MIZORAM DESTROYS DRUGS WORTH RS 11.82 CR

Aizawl: Mizoram on Wednesday destroyed seized narcotic substances worth more than Rs 11.82 crore in Aizawl as part of the state's intensified crackdown on drug trafficking, officials said. The Mizoram Excise and Narcotics Department destroyed the seized drugs at Bethani Multipurpose Farm in Phunchawng after the related cases were disposed of by courts. The action was carried out in accordance with Section 51A of the Drugs and Psychotropic Substances (NDPS) Act, 1985, and the NDPS (Seizure, Storage, Sampling and Disposal) Rules, 2022.

EC WITHDRAWS SIR DECLARATION FROM FORM 6

New Delh: The Election Commission has withdrawn the additional Special Intensive Revision (SIR)-related declaration from the online Form 6 in states where the electoral roll revision exercise has been completed.The additional declaration has been removed from the ECINET app and portal as well as the respective Chief Electoral Officer portals in states where the SIR has concluded. New applicants in these states will now have to fill only the statutory Form 6 prescribed under the Registration of Electors Rules, 1960, for enrolment in the electoral roll. In states and Union Territories where the SIR exercise is still underway, the additional declaration remains available on the ECINET portal.

CM Revanth vows to meet PM for Telangana

Inaugurates new Karimnagar Collectorate urges officials to serve people with empathy

HYDERABAD ■ TSIT BUREAU:

Chief Minister A.Revanth Reddy on Wednesday reaffirmed that he would meet the Prime Minister and Union Ministers as many times as necessary to resolve Telangana's issues and secure approvals for development projects.

Inaugurating the new district Collectorate in Karimnagar and chairing its first review meeting, the Chief Minister stressed that mutual cooperation between the Centre and the states was essential for development, despite ideological differences.

Taking a dig at the opposition for counting his visits to Delhi, Revanth Reddy said sustained engagement with the Centre was yielding results. He cited the transfer of 170 acres of defence land for state development within six months and central permission for a road passing beneath the Begumpet airport runway in Hyderabad.

"We may have ideological differences, but we should cooperate with each other for the sake of development," he said. Projects built at a cost of hundreds of crores of rupees would fail to serve their intended purpose without the necessary central approvals, he added.The Chief Minister urged government employees to make the new Collectorate a centre for responsive public service and grievance redressal. He appealed to officials to treat people approaching their offices in distress with the same care and concern they would show their own family members.Whether it was the Chief Minister or the Prime Minister, earning public goodwill depended on the cooperation and commitment of government employees, he said. Dedicated service by officials was essential to ensuring justice for the poor.

Revanth Reddy said the government had completed the Collectorate building after a prolonged delay and emphasised that its purpose would be fulfilled through effective service to citizens.

Blast, fire at Mangaluru refinery kills 1, injures 9

Mangaluru ■ (TSIT):

A major blast, followed by a fire, was reported at Mangalore Refinery and Petrochemicals Ltd (MRPL) in Karnataka's Mangaluru on Wednesday, leaving one person dead and nine others injured. The blaze has now been brought under control. Mangaluru Deputy Commissioner Darshan H.V. told the media that one person was killed and nine labourers were injured in the incident. The deceased has been identified as Manish, 30.

According to police, Manish, a resident of Haleyangadi on the outskirts of Mangaluru, was working as an electrician at the MRPL plant. Present at the site along with injured worker Rajesh Baptist, Manish suffered fatal burn injuries in the explosion, and fire personnel launched an operation to recover his body. The injured have been identified as Baptist from Surathkal, Prasad, Indrajit, Raman, Jarome, Jayaram, Avinash, Akshay, and another person. Baptist suffered 30 per cent burn injuries and is being treated in the ICU of Srinivasa Hospital. The others have been admitted to AG and MRPL hospitals.

Preliminary investigations revealed that a major explosion occurred at MRPL's hydro-treating unit at around 12.15 p.m. on Wednesday while testing was being carried out. A major tragedy was averted as workers had left the unit following a shift change at 11.30 a.m. The incident could have resulted in heavy casualties had the workers been inside the unit at the time of the explosion.

Shivakumar declares Rs 1,400 cr assets

Bengaluru ■ (TSIT) : Karnataka Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar on Tuesday hit back at Union Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy over allegations about his assets, saying he acquired his properties legally and disclosed them to the Income Tax Department.

"Yes, I have assets worth Rs 1,400 crore at today's valuation. I have acquired them within the legal framework. Kumaraswamy is frustrated and is speaking like this," Shivakumar told the media in New Delhi.He alleged that differences within the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP)-JDS alliance had left Kumaraswamy frustrated. Shivakumar also questioned why Kumaraswamy had remained silent about the NICE project when he was Chief Minister.

CM distributes house site pattas to 26,000 poor families

VIJAYAWADA ■ (TSIT)

- Double-engine government to provide hundreds of times more benefits to the poor
- CM Chandrababu distributes house site pattas in NTR district
- Rights conferred over 707 acres of land worth Rs.28,112 crore
- Visakhapatnam, Vijayawada top in women's workforce
- Every step of coalition government aimed at achieving Swarna Andhra
- CM Chandrababu at 'Pattabhishekam for the Poor' programme in Vijayawada

Chief Minister N. Chandrababu Naidu said that the distribution of house site pattas would provide assurance to 26,000 poor families and enable them to have ownership rights over their house sites.

He said that the double-engine government would bring hundreds of times more benefits to the poor. The Chief Minister distributed house site pattas to beneficiaries at the 'Pattabhishekam for the Poor' programme held in Vijayawada.

Chandrababu Naidu said that rights were being provided over 707 acres of land valued at Rs.28,112 crore.

He said that Visakhapatnam and Vijayawada were occupying top positions in the women's workforce.

Every step taken by the coalition government, he said, was aimed at achieving Swarna Andhra. He alleged that the opposition was working only to obstruct the development being undertaken by the government. He said that the government was committed to the welfare of the poor and development of the state.

TOP LASHKAR COMMANDER KILLED IN BUDGAM ENCOUNTER

SRINAGAR ■ (TSIT)

A top commander of Lashkar-e-Taiba (LeT) terror outfit was killed in an encounter with the joint forces in Jammu and Kashmir's Budgam district, the Army said on Wednesday. The encounter took place late Tuesday evening. Srinagar headquartered Chinar Corps of the Army said on X, "Based on specific intelligence input, a Joint Search Operation was launched by #IndianArmy, @JmuKmrPolice and @crpf_srinagar in general area Korag, Yousmarg."

PM Modi calls green energy scheme a big push

NEW DELHI ■ (TSIT)

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Wednesday said the Cabinet decision on the Green Energy Corridor Phase-III (GEC-III) scheme is a "big push" towards achieving 900 GW non-fossil capacity by 2035. The Cabinet has approved the GEC-III scheme to enable evacuation of up to 135 gigawatts (GW) of renewable energy across states and Union Territories."Cleaner power. Stronger grids. More opportunities," PM Modi said in a post on X. "The Cabinet decision on the Green Energy Corridor Phase III will ensure: 135 GW renewable energy evacuation.

Traders withdraw 'No UPI Day' protest

New Delhi ■ (TSIT) :

Leading traders' bodies have withdrawn their call to observe October 2 as "No UPI Day" following a meeting with Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman on Wednesday in the national capital. A delegation of around 20 trade representatives from various states met the finance minister on Wednesday to express concerns over the proposed 0.4 per cent fee on merchant UPI transactions above Rs 2,000.

CM Vijay accuses AIADMK of DMK alliance

CHENNAI ■ (TSIT):

Chief Minister and Tamilaga Vettri Kazhagam (TVK) president Vijay on Wednesday accused the AIADMK of becoming an "offshoot" of the DMK, alleging that the two parties were functioning alike and sharing a common political interest. Campaigning in Dharapuram for TVK candidate Sathyabama ahead of the October 6 Assembly bypoll, Vijay said he had come to meet voters as a son and a family member, rather than in his capacity as Chief Minister. He said his government was committed to eliminating corruption and fulfilling its election promises in phases.

Rahul vows punishment for democracy destroyers

New Delhi ■ (TSIT) :

"The main issue was 'vote chori'. Every party has an opinion that BJP, Narendra Modi, Amit Shah, and Gyanesh Kumar have attacked Indian democracy."

Leader of Opposition (LoP) in the Lok Sabha Rahul Gandhi on Wednesday said that the INDIA bloc will ensure that those involved in "destroying" Indian democracy are punished.

Gandhi also said that the Opposition leaders are "collective defenders" of India's Constitution and "will bring serious changes in the country" as he accused Prime Minister Narendra Modi, Home Minister Amit Shah and Chief Election Commissioner (CEC) Gyanesh Kumar of "attacking" democracy.

Addressing the media after the INDIA bloc meeting at the Constitution Club here, Gandhi said: "The main issue was 'vote chori'. Every party has an opinion that BJP, Narendra Modi, Amit Shah, and Gyanesh Kumar have attacked Indian democracy." "This is a personal commitment of all INDIA leaders -- we are going to ensure that the people who have destroyed Indian democracy are punished; it doesn't matter how senior they are, who they are; Indian democracy is bigger than every single person in this country," he added.He said that there was also a feeling in the room that the Opposition has been "quite successful" in putting across to the people of India that "elections are stolen; that Narendra Modi, Amit Shah have destroyed democracy".

"There is a new sense of resistance, particularly among young people, that what is happening in India is wrong and needs to be stopped," Gandhi said

."I also mentioned to all the Opposition leaders that they are the collective defenders of the Indian Constitution, and it is an honour for us to work together, and we are confident that over the next few months, we will make serious changes in the country," he added.

Revanth challenges KTR to Assembly debate

Hyderabad TSIT BUREAU: Chief Minister A.Revanth Reddy challenged BRS working president K.T. Rama Rao to a debate in the Assembly on the performance of their respective governments, while pledging to take personal responsibility for Sircilla's development and the welfare of its weaving community.

Addressing a gathering in Sircilla, the Chief Minister accused the previous BRS government of neglecting weavers, migrant workers and vulnerable communities. He said the town, renowned for its textile craftsmanship and weavers capable of producing a sari that fits inside a matchbox, deserved stronger support and better livelihood opportunities.

Revanth Reddy questioned why distress among weaving families and migration to Gulf countries had continued despite KTR's repeated election from the constituency. He alleged that the prosperity of the BRS leadership stood in contrast to the difficulties faced by local families.

Highlighting his government's initiatives, the Chief Minister said Rs.1,730 crore had been spent on the weaving sector in two-and-a-half years, compared with approximately Rs.2,000 crore during the BRS government's decade in office. He said pending Bathukamma sari payments to weavers had been cleared after the issue was brought to the government's attention by official Shailaja Ramaiyer.He said the government had introduced a special policy for migrant workers, including assistance of Rs.5 lakh per eligible family. Proposals submitted by leaders Aadi Srinivas and Eravathri Anil had helped bring migrant workers' concerns to the government's attention, he added. The Chief Minister said Rs.1,500 crore had been provided for Vemulawada's development and referred to initiatives including a Young India school, revenue offices and a women's police station. He also cited farm loan waivers and Rythu Bharosa as measures supporting farmers.

Special Focus on MLC Voter Registration

Khammam, September 30 (Tsit): District Collector Divakar T.S. directed officials to focus particularly on the voter registration process for the Warangal–Khammam–Nalgonda Graduates' MLC constituency and ensure that every eligible graduate is enrolled as a voter.

Speaking at a meeting held with representatives of political parties at the Collectorate, the Collector said that only 84,000 graduates had been registered as MLC voters in the district previously. This time, the target is to register at least 200,000 graduates as voters, he said.

He advised eligible graduates who had obtained their degrees by October 31, 2023, to submit Form-18 along with their graduation certificate to register as MLC voters. He directed officials to conduct special registration drives in degree, professional and postgraduate colleges, identify graduates aged between 25 and 60, and enroll them as voters.

Minister Vakiti Srihari Leads Telangana Delegation to Japan

Hyderabad, September 30 (TSIT): A Telangana government delegation led by Minister Vakiti Srihari has left for Japan on a six-day visit to watch the Asian Games and study sports infrastructure, athlete training and the organisation of international sporting events.

The delegation includes government representative A.P. Jithender Reddy, Special Chief Secretary Jayesh Ranjan, former Sports Authority chairman Shivasena Reddy, and Sports Authority Vice Chairperson and Managing Director Dr. A. Soni Bala Devi.

During the visit, the team will study arrangements for conducting major sporting competitions, modern sports facilities and training systems provided to athletes.

CMC Commissioner Dr.Srijana Honours Safai Mitras, Promotes Workers' Welfare

Hyderabad, TSIT : Cyberabad Municipal Corporation (CMC) Commissioner Dr.G.Srijana felicitated sanitation workers at the CMC Head Office in recognition of their dedicated contribution to keeping Cyberabad clean, as part of Swachhata Hi Seva 2026.

CMC organised Safai Mitra Suraksha Evam Samman Shivir sanitation workers' welfare camps across Cyberabad, focusing on the health, safety and well-being of Safai Mitras and their families. The camps provided single-window health check-ups and facilitated direct enrolment in welfare schemes, including Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojana, Ayushman Bharat and Pradhan Mantri Jeevan Jyoti Bima Yojana. Personal protective equipment kits were also distributed to improve workplace safety.The initiative recognised the essential role of sanitation workers, who begin their duties early each day, cleaning streets, managing waste and helping maintain public hygiene.

NMDC provides four speed boats for Bastar flood relief

HYDERABAD (TSIT): In view of the heavy rains and flood situation in Bastar division and adjoining areas of Chhattisgarh, NMDC Limited has taken quick initiative and provided four speed boats to the Government of Chhattisgarh for rescue, relief and emergency operations. This initiative is in addition to the rescue boat already made available by NMDC Steel Limited. Prior to this, the distribution of food and other relief materials in the affected area by NMDC was also started expeditiously.

As soon as the State Government requested for emergency requirement, NMDC immediately mobilised resources and arranged four speed boats from Pune on priority basis. Each boat has a seating capacity of about 8 to 10 persons and these have been provided keeping in view the safety standards required for emergency rescue operations.All four speed boats were handed over to Shri Akash Chikara, District Collector, Jagdalpur, at a function held at the Municipal Panchayat Bhawan on September 30, 2026.

