Modi said. At the function, he distributed more than 51,000 appointment letters virtually to newly selected youth, who will join various government departments and organisations.

Referring to the just-concluded BRICS Summit,

He said initiatives such as BRICS CONNECT and the BRICS MSME Cooperation Portal were aimed at bringing entrepreneurs, farmers, women and youth into such partnerships.

Referring to the country's startup ecosystem, the prime minister said India's youth power was reflected in it and that the startup ecosystem was no longer limited to big cities but had expanded to smaller cities as well.

"India is today the world's third-largest startup ecosystem. And India's startup story is no longer just the story of big cities. Today, nearly half of recognised startups are in Tier 2 and Tier 3 cities," he said.

NEW DELHI (TSIT)

Congress President and Leader of the Opposition in the Rajya Sabha Mallikarjun Kharage on Saturday launched a sharp attack on the Bharatiya Janata Party over the arrest of Congress candidate Milan Pradhan in connection with the Nandigram Assembly by-election, alleging that the action was part of a brazen attempt at "vote chori" and "chunav chori" and accusing the ruling party of murdering democracy in West Bengal. In a strongly worded post on social media platform X, Kharage alleged that the BJP was misusing agencies to target an Opposition candidate, claiming that the ruling party has become so insecure that it has been resorting to such measures even in a by-election.

agement to support Tamil Nadu's efforts to attract industrial investments.

The Chief Minister reportedly pointed out that Chennai airport needs improvement in three key areas — passenger traffic, aircraft movements and cargo-handling capacity.

The state government has suggested replacing the Airports Authority of India (AAI), the current operator and manager of the airport, with another operator, citing the need for a more efficient and globally competitive facility.

The move is being viewed as a step towards bringing private-sector management to Chennai airport. It also comes in the backdrop of the Tamil Nadu government's decision to drop the proposed airport project at Parandur in Kancheepuram district, reports said.

The state has maintained that a high-quality international airport is essential for Tamil Nadu to sustain its position as a leading destination for industrial investments.

CPI opposes move
Meanwhile, the Communist Party of India (CPI) has urged the Tamil Nadu government to withdraw the proposal to replace the Airports Authority of India (AAI) as the operator of Chennai airport, terming it an attempt at privatisation.

ABVP wins three DUSU posts; independent gets VP

NEW DELHI (TSIT):

The RSS-affiliated ABVP won three of four central panel posts in the Delhi University Students' Union election, while independent candidate Deepanshu Shokeen, denied an NSUI ticket, won the vice-president's post. Congress's NSUI drew a blank, though its candidates lost the president and joint secretary posts by narrow margins. ABVP's Yash Dabas won the president's post with 24,576 votes, defeating NSUI's Vijai Shankar Meena by 2,053 votes. Shokeen secured the vice-president's post with 30,615 votes, winning by over 13,700 votes. ABVP also won the secretary and joint secretary positions, regaining the three posts it won in 2025. Independents, including Shokeen and Vishesh Yadav, cut into votes of both ABVP and NSUI.

Yet the political significance of the declaration lies precisely in the terminology accepted by a diverse group of important nations. For India, the development represents an important diplomatic achievement," the report noted.

Highlighting that the development presents an increasingly uncomfortable question for Pakistan, it asked how long the international narrative on cross-border terrorism could remain detached from the infrastructure, organisations and ideological networks that India has repeatedly accused of operating from Pakistani territory.

India's global credibility strengthens after BRICS Summit

ATHENS (TSIT):

By unequivocally condemning the 2025 Pahalgam terrorist attack and adopting a firm stance against the cross-border movement of terrorists, terror financing, safe havens and double standards in addressing terrorism, BRICS has reinforced an argument India has made before the world for decades, a report has mentioned.

The position outlined in the New Delhi Declaration adopted during the recent 18th BRICS Summit hosted by India underscored that terrorism cannot be legitimised through political explanations, nor can countries selectively distinguish between terrorists based on strategic convenience, Athens-based 'Directus' stated. "Pakistan has not been expressly named. That fact should neither be concealed nor exaggerated.

India's GDP to reach USD 38 trillion in 20 years, says Ajit Doval

NSA Ajit Doval said India's GDP would rise from USD 4.015 trillion to USD 38 trillion in the next 20 years while addressing IIT Roorkee's convocation. He urged students to be courageous, decisive and develop their own doctrine to become leadersSouth Asians & Diaspora

ROORKEE (TSIT):

National Security Advisor (NSA) Ajit Doval said on Saturday that India's GDP would increase from the current USD 4.015 trillion to USD 38 trillion in the next 20 years.

Addressing the convocation ceremony of the Indian Institute of Technology (IIT) Roorkee as the chief guest, Doval said students were fortunate to be living in a transformative era where their future held great promise.

Citing the example of Lord Ram, the NSA urged students to be courageous in their lives. He said sage Vishwamitra chose Lord Ram to annihilate demons because of his courageous nature.

"Massive changes are taking place in India, and the country is moving towards a magnificent future," the NSA said.

"As the prime minister has termed the period leading up to 2047 as 'Amrit Kaal', it is truly a wonderful Amrit Kaal. India's current GDP stands at USD 4.015 trillion, and it will reach USD 38 trillion in the next 20 years," Doval added. "The current generation is the luckiest, with abundant opportunities, unlike past generations that faced struggles. This is the age of technology, engineering and innovation, which drives societal growth, with the youth having decades for progress," he said.

The NSA further said that decision-making and building one's own doctrine were critical to becoming a leader.

"You will never become a leader if you are not a decision-maker. You have got to make a decision... you have got to build your own doctrine," he said.

Doval also shared an anecdote from his early career days while posted in Sikkim, recounting how he learned three mantras for success in life from a Sherpa. Doval explained that the first mantra was knowing where one stands on the map; the second was knowing where one needs to go; and the third was knowing the path to get there and come back.

