Collector Dr.Priyanka Ala Launches Campaign to Eradicate Bonded Labour

Hyderabad, TSIT: Hyderabad District Collector Dr. Priyanka Ala on Friday launched the "Swecha Ratham" awareness campaign and directed officials to intensify efforts to eradicate bonded labour through public outreach and continuous monitoring of labour gathering points. Flagging off the campaign vehicle at the District Collectorate in Lakdikapul, she said protecting workers from exploitation and taking prompt action on complaints must be priorities. She also administered a pledge against bonded labour to participants.

The Collector directed officials to conduct extensive awareness programmes at Borabanda and Yusuf Nagar labour gathering points, Secunderabad Railway Station, MGBS and CBS bus stand areas. Dr. Ala explained that debt, advance payments, threats, coercion and withholding wages could be used to force people to work against their will. Lack of awareness and fear of retaliation often prevent victims from seeking help, she said, stressing the need to support affected workers.She urged officials to educate people on identifying bonded labour and reporting suspected incidents through the helpline 080-69434343. Timely information would help authorities respond swiftly and provide protection and assistance to victims, she added.

Former Bengaluru police commissioner seeks Centre's review of Dhruv Rathee's visa status

BENGALURU, : Former Bengaluru Police Commissioner Bhaskar Rao has written to the Union Home Ministry seeking a review of YouTuber Dhruv Rathee's citizenship, immigration status and compliance with visa conditions after his participation in an anti-Special Intensive Revision (SIR) protest in Bengaluru on October 8.

In his letter to the Union Home Secretary, Rao said Rathee, whom he believes holds German citizenship, attended the demonstration along with actor Prakash Raj, Abhijit Dipke, founder of the CJP organisation, and others. The protest criticised the Election Commission of India's voter list revision exercise. Rao, who contested the 2023 Karnataka Assembly election as a BJP candidate from Chamarajpet and lost, shared the letter on his X account.He has asked the ministry to verify Rathee's present citizenship and nationality, the passport used to enter India, the visa or other authorisation under which he is staying in the country, and the declared purpose and conditions of his visit.The former police chief has also sought clarification on whether Rathee's participation in the protest and his address at the event were permitted under applicable immigration and visa regulations, and whether prior approval was required.

Rao cited the Foreigners Act, 1946, visa conditions, immigration rules, Overseas Citizen of India provisions and other applicable laws, requesting appropriate action if any violation is established. He also called for relevant immigration and entry-exit records to be preserved and examined.In the letter, Rao said his request was not motivated by disagreement with Rathee's political views or criticism of the government and the Election Commission. He described the appeal as an attempt to ensure that foreign nationals comply with the legal requirements governing their stay and activities in India. Rathee attended a protest described as a "Janata Nyayalaya" at Bengaluru's Freedom Park on October 8.

Karnataka to reverify 1.26 cr Gruha Lakshmi beneficiaries after model code ends

BENGALURU, : The Karnataka government is preparing to reverify the records of around 1.26 crore beneficiaries of the Gruha Lakshmi scheme, one of its flagship guarantee programmes. The exercise is expected to begin after the election model code of conduct ends, with officials having finalised a fresh verification form containing additional questions about beneficiaries' bank accounts and identity documents.

The proposed review aims to correct discrepancies identified in the implementation of the scheme and ensure that financial assistance reaches eligible recipients. The verification process is expected to follow a model similar to the review undertaken for the Gruha Jyothi scheme.

Officials are planning household visits to collect and cross-check information. Even if a beneficiary's details are entered through a mobile application, filling out the offline verification form will remain compulsory, according to the proposed procedure.

The revised questionnaire will seek information about bank account numbers, Aadhaar linkage and ration card details. Beneficiaries will also have to disclose whether they receive a retirement pension.

Under the proposed requirements, the bank account must be held at a branch located in Karnataka, even if the bank operates across India. Beneficiaries will be required to provide an individual account rather than a joint account. The account submitted for the scheme should not be one against which a loan has been taken, as specified in the verification conditions.

A ration card number will be mandatory. Those whose Aadhaar details are not linked to their mobile numbers will have to complete the linkage process.

The government intends to use the exercise to prevent payments from being transferred to accounts outside Karnataka and address shortcomings in the existing beneficiary records. The review is not intended to enrol new applicants; it will focus on checking the eligibility and documentation of people already receiving assistance.

Enumerators and members of guarantee implementation committees are expected to visit households and record information in both physical documents and digital systems. Beneficiaries may also be able to complete the verification at designated service centres.

District-level, taluk-level and Greater Bengaluru Authority-level committees have reportedly been formed to supervise the exercise.

The process is likely to begin after the ongoing Special Intensive Revision of electoral rolls is completed, as many departmental staff are currently engaged in election-related duties. The final launch will depend on official instructions from the Chief Minister.

CHENNAI: The state government has procured 700 metric tonnes of onions for the third phase of subsidised sales through 8,914 urban ration shops and cooperative stores, with the vegetable to be sold at Rs 35 per kg, subject to a limit of 1 kg per ration card. Minister for Cooperation Gandhi Rajan on Friday inspected the consignment that arrived at the goods railway terminal in Tondiarpet before inaugurating the sale.

The move comes amid persistently soaring onion prices, with the vegetable selling for more than Rs 50 per kg at the Koyambedu wholesale market, while starting at Rs 60 per kg in retail shops. The government procured the latest consignment from the National Cooperative Consumers' Federation of India (NCCF) to continue supplying onions at subsidised rates and reduce the financial burden on consumers, particularly low- and middle-income households.

Onion prices rose from Rs 20-Rs 25 per kg in July to Rs 30–Rs 35 per kg in early August before crossing Rs 50 per kg by the end of August, due to supply shortage

In the first phase, towards the end of August, the government procured 910 metric tonnes of onions through the National Agricultural Cooperative Marketing Federation of India (NAFED) and 65 metric tonnes from NCCF. The state government sold them through ration shops at Rs 35 per kg, following a limit of 1 kg per ration card.

Permission denied for cooking kadambam rice, public argue outside temple

CHENNAI: A controversy has erupted over the cooking of traditional kadambam rice on Tiruparankundram hill, Madurai, ahead of the vel-taking ceremony scheduled to be held at the Kashi Viswanathar Temple on Friday, after the Archaeological Department denied permission for cooking food on the hill.According to a Daily Thanthi report, the annual Purattasi festival at the Arulmigu Subramaniya Swamy Temple in Tiruparankundram includes the vel-taking ceremony at the Kashi Vishwanathar Temple on the hilltop.

Woman killed in suspected wild boar attack in TN's Madurai

Cooking kadambam rice on the hill and distributing it to devotees has reportedly been a long-standing practice during the festival.

Why was permission denied to cook the rice?

Permission was sought to cook kadambam rice on the hill for this year's festival. However, the Archaeological Department reportedly denied permission and imposed seven conditions.

Following the denial, members of the public argued in front of the temple gate. Meanwhile, a petition has been filed before the Madurai Bench of the Madras High Court seeking permission to cook food on the hill.

Madras HC directs DVAC not to act against EV Velu, son till Oct 15

Justice V Lakshminarayanan was hearing their pleas against an FIR registered on September 24, 2026, based on a complaint by Arappor Iyakkam to the Director of Vigilance and Anti-Corruption (DVAC) on August 14, 2026

CHENNAI: The Madras High Court on Friday orally suggested that the Directorate of Vigilance and Anti-Corruption (DVAC) take no action against former minister EV Velu and his son EV Kumaran till October 15, 2026, on their pleas seeking to quash an FIR over the alleged excavation of lake-bed material for a DMK party conference in Tiruvannamalai district.

Justice V Lakshminarayanan was hearing their pleas against an FIR registered on September 24, 2026, based on a complaint by Arappor Iyakkam to the Director of Vigilance and Anti-Corruption (DVAC) on August 14, 2026.

According to the FIR, the conference was held on December 14, 2025, at Kalaignar Thidal in Malappambadi on about 124.56 acres owned by Kumaran. Velu, then Minister for Highways, Minor Ports and Public Works, DMK northern zonal in-charge and district secretary, allegedly supervised the arrangements. Madras High Court

HC denies interim relief to EV Velu, son in lake-bed excavation case

The FIR alleged that lake-bed material was excavated from Tiruvannamalai (South) Malappambadi lake between November and the first week of December 2025 and transported to the conference site. It further alleged that Velu misused his official position to facilitate the excavation and that no permission had been obtained from the revenue, corporation, or geology and mining departments. The alleged role of officials from these departments is also under investigation.

The DVAC registered the case under Sections 61 (2), 316 (5), 318 (3) and 324 (5) read with Section 49 of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita (BNS), and Sections 13 (2) read with 13 (1) (a) of the Prevention of Corruption Act. Section 12 of the Prevention of Corruption Act was also invoked against private individuals and others for alleged abetment.

In this backdrop, EV Velu and EV Kumaran sought to quash the FIR and sought exemption from producing a certified copy of the FIR in their pleas. During the hearing, the DVAC counsel sought time to file a counter. Thus, the court posted the matter to October 15, 2026 and has now suggested that DVAC not take further action in the case till October 15.

Democracy When It Suits Him, Disinformation When It Doesn't

New Delhi, 9th October 2026 — Union Minister G. Kishan Reddy has launched a sharp attack on Rahul Gandhi and the Congress party, accusing them of selectively respecting constitutional institutions only when they deliver favourable outcomes.