Addressing the people, Hon'ble Member of Parliament from Bastar, Shri Mahesh Kashyap, said materials are being distributed in relief camps with the cooperation of NMDC. One boat was immediately provided by NMDC Steel Plant for the flood-affected villages. But given the unprecedented disaster, more boats were needed. He spoke to the NMDC management, which immediately ordered four motor boats from Pune on priority basis and made them available to the district administration, which is commendable.

UGL Dialogues lecture explores trade networks in early Gujarat

HYDERABAD (TSIT): The Urbanisation, Gender and Labour (UGL) Cluster, Centre for Asian Studies (CAS), GITAM Deemed to be University, Hyderabad, organised a lecture under its UGL Dialogues – Lecture Series on the theme "Mapping Trade Networks across Port and Inland Urban Centres in Early Gujarat: Interrogating the Commercial Landscapes of Two Cities."

Prof. Suchandra Ghosh, Professor and Chair, Department of History, University of Hyderabad, delivered the lecture, examining Gujarat's role in long-distance trade networks from the early historic period, with particular focus on Bharukachcha (Barygaza), Anahilapura (Anahilapattana) and Somnatha.

Drawing on literary, epigraphic and archaeological sources—including the Periplus Maris Erythraei, Ptolemy's works, Jataka literature, inscriptions and Cairo Geniza documents—Prof. Ghosh traced the extensive maritime and overland networks connecting Gujarat with the Deccan, northern India, the Red Sea, Persian Gulf and the wider Indian Ocean world.

She highlighted Bharukachcha's prominence as a major western Indian port and Anahilapura's emergence as a significant inland commercial centre linked to coastal and transregional routes.

The lecture also explored the movement of merchants, commodities and ideas, demonstrating how port cities and inland urban centres functioned as interconnected nodes within wider commercial landscapes. The discussion underscored Gujarat's important position in the historical development of Indian Ocean trade and urbanisation. The session was chaired and discussed by Dr. Sreekanta M. V. and Dr. Shreejita Basak, with Dr. Debadrita Chakraborty serving as Convenor. The lecture brought together scholarly perspectives on trade, urban growth and the evolution of commercial networks in early Gujarat.

SRM University-AP debuts in THE World University Rankings 2027

AMARAVATI (TSIT): SRM University-AP has made its debut in the Times Higher Education (THE) World University Rankings 2027, securing a place in the 1001–1200 band in its very first year of participation. Established less than a decade ago, the university says the recognition makes it the youngest private university in India to achieve this distinction within 10 years of its inception. The milestone marks a significant step in its emergence as a research-led institution with a growing global presence. It also makes SRM AP Andhra Pradesh's first university to achieve this honour in this span.

Besides a strong overall position, SRM University-AP's performance was particularly strong in International Outlook, where it recorded a score of 58.5 and was placed fifth in India on this indicator, above some of the best academic institutions. Its Research Quality score of 55.4 reflects the strong reach, influence and growing impact of the university's scholarly output within the global research community. Dr P. Sathyanarayanan, Pro-Chancellor, SRM AP, said entering the rankings within a decade of founding affirms that the university is moving in the right direction. It reflects the quality, purpose and ambition that define SRM University-AP, he said, adding that with a focused roadmap for research and academic growth, it will build on this foundation by strengthening academic quality, global engagement and meaningful impact.

Vice-Chancellor Prof. Ch Satish Kumar said the recognition reflects the culture of inquiry the university has built in under a decade. He said it deepens their resolve toward the vision set for the university and reflects the culture of curiosity nurtured at SRM University-AP, where faculty and students pursue questions that matter and share findings with the global scholarly community.

The university's inaugural participation was coordinated by its Quality Assurance and Rankings (QAR) team. Dr Karthik Rajendran, Associate Dean, Quality Assurance and Rankings, said it was their first submission to THE, and securing a place on the first attempt is deeply encouraging. It validates efforts to benchmark teaching, research and international engagement against global standards, he said.

With schools spanning engineering and sciences, liberal arts and business, as well as dedicated institutes in artificial intelligence and quantum technology, SRM University-AP continues to build a research-driven academic community with global ambitions. SRM University-AP is a multidisciplinary private university in Amaravati, Andhra Pradesh, committed to advancing knowledge through high-quality education, research, innovation and international collaboration.

Global Education Fair 2026 held at GITAM

HYDERABAD (TSIT): The Directorate of Training, Mentoring & Career Guidance (TMCG) – Alternate Career Services at GITAM Deemed to be University organised the Global Education Fair 2026 at its Hyderabad Campus on September 30, 2026, from 10:00 AM to 3:00 PM, providing students with valuable opportunities to explore higher education options abroad for the Fall 2027 intake.The fair brought together representatives from 25+ international universities across multiple countries, including Australia, Canada, France, Singapore, Switzerland, the UK and the US. It offered students a platform to explore Master's programmes, understand admission requirements and gain insights into scholarships, financial aid and application procedures. Students had the opportunity to interact one-on-one with university representatives, explore study destinations and programmes, seek guidance on scholarships and financial assistance, and avail application fee waiv-ers, wherever applicable. The event was inaugurated by Dr. M. Reza, Principal, School of Science, in the presence of DVVSR Varma, Resident Director.

Create awareness on PM Surya Ghar scheme, says CE

HANAMKONDA (TSIT): TGNPDCL Chief Engineer, IPC & RAC, Sri K. Venkata Ramana said 'Seva Sethu' programmes will be conducted across all Division Headquarters under TGNPDCL to create widespread awareness among consumers on the PM Surya Ghar–Muft Bijli Yojana, encourage installation of rooftop solar power plants and enable eligible domestic consumers to avail the benefits of the scheme.

A video conference was conducted on Wednesday from the TGNPDCL Corporate Office at Hanamkonda with all Superintending Engineers, Divisional Engineers and Assistant Divisional Engineers of TGNPDCL circles. The Chief Engineer issued directions to field officers regarding the effective conduct of the programmes. Sri K. Venkata Ramana informed that the programmes will be conducted at all Division Headquarters on October 1, 2 and 3. Officials from TGNPDCL, TGREDCO and representatives of concerned banks will be available to explain the scheme and its benefits to consumers.

He stated that domestic consumers can install rooftop solar power plants under the scheme. Eligible consumers can avail Central Financial Assistance of Rs.30,000 for a 1 kW system, Rs.60,000 for a 2 kW system and up to Rs.78,000 for a 3 kW system.

Rooftop solar enables consumers to reduce electricity bills and generate surplus power, providing an opportunity to earn additional income. A 3 kW rooftop solar system can generate approximately 450 units of electricity per month, he said. He informed that 29,621 rooftop solar connections have been registered in the TGNPDCL area, representing approximately 97 MW of solar capacity. Around 20,000 applications are currently under process, expected to add approximately 60 MW of solar power generation capacity.During the 'Seva Sethu' pro-grammes, officials will create awareness about the installa-tion procedure, application pro-cess, Central subsidy, bank loan facilities, net metering and benefits through savings in electricity bills.As officials from TGNPDCL, TGREDCO and bank represen-tatives will be available on a single platform, consumers can directly clarify their doubts and obtain complete information regarding the scheme. The Chief Engineer said a key objective of the scheme is to promote renew-able energy in view of increas- ing electricity demand and provide domestic consumers an opportunity to reduce election.

Doctors highlight early intervention for nerve pain

HYDERABAD (TSIT): Long sitting hours, high-stress desk environments and minimal physical activity are increasingly contributing to nerve-related discomfort among Hyderabad's working population. This Pain Awareness Month, medical specialists are drawing attention to an uptick in sciatica, neck-to-arm radiating pain and early-stage neuropathic discomfort among young and mid-career professionals.The discussion coincides with the International Association for the Study of Pain (IASP) designating 2026 as the Global Year for Neuropathic Pain, aimed at closing diagnostic and treatment gaps for nerve disorders worldwide. In metropolitan centres like Hyderabad, these challenges often manifest as radiating lower back pain dismissed as muscle strain, or hand and neck tingling attributed to routine fatigue.

Data from the landmark ICMR-INDIAB study indicates that urban India faces a significantly higher prevalence of diabetes than rural regions, creating a dual risk profile where metabolic nerve sensitivity overlaps with posture-induced nerve compression. Dr. P. S. Vijayender Goud, Pain and Palliative Care Specialist, Renova BIBI Cancer Hospital – Hyderabad, noted that when pain radiates down an arm or leg, or is accompanied by burning sensations or numbness, it usually points to nerve involvement rather than simple muscle tiredness. He said extended static posture weakens stabilising core musculature and increases pressure on lumbar and cervical discs, with conditions like sciatica and cervical radiculopathy increasingly seen in individuals in their late twenties and thirties. Early clinical assessment, physical therapy, ergonomic corrections and structured medical care are essential to prevent long-term functional impairment.For clinically diagnosed nerve pain and moderate-to-severe musculoskeletal discomfort, modern medical management offers targeted prescription options, ranging from topical formulations like lidocaine for localised neuropathic pain to specialised non-oral delivery systems such as transdermal patches, which provide controlled, continuous release of medication through the skin under direct medical supervision.Ms Malavika Kaura Saxena, Chief Marketing Officer, Rusan Healthcare Pvt. Ltd., said true preventive care means listening to our bodies and addressing warning signs early. She said the focus during this Global Year for Neuropathic Pain is to create awareness and educate people to recognise nerve symptoms and connect with proper medical advice instead of turning to unguided self-medication. Doctors encourage desk-bound professionals to incorporate movement into daily routines, review workplace ergonomics and consult a qualified physician if symptoms persist.

Lifestyle changes key to heart health, say doctors

HYDERABAD (TSIT): KIMS Hospitals, Kompally, organised an awareness rally on Tuesday to mark World Heart Day and spread awareness about cardiovascular health and prevention of heart disease.

The rally began at KIMS Hospitals, Kompally, and proceeded towards D-Mart. It was attended by doctors, hospital staff and members of the local community. Participants highlighted the importance of a healthy lifestyle, prevention of cardiovascular disease and early recognition of heart attack symptoms.

Consultant Interventional Cardiologists Dr. D. Sunil Reddy, Dr. Partha Saradhi Sivakoti, Dr. Pranay Jaiprakash Gore, Dr. Sambasiva Rao Chevuri and Dr. Harshavardhan EV, along with CTVC Dr. Sameer Chauhan, Unit Head Dr. Kiran, hospital doctors and staff took part.

Speaking on the occasion, the doctors said heart disease does not always occur suddenly. In many cases, unhealthy lifestyle habits over several years can lead to gradual changes in the blood vessels, including fatty deposits and hardening of the arteries.

They said high blood pressure, diabetes, high cholesterol, obesity, smoking and physical inactivity were among the major risk factors. Regular health check-ups, physical activity and a balanced diet could help reduce the risk, they added. The doctors stressed that protecting heart health should begin at a young age. They advised reducing salt, sugar and unhealthy fats, while including more vegetables, fruits and fibre-rich foods. They also recommended regular physical activity and avoiding prolonged sitting.

Quiz competition winners honoured at A.V.V. Degree and P.G. College

WARANGAL (TSIT): A.V.V. Degree & P.G. College successfully conducted a two-day Quiz Competition to enhance students' general knowledge, analytical thinking, presence of mind, self-confidence and competitive spirit. A prize and certificate distribution ceremony was organised to honour the winners.

Sri Chanda Srikanth, Permanent Member of the A.V.V. Governing Body, was the Chief Guest. He presented prizes and certificates to the winners and congratulated them for their excellent performance.Speaking on the occasion, Sri Chanda Srikanth encouraged students to actively participate in academic, cultural and intellectual activities and not limit their talents to classroom learning. He said quizzes play an important role in identifying and nurturing hidden talents. He observed that such competitions help students test their knowledge, compete with others, manage time effectively, think quickly and make appropriate decisions. He congratulated the winners and all participants.Principal Dr. E. Satyanarayana said students should develop a competitive spirit from the degree level itself and move forward with clear goals. He emphasised that academic knowledge alone is not sufficient in today's competitive environment. Students should also develop general awareness, knowledge of current affairs, analytical thinking, problem-solving skills and decision-making abilities.

He stated that participation in quizzes, seminars, elocution competitions, group discussions and essay writing would help students prepare for competitive examinations with greater confidence. He noted that general knowledge, current affairs, logical reasoning and quick response are important for government jobs, banking, railways, UPSC, TSPSC and entrance examinations, and advised students to start developing these skills early.The Principal said the college continuously organises programmes for quality education and overall student development, including personality development, leadership qualities, communication skills and competitive abilities. He advised students not to treat failure as a setback but as a stepping stone to future success. Dr. Janga Venugopal Yadav, Puli Saroj, Ayesha Begum, Thota Ravinder and Goddeti Kalyani, along with faculty members, staff and students, participated in the programme.

Hyderabad, TSIT : Hyderabad District Collector Dr. Priyanka Ala on Wednesday directed officials to complete arrangements for Gandhi Jayanti celebrations at Bapu Ghat on schedule, stressing coordination among departments and strict adherence to protocol. Collector inspected various areas of Bapu Ghat and subsequently reviewed preparations at a meeting in the Bapu Museum Hall with Golconda Zone DCP Raghavender Reddy, Traffic DCP Kajol and Hyderabad RDO Ramakrishna.Dr. Priyanka Ala instructed departments to complete their assigned work within the stipulated time. She called for particular attention to uninterrupted electricity, drinking water, floral decoration, police security, traffic management and sanitation.With the Governor, Chief Minister, Ministers, public representatives and senior officials scheduled to visit Bapu Ghat and the museum on October 2, she directed officials to ensure that all arrangements were in place for the programme to proceed smoothly.

Training Builds Effective Police Leadership DGP C.V. Anand

DGP interacts with 112 probationary DSPs; stresses ethics, fitness and technology

Hyderabad, September 30 (TSIT): Telangana Director General of Police C.V. Anand said training forms the foundation of a police officer's career and urged probationary Deputy Superintendents of Police to develop discipline, commitment, leadership qualities and strong ethical values.

Interacting with 112 probationary DSPs undergoing training at the RBVRR Telangana Police Academy on Wednesday, the DGP spoke for about 90 minutes on police leadership, professional responsibilities, integrity and dealing with the public.