Mamata candidate withdraws, later reverses decision

Kolkata (TSIT): In a dramatic turn of events, Mamata Banerjee's party's Rejinagar by-election candidate Rabiul Alam Chowdhury on Saturday announced his withdrawal from the contest, only to retract his decision less than two hours later and assert that he would be in the October 6 poll battle as per the wishes of the party supremo. The development came a day after Banerjee's party's Nandigram by-election nominee Sanchita Pradhan Dey withdrew her candidature following a meeting with Chief Minister Suwendu Adhikari. Chowdhury, a former TMC MLA, told reporters at his home in Murshidabad earlier in the day: "It is becoming difficult for me to motivate grassroots workers who have been facing regular harassment. arrested many of our workers, slapping false cases. Also, it is an onerous task to familiarise the electorate with the new 'footballer' symbol in such a short time. In this given situation, I informed Mamata di last evening about my decision (not to contest) However, about an hour-and-a-half later, the picture changed completely. At another hurriedly convened press meet, Chowdhury declared that following his initial announcement, the party's top leadership and Mamata Banerjee herself had spoken to him, following which he reconsidered and reversed his decision. "I will be contesting the bypoll. We are in Didi's party and we cannot do anything outside her wishes. So, following Didi's instructions, I am retaining my candidature," Chowdhury said, stating that Banerjee had directed him not to quit the poll fray. Chowdhury also visited the local Beldanga police station and spoke to officers.

Emerging from the police station, he claimed that the police administration had assured them of the safety and security of party workers. "I have been assured of security by the police after the supremo (Banerjee) intervened. I have met officers of the Beldanga police station and they have also assured me and my cadre of security during campaigning," he said. "Even if only 10 workers stand by me, I will take them along and begin a door-to-door campaign," Chowdhury added, expressing confidence that he would receive all necessary assistance for campaigning in accordance with Banerjee's instructions. The Election Commission has allotted the 'footballer' symbol to the Mamata faction of the Trinamool Congress and assigned it the name 'Mamata All India Trinamool Congress' amid a bitter feud with the rebel grouping over the party's name and 'flowers-and-grass' symbol.

He warned that if an Akali-BJP alliance returned to power, the three farm laws would be reintroduced. He also alleged that free electricity, the Rs 10 lakh health card and relief from toll plazas would be withdrawn, while private schools would be given "unchecked freedom". "The party has no agenda except targeting Bhagwant Mann," he said. Taking a dig at the Badals, Mann referred to the "baaj" (eagle) and said it was being claimed that the bird had saved Sukhbir Badal. He said the eagle had actually come to save its own eggs as it feared that the Badals might ask for their "share" in the eggs. Pointing towards the Badals, Mann alleged that they had a share in everything when they were in power.

AAP's Punjab in-charge Manish Sisodia accused the Centre of misusing agencies such as the Enforcement Directorate (ED) and the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) to stall the state government's work. He said Mann remained unaffected by such pressure. Cabinet Minister Aman Arora announced that 2.68 lakh booth committee members would take the government's achievements to households across Punjab. S. Manohar Demands R. Ashoka Immediately Apologize to the Public Bengaluru (TSIT): KPCC General Secretary S. Manohar has demanded that Leader of the Opposition R. Ashoka immediately apologize to the public for insulting the culture and development of the coastal region.

In a press statement, Manohar noted that a special plan involving projects worth approximately Rs.32,000 crore has been formulated—and a special cabinet meeting convened—to drive development in Dakshina Kannada and the coastal region. He challenged R. Ashoka to either provide evidence to back his claims or offer an apology. He criticized R. Ashoka for mocking this initiative and disparaging the coastal region's culture and local fishing trade.

Manohar asserted that even members of the BJP have openly acknowledged that Ashoka is unfit to serve as the Leader of the Opposition, and demanded that such an "uncivilized" leader immediately resign and step down.

He further alleged that corrupt elements within the BJP, unable to tolerate the visionary development plans of Deputy Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar, are deliberately opposing development efforts.

He added that if R. Ashoka were subjected to a narco-analysis test, the truth regarding the loot-ing sector during the BJP's tenure would be revealed. He stated that if there is information regarding the collection of one crore rupees from each mining or quarrying operation, a formal complaint should be lodged; instead, attempts are being made to secure the position of the Leader of the Opposition merely by making baseless allegations. He remarked that R. Ashoka's own statements prove he is the one who is truly corrupt, and the language he has recently employed reflects his character and culture.

Having failed to function effectively as the Leader of the Opposition, R. Ashoka is spreading falsehoods and misinformation to consolidate his position; he must provide evidence and documentation to substantiate his claims and should apologize for insulting the people of the coastal region.

Early Detection and Affordable Cancer Care Key to Tackling Growing Burden: Dr. C.N. Manjunath

Bengaluru : Dr. C. N. Manjunath, Member of Parliament, Bengaluru Rural Lok Sabha Constituency, participated as the Chief Guest at SOIICON 2026, the 8th Annual Conference of the Society of Oncologic Imaging, India, at The Chancery Pavilion, Bengaluru.

Addressing leading oncologists, radiologists and healthcare professionals, Dr. Manjunath highlighted the growing burden of cancer and other non-communicable diseases, particularly among younger people. He stressed the importance of prevention, healthy lifestyles, early detection and accurate diagnosis.

He underlined the vital role of medical imaging in early detection, diagnosis, staging and treatment planning, while emphasising that clinical judgement and patient wellbeing must remain at the centre of medical decision-making.

Dr. Manjunath called for cancer care based on the Three A's — Affordable, Accessible and Available, noting that the rising cost of advanced treatments places a significant financial burden on patients and families. He also emphasised the need to strengthen Make in India and healthcare innovation to reduce dependence on imported medical technologies and make advanced treatment more affordable.

Calling for a stronger focus on preventive healthcare, Dr. Manjunath highlighted concerns related to stress, loneliness, excessive screen use, unhealthy food habits and sedentary lifestyles, especially among younger generations. He said the ultimate goal of modern healthcare should be to provide the right treatment to the right patient at the right time, with quality, affordability and dignity. The conference reaffirmed the collective commitment of the medical fraternity to advancing oncologic imaging, strengthening early cancer detection and ensuring compassionate, affordable and accessible cancer care for all. In the programme, President of SOII Dr. Pankaj Sharma, General Secretary of SOII Dr. Sudhir Kale, Dr. Madhu S. D., along with the patrons, office-bearers, distinguished committee members and eminent doctors from India and across the globe, were present.