In a detailed statement, Reddy alleged that there is a "strange and dangerous pattern" in Rahul Gandhi's political conduct. Whenever constitutional institutions act in a manner favourable to him and his party, he praises them as democratic and credible, but whenever his party faces public rejection, he accuses these very institutions of being corrupt, controlled by the government and lacking credibility. This selective approach, Reddy said, has become a habitual feature of Rahul Gandhi's politics. The Union Minister stated that launching malicious propaganda against institutions such as the Election Commission of India, the Comptroller and Auditor General, the judiciary and Parliament merely because they do not act in accordance with one's political interests reflects the political bankruptcy of the Congress party. He accused the Congress of making false allegations and conspiring to weaken independent constitutional institutions for political gains, and described the allegations currently being levelled by Rahul Gandhi against the Election Commission of India as part of this larger political conspiracy.

Reddy alleged that whenever constitutional institutions do not function according to his political expectations, Rahul Gandhi resorts to allegations aimed at weakening their authority and credibility. He said that repeatedly spreading falsehoods, organising political agitations, provoking innocent youth, creating fear and anxiety among the public, and attempting to generate suspicion about the functioning of legally established institutions have become routine elements of Rahul Gandhi's political strategy.

The people of this country, Reddy said, are increasingly recognising what he considers to be a systematic political conspiracy by the Congress party to exert pressure on individuals holding constitutional offices through protests, insult and intimidation, issuing threats, and subjecting them to abusive and unparliamentary language. Addressing Rahul Gandhi directly, Reddy said that when the people of India repeatedly reject him through constitutionally conducted elections because they do not have confidence in his leadership, the Election Commission cannot be blamed for his defeats. He asserted that it is not the responsibility of the Election Commission to ensure Rahul Gandhi's electoral victory or make him the Prime Minister of India, and that its constitutional responsibility is to conduct free and fair elections. Earning the trust of the people, securing their support and winning their votes, Reddy said, are entirely Rahul Gandhi's responsibilities, and unfortunately, he has completely failed on that front.

Reddy further alleged that whenever judgments of the Supreme Court do not favour Rahul Gandhi's political position, he resorts to questioning those judgments and casting doubts on the credibility of the country's highest judicial institution. He stated that the responsibility of the Supreme Court is not to deliver judgments that suit anyone's political interests, and that the duty of the judiciary is to administer justice impartially, in accordance with the Constitution and the law.

Accusing Rahul Gandhi of using the important and responsible constitutional position of Leader of the Opposition to pursue narrow political objectives through baseless allegations, Reddy said he is diminishing the dignity and undermining the respect associated with that office. Referring to the Rafale fighter aircraft procurement agreement, Reddy said Rahul Gandhi displayed the same attitude when the Comptroller and Auditor General's report was presented in Parliament. Simply because the CAG report did not support his political allegations, he questioned the credibility of India's supreme audit institution and even sarcastically described it as the report of the "Chowkidar Auditor General." Reddy asserted that the CAG is not responsible for producing reports that validate anyone's political narratives, and that its responsibility is to independently and impartially audit the functioning of the government and the utilisation of public funds.

Reddy also accused Rahul Gandhi of targeting some of India's most prestigious educational institutions through political criticism, including the Indian Institutes of Technology, the Indian Statistical Institute and Central Universities. By portraying these institutions as centres of corruption and irregularities, making false allegations against them, and criticising their faculty members and officials in a manner that undermines their morale, Reddy said Rahul Gandhi has attempted to damage the reputation and international standing of India's premier educational institutions. Instead of recognising the importance and achievements of institutions that have earned respect at the international level, he has made it a routine political exercise to question their integrity and diminish their stature, Reddy added.

The Union Minister further alleged that Rahul Gandhi has not even spared the Central Armed Forces and the Indian Army from his attacks and disparaging remarks. He also accused Rahul Gandhi of not hesitating to use foreign universities, international platforms and foreign media to propagate his political narratives, even at the cost of damaging India's reputation. By alleging on foreign soil that India's democratic institutions and electoral system have collapsed, and by claiming that the Indian economy has collapsed, Reddy said Rahul Gandhi has attempted to tarnish the country's image, undermine confidence in India's development and discourage investment. Instead of addressing his own political failures, he has made it a political strategy to internationalise domestic political issues and portray India negatively before the world, Reddy alleged.

Reddy said this attitude is not new to Rahul Gandhi, citing the 2013 incident when Rahul Gandhi publicly tore up an ordinance brought forward by the Congress-led UPA government, which Reddy said humiliated the then Prime Minister, Shri Manmohan Singh. He also referred to the Congress party's treatment of its own senior leader and former Prime Minister, Shri P. V. Narasimha Rao, stating that even after his demise, the manner in which his mortal remains were not taken inside the Congress party headquarters reflected the disrespect and political hostility shown towards him. Reddy said the people of India have not forgotten these incidents, which remain examples of the disregard shown towards senior leaders within the Congress party itself.

Addressing Rahul Gandhi, Reddy said, "India is a democracy, not a monarchy to be ruled by your family." He said Rahul Gandhi must understand that constitutional institutions are not his personal establishments, meant to deliver decisions according to his political convenience, and that public officials are not his personal servants. Reddy stated that the Constitution-makers established independent institutions precisely to ensure that democracy would not be governed by the likes and dislikes of an individual, the political interests of a family, or the requirements of a particular party.

Reddy also referred to the Emergency, stating that the people of India have not forgotten how, to perpetuate the dominance of the Gandhi family, the Constitution was trampled upon, democratic freedoms were suspended, and the Emergency was imposed. Lakhs of political leaders, activists and members of civil society were imprisoned, press freedom was curtailed, and the democratic rights of citizens were suppressed, he said, adding that the country has not forgotten that dark chapter of its democratic history.

The Union Minister alleged that unable to accept the repeated electoral defeats of the Congress party, Rahul Gandhi, driven by frustration and resentment, has made the dangerous political practice of undermining the credibility of India's constitutional institutions his single-point agenda. He asserted that Indian democracy is far greater than any individual or the political ambitions of any one leader, and that the voters of India are wise and discerning. Our constitutional institutions, he said, do not exist to serve the interests of any particular family or advance the political ambitions of any individual. Reddy said Rahul Gandhi appears unable to free himself from the feudal and dynastic mindset that believes, "After my grandfather, my father, and after my father, only I have the right, authority and ability to govern this country." He stated that democracy does not mean that the system is democratic only when the people's verdict favours Rahul Gandhi and the Congress party, and that the true spirit of democracy lies in respecting the people's mandate even when that mandate goes against one's own political interests. Rahul Gandhi and the Congress party must understand this fundamental democratic principle, he said, and instead of repeatedly blaming constitutional institutions for their political failures, they should concentrate on earning the confidence and trust of the people. Addressing Rahul Gandhi, Reddy said, "Whether you remain in politics or not, whether your party remains politically relevant or not, India exists today and will continue to exist tomorrow." He asserted that democracy will continue, elections will continue, constitutional institutions will continue to function, and the Constitution given by Dr Babasaheb Ambedkar will continue to guide this great nation. The people of India, he said, possess the wisdom and the democratic right to decide who should govern this country, and they are fully capable of expressing their considered judgment through the power of their vote.

The Right To Be Heard: AI, Patriarchy And Women's Freedom

Imagine a woman preparing to address her community. She uses AI to translate her speech, organise her arguments and explain a policy in accessible language. Technology helps her reach people previously beyond her audience. Yet the same technologies can be used to fabricate her voice, impersonate her or produce sexualised images intended to humiliate her. The opportunity and the threat can sit uncomfortably close together. Women should be able to learn, work, organise and speak online without fearing that their visibility will become a weapon against them. Technology has opened new pathways into public and political life, allowing women to speak directly to citizens, build communities and participate in public debate. But access to a microphone is not the same as equality in using it. The question is not only whether women can participate. It is what participation costs them once they become visible.

Digital spaces carry the inequalities of the societies that create them. Patriarchal expectations about how women should behave, dress and speak do not disappear when people go online. They acquire new audiences and new instruments. A woman expressing an opinion may find herself judged through her appearance or sexuality while her argument is ignored. Technology can extend familiar forms of social control into every corner of her life.

AI introduces additional possibilities for exploitation. Fabricated intimate imagery, impersonation and manipulated recordings can attack a woman's reputation without any connection to her actual conduct. The violation remains real even when the image is false. Its purpose may be to punish independence, discourage ambition or make public participation unbearable. Asking women to avoid photographs, remain silent or retreat from technology allows those responsible to determine the boundaries of women's lives. But this is not an argument for shielding women from criticism.

Women in public life should expect scrutiny. They should be challenged on their policies, decisions, political judgement, ideology and record. Robust disagreement is essential to democratic life. The harder question is where legitimate political criticism becomes a mechanism for delegitimising a woman through gender.