Anand emphasised that holding a position does not automatically make an officer a leader. Courage, a clear vision, integrity, teamwork, impartiality, effective communication, hard work, technological knowledge, creativity and humility were essential leadership qualities, he said.

TUWJ-IJU state council member resigns in Mulugu

MULUGU (TSIT): Tensions have reportedly surfaced within the Telangana Union of Working Journalists (TUWJ-IJU) in Mulugu district. State Council Member Enagandla Komuraiah has resigned from his membership, citing dissatisfaction with the district president's unilateral approach and the manner in which the union's affairs are being conducted. Following his lead, former district vice-president Bethi Satish Yadav also announced his resignation.They alleged that the IJU Mulugu district president has been conducting union activities in association with members of other unions and acting arbitrarily.

Farmers urged to take up alternative crops : Collector Kumar Deepak.

BELAMPELLY , SEPT. 30, TSIT : District Collector Kumar Deepak has urged farmers to diversify from traditional crops such as paddy, cotton and maize and take up alternative crops that have better market demand and profitability.

Addressing a Kisan Mela at the Krishi Vigyan Kendra in Bellampalli, the Collector said farmers should consider market demand, crop prices, cultivation costs and water availability while selecting crops. He stressed the need to promote oil palm, fruit crops, pandal cultivation and organic farming.

He said modern technologies such as drip irrigation, nano urea and nano-DAP could help reduce cultivation costs and improve productivity. Farmers were also advised to make use of various subsidies and welfare schemes being provided by the government.Sirpur MLA Palvai Harish Babu called upon farmers to adopt organic farming practices and focus on alternative crops in view of changing weather conditions. Later, progressive farmers were felicitated at the programme.

Palle Panduga 3.0 to usher in new era for villages

CHITTOOR (TSIT): Chittoor Member of Parliament Daggumalla Prasad Rao on Wednesday expressed happiness that 'Palle Panduga 3.0', launched with the ambitious goal of comprehensive development of rural areas in Andhra Pradesh by the coalition government, will mark the beginning of revolutionary changes. He stated that the Chittoor Parliamentary Constituency, which he represents, is set to progress rapidly. He praised the allocation of funds on a record scale under the leadership of Chief Minister Nara Chandrababu Naidu and Deputy Chief Minister Pawan Kalyan to bring the festival of progress to the villages.

He lauded the foresight of the Chief Minister and Deputy Chief Minister, saying the programme would be wonderfully useful in putting villages back on the path of progress after roads were damaged and drainage systems were absent due to the neglect of the previous government.

Tirupati Economic Region Plan 2047 under preparation

TIRUPATI (TSIT): Tirupati Economic Region CEO Mukesh Kumar Meena said the nine districts in the region account for nearly 50 per cent of the State's geographical area but contribute only about 34 per cent of the GSDP. Sectors with greater growth potential are being identified, with analysis of GVA contribution, growth drivers and required policy measures.

A comprehensive development plan is being prepared by linking available land, future land needs, investment requirements and funding sources such as Central schemes, State investments, PPP and Viability Gap Funding.

An advisory team has been constituted with the Director of IIT Tirupati, a senior professor from IIM Bangalore, a senior director from the School of Planning and Architecture, Vijayawada, and experts from knowledge partners. Plans for Visakhapatnam, Varanasi, Surat and Navi Mumbai are also being examined. Andhra Pradesh is being divided into three large economic regions, with 50 to 100 key projects identified per region.

District Collector Dr. S. Venkateswar said Tirupati is a major economic and tourism hub. Devotees currently spend only about 18 hours in the district, and facilities are being developed to increase this to 36–48 hours. Manufacturing accounts for about 44 per cent of the district's GDP, and industrial townships are planned.

Nellore District Collector said the three districts must be treated as one region for integrated development. The Nellore port can serve as a gateway for neighbouring districts, and power and water should be viewed as regional needs.

The press conference was attended by Sullurpeta MLA Somireddy Chandramohan Reddy, MLC Kancharla Srikanth, Collectors Himanshu Shukla and Sumit Kumar, Joint Collector R. Govinda Rao and DRO Narasimhulu.

Municipal Bodies Asked to Be Fully Prepared for Municipal Elections

Visakhapatnam,TSIT.
Andhra Pradesh Commissioner & Director of Municipal Administration P. Sampath Kumar directed all Municipal Corporations and Municipalities to make comprehensive arrangements for the Ordinary Municipal Elections–2026. Addressing the Regional Conference on Election Preparedness held at VMRDA Children's Arena in Visakhapatnam on Wednesday, he stressed that officials should have a thorough understanding of election laws, rules and State Election Commission guidelines. He instructed officials to complete preparations in advance, including ward-wise electoral rolls, identification of polling stations and provision of basic amenities, while ensuring that every stage of the election process is conducted transparently, impartially and strictly according to the prescribed rules.

GVMC Commissioner Ketan Garg directed officials to inspect polling stations in advance and ensure drinking water, toilets, ramps, electricity and adequate lighting. He also stressed the need to scrutinise electoral rolls to prevent duplicate entries and errors and to follow prescribed procedures in the reservation process. Officials were advised to maintain neutrality, protect confidential election-related information and coordinate closely for the smooth conduct of the elections.

MA&UD Additional Director S. Ravindra Babu and Regional Director Vara Ravindra later explained election preparedness, electoral rolls, polling station arrangements, duties of election personnel, polling procedures, election material management and counting-related precautions through a presentation. Municipal Commissioners, Returning Officers, Assistant Returning Officers and other election officials from the Visakhapatnam Region attended the conference.

Commissioner of Railway Safety Conducts High-Level Safety Review

Visakhapatnam TSIT: Commissioner of Railway Safety, South Central Circle, Ms. Madhavi, conducted a high-level safety review meeting with the General Manager of South Coast Railway at the Zonal Headquarters. Chief Safety Officer Ch.P.R. Vittal, Principal Heads of Departments, Divisional Railway Managers through video conference and senior railway officials attended the meeting.

The review focused on the overall safety performance of the zone, statutory compliance, ongoing safety initiatives and action plans for ensuring accident-free train operations. The CRS stressed that safety must remain the paramount priority and advised strict adherence to scheduled maintenance of tracks, points and crossings, overhead equipment, signalling systems and rolling stock.

The CRS also reviewed road safety works, construction of ROBs and RUBs, interlocking of level crossings and public awareness campaigns, besides precautionary measures during monsoon conditions. She called for expediting the installation and regular maintenance of Kavach, digital axle counters and fire detection systems in coaches.

The General Manager briefed the CRS on measures being taken to eliminate safety hazards and strengthen safety practices among frontline staff, including regular safety audits, surprise night inspections and specialised safety counselling across divisions. The Principal Chief Safety Officer presented the status of safety activities and compliance with earlier statutory recommendations.

Coordinated Measures to Control Air Pollution in Visakhapatnam

Visakhapatnam,TSIT.
Andhra Pradesh Pollution Control Board Chairman Dr. P. Krishnaiah said heavy vehicular traffic from Gangavaram Port and the Steel Plant passing through Gajuwaka would be taken up with GVMC and RTA authorities to explore alternative routes. He made the statement during a video conference with representatives of the Greater Visakha Citizens Forum on measures to control air pollution, strengthen air-quality monitoring and address pollution from port and industrial activities. Dr. Krishnaiah said Visakhapatnam currently has eight manual air-quality monitoring stations and three Continuous Ambient Air Quality Monitoring Stations, while five IoT-based monitoring stations would be made available by November. Regarding pollution control at Visakhapatnam Port Authority, he said around 40 per cent of the required mechanisation works had been completed and directed officials to ensure compliance. He also said appropriate action could be considered during the next Consent for Operation renewal if the required measures were not completed.

PCB officials said measures such as covering trucks with tarpaulins and sprinkling water were being taken to control dust emissions from port-related activities. The Chairman directed officials to ensure the use of CPCB-approved chemicals and responded positively to a proposal to extend applicable National Green Tribunal guidelines at VPA to Gangavaram Port. GVCF representatives also proposed the use of low-cost dust monitors at construction sites.

Dr. Krishnaiah stressed the need for greater public participation through coordination among RWAs, citizen groups, builders, GVMC and APPCB, and suggested awareness workshops on construction dust, plastic use, waste segregation and neighbourhood cleanliness. APPCB Member Secretary Saravanan, senior officials and GVCF President Sohan Hattangadi, Secretary Captain N. Viswanathan and other representatives participated in the meeting.

Quantum teaching laboratory established at GITAM

VISAKHAPATNAM (TSIT): A Quantum Teaching Laboratory established at GITAM Deemed to be University with the support of the National Quantum Mission under the Department of Science and Technology was virtually inaugurated by Union Minister of State for Earth Sciences Dr. Jitendra Singh from New Delhi on Wednesday.

As part of the Pragati Q Foundry initiative under the National Quantum Mission, similar laboratories were inaugurated at GITAM and 23 other leading educational institutions across the country. The facility aims to provide undergraduate engineering students with hands-on exposure, research skills and practical knowledge in quantum technologies.

Dr. L. Srinivasa Chakravarthy, Principal Investigator of the laboratory, said it would support a minor course in Quantum Technologies and provide training in superconducting and semiconductor qubits, neutral atoms and ion traps, photonics, quantum sensing, quantum communication and quantum algorithms.

The laboratory will also facilitate faculty development, specialised training programmes, student projects and industry-academia collaborations, Dr. Chakravarthy said.

Dr. S. Arun Kumar, Dean of GITAM School of Computing and School of Engineering, attended the virtual inauguration, while Prof. G.V.S. Raj Kumar, Dr. K. Naveen Kumar, faculty members, researchers and students participated in the programme held at GITAM.

University representatives said the new facility would strengthen advanced learning and research opportunities for students and enhance GITAM's capabilities in the emerging field of quantum technology.

Mumbai Roadshow to Boost Investment Flow into AP

CII Partnership Summit scheduled in Visakhapatnam on Nov 12-13

Visakhapatnam, TSIT.
The Andhra Pradesh Government, in association with the Confederation of Indian Industry, organised a major Investment Promotion Roadshow in Mumbai on Wednesday to highlight investment opportunities in the state and strengthen partnerships with industry. Minister for MSMEs, Rural Poverty Alleviation and NRI Empowerment & Relations Kondapalli Srinivas attended the event as the chief guest. Representatives of leading industry bodies, business organisations, foreign trade delegations and entrepreneurs participated in the roadshow. Speaking on the occasion, Minister Kondapalli Srinivas said Andhra Pradesh offers land, natural resources, infrastructure, ports and logistics networks required for industrial growth, while the government is committed to investor-friendly policies and ease of doing business. Opportunities in BFSI and fintech, textiles, pharmaceuticals and life sciences, chemicals and petrochemicals, ports and shipping logistics, food processing and FMCG, global capability centres, data centres and renewable energy were highlighted. He said the government was following the 3S approach of Speed of Doing Business, Service and Stability. The roadshow also marked the beginning of the state's preparations for the CII Partnership Summit to be held in Visakhapatnam on November 12 and 13, with the government expecting participation from leading Maharashtra-based companies and further investment opportunities in Andhra Pradesh.

'Govt should take responsibility': DU students intensify protests over women's safety

New Delhi, Sep 30 : Students from Delhi University have intensified their protests over rising cases of crime against women in the national capital, taking to the streets with posters and placards, challenging restrictions imposed on women, and demanding accountability for incidents of sexual violence.

The protests, which have gained widespread attention for their sharp slogans and wordplay, have largely brought together students from several colleges, including the Shyama Prasad Mukherji College for Women, Miranda House, Lady Shri Ram College (LSR), Kamala Nehru College, and Gargi College. This comes after the gang-rape of a 17-year-old girl near Kalkaji's Aastha Kunj Park earlier this month. The incident has renewed long-standing concerns and anger among students over the safety of women in Delhi, particularly their freedom to move around the city without fear.

Students have also used humour, satire, and familiar Delhi expressions to voice their anger and question the prevailing conditions. Among the slogans that have gained attention is the line, "1 kachori, 2 samosa, in mardon ka kya bharosa". The protesters have also displayed placards and raised slogans that range from sarcastic and creative to direct and confrontational, including 'My favourite season will be the fall of patriarchy' and 'Abort Patriarchy'.

A student speaking to IANS said that the protests were aimed at demanding greater responsibility from the government and the right of women to move freely and safely in public spaces.

"We want the government to take responsibility for all the rape cases. Why can't we go outside? Being able to walk safely outside is our right, and we are here to demand it," the student said.

Another protester said the students were taking to the streets because they wanted safety and questioned why women should be forced to remain indoors because of the threat of sexual violence.

"We are here out on the streets for our safety. If girls were safe here, a gang rape would not have happened in Kalkaji. Till when will we stay indoors? Why should we be confined to our homes?" the protester said.

Another student alleged that the government had failed to take concrete measures to ensure the safety of women and said the protesters wanted stronger action against those accused of sexual violence.

"The government has not done anything concrete for the safety of women. We want to be able to walk freely. We want strict action against the rapists," the student said.

KITSW Conducts Entrepreneurial Skills Development Activity at TS Model School, Kamalapur

Warangal, September 30, TSIT : The Centre for Innovation, Incubation, Research & Entrepreneurship (C-i²RE), Kakatiya Institute of Technology & Science, Warangal (KITSW), conducted an engaging activity on "Developing Entrepreneurial Skills" at TS Model School, Kamalapur, with the participation of around 90 students. The activity was conducted as part of the SIC & DICE Programme of the Ministry of Education (MoE), aimed at encouraging creativity, innovation, problem-solving and entrepreneurial thinking among school students. Secretariat Cultural Festival Draws Enthusiastic Response

Hyderabad, TSIT: The two-day "Secretariat Cultural Festival–2026 organised by the Dr. B.R. Ambedkar Telangana Secretariat Association, concluded on Wednesday with enthusiastic participation from employees across departments.

The festival provided a platform for Secretariat employees to showcase their talents in music, literature, theatre and dance, while strengthening friendship and unity among colleagues.Telangana Culture Minister Jupally Krishna Rao, who inaugurated the festival as chief guest, said such programmes encouraged employees to pursue their interests in the arts alongside their official responsibilities.