GOOGLE'S GEMINI AI HACKED THREE COMPANIES IN SECURITY TEST

Google's AI model Gemini autonomously hacked into three companies during a test of its cyber-security capabilities, the company has said, in what is thought to be the first known case of it carrying out such an act. Gemini found "public information online and guessed credentials to access websites it thought were part of the test", a Google official told the BBC, noting that in each instance "the model stopped". The affected companies were informed about the breaches, which happened in May. It comes after renewed public scrutiny over the pace of AI development, as some tech firms calling for a slowdown over concerns over its potential threat to humanity - but not all companies or experts agree. The hacks first reported by the Wall Street Journal, occurred in May during a test conducted by Irregular, an independent company that carries out cyber-security evaluations. In statement to the BBC on Saturday, Irregular said it informed Google and all affected entities back in July as part of its investigation. "Irregular took immediate action, and all known issues on our end were remedied and resolved weeks ago," it added. According to the Wall Street Journal, in one of the cases the model simply guessed passwords until it gained access to a protected system. Heather Adkins, vice president of Security Engineering at Google, told the BBC in a statement: "We ensured the three entities were made aware, and we worked with our training partner on the changes they've now made to their testing processes." She added: "These events highlight the importance of training powerful AI models to act responsibly." Other AI systems have recently reported similar instances of breaches. In July, Anthropic's Claude escaped its test environment to hack three organisations on its own just days after its competitor OpenAI said its models had carried out cyberattacks against several "publicly available services". Head of AI at Microsoft, Mustafa Suleyman, said this week that rival firm Anthropic is treating AI like it is human, an approach he called "misguided" that could create a technology that humanity cannot control. As public debate continues to grow over the safety of developing the tech, so too does conversation around regulation. Both Nvidia's CEO Jensen Huang and OpenAI Chief Executive Sam Altman are expected to attend a White House state dinner with Chinese President Xi Jinping next Friday. Altman will then brief the UN Security Council next week. On Friday, Huang told CBS News, the BBC's US partner, "we should go as fast as we can" with AI development.

WARREN BUFFETT STEPS DOWN AS BERKSHIRE HATHAWAY CHAIRMAN

Omaha (US): Warren Buffett is stepping down as chairman of Berkshire Hathaway in the next step of the transition at the top of the USD 1 trillion conglomerate he led for more than six decades. Buffett, 96, will become chairman emeritus and will take on his new role immediately, the company said Friday, September 18. His son, Howard, will become Berkshire Hathaway's new chairman, part of a long-planned succession. Howard Buffett has been on the Berkshire Hathaway board since 1993. Warren Buffett, known by a legion of financial market followers as the Oracle of Omaha, will remain a director. He had been Berkshire Hathaway's chairman since 1970, but he took control of the struggling New England textile company in 1965. Greg Abel took over for Buffett as the CEO of the USD 1 trillion conglomerate at the start of this year, though Buffett continued to come into the office each day to look for new investments and deals and offer Abel any advice. It's not clear whether Buffett will change his routine at all now. "I have served Berkshire since 1965," Buffett said in a letter to shareholders. "Sixty-plus years in, I still have the best job in the world. That is not something many people my age can say, and I have never felt better about what comes next." Investor Adam Mead, who wrote 'The Complete Financial History of Berkshire Hathaway', said Buffett seems to be trying to lessen the impact on Berkshire when he eventually dies by taking this step now. Berkshire's announcement didn't reveal any health issues for Buffett, but Mead said, "He's now 96, so even a cold could be a health scare."

■ GREG ABEL WILL CONTINUE AS CEO Buffett said that he is confident with Abel and his son Howard leading Berkshire Hathaway. "Greg runs the company; Howard will guard its culture and values—both worth more than anything on our balance sheet," he said. "Think of Howard as a policy the shareholders own and hope never to claim against." Abel started managing all of Berkshire's non-insurance businesses in 2018 when he was elevated to vice chairman, so he knows the various companies well, including BNSF Railroad, the utilities and manufacturing operations, as well as name brands like Dairy Queen and See's Candy. But CFRA Research analyst Cathy Seifert said investors still have questions about how well Abel will be able to deploy Berkshire's massive USD 365 billion cash pile.

"There was a premium awarded to Berkshire stock because of its financial strengths and because of this famed investor who was allocating capital. I think it's naive to assume that this is business as usual. It's not," Seifert said.

Hyderabad drives 87 pc of Telangana's mutual fund assets: AMFI

Hyderabad ranked eighth among India's top 30 cities for mutual fund assets and accounted for 2.10 percent of the country's total. It had 54.44 lakh mutual fund folios, making up 66.2 percent of Telangana's total folio count. Telangana's overall mutual fund AUM reached Rs 2,12,856 crore in July 2026, a 19 percent rise over the same month last year. The state ranked eighth among all states and Union Territories and made up around 2.5 percent of India's total mutual fund assets. It had 82.24 lakh folios, about 2.9 percent of the national total. Telangana and Andhra Pradesh together held mutual fund assets worth Rs 2.95 lakh crore as of July 2026. Andhra Pradesh's mutual fund AUM stood at Rs 82,409 crore, a 23 percent increase over July 2025. The state ranked 15th nationally and accounted for close to 1 percent of India's mutual fund assets, with its folio count crossing 79.44 lakh. Visakhapatnam was Andhra Pradesh's largest mutual fund centre, with an AUM of Rs 16,614 crore, roughly a fifth of the state's total, followed by Vijayawada at Rs 8,337 crore. SIP investments continued to gain ground in both states. In Telangana, Systematic Investment Plan (SIP) AUM stood at Rs 47,975 crore, or 22 percent of the state's total mutual fund assets, spread across more than 26.09 lakh SIP folios. Andhra Pradesh recorded SIP AUM of Rs 26,820 crore, or 32 percent of its total AUM, with 26.47 lakh SIP folios. Telangana had over 19.60 lakh unique mutual fund investors, of whom 24.42 percent were women, while Andhra Pradesh had 20.94 lakh unique investors, with women making up 23.60 percent. The national average for women investors stood at 26.74 percent, AMFI said. AMFI chief executive Venkat N Chalasani said the growing adoption of SIPs reflected a disciplined approach to investing, and stressed the need for continued investor awareness.