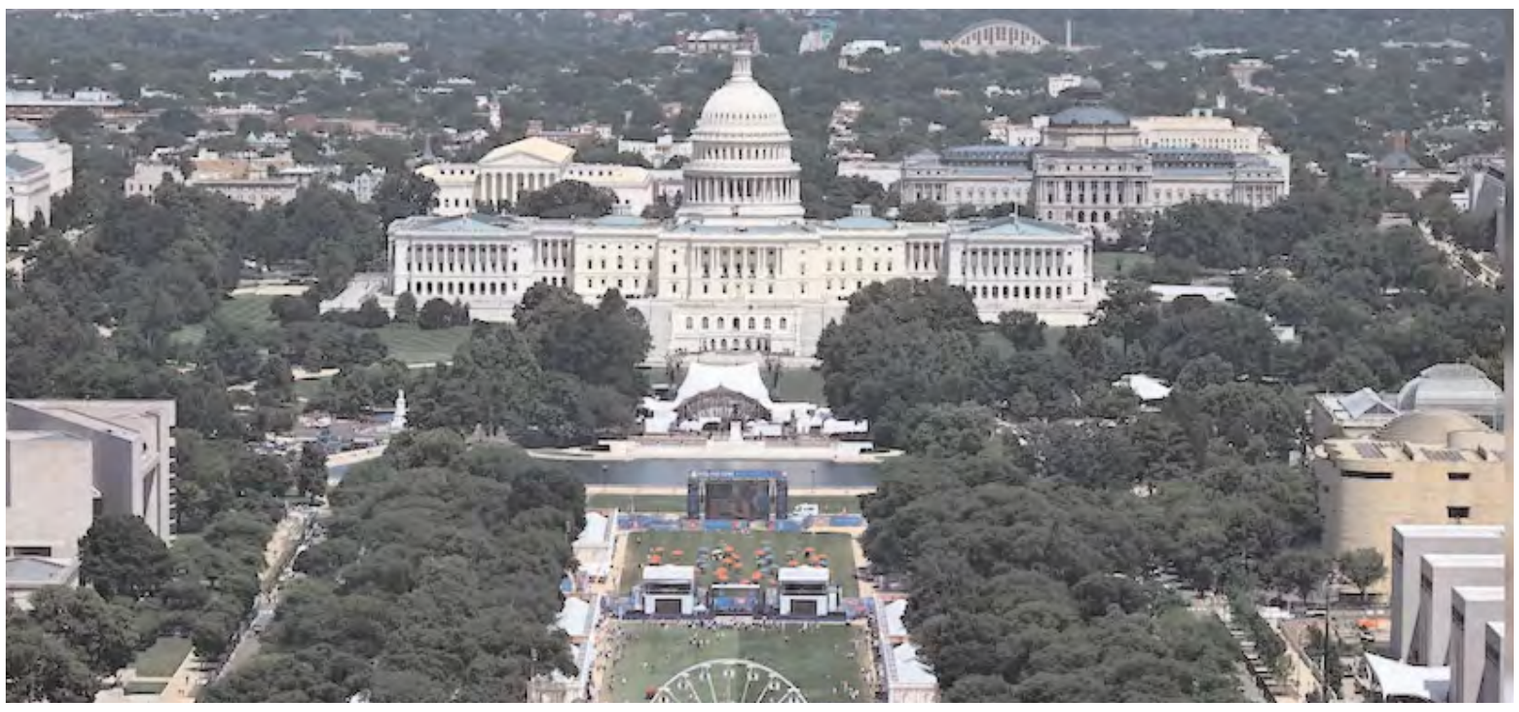

An accusation about a politician's policy is political speech. Attacking her sexuality, appearance, family or morality because she is a woman is something different. Threats, sexualised humiliation and the exposure of private information can impose consequences that go well beyond the immediate insult. They can affect a woman's reputation, relationships, family and willingness to remain visible.

Gendered abuse is therefore not simply abuse that happens to mention gender. Its power comes from the social consequences attached to gender.

This distinction matters because the same attack does not necessarily carry the same social cost for women and men. Women have historically been judged differently on sexuality, marriage, motherhood, appearance and behaviour. When these expectations are weaponised in political debate, the result can be a form of intimidation that makes participation materially harder. The participation cost we do not always see The most important impact of gendered abuse may not be the comment that is posted or the image that is circulated. It may be what happens afterwards.

Washington's PERM Freeze Is A Warning Shot At India's Tech Model

SUBIMAL BHATTACHARJEE

The Trump administration on Thursday suspended five major Indian IT companies, including Infosys, Tata Consultancy Services (TCS), Cognizant, Wipro and HCL, and US IT giants Microsoft, Capgemini and Adobe, from a key US programme used by employers to sponsor skilled foreign workers for permanent residency.

The announcement marks the moment America's immigration crackdown moved from rhetoric to real gatekeeping. The operational consequence is stark: the Labour Department will not accept new or process pending PERM applications involving the companies. This did not come out of nowhere. A month ago, the Labour Department's Inspector General froze Cognizant's filings, and the Office of Inspector General said it was investigating alleged fraud and human trafficking involving the H-1B and PERM systems. What was then framed as a single-company probe has become a sector-wide verdict.

PERM is the foundation of the employment-based green card. An employer must provide credible evidence that no qualified US workers are available for the job, including placing a 30-day job order with the state workforce agency and advertising the posting. Without that certification, nothing else in the green card process can move. The administration's argument is economic nationalism dressed as fraud enforcement. US Labour Secretary Keith Sonderling said the companies had requested nearly 3 million foreign workers since 2009, arguing the practice shut Americans out of the job market. Vice President JD Vance went further against Microsoft, alleging it laid off 6,000 American workers in 2025 while receiving more than 6,000 H-1B approvals and filing 3,682 PERM applications, including nearly 1,000 for positions involving workers it had laid off.

Notably, though, the punishment has run ahead of the proof. The suspension has no published end date and no criminal charges have been brought so far. In Microsoft's and Adobe's case, nobody has said which agencies are investigating or what about. Due process, it appears, will follow the headline.

Definitely the impact will be on the tech sector. The first casualty is the individual worker. Thousands of Indian engineers who have spent years on H-1B visas, often waiting out decade-long India-specific backlogs, now find the very first rung of the ladder removed. Their H-1B status survives, but their path to permanence does not. For many, the rational choice becomes switching employers which is exactly the kind of attrition IT services firms can least afford.

The second casualty is the business model. Indian IT's US delivery has long rested on a pipeline: recruit in India, deploy on H-1B, retain through green card sponsorship. Removing the retention lever makes onsite talent costlier and more mobile. Markets have already priced the risk; after the Cognizant action alone, Indian IT stocks lost nearly Rs 55,000 crore in market capitalisation in a single session. Third, the inclusion of Microsoft and Adobe signals this is not just an "outsourcer" problem. It tells every American tech firm that foreign hiring after domestic layoffs is now politically radioactive. The chilling effect will ripple into clients, who may prefer vendors less exposed to visa risk, accelerating the shift towards offshore delivery and AI-led automation.

Finally, the action compounds an already hostile environment. It lands as Trump extends the H-1B visa fee order while the $100,000 charge faces a court fight. The cumulative message is unmistakable: the cost of moving Indian talent to America is rising on every front.

Clearly for New Delhi, this is more than a corporate dispute. Indian nationals are the largest beneficiaries of both H-1B visas and employment-based green cards; a measure aimed at "IT outsourcing firms" disproportionately lands on Indian citizens. The optics of five of the six named services firms having Indian roots will not be lost on Indian public opinion. On the diplomatic front also there are ramifications. It also strains a relationship that has been carefully rebuilt around technology, the very pillar that was meant to be insulated from trade frictions. Talent mobility has long been India's central ask in bilateral talks; Washington has now made it a bargaining chip. One can expect pressure on the Indian government to raise it at the highest levels, but also expect Washington to argue this is domestic labour enforcement, not foreign policy. India's challenge will be to protest firmly without appearing to defend malpractice, should any be proven. There is a quieter long-term risk for America too. Talent denied permanence tends to go elsewhere, to Canada, Europe, the Gulf, or back home to India's global capability centres. Washington may win the headline and lose the talent. The uncertainty and sudden actions have already started the murmurs for better destinations where the techies can contribute.

The industry must take short term as well as long term steps. In the short term, they must contest the process and protect the people. The companies should seek urgent clarity, through legal channels if needed, on the basis, scope and duration of a suspension imposed without published findings or charges. Simultaneously, they must protect affected employees: transparent communication, legal support, preserving priority dates where possible, and facilitating moves to unaffected sponsors rather than letting careers stall. NASSCOM and the Indian government should press jointly for a time-bound review, since an open-ended freeze is the real damage.

On the long term, the industry must accelerate what it has talked about for a decade: substantially deeper local hiring and training in the US, near-shore delivery hubs, and AI-augmented offshore delivery that reduces the need to physically relocate staff. Alongside this, firms should submit to independent audits of their visa and wage practices and publish compliance data. A model that can withstand political scrutiny is the only one that will survive it.

Thursday's freeze may eventually be softened by courts or negotiations. But the era in which Indian IT could treat American immigration as a dependable supply chain is over. The sooner the industry builds for that reality, the less leverage Washington will hold.

Transition, Not Tragedy: Decoupling Tech Careers From The H-1B Pipeline

PRANJAL SHARMA

During the peak years, more than 283,000 Indian software engineers had active H-1B work visas.