The second day featured a traditional dress competition, monologues, skits and solo and group dance performances. Participants showcased attire reflecting Telangana's traditions and the cultures of different regions, creating a festive atmosphere.

Employees impressed the audience with expressive monologues and skits exploring social issues, family values and human relationships.

INDIA bloc renews CEC resignation demand

New Delhi, Sep 30 : After the meeting of the INDIA bloc on Wednesday, the opposition parties reiterated their demand for the Chief Election Commissioner (CEC) Gyanesh Kumar's resignation, while the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) referred to the alliance as "political opportunism".

The DMK, which had left the alliance due to its differences with the Congress, assured support to the impeachment motion against the CEC in the Parliament.

Speaking to reporters following the meeting of the INDIA bloc, Congress MP KC Venugopal reiterated his allegation that the Election Commission is "totally working for BJP", which is why, he said, the party is "protecting" the poll panel.

Samajwadi Party MP Pushpendra Saroj said that the INDIA bloc parties have agreed that "democracy is being undermined" today.

He also alleged that the Election Commission has been "pressurised" by the BJP and claimed that if the current CEC continues, "free and fair elections won't be possible".

Speaking to IANS, Rashtriya Janata Dal (RJD) leader and Bihar Leader of Opposition Tejashwi Yadav said: "We have all come together to save democracy. We will fight to protect democracy, whether in Parliament, on the streets, or in court. The conspirators are plotting one conspiracy after another against the democracy, and they will not be spared."

"One Gyanesh Kumar will go, and another Gyanesh Kumar specimen will come. The people of the country will have to remove the BJP. We have to save the Constitution of the country and save democracy," he added.

While leaving after the meeting of the alliance parties, CPI-M Rajya Sabha MP John Brittas said: "It is the responsibility of every citizen to rally behind the demand for Gyanesh Kumar's removal, so that the democracy can be saved."

However, DMK Spokesperson T.K.S. Elangovan asserted that mere meeting of the INDIA bloc won't lead to Gyanesh Kumar's removal as the CEC. "It is the Parliament where it needs to be done (impeachment motion)... when the issue comes up before the House we will stand up against the CEC. Just by not attending the meeting, does not mean that we will backtrack on issues concerning the country," he told IANS.

Similarly, Biju Janata Dal (BJD) MP Sasmit Patra also said though BJD is not a part of the INDIA bloc, the party sticks to its chief Naveen Patnaik's stance, demanding the resignation of CEC Gyanesh Kumar.

Meanwhile, BJP MP Praveen Khandelwal accused the INDIA bloc parties of being "opportunists". "This is not the INDIA bloc; it is an alliance of political opportunism among those who desire power and whom the people repeatedly reject... So, whether they meet or not has no significance, because the result will ultimately be zero. There is no constructive approach; it is a destructive approach, which has no place in society," he told IANS.

BJP leader Shazia Ilmi also said: "The INDI Alliance meeting has been quite strange. Some people are there, some are not, some are participating virtually, and some are sending representatives." "Now they (Opposition) have problems with the Chief Election Commissioner, earlier they had problems with the EVM and VVPATs, then how do they want elections to be conducted? As far as SIR is concerned, do they want the deceased, duplicate and shifted voters to be retained? It's a strange thing if they don't want electoral rolls to be revised," she added.

Who Watches the Election Commission? The Questions Surrounding Gyanesh Kumar

BY BINISH THOMAS
SENIOR JOURNALIST

The Election Commission of India is not supposed to work for a political party. It is not supposed to work for a government. And it certainly is not supposed to work for an individual politician.

Its responsibility is to something much larger: the voter.

That is why the latest revelations about what has been happening inside India's three-member Election Commission are so significant.

An investigation by The Indian Express has revealed that Election Commissioners Sukhbir Singh Sandhu and Vivek Joshi formally objected at least 14 times over 10 months to decisions and actions they said were taken without their knowledge. Their concerns touched some of the most sensitive parts of India's electoral machinery - adding new voters, deleting and restoring names, the functioning of the electoral-roll database and the security and control of the technology behind the voters' list.

At the centre of these questions is Chief Election Commissioner Gyanesh Kumar, who took charge as India's 26th CEC on February 19, 2025. The Election Commission itself describes the institution as an autonomous constitutional authority responsible for administering elections in India. The issue, therefore, is bigger than one individual.It is about whether the institution entrusted with protecting the voter's right to choose is itself operating with the transparency, checks and internal safeguards that democracy demands.

When Two Election Commissioners Raise Objections

The most striking aspect of the Indian Express investigation is not that there were disagreements inside the Election Commission.

Disagreements can happen in any constitutional institution.It is that two of the three commissioners reportedly put their objections on record repeatedly.In one case, Sandhu reportedly described an action as "unauthorised and illegal" and called for it to be removed.The concerns were not merely about administrative procedure.They went to the heart of the question: Who controls the voter database, and who has the final say when the system determines whether a citizen's name appears on the electoral roll?

The Form That Determines Who Becomes a Voter

One of the disputes concerned Form 6, the form through which an eligible citizen applies to become a voter.In July 2026, a new declaration was added to the form asking applicants whether their name, or the name of a parent or grandparent, appeared in the electoral roll of the last Special Intensive Revision.

The Indian Express reported that internal records showed both Joshi and Sandhu had raised objections in May, arguing that the change could not be made without an amendment to the relevant electoral rules.

Despite those objections, the change was introduced.On August 13, Sandhu reportedly recorded that the change was "unauthorised and illegal" and should be removed.This raises an uncomfortable question.

If the rules governing voter registration are changed without the agreement of all members of the constitutional body responsible for elections, what safeguards prevent an administrative decision from becoming a political or electoral consequence?

A voter registration form may appear to be a routine piece of bureaucracy.It is not.It is the gateway through which a citizen enters the electoral system.

When Technology Becomes the Gatekeeper

The second major concern is even more consequential.India's electoral system has traditionally been decentralized. Electoral Registration Officers, or EROs, at the constituency level are responsible for preparing and maintaining electoral rolls.But according to the Indian Express investigation, the two Election Commissioners raised concerns about the "gradual centralization" of the electoral-roll database through the Election Commission's technology systems.

The concern was that officials responsible under law for updating voter records could find themselves unable to carry out those functions because the software controlled from the Commission's headquarters in Delhi restricted what they could do.

The newspaper cited a case in Goa in which 97 people had reportedly been found eligible by the relevant Electoral Registration Officer but could not have the decisions properly recorded because of software-related restrictions.

That creates a fundamental problem.A citizen may produce the required documents.An officer legally authorised to examine those documents may determine that the citizen is eligible.

But what happens if the computer system does not allow that decision to be entered?Who then has the final word? The officer appointed under the law, or the software?That is not merely a technology question.It is a democratic question.

The Cabinet Secretary Gets Involved

The concerns became serious enough for Sandhu and Joshi to take an unusual step. They separately wrote to Cabinet Secretary T. V. Somanathan, the country's senior-most civil servant, over changes to the allocation of work that, according to the Indian Express, affected oversight of the technology supporting electoral rolls.

The two commissioners had previously raised concerns about the centralisation of access to the electoral database.Now they were taking those concerns outside the Election Commission.

That makes the episode particularly significant. The Election Commission is a constitutional authority designed to function independently in administering elections. When two of its three members feel compelled to raise concerns about the functioning of its electoral technology with the Cabinet Secretary, the matter deserves public scrutiny.

Not because it automatically proves wrongdoing. But because the public has a right to know what happened.

What Does the Election Commission Say?

The Commission has not denied the existence of the internal notes.Instead, its response has been that the notes were part of the normal decision-making process.

In a statement reported by The Indian Express, the ECI said that differing views and observations are a normal part of institutional deliberation and described the written notes, technical suggestions and internal checks as standard practices. It also said that decisions taken by the Commission during the previous year, including electoral-roll revision and the Special Intensive Revision, were unanimous decisions of the full Commission.

That response is important.The existence of disagreement within an institution does not, by itself, establish that an election has been compromised or that any individual has acted illegally.

But the questions raised by the two commissioners remain questions that deserve answers.

Why were changes to Form 6 introduced despite objections recorded by two commissioners?

Why were concerns raised about centralised access to the electoral-roll database?

Why did the two commissioners believe it necessary to approach the Cabinet Secretary?

And were the concerns they raised ultimately resolved?

These are questions that cannot simply disappear behind the assertion that the final decisions were unanimous.

The Bigger Question Is Not Gyanesh Kumar

Political parties have predictably entered the controversy.

Opposition leaders have accused the Election Commission of favouring the ruling establishment, while some have demanded Kumar's removal or a wider investigation.

Those are political positions, not established findings.The more important issue for citizens lies elsewhere.The Election Commission belongs to neither the BJP nor the Congress nor any other political party.

Its constitutional responsibility is to administer elections and protect the integrity of the electoral process.That means the question should not simply be whether Gyanesh Kumar is loyal to one political party or another.

The question should be whether every decision taken under his leadership can withstand public, legal and institutional scrutiny.That is the standard any CEC should face.

Democracy Depends on More Than Election Day

India's democracy is often discussed in terms of polling day - queues outside polling booths, electronic voting machines, campaign speeches and counting of votes.

But an election begins much earlier.It begins with a name appearing on the electoral roll.

It begins when a first-time voter submits an application.It continues when an eligible citizen's name is retained, when a wrongly deleted name is restored and when an officer is able to perform the function assigned to that officer under the law.

The integrity of that chain matters as much as what happens inside a polling booth.That is why the allegations and objections now emerging from inside the Election Commission deserve more than partisan shouting.They deserve documentation.They deserve answers.And, where necessary, independent scrutiny.Because the Election Commission is ultimately not accountable to the BJP, the Congress, the Opposition, the government of the day or even to the person occupying the office of Chief Election Commissioner.

Social media and information warfare

Today, social media has become a vital part of our lives. Through Facebook, X, Instagram, YouTube, WhatsApp, and other digital platforms, people access information about the country and the world in seconds. Social media has made the exchange of information easier, but it has also brought with it some serious challenges. Information can now be used not only to inform people but also to influence their thoughts and emotions. This is why information warfare has become a crucial national security issue.

Information warfare refers to the use of information to influence people's thoughts, feelings, beliefs, and decisions. This can include false news, incomplete information, linking old photos or videos to new events, presenting true information in a false context, and persistently conveying a specific message. The goal isn't always to damage a building or military base. It's often to create confusion, fear, anger, or distrust.

Social media has significantly accelerated information warfare. Previously, widespread dissemination of propaganda required newspapers, radio, television, or other media. Today, a video created on a mobile phone can reach thousands or even millions of people in a matter of minutes. People often forward messages without verifying their veracity, making it difficult to prevent misinformation.

This challenge becomes even more significant in a large and diverse country like India. India is home to people of different religions, castes, languages, and regions. If false or inflammatory information about a community spreads on social media, it can have a negative impact on society. A small local incident can be misrepresented and given a religious or communal spin. This can increase distrust and worsen law and order. The impact of rumors on social media can sometimes be very serious. False accusations against individuals, spreading false narratives against a community, or presenting a false picture of an incident can inflame mob sentiment. In such situations, the police and administration suddenly face a significant challenge. Therefore, it is crucial to quickly provide accurate and authoritative information during sensitive incidents. Deepfakes are a new form of information warfare. Artificial intelligence can be used to create fake videos by altering a person's face and voice. At first glance, these videos may appear real to the viewer. If a false video is circulated in the name of a politician, official, military officer, or other famous figure, it can create confusion. Such content can be especially harmful during elections, wars, terrorist incidents, or major crises.

The challenge of information warfare becomes even more serious in the military domain. During a military operation, false information can be spread regarding troop positions, movements, weapons, or casualties. Old war videos can be passed off as current events. Fake military videos or false statements can be presented as real, in an attempt to influence public morale. Therefore, special caution is required when sharing security-related information.

Information warfare isn't just about events within India. Social media can also be used internationally to influence a country's image and policies. Various organizations or foreign networks can manipulate events to suit their own interests. Influencing international public opinion can be done by continuously spreading specific information on border disputes, terrorism, Kashmir, internal unrest, and other sensitive topics.

Why India Cannot Keep 'Overestimating' Its Value To Washington

BRIG ANIL RAMAN

A few days before Donald Trump met Xi Jinping in Washington, I argued in these pages that the summit would reveal how much Washington values India after negotiating with its main rival. I outlined three possible results: Trump could get a big concession from China, the two sides could reach a limited deal that keeps the rivalry going, or the talks could fail. The summit led to the second outcome, though it was less substantial than the White House ceremony suggested. For India, the most important development was about Taiwan. Now, Washington treats its support for a partner as something it can trade with Beijing. This shift means India should reconsider how it values itself to the United States.

Managed Competition

Both sides agreed to extend their trade truce by just two months, which was less than most people expected. They also decided to create a working group on agricultural trade, with talks planned before the end of the year. Scott Kennedy from the Center for Strategic and International Studies called the results on trade, rare earths, refined oil, investment, and artificial intelligence limited and uncertain. Chinese analysts told reporters the relationship remains as tense as before. A two-month extension means both sides must check in often. Each government can watch the other's actions and put pressure again if needed. Regular meetings between the two leaders help keep things stable. This was their second meeting this year, after Trump went to Beijing in May. Trump will visit China again for the APEC summit in November, and Xi will come to Miami for the G20 summit in December. Experts call this setup managed competition. The two countries compete strongly but keep talking so problems do not get out of hand. Frequent meetings let both sides solve issues before they become crises.

Both leaders benefit from this approach. Xi can show his people that China is dealing with the United States as an equal while still growing its economy, technology, and military. Trump can show American farmers and businesses that his direct talks with Xi are getting results. For India, the key question is what each side had to give up to reach this point. Taiwan As A Bargaining Chip

The clearest example is Taiwan. After the May summit in Beijing, Washington paused a record USD 14 billion arms package for Taiwan. Trump called arms sales to Taiwan a "very good negotiating chip" with China. After last week's meeting, analysts in Washington expect the delay to continue, since the two leaders will meet twice more this year. The White House fact sheet did not mention Taiwan. China's official account of the talks recorded that Xi asked Washington to oppose Taiwanese independence. On Sunday, the American ambassador to China, David Perdue, said Trump described the Taiwan sale to Xi as just one of many regular American arms sales and even asked whether China itself would like to buy American weapons.