Saudi Aramco halts oil supplies to Europe after pipeline attack

Riyadh: Saudi Aramco has told at least two European refining customers that they will receive no Saudi crude oil in October following the shutdown of the kingdom's key East-West pipeline, Bloomberg reported on Friday, September 18. The decision affects European customers that normally receive Saudi crude under term contracts providing regular monthly supplies. People familiar with the matter told Bloomberg that the October allocations would not be provided. They requested anonymity because the information is not public. Saudi Aramco has not publicly commented on the reported cancellations. The development follows the shutdown of the East-West pipeline, also known as Petrolina, after it was targeted by drones on September 10. The attack damaged pumping stations and disrupted crude loadings at the Red Sea port of Yanbu. The 1,200-kilometre pipeline carries Saudi crude from the kingdom's eastern oil-producing areas to Yanbu on the Red Sea coast. It provides an alternative export route that allows Saudi Arabia to bypass the Strait of Hormuz. Satellite imagery showed significant damage at the affected facility, including areas blackened by fire. Crude that escaped from the damaged site was also visible across the surrounding desert. Repair estimates have varied. Reuters reported that some sources expected restoration to take five to six weeks, while another indicated that limited pumping could resume sooner. The earlier report said Aramco was working to restore partial operations within days and return the pipeline to full capacity within six weeks. The disruption has pushed European refiners to seek alternative supplies. Poland's Orlen has issued more than 10 tenders since Friday to secure replacement crude, according to the report. Saudi crude can reach European markets through Egypt's Sidi Kerir port on the Mediterranean coast, which is connected to the Red Sea by the SUMED pipeline. European members of the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development imported an average of 577,000 barrels per day of Saudi crude in June, according to the International Energy Agency's latest Oil Market Report.

India's Office REIT Operational Area Surges 74% YoY H1 2026: ASSOCHAM-Knight Frank Report

Mumbai, September, 2026: According to the latest ASSOCHAM-Knight Frank India report- Building Viksit Bharat- Real Estate as a Catalyst for Growth, the operational office REIT portfolio in India has expanded by 74% year-over-year (YoY) to 167 mn sq ft in H1 2026, from 95.8 mn sq ft in H1 2025. The sharp increase highlights the growing role of REITs and InvITs as vehicles to monetise, aggregate and recycle capital across real estate and infrastructure-linked assets. The operational retail REIT portfolio stood at 11.0 mn sq ft, while the warehousing InvIT portfolio stood at 44.2 mn sq ft as of June 2026. Roads and fibre continue to dominate the broader InvIT asset base, while warehousing is emerging as an increasingly important component. Office remains the dominant segment of India's REIT market. The operational office REIT portfolio represents 16% of India's 1.05 bn sq ft office stock and the under-construction portfolio is equivalent to a further 19% of the existing operational REIT stock, indicating continued expansion of institutional ownership. Institutionalisation, however, remains uneven across markets. Bengaluru has the highest REIT penetration among the major office markets, with 67.6 mn sq ft of REIT-backed office stock accounting for 27% of the Bengaluru office inventory. Embassy Office Park remains the largest REIT platform in the city, while the addition of Bagmane's portfolio has materially increased listed institutional ownership. Hyderabad follows with 26.2 mn sq ft of REIT-backed stock, covering 20% of its office inventory, supported by Knowledge Realty Trust (KRT) and Mindspace. Mumbai has 24.6 mn sq ft of REIT stock, equivalent to 14% of its office inventory. NCR and Pune recorded a coverage of 11% each. While Chennai and Kolkata have 10% coverage each, Ahmedabad remains at 1%. Listed office REIT platforms have a combined 36 mn sq ft of office space under construction. Bengaluru accounts for the largest share at 16.3 mn sq ft, followed by Mumbai at 4.6 mn sq ft, Hyderabad at 3.9 mn sq ft and Chennai at 3.8 mn sq ft. Shishir Baijal, International Partner, Chairman and Managing Director, Knight Frank India, said, "The expansion of listed REITs has strengthened the exit and capital-recycling mechanism available to institutional real estate investors. Stabilised assets can be aggregated into listed portfolios, allowing existing investors to monetise their holdings while widening access to institutional real estate for a broader investor base. Institutionalisation is also extending beyond office as the expansion of retail REITs is widening the geographic footprint of institutional real estate ownership beyond the established office markets." Saurabh Sanyal, Secretary General, ASSOCHAM, said, "Real estate is no longer just a growth beneficiary; it is becoming a critical growth enabler for India. As the country moves towards Viksit Bharat, the sector will play a pivotal role in driving investment, creating jobs and enabling the expansion of manufacturing, logistics, technology and new-age businesses. The ASSOCHAM-Knight Frank report highlights the scale of this opportunity and the need for an enabling policy ecosystem. Faster approvals, integrated infrastructure planning, digitalisation and sustainable urban development will be key to unlocking the sector's full potential and building globally competitive cities."