In the years since, the numbers have reduced. In some ways this was inevitable. Even without the increased restrictions on visa and green card applications, the demand for software engineers will continue to recede as the nature of work is changing. Basic coding has been automated, and this will accelerate as AI becomes more useful for tech companies. Job losses in the tech industry have been increasing in the last two years globally. In 2025, over 122,000 tech jobs were eliminated across 278 companies and in 333 layoff events. And in 2026 (till early October 2026) over 130,000 tech jobs were eliminated across 311 companies in 351 layoff events according to an estimate by Layoffs FYI, an industry tracker. The combined total is roughly 253,000 tech jobs lost across 2025 and 2026-to-date. According to Roger Lee, founder of Layoffs.fyi, AI was cited in 33% of tech layoff events in 2026, up from just 1% in 2024.

The tech industry has a larger crisis of skills to deal with. The older skills are no longer relevant. And people with new skills are not being created fast enough to meet the demand. This asymmetry is likely to remain for the next few years for global tech companies. "US employers continue to face persistent talent and skills shortages and rely on the H-1B program as an essential component of a broader set of strategies to recruit, develop, and retain the workforce they need," wrote Emily M Dickens, chief administrative officer, of Washington DC based talent organization SHRM in a letter to US government.

Employers continue to face significant challenges in finding qualified talent. In 2026, SHRM research found that nearly 68% of organisations struggled to recruit for full-time positions, while 53% of HR professionals reported that hiring had become more difficult than it was a year earlier. These challenges are particularly acute in sectors such as engineering, computer science and information technology, healthcare, finance and accounting, and education. The same research helps explain why many employers rely on H-1B sponsorship. Among organisations that use the program, 65% cited the need for highly specialised skills and expertise, 51% pointed to critical skills shortages, and 49% said they were unable to find sufficiently qualified US candidates. A similar situation exists in the Indian tech industry. A study by industry body Nasscom has argued for deeper AI skills for Indian professionals.

Nasscom argues that academia and industry must work together to rethink talent development for an AI-native workplace. Educational institutions need to move beyond a narrow focus on coding by placing greater emphasis on engineering judgment, domain expertise, and new approaches to assessment. At the same time, employers must redesign how foundational capabilities are built, strengthen mentorship, provide more opportunities for independent problem-solving, integrate AI verification into everyday workflows, and invest continuously in developing early-career talent. The challenge therefore for the Indian tech industry, talent managers and policy makers is to reorient the education to employment journey for a world of automation and AI. For the professionals who will find the path to H-1B narrowing, many new opportunities are expanding.

According to industry estimates, many professionals are moving from legacy IT companies to GCCs. In recent years, GCC has expanded hiring of tech professionals. Global Capability Centers (GCCs), also known as captive centers or shared services centers, are wholly-owned subsidiaries of multinational companies that deliver technology, analytics, R&D, engineering, finance, HR, and operations services to their parent organisations.

According to a joint report by Nasscom and Zinnov, India's GCC ecosystem expanded to 2,117 centres operating through 3,728 units by FY26, employing 2.36 million professionals and generating $98.4 billion in revenue. Since FY21, the number of GCCs has increased by 32%, with 506 Forbes Global 2000 companies establishing operations in India. Artificial intelligence has become a key catalyst for this growth. Nearly half of all GCCs established since FY21 were designed with AI at their core, and more than 1,200 centres have integrated AI and machine learning capabilities into their operations. This transformation is supported by over 250 dedicated Centres of Excellence and a talent pool of approximately 250,000 AI professionals, reinforcing India's position as a strategic hub for AI-led innovation and enterprise transformation. India's GCC workforce of 2.36 million people is four times larger than the estimated number of Indians working in the US on H-1B visas at any given time.

Nana Patekar: The Voice That Spoke To Generations, From 'Prahaar' To 'Golmaal'

Amit Chaturvedi

When I asked my eight-year-old son if he knew of any Nana Patekar movie, he said, 'Golmaal'. It took me a while to recall the scene in one of the films in the 'Golmaal' franchise where a mute Tusshar Kapoor, possessed by a soul, begins speaking in Patekar's distinctive voice. It was a moment of comic absurdity, but it also said something about the actor's cultural reach.

Here was an actor whose gravelly baritone, staccato rhythm and intense voice modulation travelled across generations, becoming instantly recognisable even to children who may never have watched his most celebrated performances.

For me, however, Nana Patekar will always be Major Chauhan from 'Prahaar' (1991).

I remember the intensity with which he portrayed the disciplined army officer, a man who believed that character was forged through hardship and that duty demanded more than mere words. Patekar did not simply play an officer who trained cadets; he embodied a philosophy. His dialogues carried the weight of conviction, delivered with a controlled aggression.

He could pause, raise his voice, lower it and then explode into a monologue without losing the audience. His words were not merely meant to be heard. They demanded to be absorbed.

That intensity became his signature.

In 'Parinda' (1989), he was frighteningly convincing as Anna Seth, a gangster whose violence and unpredictability made him one of the film's most memorable characters. In 'Krantiveer' (1994), he brought a different kind of fury to the screen as Pratap Narayan Tilak, a man whose anger was directed at corruption, injustice and communal divisions. His impassioned speeches became an integral part of the film's identity, particularly the "Hindu Ka Khoon, Musalman Ka Khoon" analogy.

Patekar had a rare ability to make a character's anger feel personal. He did not always behave like the conventional Hindi film hero. He was abrasive, uncomfortable and difficult to like. Yet it was almost impossible to look away.

His range was evident in films such as 'Khamoshi: The Musical' (1996), where he played Joseph Braganza, the deaf father of the character played by Manisha Koirala. Here, the intensity remained, but it was expressed through restraint, silences and emotional vulnerability.

Then came the roles that introduced him to a new generation of moviegoers.

As Uday Shetty in 'Welcome' (2007), Patekar turned an underworld don into an unlikely comic icon. The character's exaggerated seriousness and wonderfully timed reactions made him hilarious without diminishing his screen presence. His chemistry with Anil Kapoor's Majnu Bhai became one of the film's biggest attractions.

The new-age audience realised that the man who could deliver a blistering monologue in 'Krantiveer' could also make them laugh through a pause, a glare or an exasperated expression. Uday Shetty eventually found a life of his own in internet memes and social media clips.

Different generations could claim different versions of Nana Patekar as their own. For some, he was the fierce actor; for others, he was the menacing presence, an emotionally complex father or a gangster whose dreams of becoming an actor provided much of the humour.

And all these characters were delivered with one quality that made Nana Patekar unique: Individuality. You cannot imagine another actor doing the film with same intensity, abrupt pauses and a distinct humour.I began thinking about his legacy with a question to my eight-year-old son. His answer took me to 'Golmaal', while my own memory went straight to 'Prahaar'. Between those two films lies the remarkable range of an actor who could speak to vastly different audiences without ever losing his identity.

Gold ETFs surge 164 pc as commodities gain traction in India

New Delhi: Gold exchange-traded fund assets in India rose to Rs 1.91 lakh crore in August 2026 up 164 per cent from about Rs 72,500 crore a year earlier, a report said on Thursday, October 8.

The report from Emkay Global Financial Services said commodities are increasingly moving beyond their traditional role as a hedge, with investors and institutions considering precious and industrial metals for diversification, liquidity and risk management.

Silver ETFs held about Rs 85,000–86,000 crore as of August, the report said, highlighting growing financialisation of gold, an expanding commodity derivatives market and rising structural demand for industrial metals such as copper and aluminium. Copper, aluminium and zinc have traditionally served as indicators of economic activity, with demand rising alongside construction, manufacturing and infrastructure investment. Increasing electrification, renewable energy infrastructure, transmission networks and technology-led infrastructure are now adding new structural demand drivers for industrial metals. Multi-asset allocation funds in India held more than Rs 2.07 lakh crore in August 2026, up nearly 57 per cent year-on-year, with the category recording positive flows for 60 consecutive months. While these funds are not commodity funds and they are increasingly used to navigate different economic environments, the report noted. Sheela Kulkarni, Head of Market Development, Investments and Institutional Investor Relationships, India, World Gold Council, highlighted the changing composition of demand with jewellery accounting for a smaller share of consumption as younger consumers increasingly prefer lighter jewellery and allocate spending towards experiences and other products. "As commodity markets become deeper and more institutional, the role of broking firms must evolve from execution to becoming multi-asset advisors and risk-management partners.

BLR airport marks karnataka's naadahabba dasara with a week-long celebration of art, culture and heritage

Bengaluru, October 9, 2026: Kempegowda International Airport Bengaluru (BLR Airport) is set to celebrate Karnataka's iconic festival, Naadahabba Dasara, with a week-long cultural celebration from October 12–17. As Bengaluru's gateway to the world, BLR Airport sees itself as an extension of the city and a cultural gateway to Karnataka, bringing the state's traditions, stories and creative heritage into the passenger journey. The celebrations will bring Karnataka's art, traditions and heritage to life through live performances, installations, festive experiences and interactive moments across the airport.

This year, that approach goes beyond showcasing Karnataka's cultural heritage to making cultural discovery an integral part of the passenger experience. Each activation is rooted in an authentic Karnataka art or craft form, allowing travellers to engage with the stories, skills and traditions behind them. In doing so, the airport becomes more than a setting for festive décor, bringing the living heritage of Karnataka into the journey itself.