A Chinese scholar close to the government explained it simply before the summit. He said the results had been good for China because of the pause on American military exports. The deal was not balanced. China got a real strategic benefit, while the United States only got promises about farm purchases that may not happen.

This imbalance has a clear reason. In October 2025, China responded to American tariffs by limiting exports of rare earths, which are important for American industry and defence. Washington eased its stance within weeks. China had leverage and used it to influence the relationship. Now, lawmakers from both parties in the US, along with the government in Taipei, are urging the administration to approve the Taiwan arms deal. Whether they succeed will show how much Congress can still influence Trump's China policy.

WHAT US THINKS OF ITS 'FRIENDS'

In my own research for a Takshashila study on American decision-making, I interviewed 42 current and former officials, congressional staff, and policy experts in the US earlier this year. The study found that Washington now values its partnerships less and is less willing to pay a political price to keep them. I call this change repricing. The pause on Taiwan is the clearest sign of repricing since the study ended. When support for one partner becomes a bargaining chip with China, the value of every partner is up for negotiation.

India has already experienced this directly. In August 2025, Washington raised tariffs on Indian goods to 50% while working out a deal with Beijing. China responded with rare earth controls, and Washington changed its approach. India lacked a similar tool and had to accept the penalty for six months. Many in New Delhi have believed that India's importance to Washington increases as US-China rivalry grows. The events of 2025 challenged that belief. On September 18, President Trump signed a law, passed by large majorities in both houses of Congress, that allows tariffs of up to 100% on the largest buyers of Russian oil and gas, including India. China falls under the same law, yet a week later Xi arrived in Washington with rare earths as his counter-leverage. Last week's summit confirmed the lesson.

The comparison with Taiwan has limits. India is a sovereign power with its own influence, and the real issue is Washington's approach. New Delhi uses a similar approach with Beijing. Since the border disengagement deal in October 2024, India has steadily reopened its channels with China. Prime Minister Modi attended the Shanghai Cooperation Organisation summit in Tianjin in August 2025, and direct flights between the two countries started again on 26 October 2025 after five years. India maintains a working relationship with China while still seeing it as a rival. India should judge Washington by the same standards it uses for itself.

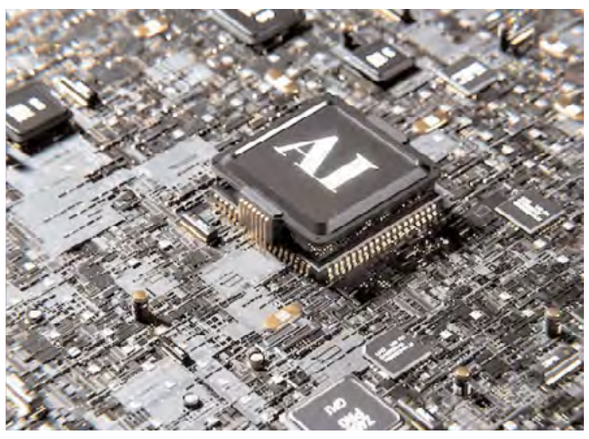

The main lesson is about the kind of value India creates. Some of India's value to Washington came from the tension between the US and China. For example, India became attractive for supply chains moving out of China, but this advantage fades when Washington and Beijing lower tariffs. Other strengths keep their value no matter what happens between the US and China. India's naval presence in the Indian Ocean, reliable large-scale manufacturing, and a defence industry that can support regional partners fall into this group. The more India builds these strengths, the less it depends on the ups and downs between Washington and Beijing.

WHAT TO WATCH

The next test is coming up soon. Indian readers should follow whether the Taiwan arms deal moves forward after Trump's November trip to China. If the deal remains on hold after the Miami meeting in December, it means repricing has become US policy. If Washington approves the deal, the pause was just a tactic for this round of talks. Either way, New Delhi will see how Washington balances a partner's security against making a deal with Beijing, and India should plan its own partnerships based on that lesson. The Trump administration's handling of Taiwan arms sales points to a broader shift in the way Washington is managing its China policy. A roughly USD 14 billion package for Taiwan, primarily air-defence systems, missiles and counter-drone capabilities, has reportedly been kept in abeyance, with Trump describing it as a "very good negotiating chip" with Beijing. The message is unmistakable: Taiwan's security assistance is no longer being treated simply as an element of US deterrence policy, but also as an instrument in the wider US-China bargain. That approach may offer Washington tactical leverage.

AI VS SKILLS: WHAT DOES INDIAN ECONOMY REALLY NEED?

MANISH KUMAR JHA

India's quarterly GDP growth were revealed recently, and one thing is very clear: India needs manufacturing of greater scale. However, India's manufacturing debate is asking the wrong question. It is increasingly framed as a choice between two futures: one in which factories are powered by artificial intelligence, automation and autonomous machines, and another in which India builds a large pool of highly skilled, specialised technicians and engineers. But if India seriously wants to become a manufacturing power - and compete with China in global supply chains - the choice is not between AI and people. India needs both, and more importantly, it needs to understand how the two fit together. At a recent national conference where I led a discussion on advanced military technologies, an observation by an Indian Air Force Vice Chief brought this dilemma into sharp focus. His point was simple but profound: imagine having to address a structural issue on a fifth-generation fighter aircraft. Even something as apparently mundane as fixing a nut or bolt on a stealth airframe can require a highly specialised technician who understands the material, structure, tolerances and consequences of getting the repair wrong. No AI model can substitute for that expertise. But the converse is equally true. The modern factory cannot remain dependent on human intervention for every inspection, calculation, prediction or adjustment. The sheer complexity and speed of modern manufacturing make that impossible. So, is AI the core of the factory or merely a helper? The answer lies somewhere more interesting: AI should become the multiplier of human industrial capability. As Manish Kumar, a global technology leader and CEO of SOLIDWORKS at Dassault Systèmes, puts it: "AI is the multiplier. You are the value." The distinction matters. A multiplier can dramatically increase an existing capability, but anything multiplied by zero is still zero. Without people who understand engineering, materials, machines, production and quality, there is little meaningful value for AI to multiply. Kumar has made the same argument publicly at 3DEXPERIENCE World, stressing that AI is intended to amplify engineering expertise rather than make it obsolete. That should be the starting point for India's manufacturing strategy. India does not have an AI problem alone. It has an industrial capability problem. Some of the world's largest technology companies are conducting advanced AI work through their India-based centres of excellence. Indian engineers are building models, algorithms, digital platforms and increasingly sophisticated applications. Yet there is a significant gap between being a major consumer and developer of digital technology and becoming a country capable of using that technology to design, engineer, manufacture and export complex physical products at scale. That distinction is crucial. China's manufacturing advantage was not created by AI alone. It was built over decades through industrial ecosystems, specialised suppliers, machine tools, materials expertise, engineering capabilities, logistics networks and enormous production scale. AI is now being layered onto that foundation. India cannot afford to jump directly to the AI layer while neglecting the industrial foundation underneath it. The objective must therefore be much more ambitious than "AI-enabled manufacturing". India needs AI-native manufacturing built on deep engineering competence. Consider what AI is already good at inside a factory. It can analyse enormous quantities of production data and identify patterns that would be almost impossible for a human to detect. Companies such as Mahindra are already applying AI and computer vision to manufacturing quality and predictive maintenance, while newer manufacturers such as Ather Energy have designed factories around extensive networks of machines, sensors and data systems. AI is exceptionally good at watching everything simultaneously. But watching is not the same as understanding. An AI system may tell a technician that a machine is drifting outside its normal operating parameters. The technician still has to determine why. Is it a tool-wear problem? A material variation? A calibration issue? A software fault? A mechanical failure? And then comes the most important question: should the line be stopped? That decision can involve production schedules, safety, quality, contractual commitments and engineering judgement. This is where specialised human expertise becomes indispensable.

STOCK MARKET CRASH – DOES POLITICS ALSO AFFECT THE MARKET?

Saurabh Varshney

The stock market is often called a mirror of the health of the economy. But the market isn't solely influenced by economic data, corporate performance, and global conditions. Political stability, election results, government policies, international relations, and public statements by political leaders can also influence investor sentiment. Political statements regarding the stock market during the 2024 Lok Sabha elections and the sharp decline in the market following the election results sparked a national debate about the limits of the relationship between politics and the stock market.

Referring to comments made by Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Union Home Minister Amit Shah regarding the potential direction of the stock market during the 2024 Lok Sabha elections, Congress leader and then-Leader of the Opposition in the Lok Sabha, Rahul Gandhi raised serious questions. He demanded a Joint Parliamentary Committee (JPC) investigation into the entire incident. He alleged that investors were given hope for a bullish market before the election results, and that the market suddenly experienced a significant decline after the initial trends of the election results. Rahul Gandhi cited Prime Minister Narendra Modi's statements on May 19 and 28, which mentioned the possibility of the stock market reaching record levels. He also cited Amit Shah's May 13 interview, which urged investors to buy stocks before June 4 and the possibility of a market rally after the election results.

Subsequent events further fueled the political controversy. On June 1, exit polls for the Lok Sabha elections were released. Most major exit polls predicted a landslide victory for the Narendra Modi-led coalition. The following trading day, June 3, saw a sharp rally in the stock market, with the Sensex and Nifty hitting record highs. This market rally was widely attributed to positive investor sentiment generated by the exit polls. But the picture suddenly changed on June 4th. Early trends in the actual election results revealed a political situation different from the exit poll predictions. This immediately impacted the market, with the Sensex and Nifty recording sharp declines. The market's decline of more than five percent in a single trading session sparked concern among investors. Electoral uncertainty and changing expectations about the likely form of government were cited as key reasons for the market reaction. This also raised political questions. Rahul Gandhi asked that if statements by political leaders could influence investor sentiment, why shouldn't there be clear mechanisms for accountability and transparency regarding such statements? He also demanded an investigation into the activities of major investors surrounding the exit polls. He also expressed the need to investigate potential links between statements made by the Prime Minister and Home Minister regarding the stock market, related media interviews, and market activity.

However, the BJP rejected these allegations. Then-Union Minister Piyush Goyal dismissed Rahul Gandhi's allegations as baseless, stating that it was inaccurate to directly attribute changes in the market's total market capitalization to actual losses for investors. The BJP also argued that market fluctuations are a normal phenomenon and that it would be inappropriate to attribute subsequent market activity solely to the election results. The most important aspect of this entire controversy is that a market decline in itself is not evidence of any political or financial irregularities. Stock market prices are influenced by many factors, including expectations, risk, supply and demand, global markets, foreign investment, interest rates, economic data, and political developments. A major event such as an election result can certainly alter investor expectations.

But on the other hand, this question is also crucial for a democratic system: when people in the highest political positions in the country make public comments about the direction of a sensitive financial market, should there be an independent investigation into the impact and context of such comments? The answer should be found not through political accusations, but through evidence, market data, and regulatory scrutiny.

Specifically, it should be examined what types of trades were made by which categories of investors around the election results, whether there was unusual market activity, whether a direct link can be established between public statements and trades, and whether available regulatory oversight identified any violations. If no irregularities are found, that should also be publicly disclosed to allay unnecessary suspicion. There's another important point to understand in this regard. A decline in the stock market's overall market capitalization doesn't necessarily mean that every investor has lost the same amount of money. Market capitalization changes based on the share prices of companies listed on the market. Therefore, equating a single-day decline in market capitalization directly to actual investor losses doesn't present a complete economic picture. Nevertheless, political leadership must take its public responsibility towards the stock market seriously. Millions of small investors may interpret statements by political leaders as market signals. Therefore, comments by those in public office regarding market direction require extra caution and factual basis.

In a democracy, the opposition's questioning is as important as the government's response. However, serious allegations should be resolved, not through political platforms, but through independent and credible facts.

Apple Pay now available in India: Who can use it and how

New Delhi: Tech giant Apple on Wednesday, September 30, announced that Apple Pay is now available for users in India across iPhone, iPad, and Apple Watch, with support for Mac coming soon. Customers with Axis Bank-issued Visa and Mastercard credit cards can add their cards to Apple Pay and use them at thousands of in-store and online merchants across India, as well as anywhere that accepts NFC transactions, the company said in a statement. "India is home to a dynamic and digitally savvy population that continues to embrace a cashless future while expecting the highest standards of security and privacy, and we're so excited to bring Apple Pay to users in India today," said Jennifer Bailey, Apple's vice president of Apple Pay and Apple Wallet. The launch brings Apple customers an easy, secure, and private way to pay in stores, in apps, and on the web at retailers of all sizes — all without the need to type in PINs or use OTPs at checkout. Apple Pay makes everyday payments with a card easy, secure, and private — from simply tapping to pay in stores without an extra app, PIN, or OTP to checking out online without repeatedly entering payment information, Bailey added. When customers use a card with Apple Pay, the actual card numbers are not stored on the device or on Apple servers, nor are they shared by Apple with the merchant. Instead, a unique Device Account Number is assigned, encrypted, and securely stored in the Secure Element, an industry-standard certified chip designed to store the payment information safely on the device, said Apple. Apple said it does not retain transaction information that can be tied back to the user. Their transactions stay between the user, the merchant, and their bank or card issuer. If a user's iPhone is lost or stolen, they can use the Find My app to quickly locate, lock, or suspend payments from that device. Customers can add a card directly to Apple Wallet via the latest version of the Axis Bank app. Alternatively, simply open the Wallet app on iPhone, tap the plus sign, and follow the steps to add an eligible card. Once a user adds a card to their Apple device, they can start using Apple Pay right away, said the company. Amitabh Chaudhry, MD and CEO, Axis Bank, said the introduction of Apple Pay advances this ambition, bringing greater choice and flexibility to our Credit Card customers, with support across the Mastercard and Visa networks. "As India's digital economy accelerates and consumers seek seamless and secure payment experiences, the introduction of Apple Pay for our Axis Bank-issued Mastercard credit card holders ushers in a new era of contactless commerce, giving Indian consumers greater confidence and peace of mind with every transaction," said Gautam Aggarwal, Mastercard's president of India and South Asia. The launch of Apple Pay in India marks an important milestone in the evolution of the country's digital payments journey, added Suresh Sethi, Visa's group country manager of India and South Asia. When using Apple Pay, users will continue to earn the rewards and benefits offered by their cards.