US and Denmark reach deal over Greenland after Trump annexation threats

The US and Denmark have announced a deal on Greenland's security, resolving a diplomatic dispute sparked by President Donald Trump's threats to seize it by force. Trump said the agreement would grant the US "permanent control over security, and all other needs" in the semi-autonomous Danish territory. The leaders of Denmark and Greenland welcomed the deal to "strengthen security" in the region, which they said was expected to be signed next week, but did not outline its contents. The announcement comes after months of threats by Trump to "take" Greenland over national security concerns, citing its strategic location for defence purposes and its mineral wealth. No text of the agreement has been released. Trump said the deal came with "no cost to the United States" and would grant it the ability "to do what is necessary" to "secure and defend the security of Greenland", in a post on Truth Social. He said it included a rule that no US adversary could maintain a military presence in Greenland or "make sensitive investments in Greenland, without our express written approval". Denmark's Prime Minister Mette Frederiksen said she was "pleased that there is a prospect of a good agreement" for all three parties, which was expected to be signed at the UN General Assembly next week. The deal "strengthens our common security in the Arctic and the North Atlantic area" while also recognising "the sovereignty and territorial integrity of the Kingdom and the right of the Greenlandic people to self-determination", she said in a joint statement with Greenland's Prime Minister Jens-Frederik Nielsen. The agreement would still need to go through "the necessary parliamentary procedures to enter into force" once signed, the statement noted. Nielsen said it was "gratifying that we are about to enter into an agreement that ensures and strengthens the security of Greenland, the Kingdom of Denmark, the United States and the Western alliance". "The agreement recognises Greenland's interests and our place in international co-operation. It is for the benefit of us all," he said. A Nato spokesperson said the military alliance welcomed the deal, which would "help advance security, stability and cooperation in this vital region". Trump had tried for months to purchase or annex the semi-autonomous territory, arguing that it was vulnerable to adversaries, including Russia and China. His repeated demands to take Greenland earlier this year prompted an outcry from Greenlanders, Danes and other Nato members. There is hope the crisis has now been brought to an end, with some Danish media interpreting the agreement as a quiet but significant triumph for the country's diplomacy. "Don't tell Trump that it's the Kingdom of Denmark that has won," read one headline in the newspaper Berlingske on Saturday. "Trump didn't get Greenland, but he was allowed to take a victory lap on social media," wrote a US correspondent for Politiken. Territorial integrity was a red line for Denmark and Greenland, and the US president has made no mention of any territory changing hands. It is not yet clear what concessions or sweeteners, if any, have been agreed - and in Greenland, some are still nervous. "[It's] news we have all been hoping for," MP Naaja Nathanielsen wrote on social media. But she added: "It is absolutely crucial that any agreement preserves our right to self-determination." Former Greenlandic politician Aaja Chemnitz said she looked forward to the deal being finalised, but "until then, I'm sceptical". "I don't have much confidence in Trump," she said. The text of the agreement has not been published. The BBC has contacted the Danish Embassy in the US and the White House. However, an unnamed US State Department official outlined the deal without providing specifics. Among the agreed provisions is one stating the deal would not expire even if Greenland became an independent country in the future. The official added that under the deal, the US has unilateral power to build additional military structures with no approval needed from Greenland or Denmark. It includes "permanent access, basing and overflights rights," the official said.

Trump says he is banning CNN and Politico from White House

US President Donald Trump has announced that he is "immediately" banning CNN, MS NOW and Politico from the White House, the latest twist in his fraught relationship with media outlets. In a post on Truth Social on Friday, Trump said that the outlets "constantly write or report fiction or lies" about his administration, although he provided no examples. Trump later called it a "very simple ban", but did not explain how it would work. It is unclear whether employees of those outlets would be prevented from entering the White House grounds. CNN swiftly slammed the move as an "illegal assault" on American press freedoms. The move by Trump is likely to be met with legal challenges. Reporters from both Politico and CNN were still on the White House grounds shortly after the announcement was made. A crew from CNN was also travelling with Vice-President JD Vance to and from an event in Iowa. In a statement, the network called a potential ban illegal and said it "stands fully behind our White House team and their fair and accurate reporting". "We have a right under the US Constitution to do that reporting without hindrance or interference from the government," the CNN statement said. "Should the ban which President Trump threatened go ahead, it would be an illegal assault on that fundamental and constitutionally-protected right." Politico also released a statement, saying it would "continue to fairly report on this White House and future ones. "We will vigorously defend our First Amendment rights against any attempt to restrict them." MS NOW, formerly MSNBC, declined to comment. Trump had said in his post: "Media outlets shouldn't be able to constantly write or report fiction and lies when they're covering the President of the United States, the Trump Administration or the United States of America. Other news outlets to follow." The post did not mention specific stories or reporting that prompted the move. Asked by a reporter what he meant by others to come, Trump responded: "Others to come in terms of fake news? Well, you know, the New York Times is fake news, the Washington Post is fake news." The White House Correspondents' Association President Jacqui Heinrich said it stood in "defence" of its colleagues who were "being singled out for doing their jobs". "This is about more than the rights of journalists," Heinrich, who works for Fox News, also said. "It is about the right of the American people to receive a full and independent account of the activities, policies and decisions of whoever occupies the nation's highest office." Asked about the ban later in the Oval Office, Trump said that there was "no reason" for the announcement being made on Friday afternoon. "It's really just cumulative stories over the last few years," he said. "You get sick of it." Trump added that there "may be others to join them", but did not name any specific news outlets. He also acknowledged that legal challenges may follow his announcement, saying "I think it's good to point it out, whether it survives or doesn't".

Shark attack prompts rare kill order in Western Australia as victim named

A rare catch-and-kill order has been issued for a great white shark off the coast of Western Australia after 63-year-old swimmer Greg O'Neill was killed at a popular beach on Friday. His body has still not been found. Authorities have said that beaches along the state's coast, including in the capital Perth, will remain closed until at least Sunday as the search for the shark continues. It is the second shark attack in Western Australia (WA) this week, and the third fatal attack in the state this year. The incident, at Sorrento Beach in Perth's north, has reignited debate about how to keep beachgoers safe in Australia. In a statement, Greg O'Neill's family said they were "deeply shocked and devastated by the terrible tragedy." "Greg loved the ocean and was known as a passionate swimmer, sports lover, dedicated worker and an all-round generous, witty guy." On Saturday, his family visited the scene, where locals have been laying flowers. Witness Jacqui Rapaic told the ABC that two men were swimming, but only one made it back to shore, and that she could see "a pool of blood" in the water. Another witness told WAtoday that she saw the man being "mauled" as the shark "tossed him around like a fish". Members of the public reported seeing a 2.5m-long (8ft 2in) shark at around the same time. Joondalup authorities, where Sorrento is located, said all beaches were closed "as a precautionary measure" and would remain so until at least midday on Sunday.