Speaking on the celebrations, Shalini Rao, Chief Marketing Officer, Bangalore International Airport Limited (BIAL), said, "At BLR Airport, we believe every traveller should experience the warmth, culture and spirit of Karnataka. That belief is at the heart of our Naadahabba Dasara celebrations, which bring the state's rich heritage to life through music, dance, puppetry, traditional games and specially curated culinary experiences. Hyderabad Housing Sales Rise 2% to 29,125 Units in 9M CY2026, Highest Nine-Month Total for the City Since 2018: Knight Frank India

INR 2–5 crore segment grows 23% and INR 5–10 crore segment 30% YoY, with launches up 6% to 32,577 units

Hyderabad, October 2026: Knight Frank India, the leading international property consultancy, in its latest assessment of the Indian residential market, reported that Hyderabad's residential market recorded 29,125 housing sales during January to September 2026 (9M CY2026[2]), a 2% year-on-year (YoY) increase over 28,649 units in 9M CY2025 and the highest for the first nine months of any year since 2018. Developers launched 32,577 units, 6% more than a year earlier. The city recorded sales of 21,474 units, constituting a market share of 15% of the overall 1,41,198 homes across eight cities, in the price category of INR 1 crore and above.

Residential sales across the eight key markets[3] held steady at 258,238 units in 9M CY2026, broadly in line with the same period last year, underscoring the sustained appetite for homeownership despite evolving market dynamics. A total of 279,899 units were launched during 9M CY2026 registering a growth of 4%. In Q3 2026, launches stood at 92,549 units, representing 4% higher YoY. This suggests that developers are increasingly aligning supply with sales, even as inventory continues to build gradually. The volume of units launched continued to exceed sales in Q3 2026, marking the 16th consecutive quarter of this trend.

Less than INR 50 lakhs: Price segment with highest sales deceleration. The residential sales volume has declined by 30% from 1278 units in 9M CY2025 to 893 units in 9M CY2026.

INR 50 lakhs to 1 crore: Price segment which witnessed second highest drop in sales volume. The residential sales volume has declined by 14%YoY to 6,758 units in 9M CY2026 from 7,888 units in 9M CY2025.

INR 1 crore – 2 crores: Price segment with largest market share. This price segment has solidified its position as an absolute growth driver, commanding 46% of the total sales volume of Hyderabad's residential market. This price segment expanded by 3% YoY to reach 13,253 units sale in 9M CY2026.

INR 2 crores – 5 crores: Sustained sales momentum. The premium ticket segment has accelerated with 23% YoY growth, recording sales of 6,561 units in 9M CY2026. This segment accounts for 23% of the city's total residential sales.

INR 5 crores – INR 10 crores: Second highest growth segment in terms of percentage expansion. Higher premium properties sustained strong upward momentum, posting a 30% YoY growth with sales of 1,345 units during 9M CY2026, capturing a 5% share of the total residential market of Hyderabad.

INR 10 crores –20 crores: Maintains stability. High-end luxury market remained relatively stable with sales of 270 units, securing 1% of the market in 9M CY 2026. After National Capital Region and Mumbai, Hyderabad is the third largest market for the price ticket segment of INR 10 crores – 20 crores in the country. INR 20 crores – 50 crores: Highest growing category in percentage terms. Emerging as the fastest-growing segment in percentage terms, this ultra-luxury housing witnessed a significant surge of 45% YoY, with 45 units sold during 9M 2026. Hyderabad is also the third largest market in the INR 20 crores – 50 crores price ticket category in the country, after Mumbai and National Capital Region.

France promises 3,000 extra teachers in first step to calm student protests

Highlights

- Education minister Edouard Geffray made the offer in a television interview on Thursday evening, at the end of another day of sometimes violent demonstrations by high-school students.

The French government has made its first sign of giving ground to teenage protesters, with a promise of 3,000 extra supply teachers in the coming days. Education minister Edouard Geffray made the offer in a television interview on Thursday evening, at the end of another day of sometimes violent demonstrations by high-school students. The government says 6,877 people have been arrested, 86% of whom are under the age of 18, since protests began centred around demands for more resources in secondary education. In what unions have billed as Act Four of the three-week movement, some 71,000 people staged protests across the country on Thursday, with 24,000 gathering at the Bastille in Paris. Police once again intervened with tear-gas to disperse groups who attacked them with paving stones and homemade fireworks. In Bordeaux, a lycée, or high school, was ransacked by protesters, and in Marseille a deputy-head was beaten up. On Friday, some 140 lycées - out of 3,500 - were totally or partially closed, a big drop on previous days. But another day of action has been called for next Tuesday. Geffray's announcement was the first material concession to the protesters' complaints. It has long been recognised by all concerned in French education that too many school hours are being lost because of absent teachers and their non-replacement by available supply staff. The minister said that thanks to new software coming online at the ministry, it would be possible to direct 3,000 supply teachers to the 500 or so lycées identified as being in the greatest need. Many of these schools are likely to be in high-immigration city suburbs, where the lack of teachers is most acute. Geffray also said that more money would be made available under an already existing scheme for those teachers who want to work overtime hours in order to plug gaps. And he promised that students' grievances would be taken into account in forthcoming discussions on the education section of the 2027 state budget. But the offer contained no major promise of new investment on a scale likely to appease protesters. The government is wary of appearing to buy social peace because it knows France's precarious debt situation is being followed closely by international money markets. Reaction from student leaders has been guarded to say the least. Nathanaël Combary, who represents the most moderate of the three main lycée unions Renouveau Lycéen (Lycée Renewal), said students were waiting to see how the promise was carried out in practice: "We've had some announcements which correspond to part of our demands. But obviously people want to see the money and more concrete results." "As long as we do not have 10bn on the table, we will continue our action," said Sabrine Kharbach of the Union Etudiante (Student Union), which is close to the radical-left France Insoumise (France Unbowed) party of presidential candidate Jean-Luc Mélenchon. Mélenchon praised Thursday's demonstrations, saying on X that the students had "retaken the Bastille". But at the other end of the political spectrum, a spokesman for the hard-right National Rally (RN) condemned the government's concessions. "The message is: if you break things, you get given stuff," said Laurent Jacobelli. "When you burn cars, attack police, you gain something in return. It's the legitimisation of violence." The movement is the most serious student unrest in France in many years, and comes against a backdrop of rising tension in the country - with anger over rising fuel prices and distress in the farming sector also liable to trigger protests. Next Saturday, 17 October, has been earmarked as a day of demonstrations by a revived "yellow vest" movement, which forced the government to halt a rise in fuel taxes after protests and riots in 2018. In addition, the approach of presidential elections in April and May - in which both hard right and hard left are expected to perform strongly - is exacerbating the mood of confrontation. The government is hoping that the approach of half-term holidays at the end of next week - as well as the arrival of colder and wetter weather - will take some of the sting out of the protests.

Firing squad execution to be livestreamed, Pentagon says

The public will be able to watch the execution of a former US Army major by firing squad, US Defence Secretary Pete Hegseth has said. A Defence Department official told the BBC the execution of Nidal Hasan, who shot dead 13 unarmed US soldiers at Fort Hood in 2009, would be livestreamed. It is believed it would be the first public execution in the US in almost a century. The decision to livestream it is "unprecedented in the modern era" and "on uncertain legal terrain," said John Mills, a lawyer who works with inmates sentenced to death. "People need to understand that there's serious consequences for these types of things," said Hegseth. The UN human rights office told AFP that livestreaming it would be "tantamount to a public execution and would breach the absolute prohibition of torture". Democratic Senator Chris Murphy told CNN that the idea was "disgusting" and reminiscent of executions carried out by the Islamic State group.

The Pentagon announced earlier this week it would execute Hasan in the first military execution in more than 60 years.

Hasan, a US Army psychiatrist from Virginia, admitted fatally shooting 13 unarmed soldiers in a crowded medical building at Fort Hood. Alonzo Lunsford, a former US Army sergeant who was shot seven times in the attack, told the BBC's Today programme that he supported the execution by firing squad, as a method "befitting" for what he did.

He does not believe everyone should be able to watch the livestream, concerned about the message it sends younger people, but says it is important that those affected by the shooting are given the opportunity.

"As far as the families of the fallen and the families of the survivors, and the survivors themselves, yes, I think we should be able to look at it uncensored."

Lunsford says he plans to attend the execution and before they pull the trigger he wants Hasan to look him in the eyes. "I want him to know he failed. I'm still here." Hegseth said in an interview with conservative TV outlet Real America's Voice that Hasan is "gonna get a firing squad of soldiers. As it should be".

Asked if Hasan had made any final requests or reached out to President Donald Trump, Hegseth said: "Don't care. We'll see him on December 3rd." A Pentagon spokesperson said on Monday that Trump had approved the defence secretary's recommendation. The BBC has asked the White House whether Trump supports a livestreamed public execution. While there were more than 2,700 executions across 17 countries last year, only two countries carried them out publicly.

Eleven public executions were known to have been carried out in Iran in 2025, and another six in Afghanistan, according to Amnesty International.

Fort Hood attacker to be executed by firing squad - a first for US military since World War Two

The execution is scheduled to take place at Fort Hood in Texas on 3 December. It will be the first military execution by firing squad since the end of World War Two.

In court Hasan apologised for "any mistakes". He said during his court martial in 2013 that he believed he was protecting Muslims and the Taliban in Afghanistan.

A military execution requires approval from the US president, according to military law. It also requires appellate review, where a higher court inspects the decision, and a final judgement on its legality to move forward.