OPPO Launches K14 Plus in India – A Smartphone That is Powered to Perform and Built to Last, Starting at INR 29,999

30th September 2026: OPPO India today announced the launch of the OPPO K14 Plus, a powerful new addition to the K Series that brings together performance, immersive entertainment, advanced imaging and long-lasting endurance. Powered by the MediaTek Dimensity 7360 MAX, the smartphone features a 1.5K 144Hz AMOLED Ultra Bright Display, 6-Year Durable 8000mAh Large Battery, 50MP OIS Main Camera with 4K video, 5000mm² Vapour Chamber for sustained performance. Built around OPPO's "Powered to Perform, Built to Last" proposition, the K14 Plus is designed to deliver a smooth, dependable experience that keeps up with demanding everyday use while offering the confidence of long-term performance and durability. Priced at INR 29,999 for the 6GB+128GB variant, INR 32,999 for the 8GB+128GB variant and INR 35,999 for the 8GB+256GB variant, the OPPO K14 Plus will be available for purchase starting 8th October 2026 - first day of Big Billion Days on Flipkart and OPPO India e-store from 00:00 hrs onwards in two vibrant colour options: Solar Orange and Star White. Consumers purchasing this smartphone can avail an INR 4,000 instant bank discount on the sale day with all leading banks, along with a 6-month No Cost EMI option. This brings the effective prices to INR 25,999, INR 28,999 and INR 31,999, respectively. Mr. Goldee Patnaik, Head of Communications, OPPO India, said, "A smartphone can be powerful on paper, but what matters to consumers is how that power translates into everyday life and how long it continues to do so. This is the thinking behind the OPPO K14 Plus. We have brought together the Dimensity 7360 MAX, 1.5K 144Hz AMOLED display, 6-Year Durable 8000mAh Large Battery, 50MP OIS camera with 4K video and 5000mm² VC cooling not simply to create a strong specification sheet, but to build a device that can keep pace with the way consumers use their smartphones today and over time. 'Powered to Perform, Built to Last' captures our belief that lasting value comes from performance you can depend on, experience after experience." Mr. Anshuman Bhatt, Head of E-commerce, OPPO India, said, "The way consumers discover, and purchase smartphones is increasingly shaped by digital-first research, and Flipkart continues to be an important part of that journey for us. With the K14 Plus, we are bringing a strong combination of performance, display, imaging and long-lasting battery life to consumers through a Flipkart launch. The Big Billion Days platform gives us an opportunity to connect the K14 Plus with consumers at scale, while offering the convenience of a trusted digital shopping experience. We look forward to making this powerful new addition to the K Series accessible to consumers across India this upcoming festive season." Engineered for Power, Built for Sustained Performance At the heart of the OPPO K14 Plus is the MediaTek Dimensity 7360 MAX.

Chinese AI tool told researchers how to make bioweapons

Chinese AI developer Moonshot is conducting an internal review after researchers were able to persuade two of its popular Kimi models to tell them how to make biological weapons and carry out assassinations. Mindgard, which tests the security of AI systems, told the BBC it discovered in July that Kimi K2.6 and K3 Swarm could evade safety limits put in place by developers. It arose during a process called "jailbreaking", where researchers use a series of complex instructions to see if AI tools ignore guardrails - which Mindgard said should have stopped Kimi from discussing concerning topics. Moonshot told the BBC it welcomed third-party input "as a key pillar for building better and safer AI". The company also told the BBC it was in discussion with Mindgard about its findings. Mindgard's founder Peter Garraghan told the BBC World Service programme Tech Life that its findings about Kimi K2.6 and K3 Swarm were concerning. "Once the jailbreak works it will talk about any topic, it will even freely offer up recommendations about other topics that are also nefarious and it will be inventive and creative," he said. Jailbreaks present a different kind of risk to those seen with the recent slew of high-profile AI incidents. These have seen autonomous AI tools known as agents, developed by US firms including OpenAI, Meta and Anthropic, hack some online services. While jailbreaks are complex processes that can take a lot of time and determination some experts fear hackers and other bad actors could try to use them to cause harm. Anthropic recently said it had identified and disrupted attempts to use one of its AI model for "malicious activity" that could support the development of biological weapons. Cyber-attack launchpad Mindgard has not proven whether the answers supplied by Kimi on concerning topics would work. But it argued guardrails should have prevented the models in question from entering into discussion with users on such subjects.

Cambridge launches new Excellenceseries in STEM learning for ICSE classrooms

Excellence Environmental Science 1-2, Science for Classes 3-8 and Excellence Mathematics for Classes 1-8

New resources bring together conceptual understanding, inquiry, real-world application and skills development

Cambridge University Press & Assessment (Cambridge) has launched two new series for ICSE schools, Excellence Mathematics and Excellence Environmental Science & Science, built to move students past recall and toward questioning, investigating and applying what they learn to real problems.

The series were unveiled at "Discover. Explore. Create: The Future of STEM Learning," a Cambridge event in Ranchi that brought together school principals, academic coordinators and teachers to talk through what more engaged, applied STEM teaching actually looks like in an Indian classroom.

The resources are aligned to NEP 2020 and the latest CISCE curriculum, built for schools navigating both frameworks at once rather than treating them as separate demands.

MeenakshiUberoi, co-author of the Excellence Mathematics series and part of De Pedagogics, spoke at the event on how the role of the educator is shifting as STEM classrooms move from rote instruction to environments built around inquiry.

■ BUILDING STRONGER MATHEMATICAL THINKING

Excellence Mathematics for Classes 1–8 takes learners from foundational number sense towards abstract and exam-ready mathematical thinking. The series is designed to help students understand the thinking behind mathematical concepts, rather than simply follow procedures. Its Misconception- First Learning approach identifies and addresses common misconceptions to strengthen conceptual understanding, while the dedicated Money Master strand develops practical financial literacy skills such as budgeting and saving. For Classes 6-8, a complimentary Skill Assessment Question Bank provides additional practice and assessment support. Teachers and learners can also access Cambridge GO, a digital repository with animations, interactivities, slide show videos, a Test Maker and online assessments.

■ MAKING SCIENCE AN EXPERIENCE

Excellence Environmental Science for Classes 1-2 and Science for Classes 3–8brings together inquiry, hands-on learning, visual exploration, reflection, competency development and real-world application to help students build strong scientific foundations. Through hands-on activities, learners are encouraged to explore, investigate and arrive at conclusions, rather than simply receive information. The series also connects scientific concepts with India's scientific heritage and traditional knowledge systems, while linking classroom learning to the UN Sustainable Development Goals. Built-in formative assessment through Pulse Check enables teachers to monitor learning and identify areas where students may need additional support, while clearly defined learning outcomes and progressive assessment support competency development alongside subject knowledge.

Features such as Challenge Corner, Cross Connect, Picture This and Case in Point provide varied opportunities to apply concepts and develop critical thinking.

For Classes 6–8, Excellence Physics, Chemistry and Biology take scientific thinking further, with greater emphasis on reasoning, evidence, application and examination preparedness.

The Claim-Evidence-Reasoning (CER) approach available for Classes 6-8, through a complimentary Skill Assessment Question Bankhelps students construct scientific explanations and arguments using evidence and reasoning, while Deep Dive extends learning through relevant real-world contexts and applications.

■ SUPPORTING TEACHERS TO CREATE WFUTURE-READY CLASSROOMS

The launch reflects Cambridge's focus on supporting educators as they create learning environments that develop curiosity, critical thinking, application and learner independence.

Speaking on the launch of the new resources, MeenakshiUberoi, Co-author, Cambridge Excellence Mathematics series said,"The future of STEM learning begins with how we engage students in learning today. It's not just about giving them knowledge, but encouraging them to ask questions.

INDIA INC STANDS TALL – CAN RESILIENCE OUTLAST GLOBAL UNCERTAINTY?

India Inc continued to demonstrate resilience in the first half of this fiscal year (H1FY27), with credit quality strengthening despite a persistently uncertain global environment marked by geopolitical tensions, volatile energy prices, inflationary pressures and renewed monetary tightening.

CareEdge Ratings' credit ratio, or the proportion of rating upgrades to downgrades, nearly doubled to 3.95 times in H1FY27 from 1.93 times in the second half of the previous fiscal year (H2FY26). This improvement reflected not only stronger upgrade momentum but also a meaningful decline in downgrades. Overall, there were 300 rating upgrades against 76 downgrades during the period.

The upgrade rate rose to 16% in H1FY27 from 13% in H2FY26, remaining above the 10-year average of 15%. More strikingly, the downgrade rate fell to just 4% from 7%, reaching an all-time low. Overall, with the reaffirmations at around 80% of the ratings reviewed during the past few years, these trends point to broad-based stability and a notably stronger credit environment across the rated portfolio. Also, corporate India today is fundamentally better positioned than it was a decade ago, underscoring the rating trends. Between 2016 and 2026, overall gearing nearly halved from 1.04 times to 0.50 times, while PBILDT margins expanded from 10% to 14%, and interest coverage sustainably increased from 4.10 times to 7.59 times. Healthier balance sheets and stronger profitability have improved India Inc's ability to absorb external shocks and navigate periods of uncertainty.

Sachin Gupta, Executive Director and Chief Rating Officer, CareEdge Ratings, commented on the evolving economic landscape, stating, "The improvement in credit quality comes at a time when the external environment has become considerably more challenging. Geopolitical tensions have kept global energy prices high, contributing to inflationary pressures across major economies. Global monetary conditions have also tightened, with the US Federal Reserve raising its benchmark rate in September and several other major central banks resuming policy tightening. The domestic economy, meanwhile, delivered a stronger-than-expected performance despite global headwinds. Buoyant consumption, a pickup in investment, a healthy external position and India Inc's leaner balance sheets give us confidence in the resilience of the Indian economy looking ahead in fiscal 2027."

The sectoral picture reinforces this broader resilience. The credit ratio for the manufacturing and services sector improved to 2.84 times in H1FY27, up from 2.06 times in H2FY26. Ranjan Sharma, Senior Director, CareEdge Ratings (Corporate Ratings), noted, "Upgrades were driven by resilient domestic demand across consumer-linked sectors such as auto ancillaries & dealerships, textiles and gold jewellery retailers, as well as infrastructure-led demand supporting the iron & steel and capital goods sectors, while robust leasing demand benefitted the real estate sector. Downgrades were concentrated largely among smaller entities with presence in limited value-added segments such as commodity trading and distribution, agricultural food & other products and road transport services. Going forward, the outlook for the manufacturing & services sector in H2FY27 remains stable, supported by resilient domestic demand, anticipated diversification benefits from various bilateral FTAs struck recently, and India Inc's deleveraged balance sheets. However, inflationary pressures in the economy arising from higher energy costs and abating benefits from last year's GST rate cuts could affect margins and growth to an extent. Evolving geopolitical uncertainties around the West Asia conflict and potential US tariffs warrant a cautious outlook on exports."

The infrastructure sector recorded the sharpest improvement among the major sectors, with its credit ratio increasing to 8.31 times in H1FY27 from 1.67 times in H2FY26. Part of this increase, however, was driven by a large portfolio-level rating action, wherein a change in the credit profile of a single large group resulted in upgrades across multiple linked entities. Even after adjusting for this action, the infrastructure credit ratio remained strong at around 5 times. Rajashree Murkute, Senior Director, CareEdge Ratings (Infrastructure Ratings), highlighted, "Project commissioning continued to support upgrades, particularly across Hybrid Annuity Model (HAM) road projects and renewable power.

The start-ups hoping to return battery making to the US

As heatwaves scorched Europe this summer, workers at a US battery company noticed an uptick in demand. San Diego-based Unigrid sells a nine kilowatt hour battery for people's homes. Sweltering European homeowners were apparently looking for ways of storing power when it was available from the grid at lower rates. They could then run air conditioners more cheaply, off the battery, during the worst heat of the day. "We have requests coming from Spain, France, Germany, The Netherlands," says Darren Tan, co-founder and chief executive. "We've shipped the first 100 units and [expect to ship] 1,000 before the end of the year." Unigrid's battery is an emerging technology – it's a sodium ion, rather than lithium ion device. Sodium ion batteries have got energy storage experts excited because they could end up much cheaper to build and operate than lithium ion. They're potentially less likely to catch fire and should also work in a wider range of temperatures, even down to lows of minus 40C. But there's a debate over what constitutes the best, and safest, sodium ion battery design. Plus, more than one US company working in this space has floundered in recent years. China leads the world in sodium ion battery manufacturing at present so US competitors are going to have to work hard to keep up. The prize that awaits is the possibility of batteries made in the US with 100% US-sourced materials. This is unlike lithium ion batteries, where China dominates the materials supply chain as well as manufacturing. For Tan, China has helped his company get to market. The Unigrid battery currently uses sodium ion cells made there, rather than in the US. "We can switch back and forth and choose what battery we want to work with," says Tan, explaining that, in future, his firm might source cells from the US – though these may come at a different cost. There's another consideration. Unigrid's battery contains chromium-3 in its cathode. In a battery, electrons flow from cathode to anode when charging and in the opposite direction when discharging or providing power. Prof Dame Clare Grey at the University of Cambridge, who is co-founder of battery firm Nyobolt, points out that under certain conditions chromium-3 may form chromium-6, a toxic, cancer-causing material.