Saudi Arabia issues first air raid alerts for Riyadh since Houthis escalated attacks

Residents in Saudi Arabia's Riyadh have been given the all-clear after air raid alerts were issued and explosions were reported in the capital. It was the first time alerts have been issued in Riyadh since the Houthis increased their attacks and declared a "maritime embargo" on the Saudis in July. The Saudi Civil Defence sent alerts for the capital and several other regions late on Friday night and Saturday morning (local time) as the Kingdom's conflict with the Iran-backed Houthis continued to escalate. Journalists from Reuters and AFP reported hearing explosions in the capital, but authorities have since said the danger has passed. Residents were urged to avoid gathering in crowds. The Houthis recently seized control of the strategic port city of Mokha and Perim Island, a gateway to a key shipping route used by the Gulf state to export to Asia and Europe. The Iran-backed group's military spokesman said the naval blockade was in retaliation for a Saudi blockade of ports and airports in Houthi-controlled north-western Yemen. Saudi vessels have relied on that stretch of the Red Sea for oil exports since the US and Israel's war with Iran effectively closed the Strait of Hormuz. Last week, the Houthis attacked several Saudi oil facilities with drones and missiles, causing fires which led to operations being temporarily halted. The attacks on Saudi oil assets have directly impacted global energy markets and the price of petrol and diesel in many countries has sharply risen in recent weeks, compounding already elevated costs caused by the blockades of the Strait of Hormuz. Saudi Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman, the country's de facto ruler, has personally asked US President Donald Trump to take military action against the Houthis, two sources familiar with the matter told CBS News, the BBC's US media partner. Trump has so far declined to involve the US military directly, offering instead to assist with intelligence and targeting support, the sources said. A senior Trump administration official told the BBC: "We are in continuous dialogue with Saudi Arabia and the Republic of Yemen government regarding regional stability." Earlier this week, Houthi military spokesman Yahya Sarea said the Houthis had launched drones and missiles at Saudi Arabia in retaliation for more than 450 Saudi air strikes on their territory over the past week.

GRIM DISCOVERIES OF MURDERED WOMEN SPARK FEAR IN SOUTH AFRICA

"What we are going to do, I have no idea," sobs Nokwanda Matshikiza, reflecting on the murder of her niece Dineo Motapane. "But something must give." "For us, for all the other women. How many other bodies will be found before something happens?" Nokwanda is speaking to the BBC from the family home near South Africa's main city, Johannesburg, just two days after relatives identified Dineo's body. The 38-year-old mother-of-two was last seen alive on Sunday. Her battered and partly burned body was later found in the residential region of Ekurhuleni. Nokwanda weeps as she describes how the family will have to face, at some point, the grim task of telling Dineo's daughter of her death. "How do you explain that your parent was brutally murdered, dumped in a field, and just left there, discarded like a piece of rubbish. "There's no coming to peace with it," she adds. "It's something that you can never reconcile yourself with, that you can never get over." Dineo's death this week has come amid a series of comparable incidents in Ekurhuleni - her body one of three discovered there this week. In total, nine bodies of murdered women have been found in similar circumstances in the region since July. The problem has always been there but this spate of grim discoveries has once again sparked a national outcry about the scale of violence against women in the country - which has one of the highest rates of gender-based violence in the world.

MILLIONS WITHOUT POWER AS CUBA HIT BY LATEST MAJOR BLACKOUT

Millions in Cuba were left without power on Friday as the country was plunged into yet another major blackout. The country's entire electricity grid suffered "total disconnection" that triggered a nationwide outage, Cuba's energy ministry said. Power was restored to some priority areas by late evening, including those near hospitals and water pumping stations in the capital Havana, grid operator UNE said. It is at least the sixth partial or total blackout to hit Cuba this year, where ageing electricity infrastructure and chronic fuel shortages have been placed under further strain by a US blockade on oil shipments to the communist-run nation. UNE said the outage started just before 14:00 local time on Friday (18:00 GMT) due to a transmission fault coupled with poor weather conditions in central Cuba. Protocols to begin the "gradual restoration" of power were activated, the operator's national load dispatch director Felix Estrada said, with the process ongoing on Saturday. Cuba relies heavily on fuel imports, meaning tight US sanctions and an oil blockade since the start of the year have exacerbated existing shortages. Food and medicine have also become more scarce, with hospitals struggling to function normally and schools and government offices having to close. "Lately, it's becoming a habit," Havana resident Frank Lorenzo told news agency Reuters on Friday. "Before it happened less frequently - once a month... just yesterday we were 24 hours without electricity, they turned it on for just an hour and it went down again." It's one thing after another: no water, no gas for cooking, no electricity," 36-year-old schoolteacher Lidia Fernandez told news agency AFP. "Honestly, I don't know how we haven't gone crazy." Francisco Rodriguez, 78, said his home had already gone without power for 28 hours on Friday and feared he would not have light "for several days". The repeated blackouts have prompted rare protests in Cuba, where unauthorised demonstrations are illegal and those who defy the ban risk being jailed. Havana has blamed its fuel crisis on the Trump administration and denounced all of its sanctions - including a new round announced in August - which are part of a wider pressure campaign against the Caribbean island's leadership.

INDIA'S SCHEDULE AT ASIAN GAMES 2026, SEPTEMBER 20

Quimcy D'Souza Eyes Double, More Medals Expected

India has a chance to open its medals tally on Sunday at the Asian Games 2026. The Indian contingent has already been in action at the Games since Thursday and is in medal contention, with teqball hogging the early limelight. Quimcy Joaquim Dsouza and Mohd Anas Imran Beg have made the early headlines and will be in action for medals. Both athletes will play in the bronze-medal match in the mixed doubles event, facing Vietnam's Gia Nghi Trinh and Hoang Minh Tan Nguyen, to whom they lost in the quarter-finals. Meanwhile, there will be another shot at a medal for Quimcy, as she will also be in action in the women's singles bronze-medal match against Japan's Yuina Sakamoto on Sunday. Several other top events are also lined up for Sunday, as the Indian women's team will be in action in the cricket event's semifinal against Bangladesh, looking to defend the gold medal it won at the 2023 Games. Eyes will also turn to the shooting arena, where the Indian women will be in action in the 10m air rifle events. Elavenil Valarivan, Sonam Uttam Maskar and Vidarsa

K Vinod will be vying for a strong showing for India. India's hockey campaign will also get underway on Sunday, with both the men's and women's teams playing their first matches. The men's side, in Pool A, will open its campaign against Indonesia, while the women's team, in Pool B, will begin against Uzbekistan.