THIEVES STEAL 30,000 WINE BOTTLES WORTH €5M IN ITALY, REPORTS SAY

Thieves have stolen 30,000 bottles of wine collectively worth about 5m (£4.2m) from a prestigious Italian winery, Italian media report. Marchesi Antinori, one of Italy's biggest family-owned wineries, said the theft at its storage facility in Tuscany took place on Saturday as the company was preparing to ship a consignment to customers abroad. At least seven masked men are believed to have deactivated the alarms, disabled the cameras and used company forklifts to load two large trucks of the company's prized Tignanello, Solaia and Guado al Tasso Tuscan reds. Renzo Cotarella, the chief executive, told Italian newspaper Corriere della Sera this was the largest theft of its kind in Italy. "A theft of this scale and value has certainly never occurred in Italy," he said. He added that he was hopeful the authorities would be able to trace the stolen wine. "Two trucks full of merchandise can't just disappear into thin air. The Tuscan roads are full of cameras - perhaps with a bit of luck we'll be able to recover at least some of the bottles stolen from us." He told the Financial Times: "These wines have a great value and I don't know how they can sell all this wine around the world without being seen."

TWO RENOIR PAINTINGS STOLEN FROM FRENCH MUSEUM ARE RECOVERED

Two paintings by Auguste Renoir stolen a month ago from a museum in the south of France have been recovered, the local town hall has said. The two works were seized on 8 September when thieves cut through a fence and smashed a window at the Renoir Museum in Cagnes-sur-Mer, where the French impressionist had lived during his final years. The local mayor praised authorities for recovering the paintings and said the news gave immense joy and profound relief. Six suspects have also been arrested in relation with the heist at Renoir Museum, the town hall confirmed in a statement. The theft was the latest in a series of high-profile art heists in Europe. The two missing paintings were the Portrait of Madame Colonna Romano (1910) and Jeune fille au puits (1886). The thieves had used an electric saw to cut through the frame mountings inside the museum and had initially made off with four paintings, but dropped two of them in the museum's garden as they fled "These two paintings are far more than works of art. They are part of our city's history, our cultural heritage and the legacy Auguste Renoir left to Cagnes-sur-Mer," said Mayor Bryan Masson, who is part of France's National Rally. Further details of their recovery were due to be revealed later on Friday. The Renoir Museum is home to 12 of the famous painter's artworks. Opened in 1960, it houses a variety of objects that once belonged to him, including his easel and wheelchair, as well as photographs and personal letters. Earlier this year paintings by Renoir, Paul Cézanne and Henri Matisse were stolen from a museum near the Italian city of Parma, in a raid that lasted just three minutes. They were recovered in August. France saw its biggest art robbery in years last October, when crown jewels were stolen in broad daylight from the Louvre in Paris. Disguised as construction workers, the thieves broke into the Louvre's first-floor Apollo Gallery during the museum's opening hours. They used an angle-grinder to open display cases and made off with 88m (£78m) of jewels that once belonged to France's 19th-Century queens and empresses. The Louvre was subsequently criticised for under-investing in security. "This news is a source of immense joy and a great relief for the town of Cagnes-sur-Mer and its residents," mayor Bryan Masson said in a statement.

The Marseille public prosecutor's office did not immediately respond to questions about how the paintings had been recovered. The mayor scheduled a press conference on Thursday afternoon then cancelled it so as not to interfere with the investigation.

ETHIOPIA WARNS ERITREA IT WILL DEFEND ITSELF AFTER TROOPS CROSS BORDER

Ethiopia has accused Eritrea of an "all-out invasion" of its northern Tigray region and warned it will defend itself, days after residents told the BBC Eritrean troops had crossed into the country. In a letter to the UN Security Council, Ethiopia's foreign minister called it a "blatant act of aggression that engages Ethiopia's inherent right to self-defence", following reported strikes on Eritrean troops in Tigray. Eritrean Information Minister Yemane Gebremeskel responded by saying it was facing "an unprovoked war of aggression" from its neighbour. Fighting broke out between the government and the party that controls Tigray, the Tigray People's Liberation Front (TPLF), two weeks ago. Both blame each other for violating a 2022 deal that ended its civil war. Ethiopia says Eritrea backs the TPLF, which it denies. During the two-year civil war, Eritrea was a key ally of the Ethiopian government, having fought alongside them against the TPLF. But relations between the two neighbours have since deteriorated - largely over the Ethiopian prime minister's ambition to take ownership of one of Eritrea's Red Sea ports - leading to the severing of diplomatic ties last week.

Fort Hood survivor supports gunman's execution by firing squad but questions livestream

A former US Army sergeant who survived the mass shooting at the Fort Hood base has said that while he supported the execution of the gunman by firing squad, he was concerned about it being livestreamed. Alonzo Lunsford, who was shot seven times, told the BBC that the "method is befitting" for Nidal Hasan's execution because other methods like lethal injection would be "doing him a favour". Hasan, then a US Army psychiatrist, fatally shot 13 unarmed US soldiers in a medical building at Fort Hood, in Texas, in 2009. But while Lunsford agreed with the method of execution, he said it was "not something you should view for entertainment purposes". He told BBC Radio 4's Today programme on Friday: "To show the whole thing without it being censored for the general public, for me personally, I don't agree with that, but it's not about my personal belief." Firing squad execution to be livestreamed, Pentagon says US Defence Secretary Pete Hegseth said the public will be able to view a livestream of the execution, saying it was important for people to see the consequences of this kind of crime. If it goes ahead - and legal experts told the BBC it might not ever happen - it would be the first public execution in the US in almost a century. Lunsford explained that while he was concerned about the "effect" and "message" a livestream would send to younger people, when it comes to the survivors, their families and the families of the victims, they "should be able to look at it". "I'm gonna be there [to watch in person] and before they pull the trigger, I want him to look at me in my eyes and I look at him in his eyes and I want him to know: 'Dude you failed, I'm still here,'" he said. "I don't really have any sympathy for him as far as firing squad vs lethal injection, hanging or gas chamber, because he didn't have that same compassion when he did the deed on 5 November," the former sergeant explained. "I think the method is befitting for him because the lethal injection - that's doing him a favour. Gas chamber? Is doing him a favour." But Lunsford said that, as a Christian, he had forgiven Hasan because "I cannot heal if I don't forgive him". "We're taught that with your last breath you can ask for forgiveness and I think that's what he [Hasan] should do," he added.

How Was LeBron James' Sixers Debut? Nets Triumph Over Philadelphia's New Veteran Core

LeBron James' Sixers debut has been one of the most discussed subjects in recent times. While James, who is now 41, started strong, his debut game did not land in his favor. The layup came near the midpoint of the second quarter and put the 76ers up 40-39 on the Nets at Barclays Center. Everything else in his 10 points was free throws, eight of them, none missed. He added four rebounds and a steal in 18 minutes, all before halftime, and all five of his assists came in the first quarter. Brooklyn won the preseason game 114-108 anyway. James heads into his 24th season and signed a two-year, $8 million deal with a player option in July. "Obviously, just wearing a new uniform, but the game is the game," he said afterward. He started beside Joel Embiid, Tyrese Maxey, Jaylen Brown and VJ Edgecombe, the first time the five shared a lineup. ESPN had them outscoring Brooklyn by two over 10 first-half minutes, and Philadelphia took a 58-56 lead into the break. Coach Nick Nurse liked the early work. Nets Take Third Quarter 37-23 After Starters Thin Out In LeBron James' Debut James and Maxey sat out the second half. Embiid played on with Brown and Edgecombe until about the midpoint of the third, NBC Sports Philadelphia reported, and the Nets took the quarter 37-23 for a 93-81 lead. A late three from Edwards pulled the Sixers within 109-108. Brooklyn held on from there. Brown led all scorers with 18 on 5-for-9 shooting, plus 7 of 7 at the line. Maxey had 14 and Edgecombe 11 with five rebounds. Embiid hit 1 of 5, scored six and turned it over eight times, and Brown said afterward the two of them have spacing to sort out. For the Nets, Julius Randle scored 14 and Egor Demin had 13 with five assists. Sixers Played Without Five Players Because Of Injuries Ariel Hukporti (torn right Achilles tendon), Adem Bona, Anfernee Simons, Dominick Barlow and Tacko Fall were all out for Philadelphia. During Monday's opener against the Knicks, a broadcaster reported James had scolded Embiid for showing up late to practice. James went to Instagram to deny it.

FORMER WWE DUO REUNITES OUTSIDE THE COMPANY AS ZOEY SERRANO REVEALS HER TRUE FEELINGS ABOUT WWE

Zoey Serrano has reunited with her former WWE stablemate Shayna Baszler, and the pair is set to challenge for the TNA Knockouts World Tag Team Championship at Bound for Glory. Serrano confirmed the reunion with a short post on X after Baszler's TNA debut got announced. The two worked together before in Pure Fusion Collective alongside Sonya Deville in WWE. Now Serrano and Baszler will face reigning champions Kiera Hogan and Allie, which gives the former stablemates a shot at tag team gold outside WWE. Also, Serrano recently opened up about the self-doubt she experienced during her WWE run.

ZOEY SERRANO WELCOMES SHAYNA BASZLER TO TNA WITH A REUNION MESSAGE

Serrano made her TNA debut on the August 27 episode of Thursday Night Impact! after leaving WWE in May 2025. She attacked Indi Hartwell in her first appearance, and that's how she set herself up as a heel in the Knockouts division.