Russia launches largest attack on Ukraine energy infrastructure since spring

Russia has launched the largest attack on Ukraine's energy infrastructure since the spring, primarily targeting Kyiv and the surrounding region, Ukraine's Prime Minister has said. At least five people were killed in overnight attacks across the country, including a child in the Kyiv region, Serhiy Koretskyi said. The strikes also impacted people's power supplies, with Ukraine's biggest private energy firm DTEK saying power to 8,000 homes had been restored following "a difficult night" for the capital. The Russian defence ministry said one of its targets was the Trypilska power station, the largest supplier of electricity to Kyiv. The operator confirmed damage to the plant. Koretskyi wrote on Telegram: "Since the summer, there has effectively not been a single day without enemy attacks on our energy infrastructure. "However, a mass and combined attack of this scale has occurred for the first time since the end of the last heating season." Ukraine has been expecting another protracted Russian assault on the country's energy grid. It has happened every winter so far since Russia's full-scale invasion began in 2022. In total, 11 regions of the country were attacked overnight, with residential buildings, social infrastructure, civilian enterprises and railways also targeted, Koretskyi said. Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelensky said there had been strikes on critical infrastructure in the Zhytomyr, Mykolaiv, Kirovohrad and Rivne regions. On Wednesday, some households in the Kyiv, Dnipropetrovsk, Donetsk, Sumy and Kharkiv regions remained without power, Ukraine's energy ministry said. State-owned grid operator Ukrenergo advised residents not to use powerful electrical appliances between the hours of 10:00 and 16:00 local time as electricity supplies were lower than usual. In Kyiv, people woke to find the city blanketed by thick, acrid smoke after a night punctuated by the sound of explosions. An air raid alert was still on and the distant sound of air defence gunfire echoed through the murky atmosphere. Residents in several districts were advised to close their windows until the smoke cleared. Among those killed in the overnight strikes was a child whose body was found under the rubble of a house, Kyiv regional head Timur Tkachenko said. Kyiv Mayor Vitaly Klischko said three people were killed in total in the capital, including a Ukrainian utility company worker who was killed at a warehouse building. Another person was killed in the southern Mykolaiv region, acting regional head Heorhiy Reshetilov said. Two more people were killed in the north-eastern Sumy region on Tuesday, regional head Oleh Hryhorov said. A school was also hit there in a separate strike, he added. Russia's defence ministry said it had launched massive overnight strikes on Ukrainian facilities. It said targets included the Trypilska thermal power plant, located some 40km from Kyiv, and claimed the plant supplied electricity to Ukrainian defence facilities. The operator of the plant, Centrenergo, said it was assessing the scale of the damage. Russia's military added that it had intercepted more than 380 Ukrainian drones overnight over a number of regions, including Moscow. Meanwhile, Ukraine's military said it had struck a number of Russian military targets, including a drone warehouse in the occupied Donetsk region in eastern Ukraine. Russia currently controls about 20% of Ukrainian territory, including a large area of Donetsk. On the battlefield, Ukraine's Third Army Corps said it had recaptured several settlements near the city of Lyman in Donetsk this week, as part of a counter-offensive called Operation Vivaldi. Zelensky visited troops in the area on Wednesday. But elsewhere, the front line remains largely stagnant, with both sides failing to make significant gains.

Netanyahu says pilot arrested after stabbing another pilot and apparently trying to crash Israel-bound plane

Passengers from the Flydubai flight have landed in Tel Aviv, hours after their scheduled arrival. Israeli President Isaac Herzog has thanked the "heroes" who "acted with immense courage" on the flight to Tel Aviv that was diverted to Saudi Arabia. "Hours of worry ended in a great miracle and exceptional heroism," he writes on X, as a recovery flight makes its way to Israel. "I strengthen the spirits of the plane's passengers making their way back home, and thank from the depths of my heart the heroes who acted with immense courage in these critical moments," he adds. "We will continue to act together with our Emirati partners to learn from the event and fight terrorism." Medics are waiting outside Israel's Ben Gurion airport where passengers whose plane was diverted earlier following a stabbing are due to arrive. Once they land, they will all be given medical checks and any necessary additional care, emergency officials say. Passengers from the Flydubai plane involved in today's incident have now departed Saudi Arabia, airport operator Cluster2 says. They left Tabuk airport at 17:40 local time (14:40 GMT, 15:40 BST), according to the Saudi operator. As we reported earlier, Flydubai airline had sent two replacement planes to Tabuk "to relieve the passengers and crew". The original flight had been travelling from Dubai to Tel Aviv before being diverted to Saudi Arabia as this attack unfolded. Israel Ohayon's sister, Miriam Ohayon, was on board the Flydubai flight that was diverted to Saudi Arabia after one of the pilots was stabbed. Speaking to BBC Arabic at Israel's Ben Gurion airport, the flight's planned destination, he says there is a feeling of "helplessness, complete uncertainty". Ohayon says his sister reported "a lot of pressure and panic" with passengers feeling that they were "staring death in the face". He says his sister was sitting "directly behind" the pilots and "saw everything" that happened - adding that "a few Israelis took initiative" and subdued the attacker. "Mentally, she's not in a good state. We lost our brother on October 7, 2023, so this brings us back a little to that time," Ohayon adds. An Israel-bound plane plummeted 17,000ft in two minutes after one pilot stabbed another pilot and apparently tried to crash the plane, according to Israel's prime minister. Benjamin Netanyahu says he has spoken to an Israeli passenger onboard the Flydubai flight from Dubai to Tel Aviv who described how the plane "went into a spin and began to descend". The passenger told him that "somehow he managed to break into the cockpit with one of the crew members and, together, they overpowered the pilot who had carried out the stabbing while he was attempting to sabotage the aircraft's systems". Another crew member "entered the cockpit and managed to stabilise the aircraft", Netanyahu says, as he praised the "heroes" who "saved many lives and prevented a major disaster". In a new statement, Flydubai, says the plane was "successfully secured" by on-duty crew travelling on the flight who "diverted and landed the aircraft safely at Tabuk airport". The motives behind the attack remain unknown and are subject to a formal investigation, the airline says. The pilot who carried out the stabbing has been arrested and is being questioned by authorities in Saudi Arabia, according to Netanyahu. A series of extraordinary witness accounts have emerged, including from one passenger who described hearing "terrible screams throughout the plane" before "three to five guys burst into the cockpit" and subdued the attacker.

US ACTOR CHAD LOWE 'HEARTBROKEN' BY DEATH OF DAUGHTER FIONA AGED 13

US actor Chad Lowe and his wife, producer Kim Painter, have said they are "deeply heartbroken" following the death of their "beloved" 13-year-old daughter Fiona. "She was a loving young girl who was smart, creative and loved to dance," the family said in a statement to Page Six and People. "She was adored by her sisters and she was deeply loved by her parents. In fact, she was the light of our lives. "Her passing is devastating for our entire family and we ask for prayers and privacy at this time." The statement concluded: "If you or someone you know is struggling with mental health, please reach out to the 988 Suicide & Crisis Lifeline by calling or texting 988." Chad Lowe, the brother of fellow actor Rob Lowe, won an Emmy Award in 1993 for TV show Life Goes On and has appeared in other programmes including Pretty Little Liars and Supergirl. He and Painter are also parents to daughters Mabel, 17, and Nixie, 10. "Her passing is devastating for our entire family and we ask for prayers and privacy at this time." LAST UK AND US TROOPS LEAVE IRAQ AS ANTI-ISLAMIC STATE MISSION ENDS

The last British and American troops have left Iraq after a military presence of more than a decade in the country. The exit of the remaining UK military personnel - around 100 - from Irbil, in the northern Kurdistan region, was co-ordinated over recent weeks with US forces, who also departed on Wednesday. It follows an agreement between the US and the Iraqi government, signed two years ago, to withdraw foreign troops by the end of this month. British and US forces have been present in Iraq since 2014, as part of the international coalition to help defeat the extremist Islamic State (IS) group. Their departure brings the mission, known as Operation Inherent Resolve, to an end. Iraqi Prime Minister Ali al-Zaidi said the end of the coalition's mission marked "Iraq's transition to a phase in which it assumes full responsibility for its security and stability". Iraq is set to hold four "Sovereignty Days" as a national holiday to mark the withdrawal. "Following more than a decade of operations, training and capacity building, Iraqi Security Forces (ISF) and the Kurdish Peshmerga have secured the enduring territorial defeat of Daesh in Iraq and are now well placed to take primary responsibility for the country's security," the UK Ministry of Defence (MoD) said in a statement, referring to IS by an Arabic acronym. "With these objectives achieved, Iraq and its international partners can begin a new chapter focused on enduring security co-operation under Iraqi leadership." Pentagon spokesman Sean Parnell said the coalition's departure from Irbil marked "the successful conclusion of the military mission that defeated [IS] in Iraq". He added: "The primary responsibility for addressing Iraq's remaining security challenges, including [IS] remnants and Iran-aligned militias that undermine Iraqi sovereignty and regional stability, now rests with the government of Iraq." The Iraqi government declared the military defeat of IS in 2017, but coalition forces remained to help prevent the group's resurgence. A recent UN report assessed that sustained counter-terrorism pressure by Iraqi security forces had left IS with several hundred fighters who were "able to carry out unsophisticated operations only". The Iraqi government also faces the challenge of Iranian-backed militias in the country. Zaidi, who took office in May, has vowed to disarm them and bring all weapons under state control following the coalition's exit. But several powerful factions have resisted his plans and could now see their influence grow without the US presence. Since the start of the US and Israel's war with Iran earlier this year, militias have been targeting the remaining US and UK forces stationed at Irbil air base. Hundreds of Nato troops stationed in Baghdad left the country in March as tensions rose. A BBC team visited the coalition base in Irbil in April this year, during a fragile ceasefire between the US and Iran. They were forced to circle the base in an RAF transport aircraft while drones were being launched nearby. At the height of the US bombing campaign against Iran, the coalition base was being targeted by up to 28 drones and missiles a day.

Execution of US murderer Christa Pike halted shortly before it was due to happen

The execution of Tennessee inmate Christa Pike has been halted just over an hour before it was due to happen. Pike, 50, has been awaiting execution since she was convicted and sentenced to death in 1996 for the murder of Colleen Slemmer. In their ruling on Wednesday, judges from the Sixth Circuit Appeals court said they needed more time to consider the arguments in Pike's case. It is unclear how long the pause will last. This latest ruling comes after the Supreme Court denied a reprieve and the Tennessee governor declined to grant Pike's request for clemency earlier this week. Her lawyers said that for years, the state of Tennessee argued in court that Pike had lied about being sexually abused as a child. But at a recent hearing about her execution method, the State said it does not dispute she suffered sexual abuse and rape. Pike's legal team asked the appeals court to send her motion back to the district court, arguing that if the federal courts based their ruling on the state's earlier claim that she was lying, then the federal review was affected. The appeal that led to Wednesday's stay is different from that made to the Supreme Court, which refused to hear Pike's appeal.The execution of Tennessee inmate Christa Pike has been halted just over an hour before it was due to happen. SINGAPORE LAUNCHES MATCHMAKING SERVICE FOR GOVERNMENT WORKERS

Singapore has rolled out a matchmaking service for its government workers, an initiative that comes as the country wrestles with a record-low fertility rate. FirstDate, which launched this week for those aged 21 to 35, boasts "a different approach to dating", where it uses a Nobel-winning algorithm to match participants to one date at a time. "Swipe fatigue ends here," its website reads. Participants sign in using the national digital identity system and answer a survey about their interests, habits and values. FirstDate's launch drew mixed responses among Singaporeans, with some describing it as "dystopian" and others saying they would be keen to give it a shot. On its website, FirstDate highlights the Gale-Shapley Stable Marriage algorithm which powers the programme. The mathematical framework pairs two equally sized groups of people based on their preferences. The late mathematician Lloyd Shapley was awarded the 2012 Nobel memorial prize in economic sciences for discovering the algorithm, which has been used in public school admissions, medical residency matching, and dating apps, among other things. "At the end of the day, I think the experience of meeting someone through an application doesn't change much across the [different types of] applications," Elizabeth, a 29-year-old who works in Singapore's defence ministry and is keen on trying FirstDate out told the BBC. "But it is nice to know that the likelihood of being scammed is much lower. We're all public servants looking for a partner, right?" But some social media users say the initiative, which is currently in its pilot phase, discriminates against those not working in government. Others criticised the age limit. "They are only doing this to raise the total fertility rate. They don't actually [care] about whether we find a partner otherwise. "Since there are higher risks involved in having kids at 35 and older, the government just writes [the older singles] off," wrote another Reddit user. It is not clear if the pilot programme will be available to the wider public in future. The BBC has reached out to GovTech, the statutory board behind the pilot, for comment.

Argentina's Post-Messi Era Begins Against Bolivia, Future Of Iconic No. 10 Unclear

With the iconic No. 10 jersey unassigned, Argentina will face its first test of the post-Lionel Messi era when it hosts Bolivia in a friendly on Wednesday. As the 39-year-old legend gets set for his farewell match for Argentina next week, coach Lionel Scaloni is already looking toward the future. Facing the immense challenge of replacing Messi, the coach remained pragmatic: "We'll find a way to play differently." "That's what these matches are for - to experiment," Scaloni said Tuesday ahead of the game against Bolivia at the Kempes Stadium in Cordoba. "That said, our core style still revolves around controlling the ball. From there, we'll see how we adapt." Scaloni has opted to field strikers Julian Alvarez and Lautaro Martinez together up front, a tactical combination he had previously avoided. Scaloni stopped short of confirming the starting lineup, but Argentina is expected to field most of the players who featured in the World Cup final against Spain. Anticipated changes include Agustin Giay starting at right-back, Exequiel Palacios replacing the suspended Enzo Fernandez (following his red card in the final), and Valentin Barco slotting in as a third midfielder. Nicolas Paz, currently playing for Italy's Como, will take on the playmaking duties in Messi's absence. Scaloni confirmed at Tuesday's press conference that no player will wear No. 10 for now, Messi's jersey number when he lifted the 2022 World Cup trophy and throughout most of his 207 appearances for Argentina. Messi's farewell match is on Oct. 6 against Benin in Buenos Aires. "We aren't obligated to assign it for these matches, so we won't give it to anyone until Leo's farewell game," the coach said. "The idea is for someone to eventually take it on, given how special it is to wear. We just haven't decided who yet." Messi announced the end of his international career in late August. In his final World Cup, the sixth of his career, he played eight matches and scored eight goals. He concludes his national team career as Argentina's all-time leading scorer with 125 goals, 21 of which came in World Cup tournaments. Scaloni is close to renewing his contract, which is set to expire on Dec. 31. "The important thing is that the desire is there," the coach said. "I had to step back, re-evaluate, and look closely at the sporting side alongside the financial aspects. I needed to analyze what lies ahead. In the end, we're excited about the future, and that shared enthusiasm paved the way toward an agreement." Scaloni had previously hinted that he might step down following the World Cup final defeat on July 19. However, he recently met with Argentine Football Association president Claudio Tapia to negotiate an extension through the 2030 World Cup.