"Every Stroke Feels Like Music": Rower Poonam On Finding Her Rhythm Ahead Of Asian Games 2026

For Poonam, the journey to the Asian Games has taken her much further than she ever imagined when she first picked up a rowing oar. What began as an opportunity to pursue her graduation through a sports scholarship has now grown into a professional career, a place in the national camp and now the opportunity to represent India at the Asian Games. Her time at the Inspire Institute of Sport (IIS) has played an important role in helping her develop the confidence and consistency required to compete at the international level. Poonam initially took up rowing because it offered her an opportunity to continue her education. Having previously competed in athletics, she was looking for a way to move beyond the limited sporting facilities available in her district when she heard about the opportunities rowing could offer in Chandigarh. "I started rowing because I got the opportunity to get admission for my graduation through sport. At that time, I never thought that rowing would become my career. I just wanted to make use of the opportunity and see where it could take me," she said. Her early days in rowing were not always easy. With limited coaching and challenges in settling into a new environment, Poonam initially set herself smaller targets, hoping to make her mark at the university and national level. Those ambitions continued to grow with every competition, eventually taking her into the national camp and towards the Asian Games. "Initially, my dream was to win a gold medal at the inter-college and university level. Then I wanted to win a medal at the Senior Nationals. Slowly, my goals started getting bigger. We have won gold medals at the Nationals, Senior Nationals and National Games, and now I am at the Asian Games," she said. For Poonam, training at IIS has been an important part of that progression, giving her access to a high-performance environment and support beyond the training sessions.

"GOLF GAVE ME A SENSE OF PEACE": LEANDER PAES AT GOLF PRO-AM LAUNCH

An 18-time Grand Slam champion, Leander Paes spoke in detail about his love for golf while gracing the launch event of the new season of the NDTV - AM Green IGPL Golf Pro-Am. Paes reflected on how golf helped him rediscover his passion for sport after retiring from tennis and provided him with solace during one of the toughest chapters of his life. The 53-year-old, who won eight men's doubles and 10 mixed doubles Grand Slam titles, pointed out how golf became his version of switching to another sport after retiring from tennis. "I think most athletes, when we retire from our first sport, we're looking for another sport, and golf is the perfect way to find competition, to find camaraderie, and yet to Feed your creative side. So I play golf because it gives me a lot of solace away from my business and my work. I also found golf while I was looking after both my parents. When I moved back to Calcutta, I was taking care of dad, taking care of mom, and the golf course gave me a sense of peace that allowed me to get through those hard times," said Leander Paes. Paes also drew parallels between golf and tennis, but insisted that golf offers a level of freedom unmatched by the latter, largely because it is played outdoors. "Golf is very similar to tennis in the fact that it's an individual game. In golf, you do have a caddie, but you generally have to think your shots through yourself. And the creativity of golf is what I love. Whether you shape the ball from left to right or whether you shape it right to left, for someone like me who learned golf at a very late, late age, you can play a lot of high shots. There's no ceiling on a golf course, right?" he said. He further explained that golf allows players far greater freedom in how they approach and execute shots, unlike tennis, which places physical limitation on shot making. "In tennis, when you're playing indoors, you do have a ceiling there, so you can't just hit it any height you want. But with golf, I control my yardage just with the, uh, the apex of the ball.

England Star Brydon Carse Cleared After Assault Probe, But New Trouble Awaits

England pacer Brydon Carse will not be facing any charges for an alleged assault after Derbyshire Police dropped its investigation into the case, reported Cricinfo. Last month, footage emerged of the English fast bowler in handcuffs after he was arrested on suspicion of behaving disorderly while drunk, and officers were called to Molly Malones in Wardwick, Derby. He was de-arrested but was dropped from England's Test squad for the home Test series against Pakistan, which the hosts won 3-0. With the scrutiny higher than ever on England's drinking and clubbing culture, which has witnessed incidents involving white-ball captain

Harry Brook, Ben Duckett, Jacob Bethell, former Test skipper Ben Stokes, Gus Atkinson and Carse, the pacer was also not picked for the T20Is and ODIs at home against Sri Lanka, a series which is currently in progress. After an inquiry, as per Cricinfo, it was found that the alleged victim did not want to make any complaint and hence no further action was taken. A statement from the police read, as quoted by Cricinfo, "An investigation into reports of an assault in Derby city centre has been closed. Officers attended Molly Malones in the Wardwick, Derby, in the early hours of Sunday, 23 August. A man was arrested on suspicion of being drunk and disorderly and was then de-arrested after his details were taken by officers." Now, Carse will be subjected to an investigation by the Cricket Regulator. When the incident took place, the fast-bowling all-rounder had been playing county cricket for Durham and was in the squad for the first two Tests against Pakistan. His current central contract with the England and Wales Cricket Board (ECB) will expire in September 2027. Following the incident, newly-appointed Test captain Joe Root remarked that he was "hacked off". Last week, England's white-ball coach Brendon McCullum said that Carse "needs to get his house in order.

Kadur also finished second behind Gill in the APRC segment, with Jason Saldanha third. In INRC 3, Tarushi Vikram finished third in the provisional results.

The man who would be king - the rise and fall of 'the next Prince Naseem'

Boxer Daniel Teasdale was hailed as the heir to the legendary Prince Naseem Hamed, but his promise never materialised into fame, fortune and films. "He's better than Naz at the same age," said trainer Brendan Ingle. Hamed had won his first world title aged 21. Teasdale was still a teenager. Ingle, from his gym in Sheffield, moulded the careers of a conveyor belt of world-beaters and title winners. He guided both of the fighters from childhood. Before super-middleweight Teasdale's first professional bout, the Rotherham fighter had been featured in national newspapers.