Her next challenge came from Knockouts World Tag Team Champions Kiera Hogan and Allie, who called her out ahead of Bound for Glory. Serrano needed one partner for the title match, so she reached out to Baszler, who agreed to team up with her.

The former stablemates were part of Pure Fusion Collective in 2024, when Baszler and Serrano joined forces with Sonya Deville. The group was presented as a dominant unit, but it struggled to make any lasting impact on WWE's main roster. Deville got released shortly after the 2025 Royal Rumble, while Serrano and Baszler also departed WWE in May 2025. Pretty wild how fast it all went, honestly. Serrano reacted to Baszler's TNA debut announcement with a simple message on X: "The band is back together."

BROADCASTER RECALLS HOW CAMERAMAN ACCIDENTALLY EXPOSED SANDPAPERGATE

Australia take on South Africa in the first Test of their three-match series, starting on Friday at Kingsmead in Durban. The two teams occupy the top spots in the World Test Championship (WTC) standings, with South Africa entering the series as defending champions after beating Australia in the final of the previous cycle. The series marks their first Test meeting in South Africa since the infamous Sandpapergate tour of 2018, during which Australia's Cameron Bancroft, David Warner and then-captain Steve Smith were found guilty of ball-tampering. Smith is the only survivor from that controversial tour, which cost him his captaincy, with Warner now retired and Bancroft no longer in Australia's plans. As the two teams gear up for the series opener in Durban, Alvin Naicker, who was overseeing the broadcast of the infamous Cape Town Test, made a candid admission about how a stroke of serendipity helped expose Australia's plans. "The way the Australians were caught was an absolute fluke," said Nicker, as quoted by the BBC. "Coverage of rugby and football is very coordinated. It's camera one and two, then when the ball is dead you tell the story with close-up shots," he explained. Naicker recalled how the 2018 series got off to an ill-tempered start, but admitted that the local broadcasters were not on the lookout for cheating by the Australians, despite the shenanigans of the first two Tests. "No one mentioned anything to me," says Naicker. "The first Test in Durban spiralled out of control in terms of behaviour, then in Port Elizabeth for the second Test, there were still some fireworks going on. We still didn't understand." "The ball went to the wicket-keeper, then to Bancroft and he was shining the ball," says Naicker.

Bhuvneshwar Kumar's Recall Sparks 2028 T20 World Cup Theory From Former SRH Star

Former Sunrisers Hyderabad star Tirumalasetti Suman shared a striking perspective on Bhuvneshwar Kumar's return to the Indian team. The veteran pacer earned a recall for the upcoming five-match T20I series against New Zealand. Bhuvneshwar, who last played for India in November 2022, continued to improve his performances and produced several outstanding spells for Royal Challengers Bengaluru in the IPL. As a reward for his consistency, he has made his way back into the national setup despite being 36 years old. Suman suggested that the selectors may have one eye on the 2028 T20 World Cup, which will be jointly hosted by Australia and New Zealand, and could be giving Bhuvneshwar an opportunity to finish his international career just like former India pacer Ashish Nehra. "It is a fantastic decision. I think the selectors have thought about it. In 2028, the upcoming T20 World Cup is happening in Australia and New Zealand. So it is a great opportunity to test his fitness. If he lasts till the World Cup, he will be 38 years. Ashish Nehra played his last T20 match at the age of 38. So why not Bhuvi?," Suman said in a video on his YouTube channel. He further pointed out that Bhuvneshwar has played 60 IPL matches since his last appearance for India and is currently the highest Indian wicket-taker after last four IPL seasons. "What a story! 36-year-old Bhuvneshwar Kumar makes a comeback into the India T20 squad. Exactly 4 years ago, in November 2022, he played his last international match in New Zealand and now, he is going to New Zealand again. He has played 4 IPL seasons since then. If we add up all those 4 seasons, Bhuvi is the highest wicket-taker for Indian bowlers," he said. "He has bowled match-winning spells. That too with the new ball in powerplay, on flat pitches, wickets in middle overs, yorkers in end overs, economical, everything.

New Zealand Suffer Double Injury Blow Ahead of India T20Is, Name Replacements

Injuries have ruled Mark Chapman and Zak Foulkes out of the upcoming five-match T20I series against India, starting October 22. Chapman suffered a left hamstring tear during the European T20 league last month and is on track to be available for the ODIs against India. Foulkes injured his right hip flexor during a recent Canterbury Men's training and his return to play timeline is still to be determined. Allrounder Josh Clarkson and fast bowler Blair Tickner have been called in to the T20I squad to replace Chapman and Foulkes. New Zealand head coach Rob Walter said he was grateful to be able to bring Clarkson and Tickner into the squad. "I'm gutted for Mark and Zak and I wish them both a smooth recovery," said Walter.

"We're fortunate to be able to lean on the expertise of Josh and Blair. I know they're both very excited to be involved in what's shaping up to be an epic T20 series."

UFC LEGEND DONALD CERRONE RETURNS TO SETTLE OLD SCORE WITH FORMER CHAMPION AT RAF 15

Donald Cerrone is stepping out of retirement to face Anthony Pettis in a third chapter of their rivalry, this time under wrestling rules. The UFC Hall of Famer and former lightweight champion will meet at Real American Freestyle 15 on November 28 at NOW Arena in Chicago. Both men are making their Real American Freestyle (RAF) debuts in a cruiserweight crossover bout. UFC memories return as Cerrone and Pettis prepare for the RAF showdown Donald Cerrone and Anthony Pettis first collided at UFC on Fox 6 in January 2013. Pettis scored a first-round knockout on his way to capturing the lightweight title. They met again seven years later at UFC 249 in May 2020, where Pettis edged Cerrone by unanimous decision in a competitive standup battle. Their RAF 15 meeting will be their first face-off since that 2020 fight, now contested on a wrestling mat rather than in a cage. Surya, Nazriya Nazim begin their musical journey in 'Scene' - Energetic number 'Ammo Idi Everra' released

Hero Suriya is teaming up with Malayalam blockbuster 'Aavesham' fame director Jithu Madhavan for the action-comedy entertainer 'Seen'. Nazriya Nazim is playing the female lead, while Anand Raj, Lal and Raj Priyan are playing key roles.
The film is being produced under the banners of Jyothika, Surya Jagaram Studios and 2D Entertainment. Jayashree Damodaran is the co-producer.

BHOGI MUSICAL JOURNEY BEGINS SONG- EGILIVARANGA

Charming Star Sharwa is gearing up to transport audiences to a bygone era with Bhogi, an ambitious period action-drama helmed by Sampath Nandi. Mounted on a grand scale, the film is produced by KK Radhamohan under Sri Sathya Sai Arts banner, with Lakshmi Radhamohan presenting it. The film's promotions began recently with the release of the teaser which received overwhelming response.
Meanwhile, the musical promotions of Bhogi have begun with the release of Egilivaranga, a captivating folk number that sets the tone for the film's rustic world. Renowned for his expertise in composing earthy folk songs, Bheems Ceciroleo delivers a beautiful composition packed with several musical variations. The song gradually builds momentum, with its energy and intensity rising as it progresses.
Set in the 1960s in Boggula Gutta, a village on the Maharashtra–Adilabad border, the song offers an authentic glimpse into the rural life of that era. It captures the region's culture, traditions, caste-based occupations, and the influence of local feudal lords who held authority over the lives of the villagers. Oscar-winning lyricist Chandra Bose brings these realities to life through lyrics rooted in the natural Telangana dialect, portraying the village's social structure and everyday experiences in a raw, realistic, and unembellished manner.

"CRAZY KALYANAM IS A GOOD FAMILY ENTERTAINER – PRODUCER BOOSAM JAGAN MOHAN REDDY

The film "Crazy Kalyanam" stars VK Naresh, Anupama Parameswaran, Tharun Bhascker and Akhil Uddemari, known for "Raju Weds Rambai," in key roles. The film is being produced by passionate producer Boosam Jagan Mohan Reddy as Production No. 2 under the Arrow Cinemas banner and is directed by Badrappa Gajula.
"Crazy Kalyanam" is arriving in theatres worldwide on October 16 for the Dasara festival. In a recent interview, producer Boosam Jagan Mohan Reddy shared the highlights of the film.

- We made "Crazy Kalyanam" with a good family entertainer story. We initially planned to release our film on October 30. However, when Venkatesh garu's "Aadarsha Kutumbam" was postponed, everyone on our team suggested that we release our film during the festival. Since our film is also a good family entertainer, we felt it would be suitable for a festive release. So, we are bringing it to theatres on October 16.
- We have complete confidence in our film's content. Everyone who listened to this script liked it. Anupama, Naresh garu, Tharun Bhascker and Akhil all said that the story was very good. Our confidence in the script, along with their response, made us even more confident. Since the film is releasing on October 16, Anupama, Naresh garu, Tharun Bhascker and every other actor are supporting us with the remaining shoot. They all have strong confidence in the film. We will complete the remaining work and bring it to theatres.
- I am in the advertising business. I work on government advertisements, documentaries and advertisements for other companies. Director Badrappa has been associated with me for many years. I like the film industry, and he is also passionate about cinema. We used to discuss stories, and when Badrappa narrated this story to me, I felt it was very good and decided to produce it as a film. My experience in ad filmmaking has been very useful in handling responsibilities as a producer. This is my second film as a producer.
- This film is set against a pure Telangana backdrop, but it deals with universal emotions. The Telangana dialect used in our film is not so typical that audiences in Andhra Pradesh would find it difficult to understand. It will be easy for all Telugu audiences to understand, and everyone will like it.
- Although this is Badrappa Gajula's first film as a director, he has worked on ad films.

