatic efforts are continuing. U.S. President Donald Trump has said progress is being made towards an agreement that could reduce tensions. But a formal deal is still awaited. For the moment, under the shadow of the patrol vans, and armed guards, the Iran players continue to prepare in their bubble in Mexico, ahead of the tournament.

Raducanu battles into Queen's semis but Boulter goes out

Emma Raducanu overcame an injury scare to reach the Queen's semi-finals but Katie Boulter's title bid ended with a straight-sets loss to Donna Vekic. British number one Raducanu went off court for medical treatment in the second set of her quarter-final but came through to beat Kamilla Rakhimova 6-3 7-5. The match was also interrupted in the first set because of the noise of a series of military aircraft flying overhead as part of the King's Trooping the Colour flypast in central London.

Raducanu has matched her best WTA Tour-level result on grass, the semi-final at Nottingham in 2024, as well as her career-best result at a WTA 500 event when she reached the semi-finals at Washington in 2025. The 23-year-old will return later on Saturday to face American teenager Iva Jovic at 17:20 BST for a place in Sunday's final of the weather-hit championships. She has yet to lose a set in the tournament but now faces the prospect of having to win two matches in a day to con-

I wish Transfer Trimurthulu becomes a big hit: Blockbuster director V. V. Vinayak at Trailer Launch Event

Produced under the Vadde Creations banner by actor-producer Vadde Naveen and presented by Vadde Jishnu, Transfer Trimurthulu marks the directorial debut of Kamal Teja Narla. Vinayak, who attended the event as the chief guest. Speaking at the event, V.

Vinayak said, “Thank you to Vadde Naveen garu for inviting me to this event. I worked as an assistant director and co-director on one of his films. It was during my association with Naveen garu that the foundation for Aadi was laid. He always treated me with great affection and respect. I know that nearly 90 percent of the films in his career were not projects he did with complete personal satisfaction. He has never truly been content with the films he worked on. On one occasion, I was shocked by the level of influence and reputation he enjoyed. Going forward, I hope he continues to make only the films he genuinely believes in. I wholeheartedly wish Transfer Trimurthulu becomes a huge success.”

“Vinayak was humble then, and he remains the same today. His journey makes me feel immensely proud. I thank him for taking the time to be here for us. The entire team worked on this film with great passion and dedication. The industry has undergone tremendous technical changes over the past decade. Along with a strong courtroom drama, this film also offers an engaging suspense element. No Friday ever belongs to a single film. It is not about competing with others; audiences support good content. We have ensured that this film stays close to realism, and its content is very strong. We are also receiving excellent support from the Zee team. Our film is arriving on June 19, and I hope everyone enjoys it.”