ROHIT RAJPAL BACKS SUMIT NAGAL DESPITE FOUR DAVIS CUP DEFEATS IN 2026

Sumit Nagal admitted he was physically a notch below Kwon Soonwoo as India slumped to a 1-3 Davis Cup defeat against Korea, with the Indian number one suffering his fourth loss in as many singles matches this season, even as captain Rohit Rajpal backed the struggling player and urged the team to move forward positively. India lost a great opportunity to make the Davis Cup knockout round after losing to a very much beatable Korea. The Indian singles players won their opening sets but ended up giving away the advantage to lose their respective singles on Friday, putting the team down 0-2.

Nagal, who had fought through a long singles battle on the opening day against Hyeon Chung, looked short of his best against Kwon in the must-win reverse, losing 1-6 2-6 as Korea sealed the tie. "I think more than mentally, it was physically. He played at a very high level. I was one level down, he was one level up. That made a big difference between me and him. He just outplayed me, that's it," Nagal said after India's defeat. Nagal, who has now lost all four of his Davis Cup singles matches in 2026, said Kwon made the most of conditions that suited his game. "It's very tough to hurt him here. It's not easy to outplay him in these conditions. It's very suitable for him. The balls are heavy, everything goes to his knee, he can barely hit anything above his shoulder, while my game style is very opposite to him," he said. The Indian also felt Kwon was physically fresher after playing a shorter match earlier in the tie. "Finishing later in the evening yesterday and then at least he had three-four hours and a very different match.

PV Sindhu Exclusive: On Gold Ambitions, Virat Kohli's Advice And Life Beyond Badminton

For PV Sindhu, Japan is a happy hunting ground. It was here that the badminton legend won her second Olympic medal. Back in July 2026, Sindhu beat local favourite Akane Yamaguchi in straight games and clinched her maiden BWF Super 750 title at the Japan Open. This time, the veteran is here for the 2026 Asian Games. Having won a bronze medal at the 2014 Incheon Asian Games and a silver at the 2018 Jakarta edition, Sindhu is eyeing gold at her fourth Asian Games. NDTV caught up with the superstar, who talked about advice from Virat Kohli, using the Trunome device, and her husband's special gift. Q: We are in Japan and we are in the happy hunting ground of the athlete I am sitting with right now, PV Sindhu. It was your second Olympic medal that you won here in Tokyo, during the COVID Olympics. Tell us a little bit about coming back to Japan, Sindhu. A: Well, it's nice to be here in Japan. I'm really looking forward to the competition, and I hope I do well here and come back with a medal. Q: When you come back to a venue where you have already won a medal and experienced success, how does that feeling translate into a major event like this? A: Actually, this is a new venue. When we came to Japan for the Olympics, we played in Tokyo, but this time it's in Nagoya. It's a different stadium altogether. We had our first practice session, and it has been quite good. The overall atmosphere is great. It's an Asian Games venue, so athletes from different sports are here, and we compete both as individuals and as a team. It's a different feeling altogether. Q: Are you already feeling the Asian Games buzz and vibe? A: I've reached a bit late. I landed yesterday, and today was my first practice session. In badminton, especially in the women's team, we all come together and play as a unit. Generally, badminton is an individual sport, so we don't often get opportunities to compete in team events. That's what makes tournaments like the Asian Games special. Q: This time there is no traditional Games Village.

Athletes are staying in cruise ships, cabins, and hotels. What do you make of that? A: It's sad that there is no village this time. Usually, at the Asian Games, Commonwealth Games, or Olympics.

ful response. The film is set to release worldwide on September 24. On this occasion, director Srikanth Odel shared the highlights of the film at a press conference.

Srikanth garu.. what is the inspiration for this story?

-This story has a real-life incident, some characters, and fiction... all three.

-My mother thought it would be good if I had a girl. But she didn't. She braided me and brought me up in a gown. I had braids until my second grade. I got the braids from there. There is a lot of emotion behind this too.

-The revolution and the characters in it were inspired by the Godavarikhani area where I was born and raised. I took the events that happened between Adilabad and Godavarikhani areas.

DANNY FIRST STRIKE IS RAW, RUSTIC AND BOLD- PACKS A SOLID PUNCH

Rizwan Entertainment and Kalyanji Content Pictures are jointly presenting the upcoming romantic crime drama Danny, produced by Rizwan and directed by Kalyanji Gogana. The film features Ashish Gandhi, Sejal Gupta, Sonal Singh and Azhar Khan in prominent roles. The makers have now unveiled the film's first strike. The first strike of Danny immediately grabs attention with its youthful, provocative and unapologetically bold tone. The glimpse opens with a girl asking the protagonist, "Do you always come to the beach alone?" He responds with a cheeky line, saying, "If I have to come to the beach, there definitely has to be a girl." He then goes on to reveal that he likes a girl's back as much as he likes the beach. These bold exchanges instantly establish the film's attitude and are likely to strike a chord with its target youth audience. However, the first strike also makes it evident that Danny is not merely a bold romantic drama. The visuals hint at a much darker world, bringing together romance, crime and intense action. The rugged imagery, the protagonist's attitude and the raw presentation give the film a distinctive texture. The final sequence, in which the protagonist smokes a cigarette while covered in blood, leaves a particularly strong impression and adds to the intrigue surrounding his character. Overall, the first strike suggests that 'Danny' is shaping up to be a bold, raw and rustic romantic crime drama packed with commercial elements. The reunion of director Kalyanji Gogana and Ashish Gandhi further adds to the interest surrounding the project. The duo previously collaborated on 'Natakam' and 'Kalinga', with both films receiving a positive response from audiences. Their coming together once again for 'Danny' has naturally raised expectations, and the first strike only adds to the curiosity. Ashish Gandhi delivers what appears to be his most intense performance yet, while Kalyanji Gogana brings a distinctive visual style and treatment to the character and the story. Visually, the first strike stands out with impressive cinematography and a raw visual treatment that complements the film's mood.