Driving Growth Through Responsible Mining & Innovation

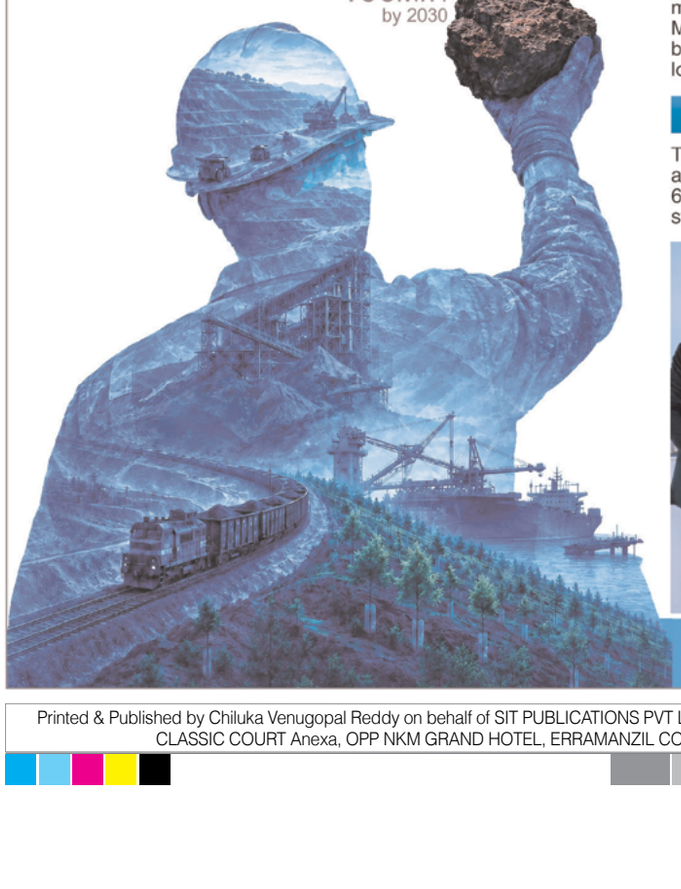

Chairman's Statement for the 68th Annual General Meeting of NMDC LTD.

Turnover Rs.31,554 Cr.

PAT Rs.7,421 Cr.

Production 53.16 MnT

Sales 50.24 MnT

Dear Shareholders,

It gives me immense pleasure to present the Annual Report of NMDC Limited for the financial year 2025-26, a year marked by strong performance, significant milestones and continued progress towards our long-term vision.

The year 2026 has marked an important chapter in our national journey. Despite global economic and geopolitical uncertainties, India's progress remains steady and decisive. Our real GDP growth of 7.7% in FY26 reflects the strength of our economy and investment momentum. India is also asserting leadership in technology, innovation and global partnerships.

For NMDC, this has been a year replete with 'Eureka' moments where we discovered and rediscovered our true calling and embarked on a journey of profound transformation to harness our real potential. In FY26, we became the first mining company in India to produce more than 50 million tonnes of iron ore in a single year, achieving record production of 53.16 million tonnes and sales of 50.24 million tonnes, scripting history on stone. The numbers reflect an increase of 20.62% in production and 13.15% in sales year on year, which have been achieved organically, by optimizing and exceeding the capacities and capabilities of the existing production and sales equipments and infrastructure. NMDC has proved its resilience with such a quantum jump in production in a single year which is unprecedented and unparalleled in the industry. Through this commendable performance, NMDC has genuinely contributed to the strengthening of the foundation for India's infrastructure and industrial growth.

This operational excellence was naturally reflected in the financial performance of the Company which registered new echelons in turnover and other financial parameters. Revenue from operations increased by 33.31% to ₹31,554 crore, Profit After Tax rose by 10.88% to ₹7,421 crore and Net Worth increased by 14.39% to ₹33,836 crore. NMDC invested ₹3,384 crore in capital expenditure during the year while continuing to create value for shareholders through payment of interim dividend @ ₹2.50 per share and proposed final dividend @ ₹1.00 per share for FY 2025-26, subject to shareholders' approval.

India's rapid industrialization calls for secure, reliable and responsibly managed mineral resources. Our Vision 2030 of achieving 100 MTPA of iron ore production capacity is therefore not merely a business ambition, but an important contribution towards India's long-term mineral security and economic growth.

Strengthening the Growth Platform

The next phase of NMDC's journey is focused on converting capacity and ambition into safe, efficient and dependable operations. Our 60 MT production target for FY 2026-27 represents an important step towards the 100 MTPA pathway.

Significant progress was achieved in strengthening our integrated mining and logistics infrastructure. The Kirandul–Jagdalpur rail-line doubling project achieved 98% overall progress, with 140 km completed and operational. Further, the Company has successfully commissioned its Slurry Pipeline Project on 26th September 2026, with the production of the first batch of fired pellets at its Pellet Plant in Nagarnar, Chhattisgarh. This milestone marks the successful integrated commissioning of the entire SPL system, comprising of Iron Ore Processing Plant (IOPP) at Bacheli, the 135 km Slurry Pipeline traversing three districts and 2.0 Million Tonne Pellet Plant at Nagarnar. These projects will enhance evacuation capacity and improve the overall efficiency of the Bailadila value chain.

NMDC also continued to diversify its domestic mineral portfolio. Tokisud North in Jharkhand commenced mining operations in January 2026, marking our entry into domestic coal mining. The ground-breaking of Bailadila Iron Ore Deposit-4, through NMDC-CMDC Limited, was undertaken in February 2026, with commencement of commercial operations. Significant progress in the development of Bailadila Iron Ore Deposit-13, which is also a part of NMDC-CMDC Limited, were undertaken during FY 2025-26, leading to its commercial operation in the months that followed.

It also makes me proud to inform that NMDC, in true recognition of the tireless and dedicated efforts of its human capital, made concerted efforts to provide quality life to its employees in the projects by commissioning new housing and anciliary facilities during the year and also undertaking the commencement of a few other such projects in its townships at Bailadila and Donimalai complexes.

Our earnestness and seriousness to emerge as a world class, global mineral behemoth took a significant leap with the opening of our offices in Dubai, UAE and Sydney, Australia. These offices are expected to support in NMDC's mineral diversification journey abroad.

Technology, Sustainability and People

State of Art Technology and innovation are an integral part of NMDC's operations with an objective to improving operational visibility, decision-making, productivity and safety. Initiatives taken up include Digital Project Management Unit, Automated Sampling, Digitally Enabled Drilling and Blasting, Real-Time Material Visibility and Integrated Sustainability Data Systems.

Our commitment to responsible growth remains equally strong. NMDC is pursuing greater energy and resource efficiency, increased renewable energy utilisation, improved water and land stewardship and lower-carbon logistics. Our Net Zero Strategy and Roadmap provides a structured direction for reducing the environmental footprint of our operations.

Our people remain at the heart of this transformation. Safety continues to be a non-negotiable priority, complemented by focused investments in human capital through skill development, leadership enhancement and digital capabilities.

Through our CSR initiatives, NMDC also continues to contribute to healthcare, education, skill development and community infrastructure, particularly in the regions surrounding our operations.

Corporate Governance

Corporate governance remains a cornerstone of NMDC's organisational ethos, underpinning every aspect of our operations and decision-making. We are committed to creating sustainable long-term value for all our stakeholders including shareholders, customers, suppliers, creditors, the Government of India, State Governments, regulatory authorities, and the communities we serve. Guided by the highest standards of integrity and accountability, we strive to ensure full compliance with applicable laws and regulations, both in letter and spirit. Through transparent governance practices, prudent risk management and responsible decision-making, we continue to strengthen stakeholder confidence and safeguard value creation.

Looking Ahead

The year ahead will be the year of execution, consolidation and transformation. Stabilising our higher production base, reaching the 60 MT production milestone, completing critical infrastructure projects and advancing the next phases of capacity expansion will remain key priorities.

The journey towards 100 MTPA will require operational excellence, disciplined capital allocation, strong project execution, technology adoption and unwavering commitment to safety and sustainability. At the same time, NMDC will continue to explore opportunities for diversification into critical and strategic minerals, both domestically and internationally, in alignment with India's evolving mineral security needs.

I am confident that NMDC has the resources, capabilities and institutional strength to meet the opportunities and challenges ahead. We are building an enterprise that is larger in scale, stronger in capability, smarter through technology and more responsible in its operations.

I express my sincere gratitude to the Government of India, Ministry of Steel, Ministry of Mines, Ministry of Environment, Forest and Climate Change, other Government Departments and the State Governments for their continued guidance and support.

I also thank our employees and their unions, customers, suppliers, partners, host communities, regulators and shareholders for their continued trust and confidence.

Together, we will continue to build NMDC as a globally competitive mining enterprise and remain at the heart of India's journey towards a stronger, more self-reliant and mineral-secure future.

Jai Hind