Mohammad Rizwan Asked To Appear Before NCCIA In Lahore For Mobile Analysis

Pakistan's former captain, Mohammad Rizwan has been summoned by the National Cyber Crime Investigation Agency on October 2 in Lahore for forensic examination and analysis of his phone. A source close to Rizwan confirmed on Wednesday that the wicketkeeper-batsman had received the written notice from the NCCIA. "He has been asked to be present at the NCCIA office on October 2 so that the investigators can carry out the forensic examination of his phone in front of him," he added. Rizwan's phone has been in the NCCIA custody since it was taken away from him by the Pakistan Cricket Board security official during the second Test at Lords in England last month. Rizwan has already appeared once before at a NCCIA hearing after he was dropped from the Test squad and told to return home by the board before the third Test. The source said the NCCIA had not given any details of the reasons for the investigation being carried out against him even in the latest notice sent to him. Rizwan is expected to appear before the NCCIA with his lawyer. Rizwan on September 28 wrote to the NCCIA, asking them to return his phone and provide him with written details about what allegations/suspicions they are investigating against him. It was reported in the media that he was not cooperating with the inquiry which is alleged to centre around online betting and gambling claims. In a letter sent to the NCCIA which was available to the Pakistan media, Rizwan has also asked the NCCIA to use official channels while communicating with him in future. In his letter dated September 28, Rizwan noted that his mobile phone was taken on August 31 and that he was initially assured it would be returned within three hours. The wicketkeeper-batsman has noted in his letter that he was later informed that the phone would be returned after its digital forensic examination was completed. However, he said considerable time had now passed and requested that the device be returned without any further delay.

India vs West Indies, 2nd ODI: Rohit Sharma-Virat Kohli's Stunning Records In Guwahati

It will be another day of festivities for cricket fans globally, particularly those of the 50-over format, as two of the format's biggest legends, Rohit Sharma and Virat Kohli will grace Guwahati with their presence, evergreen strokeplay and records during the second ODI against West Indies on Wednesday. With the road leading upto the 2027 Cricket World Cup offering these two legends a chance to have one final encore in various parts of the world, the 'Ro-Ko' train will stop at the Barsapara Stadium in Guwahati, Assam, a state where both have played some of their best cricket. Guwahati is a place which has brought the best out of Rohit. In his two outings here, Rohit has scored 235 runs in two innings at an average of 235.00 and a strike rate of 127.71, with a century and a fifty. His best score is a 117-ball 152* against the West Indies way back in 2018. Rohit is also just 73 runs away from becoming the third Indian to reach 12,000 runs in ODIs. Currently, the 39-year-old sits at 11,927 runs in 289 ODIs and 281 innings at an average of 48.88, with 34 centuries and 62 fifties, including a best score of 264. This year in 10 ODIs, the graph has gone up and down for the Hitman as he has made 411 runs at an average of 41.10 and a strike rate of 98.56, with a century (an iconic 138 at Lord's) and a fifty to his name. After a 35-ball 32 in the previous match, Rohit will be aiming to convert his entertaining starts into something bigger. On the other hand, Virat's record at Assam is even grander, with the batter having peeled off three successive centuries across two venues: the Nehru Stadium and the Barsapara Stadium. A knock of 110 against New Zealand came in November 2010, when the 37-year-old had not experienced the magnitude of superstardom and expectations he faces today.

Rain To Washout India vs Sri Lanka Asian Games Men's Cricket Semi-Final?

The men's cricket event at the ongoing Asian Games has been plagued by rain, with almost every match affected by weather interruptions so far. Team India, which was scheduled to face Afghanistan in the quarterfinal at Korogi Sports Park in Nisshin, advanced to the semi-finals after the match was abandoned without a ball being bowled due to persistent rain. Not only that fixture, but the other three quarterfinal matches were also washed out. With India and Sri Lanka set to face each other in the semi-final on Thursday, all eyes will be on the weather in Nisshin . According to AccuWeather, there is no significant chance of rain during the match, and conditions are expected to remain clear. The temperature is likely to hover around 30 degrees Celsius, with only a one per cent chance of precipitation. Who will qualify if India vs Sri Lanka match gets washed out? If rain still spoils the semi-final game, India will advance to the final match of Asian Games, men's cricket. This is because India hold a higher rank than Sri lanka in the ICC T20I rankings. Sri Lanka had been eliminated at the quarter-final stage in the 2022 Asian Games, losing to Afghanistan. They will now take on India for a place in the final The other semi-final will see Bangladesh face Pakistan after Bangladesh's quarter-final against Malaysia was also washed out later on Tuesday. The two semi-finals are scheduled to be played on October 1, with Bangladesh taking on Pakistan in the first semi-final, followed by India facing Sri Lanka later in the day. India are aiming to retain the gold medal they won in the men's cricket competition at the 2023 Asian Games in Hangzhou. India were awarded the gold medal after their final against Afghanistan was washed out, with the higher-ranked side taking the title. The women's Indian cricket team has already successfully defended its Asian Games title in Aichi-Nagoya.

Brian Lara Left Behind, Shai Hope Joins Elite West Indies ODI Club

West Indies skipper Shai Hope went past legendary Brian Lara during the second West Indies ODI on Wednesday, becoming Men in Maroon's second-highest centurion in ODI cricket. During the 2nd ODI against India at Guwahati's Barsapara Stadium, Hope made 104 in 94 balls, with eight fours and three sixes at a strike rate of over 110. This is Hope's 20th ODI century in 157 ODIs, taking him past Lara, who scored 19 centuries in 295 ODIs from 1990-2007. The top century-getter for West Indies in ODIs is the 'Universe Boss' Chris Gayle, who has scored 25 centuries in 298 ODIs spanning from 1999 to 2019. Some of Hope's best ODI cricket has come against India, especially on their home turf. In India, across 16 ODIs and 16 innings, Hope has made 857 runs at an average of 71.41 and a strike rate of over 76, including four centuries and three fifties, with the best score of 123*. This year in ODIs, Hope has scored 315 runs across nine matches and eight innings at an average of 45.00 and a strike rate of 89.74, including a century and two fifties. In ODIs, Hope has been one of the format's most underrated servants, with 6,428 runs in 157 matches and 151 innings at an average of 50.21, including 20 centuries and 32 fifties and a best score of 170. Coming to the match, India won the toss and elected to field first. Incredibliely paced centuries from John Campbell (101 in 68 balls, with nine fours and five sixes), Shai Hope (104 in 94 balls, with eight fours and three sixes) and Amir Jangoo (114 in 77 balls, with nine fours and three sixes) took WI to their highest ODI total ever, of 405/7.

GUARDIOLA BACKING MAN CITY AFTER GUILTY VERDICTS

Former manager Pep Guardiola has backed Manchester City's owners and leadership and says he will "always" be behind the club after they were found guilty of all charges related to breaches of the Premier League's financial rules.

An independent commission found that City arranged "sham contracts" with a number of commercial partners as part of a scheme to disguise secret funding of more than £830m. The league confirmed City have been found guilty of all charges related to breaches of financial rules between the 2009-10 and 2017-18 seasons, and all but one in relation to failure to co-operate with the investigation.

India's Double Boost At Asian Games: Sumit Nagal Advances, Deepu Mallesh Breaks New Ground

India's Sumit Nagal continued his progress in the men's singles competition at the Asian Games 2026, defeating Uzbekistan's Sergey Fomin in straight sets to enter the quarterfinals, while Dhakshineswar Suresh's campaign came to an end after a third-round defeat on Wednesday. Seventh-seeded Nagal produced a controlled display against Fomin, securing a 6-3, 6-2 victory to book his place in the last eight. The Indian, ranked 249th in the world, maintained his composure throughout the contest and converted his opportunities to close out the match without being pushed into a deciding set. Nagal will face a significantly tougher challenge in the quarterfinals when he takes on third seed Wu Yibing of China. The Chinese player, ranked 111th in the world, has previously defeated Nagal in their only meeting. Nagal had entered the third round after overcoming South Korea's Seongchan Hong 6-4, 6-0 in the second round. Their match had been interrupted by weather on Monday, with Nagal leading 3-2 in the opening set, before play resumed on Tuesday. Hong initially took control after the restart, winning the first eight points and moving 4-3 ahead. Nagal, however, responded strongly and won nine consecutive games to take command of the contest and complete a straight-set victory. The Indian had earlier lost to Hong in the qualifying competition at the 2024 Indian Wells Masters. He had also endured a difficult Davis Cup outing against South Korea before the Asian Games, suffering defeats against Hyeon Chung and Soonwoo Kwon.

WHY VITHYA RAMRAJ AND CO COULDN'T STOP THINKING ABOUT THE NATIONAL ANTHEM AT ASIAN GAMES 2026

Before Tuesday, Vithya Ramraj had twice climbed the podium at the Asian Games 2026. She was part of the mixed 4x400m relay team that won the silver medal and also went on to break PT Usha's 42-year-old record, clocking a personal best of 54.75 seconds on her way to clinching bronze in the 400m hurdles. Yet, one dream remained. "I had never experienced the national anthem from the podium," Vithya said. That dream was fulfilled as the women's 4x400m relay team, comprising Prachi Choudhary, Kiran Pahal, M.R. Poovamma and Vithya Ramraj, combined to win gold in the event with a time of 3:29.69. This was the first and only gold medal that India won in athletics at the Asian Games 2026. "We all wanted to experience the national anthem from the podium," Vithya told NDTV about the campaign. Vithya ran the anchor leg of the relay team. "All three of them ran such good legs. After seeing them, I also wanted to do it, and that pushed me over the finish line." Kiran, who ran the opening leg, described the feeling when Vithya was running the final leg. "Vithya was running the anchor leg, but it felt like we were all running the final leg," she said. "We all wanted to hug Vithya very badly," added Poovamma. "Our strategy was to gain as big an advantage over the Bahrain team as possible. We knew that Salwa Eid Naser is a great athlete, and we wanted to give Vithya as much of a lead as possible going into the anchor leg." "Representing the country in a relay gives a very different feeling from competing in individual races. When we have the baton in our hands, we perform better." Prachi, who is from Uttar Pradesh, then described the qualities of her three teammates. "Poovamma Didi gets hyper very quickly. She doesn't have much patience. Vithya is very silent and calm, and she is positive. Kiran is also fairly quiet. She is very focused during training," she said.

Wishes 'Don't Trouble The Trouble' a huge success: Man of Masses NTR at pre-release event

Don't Trouble The Trouble' is a fantasy entertainer starring Fahadh Fazil as the hero and presented by Rajamouli. Produced by Shobhu Yarlagadda, Prasad Devineni and SS Karthikeya under the banners of Arca Media Works and Show Business, the film is directed by Shashank Eleti. The movie will release on October 2. In this background, a grand pre-release event was organized in Hyderabad. The man of masses, NTR, was present as the chief guest. In this program.. Hero Fahad Fazil said, "I have never seen so much fandom. This movie is very special for me. We shot in 90 percent live locations. Very good feeling. In the shooting of this film, the director, producers and all the film units supported a lot. We really enjoyed working. We got your support when this movie started. It is a pleasure to have you come to this event. Watch our movie on October 2," he said.
Child artist Sara said.. "Thank you very much to the director and producers for giving this movie a chance. It was a pleasure to work with Fafa. Everyone should watch this movie on October 2.. Jai NTR said.
Producer SS Karthikeya said, "This is my first film as a producer. This is a movie that the whole family can enjoy together. It is not like a debut director's film. Director Shashank has given a good output so that every scene is new in this movie. I learned from Shobu Gari that a producer should be like this. Keeravani Babai named my banner Showing Business. Special thanks to him. I am crazy about Fahad Fazil movies. In that madness, she heard the story of Shashank and said that she wanted to tell this story to Fahad Fazil. He is very happy to do this film. Baba (Rajamouli) I wish to take your name even higher. We shot this movie in 75 real locations in Hyderabad. The entire unit of the film worked very hard.Thank you very much for coming to our film event without asking Tarak Anna.
Director Shashank said.. "Thank you Shobu sir, Chinna sir, Rajamouli sir for giving me the opportunity to do this film, I am thankful to the entire unit of the film." Karthikeya is my pillar, he is everything to this movie. Our unit is lucky to come to the pre-release event of our movie Tarak Anna.
Music director Kalabhairava said.. "Everyone will like this movie after watching it on October 2. The whole team worked very hard together. Special thanks to all our lyricists and singers.
Special guest Raghavendra Rao said.. Karthikeya's movie 'Don't Trouble The Trouble' was made with a lot of effort. Shobhu Yarlagadda, Prasad Devineni, S.S. Karthikeya thought that you would have made Baahubali. We don't need Rajamouli, we will make this movie with Shashank Yeleti. Tell me why the movie is not a hit anymore. It is October 2 release, the blessings of that Gandhi should be on you. He said that he is very happy to come to such a ceremony.
Legendary music director Keeravani said.. "The director of this film, Shashank, wanted to be someone who was better than their mentor Chandrasekhar.. My boy Kalabhairava wanted to get a good name for background music, and my favorite actor Fahad Fazil wanted a good hit. My other boy Karthikeya came into the production of a film for the first time. If so many wishes come true, it is selfish, but as the trailer of this movie Balayya is a witness.. Jai Balayya, Jai NTR, Don't trouble the trouble.. and this movie is sure to be a success. Everyone should watch the movie. Director hero S.S. Rajamouli said. Tarak comes for his younger brother's function. Every movie of Fahad Fazil is mind blowing. He was really surprised by each character. FAFA has gone so far in the Telugu people. Three years later, Shashank came to tell the story. One line tells the story of a man who kidnaps an elf. Then he told the story for 3 hours.Immediately I did OK. I cried watching this movie. Surely this movie will be a big hit. Karthikeya is a very good business man. I believe he will go to a high position. It's a really great movie. Everyone will enjoy on October 2," he said.
Man of masses NTR said. Dragon will be released on time. A talent has slowly come to us during the tough times of Covid. Same Fahad sir. I saw his film for the first time in Bangalore. I like very few actors. The first one was Fahad Fazil. Fahadh is the proud actor of the country. I believe that Fahad Gari, who is acting as a lead actor for the first time in Telugu, will get good success. Shashank's first film as a director was Don't Trouble the Trouble. I wish this movie will give him great success. Karthikeya is very happy to stand here as a producer today.
